PARIS, Oct. 13.—A Balkan terror band called the Ustashi, whose agents include a beautiful Slavic "gun girl" and a mysterious "doctor" now being tracked into the obscure corners of Europe, was revealed by French police today as the sinister power that sent a "suicide squad" to assassinate King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia at Marseilles.

Two of the band's agents have confessed, police said, that they came to France on a mission which "the doctor" told them at Lausanne, Switzerland, was to slay the Jugo-Slav monarch.

That bullets from the deadly weapon supplied by the "gun girl" also slew Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, tore apart the cabinet of France and sent a boy king flying from his school books to the throne of Jugo-Slavia, combined to make the hunt for missing links in the plot the most sensational Europe has known in a generation.

May Go Before League.

A drastic cabinet shakeup was in progress in Paris following upon the resignations of two high ministers. International complications brought about by the double assassination, together with charges that Hungary had been harboring members of the Ustashi, caused hints that the whole matter might be dumped into the lap of the league of nations.

From an obscure clew in the clothing of the slain assassin, Petrus Kalemen, the French secret police swiftly ferreted out an amazing series of complications involving a nightmare of names and aliases used by the terrorists.

A label in Kalemen's new suit was traced to a clothing house. Companions of Kalemen's were located and arrested. They talked, involving others. Police officials were inclined to believe tonight that the mysterious "doctor" who furnished Kalemen with a new suit of clothing in which to perform his fatal mission and neglected to remove traces of its origin, may have inadvertently laid open the entire plot.

Eight Nations Hunt Killers.

The long arms of the police of eight countries were reaching out to uncover the whole story of the group of gunmen who gathered at a refugee haunt in Hungary called Yanta Pusta, near the Jugo-Slav border, and went from there to spread death and destruction, getting their final instructions near the scene of action.

Every member of the "suicide squad," it was disclosed, was outfitted with new clothing for his funeral, for they went prepared to die while they killed.

The maze of false passports, aliases and the rapid movements of the five men and the beautiful Balkan girl who supplied the weapons puzzled the police, but they were unravelling the skein of mystery with the aid of other countries.

Hungary Investigates Charges.

Hungary, denying at first there was any fugitive haunt within its borders, now is investigating what the French police disclosed—that the men in custody said they had held target practice on Hungarian soil to train them to kill.

Italy was searching for records, some of which were lost in the war, to determine if some of the band had been born in that country. Czechoslovakia has been busy proving the passports carried by the band were falsified, while Belgium, Switzerland and Germany traced the actual movements of the gang in transit to France.

The woman accomplice whose whereabouts was eagerly sought was described as pretty and brown-haired. Police gave her name as Marie Vjudroch. Witnesses who had seen her with members of the gang described her as tall, about 24, and a Czechoslovakian. The police believe she brought

TRAGIC MOMENTS IN AMERICAN POLITICAL HISTORY

Wintry Blasts, Blizzard Grip New England

Boston, Mass., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Heavy snowstorms and record breaking cold gripped northern New England today.

Some parts of Maine reported a 14 inch snowfall while Boston shivered in the coldest weather ever recorded for Oct. 13 in the 59 years of local meteorological history.

Little snow fell in Boston, but a stiff northeast wind knocked the temperature down to 32 degrees and kicked up a stiff sea along the coast.

It was the third time in the annals of the weather bureau that snow had fallen here this early in the season.

Grid Games Postponed.

The storm which along the coast changed generally to a brisk rain as the day wore on caused the postponement of two college football games and of numerous high school gridiron contests.

The heaviest snowfall was in Maine where 14 inches blanketed the ground at several points.

Temperature readings of as low as 16 degrees above zero were recorded in the White mountains of New Hampshire and of 20 degrees in the Berkshires. Highways, however, were generally kept clear.

The weather bureau indicated it might be even slightly colder tonight.

It was a busy day at sea. Coast guardsmen from Gloucester took in tow off Cape Ann the drifting lobster power boat of Chester Morrissey and Andrew Larkin of Portland, Me., as it was being blown before the gale in the open sea.

Save Two Fishermen.

Two other fishermen were brought back to the mainland by coast guards off the southern New England coast. Thomas and William H. Harrington of Fall River became marooned on West island 500 yards off Sakonnet Point, R. I., when their small fishing boat was smashed on the rocky shore.

The gale and precipitation caused considerable havoc throughout New England, leveling telegraph poles and trees, but its effects were particularly severe along Cape Cod where six towns were forced to go without lights and power throughout the night as successive hail storms tore down power lines.

35 in New York.

New York, Oct. 13.—[Special.]—New York experienced the coldest Oct. 13 since 1875 today. It was 35 degrees at 6 a. m. Fifty-nine years ago the minimum was 33. The weather bureau predicted that at 6 a. m. tomorrow the mercury would stand at about 34 degrees.

POLICE WONDER ABOUT HAROLD; HERO OR ROBBER?

Central police were puzzled last night about whether Harold Chapman of 450 North Clark street was a hero or a bandit.

Paul Roach, 21 years old, of 6539 Parnell avenue, however, said he knew positively that Chapman was a "double crosser" and a very unreliable person indeed.

Roach had just robbed Miss Louise Wolf, cashier of a drugstore at 340 South Wabash avenue, of $60. Then he walked over to another drugstore at 300 South Michigan avenue, held up the manager, Donald Getty, and took $100. At this point Chapman, who was in the store, entered the picture.

He seized Roach and shouted for Sergt. Thomas Curtin who was passing outside. The sergeant made the arrest, and congratulated Chapman for being a hero. At this Roach became very indignant, and burst out:

"Say, that guy was my partner in both of them stickups! I was about to slip the money to him after that last job, when he saw the cop outside. He was afraid we'd be caught, so he grabbed me, and hollered and tried to be a hero."

Chapman issued an immediate denial, but when police discovered he had a police record he was held for questioning.

EAGLE IS HAULED FROM JOHNSON'S OLD NRA OFFICE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Lock, stock, barrel, and Blue Eagle, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson left his NRA office today for a private landlord's roof.

Monday he will draw his last federal pay check as industrial recovery administrator. Present indications are that it will be delivered at Walter Reed hospital, where he is confined with a sinus disorder.

The moving day was a real one. Even the furniture, bought from the government by voluntary contributions of more than 1,000 NRA workers, went.

Some ceremony accompanied the transfer of the big wicker Blue Eagle presented to Johnson by President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Two workmen placed it on its back in an office truck and pushed it to the elevator.

Lawyers in Cuba Strike Against New 'TerrorCourts'

HAVANA, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Cuban Bar association declared a "strike" today against the nation's new urgency courts, created to combat terrorism. The association charged the urgency courts are "against public interest and in violation of the rights of citizens." All members of the association were ordered to abstain from appearing before the courts.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Princess Cantacuzene, born in the White House and baptized in its east room, who now has traded in her Russian title for a plain American "Mrs.", today cast her political lot with the G. O. P. of her grandfather, U. S. Grant.

The princess—everybody hereabouts still calls her that—sat today in the Sulgrave club reception room and said that she has taken a place on the advisory council of the League of Republican Women.

Plans Party Work.

"Perhaps I won't cast the first vote of my life in this next November election, as I consider it practically settled now," she said. "But I have every intention of doing some political work."

And she laughingly added:

"I've been a peculiar alien. I've belonged to all the patriotic societies and have held minor offices in some of them. But I've never tried for the more important offices, feeling they should go to a citizen."

She's a "Gwant."

The princess jokingly admitted there had been some prophecy in a statement she made even before she could talk plainly when she was the petted child of the family party that celebrated Grant's return from a triumphal trip around the world.

"Are you a little American or a little foreigner?" she was asked.

"I'm a Gwant!" was her somewhat haughty reply.

So a Grant she remained, through 35 years of Russian citizenship, through presentations at many courts, and royal balls galore. The last 16 years have been spent in the United States in active participation in Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of 1812, and American Legion auxiliary affairs.

Explains Her Delay.

Today she explained why she and her husband, Prince Michael Cantacuzene, had so long delayed naturalization action.

"When we came back to America, we expected to take root here," she said. "But my husband felt if we changed citizenship at that time we were running under fire.

"In Russia, when living was good, we had the best. We felt it our part to be loyal, not to change. I was helping in Russian refugee relief, and I felt I could be more useful as one of them. America hadn't recognized soviet Russia then.

"We have hitherto been 'resident aliens,' incurring all the duties of citizens, including fighting for the country. My husband offered his services, was refused for disability. My son did fight for this country in the world war."

MORE EVIDENCE ON INSULL STOCK 'RIGGING' BARED

2 Letters Held Vital to Fraud Count.

Two of the vital foundation stones in the government's documented case against Samuel Insull and sixteen others charged with mail fraud were produced in the form of letters yesterday before the jury hearing the trial in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court.

The two letters which formed a part of the documentary evidence introduced by the government yesterday—the first Saturday session of the trial—were offered as proof that the defendants resorted to "market rigging" in their effort to sell a great block of common shares of Corporation Securities company to the public.

It is because of the sale of this stock and the use of the mails in soliciting buyers that the Insulls, father and son, and the others on trial were indicted by a federal grand jury.

Letter Indicates "Rigging" Pledge.

Most important of the letters, according to the prosecution, was the one introduced by Leslie E. Salter, assistant United States attorney general. It indicated, according to the prosecution, that nine stock dealers, who sold 1,250,000 shares of the Corporation Securities stock in Samuel Insull's last financial venture, agreed to "take care of the market" for sixty days.

It was this stock which United States Attorney Dwight Green characterized as "absolutely worthless" in his opening statement of the case. The investors' losses in this stock are put at $100,000,000.

Over the vigorous objections of defense attorneys for Samuel Insull, his son, and the defendants connected directly with Corporation Securities, Judge Wilkerson allowed Mr. Salter to read the letter to the jury.

Court Holds All Responsible.

"If the conspiracy is proved," the court stated, "then the act of one becomes the act of all."

W. A. Pennington, sales manager of the Utility Securities company's "wholesale department"—the division in charge of the sale of large blocks of stock—identified the letter, and Mr. Salter then read it.

The letter was addressed to A. B. Leach & Co., and was dated April 24, 1930. It was apparently a form letter which had been sent to each of the nine brokerage houses. It began:

"Gentlemen:

"Confirming our verbal agreement, we have formed a joint account among the members of the original purchasing group for the purpose of taking care of the market on the above issue [1,250,000 shares of Corporation Securities company of Chicago common stock, no par value]. Important points in connection with the account are as follows:

"First—It is understood that the account will be limited in duration to sixty days from date, and that the extent of the position will be limited to 125,000 shares for the long account and 62,500 shares for the short account.

"Second—The Utility Securities company will manage the account.

Lists Brokers' Interests.

"Third—The interests in the account will be as follows: Utility Securities company, 27 per cent; E. H. Rollins & Sons, 18 per cent; A. B. Leach & Co., 14 per cent; A. C. Allyn & Co., 10 per cent; Hill Joiner & Co., 8 per cent; Insull Sons & Co., 8 per cent; Tucker, Anthony & Co., 5 per cent; Emory, Peck & Rockwood, 5 per cent, and Russell Brewster & Co., 5 per cent.

"Fourth—Any partners desiring to purchase for their own account any of the stock that the account may be long on at any particular time, shall have the privilege to do so at the discretion of the joint account managers, at a price to be governed by the current market at the time. But it is understood that such withdrawals will not change the various partners' interests or liabilities in the account.

"Fifth—Any of the partners shall carry their proportionate share of the stock so that the account may be long when called upon to do so."

This letter was signed by a representative of A. B. Leach & Co., and returned to Fred A. Schell, vice president of Utility Securities company and one of those on trial.

Insull Firm Managed Account.

The letter indicates that two of Insull's own companies had a 35 per cent interest in this market venture, and while seven outside brokers took care of the rest, it was agreed that Utility Securities company would manage the account.

Another letter, written by Pennington himself on May 31, 1930, and introduced by Mr. Salter, described enthusiastically how dealers had subscribed to 1,354,646 shares of the

1,000 Miners Launch Death Strike in Pit

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 13.—(AP)—More than 1,000 coal miners here sent up from their workings tonight an ultimatum that they will kill themselves by shutting off their air if their demands for higher wages are not met.

The miners had been underground more than 48 hours, refusing food. Six of their number stood at the entrance with axes, permitting no one to go down.

"Rather than suffer the slow pangs of death by starvation we will commit suicide by smothering ourselves unless you grant our demands within twelve hours," the ultimatum read.

Wage Increase Refused.

But the Danube Steam Navigation company, which owns the mine, refused stoutly to order a wage increase. The miners are receiving about $2 weekly. They ask $3.50.

The interpretation by some was that the miners were determined to shut off air to the shafts at midnight. A half hour before that time there was no indication that any compromise was to be made.

A Socialist-Democratic member of the Budapest parliament, who was intermediary between the miners and the owners, tonight sent telegrams to Premier Goemboes and the ministry of commerce asking government intervention to prevent the men from killing themselves.

Firemen Held Captive.

With the miners underground are several members of the Pecs fire department. The firemen rushed into the pits last night to extinguish a blaze in one shaft. They brought it under control, but the miners refused to permit them to leave.

For two days no provisions have gone into the mine, the men refusing both food and water. It was reported that some of them are in serious condition.

NUDISTS WEAR WARM CLOTHES AT CONVENTION

Akron, O., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Topcoats were preferred to gooseflesh as delegates of the International Nudists' conference opened their annual meeting today.

Cold weather put a blight on the initial session and forced the delegates to give up any immediate hopes of practicing a back-to-nature movement.

"I imagine all sessions will be held with clothes on," announced R. B. Abbot of Cleveland, who is host to the convention at Sharon Center, near here. "We like to be comfortable," he explained.

Even the armed guardsmen who patrol the club to keep out intruders were fully clothed.

The convention, to continue through Sunday, is being held at Nolan Country club, which, Abbot said, is the only nudist country club in the United States. He said 100 nudists will attend the sessions.

FEAR KENTUCKY WIFE SLAIN BY HER ABDUCTOR

Stains on Pier Dash Family's Hopes.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—New clews in the sensational kidnaping of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, young Louisville society leader, were discovered late today while posses of officers and civilians searched the swampy river country near her palatial estate in the fear she has been slain or abandoned by her abductor.

The finding of what appeared to be bloodstains on a nearby Ohio river boathouse pier and a blanket splotched with brown stains that may be blood came as a blow to the already dwindling hopes that the prominent young Junior leaguer will be found unharmed.

See Lindbergh Parallel.

As the case went into the fourth day since the frail young wife was taken, scantily clad and ill from a severe cold, from her home Wednesday afternoon and forced to accompany a lone abductor who reputedly acted like a "fiend," weary searchers viewed it as a parallel of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping.

The new clews were unearthed shortly after the victim's distraught husband, Berry Stoll, millionaire oil executive, had issued a touching appeal to the kidnaper to carefully guard the fragile health of his pretty wife and release her in a safe, warm place.

At the same time Stoll expressed the fear that his wife may have been abandoned. In that event she may now be lying alone somewhere, bruised by at least the blows her abductor inflicted when he beat her into submission with an iron pipe before he left her home, while the kidnaper is fleeing with the $50,000 ransom.

Husband Makes Plea.

Stoll's frantic statement, made public in the hope the kidnaper would learn of it and comply with its requests, followed his announcement yesterday that he had complied with all the abductor's requirements, presumably the payment of the ransom. It read:

"We are not in any way trying to catch or trap the party who carried my wife off, but not having received any word from Alice we fear that she may have been abandoned, and we have consented that she be looked for, as she is ill, and in her present weakened condition even a day may be too long.

"We pray that she will be released in a safe, warm place, and we be notified immediately how to reach her. We have complied with everything requested."

The discoveries made at the river pier indicated the kidnaper may have carried away his victim by water in a 25 foot cabin cruiser which has been seen tied up at the pier several times in the last two weeks.

Address on Wall.

The stained blanket was found in the adjoining boathouse which had been broken into. There authorities also found an inscription on the wall above the telephone reading: "Lime Kiln road," the highway on which the Stoll estate is located, and a telephone book from which 65 pages had been torn. The last page missing was opposite the one containing the names of the Stoll family.

The great fear of the victim's family, which is one of the most prominent in Kentucky, was obviously betrayed earlier in the day by the sudden activity that broke the peace and quiet around the Stoll's 16 acre estate as the huge search of desolate districts near the home was organized and diligently pressed.

The roar of police motors rudely banished the previous stillness as officers, American Legion members, neighbors and relatives, comprising a posse of about 100 men, hunted through the wooded hills that lie between the Stoll house on Lime Kiln road and the broad Ohio river.

River Bottoms Searched.

The search extended to the marshy bottoms of the river and the brakes of numberless small streams and spread in all directions with the participants under instructions to search every foot of ground in the vicinity.

The army of searchers, divided into squads and headed by Edward J. Connelly, chief of the Cincinnati bureau of the federal department of justice, was directed to look not only for a possible hideout of the kidnaper but also for the body of the victim in case she was murdered or did not survive the ordeal.

It was recalled that the slender young wife was clad only in a negligee and a light top coat when she was taken away and that she had been brutally beaten into submission with an iron pipe until the blood streamed down her head. Added to this was her already weakened condition resulting from the illness which had confined her to bed, caused a mounting temperature and necessitated the ministrations of a physician.

Family May Have Clew.

Some of the policemen engaged in the search expressed the frank belief that the woman's body would be found and the observation was made by others that the family of the victim may have received some intimation that she is not to be safely returned.

Dunlap Wakefield, Louisville director of safety, who led one division of the posse, concentrated upon a long abandoned house a few miles south of the Stoll estate. He searched it from cellar to attic, poking under its partly fallen floors.

Later, Wakefield and Forrest A. Taylor, president of the Louisville board of aldermen, poked into an old rotting corn crib on the place and dug into the hollow stump of a dead tree.

Believes He Saw Car.

The day's developments included the disclosure that Bennett Turner, 33, a carpenter, was probably the last person to see Mrs. Stoll alive.

He said that on Wednesday afternoon, while he was employed on building project at Harrod's Creek, he saw a car a half mile from the Stoll residence which he was certain contained Mrs. Stoll.

The woman occupant of the car had a strip of tape over her mouth extending almost from ear to ear and another piece of tape across the right side of her head, the carpenter related. He explained his failure to report the incident before today to the fact that he thought the woman had probably been injured in an accident.

Plane Circles Over House.

Early this morning a mysterious airplane circled above the darkened Stoll mansion, remained above the estate for nearly ten minutes and then roared away to the southeast.

Neither Berry Stoll nor any other member of the family would comment on the incident, but it was believed the plane might have conveyed some message to the family.

The fact that strict orders have been given that no airplanes leave any Kentucky airports and that none fly over the Stoll estate for any reason whatsoever gave rise to the belief that the mysterious ship represented the kidnaper.

So emphatic has been the ban on airplanes that a request was made to Gov. Ruby Laffoon to have the Kentucky National Guard enforce the order if necessary at any airport in the state. However, two airplanes have been held in readiness at Bowman airport to take part in the search if the need for them is seen.

Silent About Ransom.

The young millionaire husband, who made a wild dash into the hilly country of central Kentucky yesterday, presumably to deliver the $50,000 ransom to the kidnaper or a go-between, had no comment today on the reports that he had taken the money to an isolated express station and that the money had not been called for.

A suspect arrested in Charleston, W. Va., for questioning in connection with the case was released today after being held 24 hours. The man, Walter Childers, an unemployed telephone worker from Cleveland, was seized when it was learned that an automobile he had recently brought from Louisville had tufts of hair on the back seat.

Childers explained that the hair must have been his or that of his mother. Police found that other information he had given them was correct and so released him.

Ruse Leads to Suspicion.

Suspicion against him was partly due to the ruse the kidnaper used in representing himself as a telephone lineman to gain entrance to the Stoll home where Mrs. Stoll was alone with her maid, Mrs. Ann Woolet, 24, on Wednesday afternoon.

He confronted Mrs. Stoll with a revolver when she left her sick bed and came downstairs to learn why the man had torn out the telephone. When she offered him a check to let her go he struck her on the head with an iron pipe and threatened to kill her husband if he appeared on the scene.

Lindbergh Will Appear Before Aviation Group

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Assurance that Col. Lindbergh would appear before the President's aviation commission Tuesday was given today by Clark Howell Sr., chairman of the commission.

SEARCH FOR KIDNAPED SOCIETY MATRON

WOMAN HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER WILL TALK ON JUNIOR COLLEGES

Miss Lillian Herstein, leader in the Federation of Women High School Teachers, will describe progress in Chicago public education Wednesday afternoon in an address on Chicago's three new junior colleges at the Institute Women's club, 185 North Wabash avenue.

LILLIAN HERSTEIN.

The lecture is one of a series sponsored by the club in the interests of the Jewish People's institute. It will tell how impetus has been given to progressive educational experiments at the University of Chicago and the University of Minnesota through the establishment, this fall, of three junior colleges which have enrolled 4,500 students on a free school basis.

Another lecture, also for the benefit of the Jewish People's institute, will be delivered by Miss Herstein Wednesday noon at the Standard club, 320 Plymouth court. The subject will be: "Is War Around the Corner?"

Boys' Republic Elects Officers; 721 Cast Votes

Albert Marks, 17 years old, of 1352 South Avers avenue was named mayor of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic at the annual elections held last night in the Boys' City Hall at 1530 South Hamlin avenue. A total of 721 "citizens" cast their ballots. Other officers elected were: City clerk, Gary Nudellman, 3842 West 14th street; city judge, Sol Smith, 3150 West Roosevelt road; prosecuting attorney, Chester Lebine, 1509 South Lawndale avenue; city treasurer, Irving Slu, 1414 South Avers avenue, and business manager, Monk Shapiro, 1863 South Central Park avenue.

Police Seek to Identify Woman Amnesia Victim

Racine avenue police yesterday were trying to identify a young woman, apparently an amnesia victim, found wandering at Ashland avenue and Augusta boulevard. She is about 21 years old, and was dressed in a black cloth coat, brown polka dot dress, brown hose, and wore rimless glasses. On her finger was a wedding ring inscribed 5-7-33 H. K. to M. E., and she wore a Burr school class pin of 1928. Unable to tell her name or address, the young woman was taken to the Psycopathic hospital for treatment.

DEFENSE TO PUT HAUPTMANN ON WITNESS STAND

Suspect's Attorney Tells of "New Clew."

New York, Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will be called to the witness stand at the extradition hearing in the Bronx Supreme court Monday, it was announced tonight by his attorney, James M. Fawcett.

Fawcett, who earlier in the day had denied he planned to call Hauptmann, said he had changed his mind. Hauptmann, he said, is only one of a number of witnesses he plans to call in the hearing to determine whether the suspect shall be removed to New Jersey to face trial in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Defense Tells of "New Clew."

Fawcett also disclosed that he is investigating "one of the best clews we've had so far." Questioned regarding its nature, he replied: "It has to do with a party living in New Jersey, and concerns a woman, chiefly." He declined to disclose her name.

He was asked whether his investigation of her was being carried out in the belief that she was responsible for the kidnaping. "I can't tell whether she's guilty or not, until after my investigation is completed," he replied.

"The alienists," Fawcett said, "have not finished their reports. But the question of Hauptmann's sanity won't be raised at the extradition hearing, anyway."

May Rush Him to Jersey.

Meanwhile it was indicated that if the hearing goes against Hauptmann. New Jersey authorities may take him directly from the courtroom to the Hunterdon county jail at Flemington, N. J., where he is to stand trial.

The prisoners' attorney could stop such prompt action by filing immediate notice of appeal, as he has announced he will do, but New Jersey officials indicated today they do not think he actually would take this step. They believe the cost of taking an appeal would be considered too great, in view of the probable costs of the legal battle which will confront the defendant after he gets to New Jersey.

Complete Plans for Papers.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck Jr. of Hunterdon county announced today that complete plans have been made to execute the extradition papers signed this week by Governors Lehman of New York and Moore of New Jersey. As soon as the prosecution obtains permission of the courts, Capt. John J. Lamb and seventeen troopers of the New Jersey state police will be at the Bronx County courthouse Monday morning ready to escort the prisoner to Flemington at a moment's notice.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey charged that the defendant was using dilatory tactics to delay extradition, and announced that the prosecution would use all possible legal means to speed up his transfer to New Jersey.

It was reported at Trenton that the prosecution intends to call only six or seven witnesses, whose testimony would be counted upon to contradict Hauptmann's contention that he was not in New Jersey at the time of the kidnaping.

Sentenced to 20 Years for Kidnaping St. Louis Doctor

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Angelo Rosegrant, convicted last week of the 1931 kidnaping of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, was sentenced today to 20 years in the state penitentiary.

'PRETTY BOY' FLOYD 'SEEN' IN ARKANSAS; BELIEVED WOUNDED

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, notorious bandit and killer, and an unidentified companion were believed to be somewhere in Arkansas tonight after making an unexpected appearance at Biscoe, Ark., about 50 miles east of Little Rock.

R. E. Farris, Biscoe filling station operator, told the Little Rock office of the department of justice that a man with a wound in his head and resembling Floyd purchased gasoline at his filling station early this afternoon. The wounded man and a companion were traveling in a roadster, Farris reported.

Several hours later Little Rock police and Pulaski county sherif's patrols had not sighted the bandits and it was believed the suspected car turned off highway 70 to Hazen, Lonoke, or some minor point. However, the sherif of Lonoke county said the car was unreported and belief was expressed the hunted pair had taken to some little used road soon after leaving Biscoe.

Sherifs of every county through which Floyd might pass en route to his familiar hideouts in the Ozark mountain country of northwest Arkansas had been notified to watch for the bandit suspects.

Missouri state police and local officials lost the trail of Floyd and two companions near Mexico, Mo., and today Col. B. Marvin Casteel, superintendent of highway police, ordered that the hunt be abandoned.

EMPLOYE FIGHTS WITH 3 BANDITS AND SAVES $2,500

Three armed men who entered the plant of the Maier-Roedel Baking company at 2354 Winnemac avenue late yesterday afternoon fled without seizing $2,500 that was in the office after an employé started to battle them.

As the trio walked up the steps leading to the office one of them accidentally discharged a shotgun. Louis Cuny, 40 years old, 5042 North Leavitt street, route manager for the company, heard the shot and ran to the stairs, grappling with the leader. One of the other men fired at Cuny, whose head was grazed by a bullet. Apparently fearing that the noise would attract attention from the outside, the robbers left.

Cuny was taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital, where it was said his wound was not serious.

JOSEPHINE CLOW TO WED HOOKER IN WEST TOMORROW

Mrs. Josephine Dunham Clow, daughter of Robert J. Dunham, is to be married to John Hooker of San Mateo, Cal., in San Mateo at 5 p. m. tomorrow. The wedding will be solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Sullivan.

Mr. Hooker, who is the son of Robert G. Hooker of San Mateo, is a brother of Lent Hooker, who is to be married to Miss Nancy Morse of Lake Forest on Nov. 10.

Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court granted Mrs. Clow a divorce from Harry B. Clow Jr. last Tuesday. He was awarded custody of two sons, Harry B. III. and Adrian. Immediately after the decree was handed down Mrs. Clow left for California.

Two Japanese Warships Collide During Maneuvers

TOKIO, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A collision of the cruiser Cendai and the destroyer Kikuzuki off southwestern Kyushu was announced today by the navy office. In the collision, occurring during maneuvers, the Kikuzuki's bow was damaged, but it started for the Sasebo navy base under its own power. The Cendai was only slightly damaged and continued its part in the naval maneuvers. There were no casualties.

GRANTS LAMSON NEW TRIAL, BUT ASSUMES GUILT

Court Makes Decision in Murder Case.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Although a majority of the justices of the state Supreme court were described by Chief Justice William H. Waste as believing David A. Lamson guilty, the tribunal today granted the Stanford university press executive a new trial on charges of bludgeoning his attractive wife to death in a campus cottage in May, 1933.

The extraordinary statement was made by Justice Waste to assembled newspaper men as the court handed down a decision saying the evidence upon which Lamson was sentenced to death last fall was "no stronger than mere suspicion."

"A reading of the various opinions of the justices," said Justice Waste, "shows a majority of them feel Lamson is guilty, but all of them believe him entitled to a retrial."

"It is better that a guilty man escape than to condemn to death one who may be innocent," said the majority opinion.

Only "Mere Suspicion."

"Every statement of the defendant capable of verification tends to support his claims. It is true he may be guilty, but the evidence thereof is no stronger than mere suspicion."

Prosecuting officials were noncommittal on arrangements for trial of Lamson again.

The state Supreme court recently held the San Francisco Chonicle and two of its editors in contempt and fined them a total of $1,000 for publishing an allegedly false article last Sept. 10 saying the high tribunal had decided to grant Lamson a new trial.

In a statement accompanying the decision today Justice Waste said the court completed its deliberations on the case Oct. 5, but instructed that the decision be not filed until the Chronicle contempt case was disposed of.

Victim's Brother Comments.

Frank Thorpe, brother of Mrs. Lamson, learning of the decision while in Springfield, Mo., said he believed a new trial would result "only in a more positive conviction."

Mrs. Lamson was found slain in a bathtub Memorial day, 1933. Her skull had been fractured four times. The state contended Lamson beat her to death with a piece of iron pipe which was found in the ashes of a bonfire in front of the house.

Kidnaper or Defamer? Sherif Ponders Charge

Hope, Ark., Oct. 13.—Sherif John L. Wilson held a Californian today, undecided whether to charge him with kidnaping or "defaming Arkansas." The man, G. E. Walter, was arrested after he allegedly took his 2 year old child from his estranged wife. He said he wanted to take the child away "from this malaria country." "Everybody knows there's no malaria here," said the sherif.

NEW RAIL FLYER TESTED FOR DASH ACROSS NATION

Will Try to Beat Record Time by 11 Hours.

BY HAL FOUST.

A stream lined, aluminum alloy, Diesel powered train of the Union Pacific railroad is being tested, tightened, and polished in and near Los Angeles, Cal., as a passenger carrier preparing to enter the transportation competition among automobiles, airplanes, and railroads.

After a week of these limbering exercises the train is scheduled to streak across the continent, from Los Angeles through Chicago to New York, as a demonstration that such light weight, speedy, and economical vehicles can regain for the railroads the passenger business that has been lost to fast airplane and cheap automobile transportation.

Expect to Save Eleven Hours.

Incidentally, this demonstration run is expected to clip eleven hours or more from the coast to coast record of E. H. Harriman's Special in returning from the San Francisco disaster of 1906, a record of 71 hours and 27 minutes that has not been bettered in twenty-eight years.

Chicago will have a double interest in the event. First, it will be a test of a regular schedule planned by the Union Pacific to start this winter, clipping a full business day from the fifty-six hours that now separate Los Angeles from Chicago. Second, the train is a product of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing company of Chicago, and the success of this transportation venture is considered of more importance as a business stimulant than any initialed governmental program of "easy money" extravagance.

Six Cars in Unit.

The train represents private initiative by rugged individualists in fields of aerodynamics, metallurgy, engineering, and finance. From its rounded nose to its tapered tail, the six cars articulated as a single canary and brown unit have lines and contours designed to slip through the atmosphere with a minimum of air resistance.

The power plant is a refined Diesel of comparatively low weight and bulk developed by the General Motors research laboratories and the Winton Engine company in the last few years. The first working models were tested and proved as light and power units for the General Motors building in A Century of Progress. The engine has twelve cylinders and is rated at 900 horse power.

Top Speed 110 Miles an Hour.

The frame and "skin" of this modern prairie schooner are of duralumінum, copper being the principal alloy with the aluminum. The development of this metal has made possible the building of six coaches with power plant weighing but 200 tons as compared with the 700 tons of the conventional six car steam train.

The combination of lightweight and streamlining permits the 900 horsepower engine to drive the train at an estimated top speed of 110 miles an hour, with a cruising speed of 90 miles an hour. These qualities, with the new Diesel, result in a reduction of 40 to 68 per cent in operating cost as compared with conventional equipment for similar service.

If this new equipment, with its speed and economy, proves to be the panacea of railroad ills, the outlook for future business is viewed as stupendous.

Creates Crossing Problem.

The replacement of America's 30,000 coaches and 9,500 Pullmans in the next ten or twenty years would involve an expenditure of three billions. If rail passenger travel were doubled by the improved service, six billion dollars worth of new rolling stock would be needed.

Fast trains will increase the need for grade separations with highways. The Royal Scot now runs with continuous grade separation from London to Edinburgh. There are 240,000 grade crossings in the United States and to bridge or tunnel these would cost 20 billion dollars.

The streamlined, high speed trains, such as are being purchased by the Union Pacific, the Burlington, and other lines, point to a new era in transportation.

THREE KILLED IN GRADE CROSSING CRASH

Watchman Declares He Gave Driver Warning.

Three persons were killed and two others seriously injured yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a north bound Chicago and North Western suburban passenger train at the River road crossing in Des Plaines.

Those killed were John G. Clausen, 45 years old, 2629 North 75th court, Elmwood Park; Hazel Clausen, 45 years old, his wife, and Miss Virginia Combs, 18 years old, 2335 North 76th court, Elmwood Park, a friend of the family.

Two daughters of Mr. Clausen, Maryline, 9 years old, and Hazel Mae, 14 years old, were seriously injured. Hazel Mae Clausen and Miss Combs were students at the Leyden Township High school. Mr. Clausen was a member of the firm of the All American Laundry company, 4244 Belmont avenue.

Waited for One Train.

The accident occurred in the heart of the suburb just south of the business section and about two blocks from the railroad station.

Charles Boehm, 809 Prairie avenue, Des Plaines, the watchman who guards the crossing, told police that Mr. Clausen, after waiting for a Chicago bound train to go by, suddenly started up over the crossing despite the guard's warning and into the path of the train which was coming from the opposite direction.

Witnesses said that apparently Clausen saw the train bearing down on the car and stalled the motor in his haste to cross the tracks. The Clausen party was bound for Lake Villa.

Injuries Fatal to Another.

These three deaths and one other brought the Cook county trafic fatality list for 1934 to 946. The other victim:

C. F. Winn, 67 years old, 4326 Greenwood avenue, a furniture salesman. Died at the Wesley Memorial hospital of injuries incurred Oct. 10 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Richard Conover, 28 years old, 7356 South Shore drive, at Oakwood boulevard and Ellis avenue.

William Cunningham Miller, 62 years old, a retired commission merchant of East St. Louis, died in an Aurora hospital yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near there a fortnight ago. His widow, two sons and a sister, Mrs. George Nugent, survive.

Henry Juranke, 40, of 1822 Strong street, a CCC worker stationed at a camp east of St. Charles, was killed yesterday when he jumped from a truck in front of a Los Angeles bound bus on Roosevelt road.

MAN, 80, KILLED BY TRAIN.

Moline, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Wellington Welder, 84, of Moline, was killed this morning when he was struck by a Rock Island passenger train.

200 GARAGE OWNERS IN NEW YORK RETURN THEIR BLUE EAGLES

New York, Oct. 13.—[Special.]—The Upper Manhattan Garage Owners' association, whose membership includes some 200 garage owners of Washington Heights and Harlem, announced today that Monday they were returning their Blue Eagles and putting back their 1,000 employés on the old scale of 72 hours a week.

Nathan Handleman, secretary of the association, declared that the garage owners had extended all possible coöperation to the government in the recovery program, but had "received no coöperation whatsoever from the various municipal departments.

"The all-night street parking is increasing steadily," he said, "and very little action is being taken by the police department. Parking lots operating as garage businesses have grown like mushrooms all over the city due to the demolition of tenement houses by the tenement house department for slum clearance; demolition of buildings by the board of transportation for subway purposes; demolition of buildings by private loft owners to avoid taxes.

"Gasoline stations which have permits for the sale of petroleum products have converted their stations into open air parking garages. The fire department has done nothing toward correcting this condition. If and when any one of these violators is brought to court he is granted several postponements and adjournments, and in some cases a nominal fine is imposed and the violation is continued indefinitly."

UNITED AIRLINES SLASH 1½ HOURS OFF COAST TIME

Planes of the United Airlines operating from Chicago to Los Angeles, will make the mid-continent run in one hour and a half faster time, according to an announcement yesterday of W. A. Patterson, president of the company. The announcement was made after word was received the postmaster general had approved of the new schedule.

Planes will leave Chicago at 4:45 p. m., the close of the business day, and arrive in the California city before breakfast, at 6:15 o'clock. The faster time is made possible, Mr. Patterson explained, by substituting new twin engine ships in place of the 130 mile an hour tri motor planes in the Salt Lake City-Los Angeles run. Return planes will leave Los angeles before midnight, and arrive in Chicago in time for afternoon business appointments. Intermediate stops will be made at Des Moines, Ia., Omaha, Neb., Salt Lake City, Utah, and Las Vegas, Neb.

COURT REMOVES LAST OBSTACLE TO PHONE REBATE

The last legal obstacle to the payment of $20,700,000 as a refund to telephone subscribers was removed yesterday in an order signed by Federal Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Sparks, and James H. Wilkerson. They denied holders of Municipal court judgments permission to attach the refunds due judgment debtors.

Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein and George I. Haight, officers of the court appointed to supervise the refund, had informed the court that a group of lawyers was prepared to attach possible refunds due to 25,000 persons against whom the clients of these lawyers held judgments. There was no proof that any of the individuals "judgment debtors" were beneficiaries of the telephone refund, the lawyers said.

Starting tomorrow 5,000 checks a day are to be put in the mail by the telephone company as a result of the rate litigation carried to the United States Supreme court twice and won by Attorneys Goldstein and Haight, after eleven years of court battles.

Col. Henry Breckinridge to Talk Here on Tuesday

Col. Henry Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war in President Wilson's cabinet and candidate this fall for election to the United States senate from New York, will criticize the New Deal policies before the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club of Chicago on Tuesday in the Palmer house. Col. Breckinridge is a Democrat.

ACTORS' GUILD SCORES USE OF TROOPS IN FILMS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 13.—(AP)—A protest against the asserted increasing use by film studios of United States soldiers, sailors, and marines in pictures, thus depriving professional actors of work, has been filed with NRA code authorities by Aubrey Blair, secretary of the Junior Screen Actors' Guild.

Copies of the complaint, Blair said, also have been sent to the secretaries of war and labor.

"There have been scores of military pictures made with Hollywood actors walking the streets out of work," Blair said. "I think it is about time the government ceases to be a competitor of these men."

STRICKEN WORKERS IMPROVE.

Five employés of the Chicago and North Western railroad who became ill Friday after eating cake in the railroad office at Crawford avenue and Kinzie street were able to go home from the Garfield Park hospital yesterday.

Chairman of TVA Attacks New Deal's Press Critics

Newspapers opposed to New Deal policies were assailed yesterday by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, Tennessee Valley authority chairman, one of two speakers on "The New Deal Pro and Con" before a meeting of the Cook County League of Women Voters at the Palmer house. When a newspaper goes out of its way to criticize the administration program "unfairly," Dr. Morgan said, its attitude "borders closely on treason."

Libertyville Homecoming Brings Out "Home Folks"

Crowds of "home folks" as well as several hundred visitors from out of town turned out yesterday for the big fifth annual homecoming celebration at Libertyville. A parade through the main streets, including bands and featuring 125 decorated floats provided by merchants and civic groups, started off the proceedings at 1:30 p. m. In the evening almost the entire town turned out for the homecoming dance at the high school gymnasium. The celebration originally was held only by the high school.

TRIBUNE'S FARM A LABORATORY AND ART MUSEUM

City Man's Questions Get Polite, Exact Answers.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

There is a farm sixty miles southwest of Chicago by pleasant auto ride where no question asked by the city dweller, be he man or child, friend or stranger, is considered stupid.

Often the more ignorance the question betrays the more valuable is the answer because, the question being ingenuous and honest, the answer goes straight to fundamentals.

Every step of the way across Tribune farm there is something to provoke an honest question by the attentive observer from the city, and always there are polite and exact answers to his questions. Thus the questions:

"Why is only one of those 117 Hereford steers from Wyoming not dehorned?

"Why are you so pleased that the leaves of that new kind of corn, which you call 'hybrid number 13,' snuggle close around the tassel?

"Why?" and "Why?" and "Why?"

"Why is the average farm in the United States not so trimly kept as the farms I have seen in Denmark and England?

"You said that besides the killing of the thistles there was another big advantage in planting either hemp or sorghum to throttle thistles. What is it?

"Why was it worth while to put those expensive rubber tires on the tractor drawing the mower that is cutting those 33 acres of alfalfa?"

Some of those questions are the questions of an ingenuous layman. Some of them an expert would not be ashamed to ask. Both kinds are answered with equal courtesy.

To give answers and to define values is the purpose of the new open air encyclopedia of agriculture entitled "The Chicago Tribune Experimental Farm." Calling every acre of that farm a page, this valuable book comes to 1,320 pages. Every wayfarer passing through Kendall county can scan it without cost. Every boy and girl can go to school to it. It is as free as the fresh air of Kendall county and just as exhilarating.

Acreage in Terms of the Loop.

To describe the latest development of THE TRIBUNE'S system of free public service in another way, this experimental farm of 1,320 acres is the equivalent of 440 blocks in Chicago's loop, each of which runs to about three acres.

It is a living museum of rural Chicagoland—a living museum of standing crops, singing birds, important problems, and history making solutions.

It is an outdoor laboratory of agricultural experimentation with two professors—Clarence Thurow and his brother, Louis, the farm managers—to tell all comers which experiments bore fruit and which were failures.

And just now, with the glory of autumn touching it, this farm is an Art institute of color.

Since the combined museum, laboratory, and picture gallery was opened to the public eight months ago 6,000 seekers after knowledge and beauty have listened to the Brothers Thurow giving wise answers to what a surly farmer would call stupid questions. To them no question is stupid if honest ignorance asks it.

Not So Stupid After All.

James Boswell, in order to rouse Samuel Johnson's attention, would ask questions which those who overheard them thought stupid and which would cause the distracted doctor to roar, "I will not be baited with what and why; what is this? what is that? why is a cow's tail long? why is a fox's tail bushy?" And then a roar of redoubled volume.

Well, why is a cow's tail long and why a fox's tail bushy? A monograph could be written on the answers to those questions, and mankind had to wait nearly a century for Charles Darwin to point the way to the answers. Darwin would not have roared at Boswell, nor do the Thurows dismiss as nonsense the eager gropings of visitors from the cities.

What most charms me about THE TRIBUNE'S new questions and answers department is how beautifully all things interlock on a thoughtfully managed farm; how one advantage gained leads into another.

The Sequence from Thistles to Quail.

Take, for example, the matter of choking out thistles. Suppose you have a waste lot running to Canada thistles, a dire pest to the owner of the lot and to his neighbors for miles around. Plant either hemp or the stout, canelike, cultivated grass called sorghum, and they, so Clarence Thurow said, will "throttle"—that was the picturesque word he used—the thistles in two seasons. Hemp is the ideal crop for this purpose because it smothers the thistle by growing much faster than it does.

Then comes the second advantage. The hemp makes a thick covert for quail and the seeds of the standing hemp and sorghum provide the birds with food for the winter. Last winter only half an acre of hemp and sorghum was ample granary for the quail on and about Tribune farm.

The presence of quail on his place enriches the farmer's table, or, if he is not a hunter, enables him to sell shooting privileges to city folk. Meanwhile the devastating Canada thistle has been "throttled." Thus has one advantage led into another.

Fruits of Experimentation.

Making an inventory this autumn of results obtained by last summer's experiments, THE TRIBUNE'S researchers find that the new variety of corn called hybrid number 13 has given a most gratifying account of itself. It has yielded more than twice the weight of silage material that the varieties known as the Western Plowman and Will County Favorite yielded and has shown itself to be the outstanding corn among 31 varieties grown on The Tribune's test lots. Even in this year of drouth it has given a good yield. It was produced by the crossing of a seed from Russia with a corn grown in this country. It does not give a high yield of ears, but its foliage is abundant. Its leaves are nearly twice as wide as those on 22 other varieties, and there are from 12 to 14 leaves to a stalk as compared with 8 or 9 on the other varieties. That makes it an ideal corn for forage, roughage, and silage.

Mr. Ridgway and Snuggling Leaves.

"And you observe," said Frank Ridgway, agricultural editor of THE TRIBUNE and chronicler of the farm's benefactions, "you observe how the leaves snuggle up around the tassel!" He said that with almost prayerlike fervor.

I had not observed, and if I had I could have deduced nothing from the snuggling. So I asked why it was important. Mr. Ridgway replied:

"Those close snuggling leaves protected the tassel from destruction by the burning sun of last summer, and that was all-important because the tassel produces the pollen which brings about fertilization when it reaches the silk on the ear. Without that contact there would have been a barren ear—just a cob."

The Story of the Horned Steer.

Now about the Hereford steer which alone among the 117 that were making a Rosa Bonheur tableau beneath the elms on the farm's lowlands.

"Why is he the only horned one?" I asked.

Clarence Thurow smiled. "By that question," said he, "you probably hit upon what was a wild half hour on a Wyoming ranch when the cowboys tried to dehorn him. From watching him for the last quarter of an hour you have discovered that he is braver and smarter than the rest of the herd. He doesn't run every time we wave our hats. Well, he was that way 17 months ago when—at the age of ten months—it came his turn to be dehorned, and probably he gave the boys such a chase that at last the foreman sang out, 'O, don't bother with him any longer! Time's too precious.' So this steer came east with his horns, and those weapons will make him a nuisance to the end of the chapter.

"We who are fattening him for market would rather not have him in the herd because at the feeding bunks he gets more than his share. He gets it because he can get it—swinging that horned head from side to side and edging the others away.

Then the brothers touched upon some facts that make the city bred man wonder why farming can help being mostly profit. For, said they, when these Tribune steers were purchased on Sept. 19, 1933, they averaged 613 pounds each and cost $5.01 per hundred pounds. Now they average 1,019 pounds each and when they go to market in February they will average 1,250 pounds and will be worth 10 cents a pound on the hoof, or $125 each.

How Alluring It Looks!

In other words, they cost a little over $30 each a year ago last month and will bring more than four times as much next February.

Such are the figures—valid enough when all goes well—that lead the city man into his delusion that fattening cattle for market is the road to wealth.

As a matter of fact, fattening cattle for market requires careful calculation. Thirty days of lack of correct finishing may mean loss of the profit the farmer was counting on.

From now until February—or, say, for the next 120 days—the Tribune steers are expected to gain about two pounds a day, which is not an extraordinary gain. But three pounds a day would be very extraordinary. Lack of ear corn, due to the drouth, is the reason for the lack of extraordinary gains this year. Again, as we city folk should learn, on a farm everything interlocks either for good or for ill.

Mr. Ridgway Rouses the Dreamer.

Mr. Ridgway closed my contemplation of the Rosa Bonheur tableau with the statement that today Herefords are the dominating breed on the ranges because they are so hardy.

In fact, I could have learned a good deal more during my day in this open air laboratory if its glorious setting did not demand—and richly reward—so much of a city pent man's contemplation. The autumn enkindled maples now are glowing like huge bonfires along the green edges of the pastures. The walnut trees are taking on golden hues more vivid than the gold of the sunlight. The air is vocal with the mystical whisper of falling leaves. The landscape is hung with tapestries of crimson and yellow and purplish brown—that last subtle combination so subtle as sometimes almost to escape the eye, being produced by the turning of the oak leaves.

The plumed hemp is waving by the roadsides. Sheep are feeding intently on the rape—that plant of the cabbage family the seeds of which canaries so love. Turtles in shining black armor are sunning themselves on the rocks in the Fox river, which, coming down from southern Wisconsin, runs through the farm. The eye carries five miles—Mr. Ridgway, country bred and hence skilful in making such calculations, said 'twould be about five miles—to serene timberlands on the far side of the prairie.

Bob Becker Quotes the Boss.

Entranced by so much beauty and delayed by such a variety of interesting objects—like the turtles in shining armor and the intent sheep—I apologized for contemplation, but Bob Becker, who since February has written nearly 200 delightful articles about wild life on this farm, said I need not apologize and could contemplate at leisure, "for," he added, "one of the purposes of this project is to show city boys the joys and compensations of farm life." He told me that our editor-in-chief, founder of the experimental farm, said, "City people have somehow been bludgeoned into thinking of a farm as a penal institution, but, by golly, we will show them different!"

Apology for loitering amid beauty having been thus accepted, I returned cheerfully to fact finding and learned that the farm is prepared to show visitors how soil erosion can be stopped, a vital matter for a country with a lot of reckless Americans in it, cutting and slashing and not replanting and not stopping to choke up gullies; how, too, the farm has proved that putting rubber tires on a tractor which pulls an alfalfa cutter saves from 20 to 30 per cent on fuel; how it has shown this last summer that five different varieties of crotalaria, which has three uses—as fiber, like hemp, as soil builder, and as feed for stock—and which is entirely new to northern Illinois farmers, can be successfully grown in Chicagoland, and how it took this farm only 60 days to prove that in drouth-resisting qualities Hungarian millet, a feed for live stock and poultry, is superior to German millet.

From the Tower to the Farm.

Such solid, profit making information, and columns more like it which it is not possible even to touch upon in this article, is free to all the Tribune's Chicagoland neighbors who care to stop, look, and listen when they reach the fecund acres in the heart of Kendall county.

Ogden avenue [U. S. route 34] to Naperville, State route 65 [Oswego road] to Oswego, Route U. S. 34 to State route 47 to Yorkville, from there follow Tribune Farm markers to the farm.

ILLINOIS CONTESTS DURING YEAR BOOST STOCK OF HORSES

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Indications that horses are far from through as a source of farm power are evident in the results of the horse pulling contests which the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois held throughout the state this summer and fall. More Illinois teams made good records than at any time in the last eight years, it is reported by E. T. Robins, live stock extension specialist, who was in charge of the contests.

Although the state records established last year remained unbroken, three Illinois teams during the season just closed lifted 3,000 pounds the full distance of 27½, or the equivalent of pulling six 14 inch plows turning furrows six inches deep in stubble ground, one of these teams was a 3,800 pound pair, owned by Charles Lett of Sandwich. The second team, weighing 3,930 pounds, was owned by Homer Crawford of Pontiac, while the third team to pull the full distance was a pair weighing 3,100 pounds, owned by Gordon Warters of Allerton. This team lifted 97 per cent of its own weight. Few teams have set as good a record, it is said.

COL. ROOSEVELT HITS NEW DEAL AS 'TAMMANIZER'

Assails 'Spoils System,' 'Vote Buying.'

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt today attacked the administration of his distant cousin, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, as "Tammanizers of our government."

Addressing the Young Republicans of Connecticut, he asserted that "there never has been an administration within the last fifty years where politics was played so brazenly and openly and where appointments were used for partisan purposes with such ruthless disregard of ethics and good government."

Cites "Colossal Burocracy."

He charged that not only has the administration created a tremendous army of adherents by building a "colossal burocracy" not under civil service, but that it has "assaulted and undermined" positions that have been under civil service.

Col. Roosevelt lashed out at "James Aloysius Farley, Tammany adept," who he declared had been "placed at the head and given charge of the debauching of our government." He also charged that Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes had "sold out."

"Not for more than half a century have we had such a condition as exists today," he said. "The present national administration has not merely done nothing to advance the merit system—it has openly and brazenly set out to destroy it.

"In Tammany's Shadow."

"For the first time in the history of the United States, Washington lies in the shadow of Tammany Hall. The methods of Boss Tweed, Croker, and Murphy are being applied in our federal government. Every day that passes the Tammany spoils system fastens its tentacles more firmly upon our nation."

The Maine election, Col. Roosevelt declared, was "bought and paid for" with "millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money." He charged Secretary Ickes with a right about face on the Pasamaquoddy power project in Maine because the election was at hand.

"Today there are emissaries of the federal government prying into every last one of our affairs," he said. "They are not merely concentrated in Washington, but are scattered through the country, spying, interfering, living off us.

"Selected on Spoils System."

"These great new organizations have been specifically exempted from the civil service law. In all except a very few instances, such as the TVA, employés have been selected on a strictly spoils system with the end in view of creating a Tammany machine in the United States."

Col. Roosevelt attacked the Home Owners' Loan corporation as "a typical illustration of the national administration's prostitution of its endeavors to the service of partisan politics."

In revoking the civil service order covering employés of the old soldiers' home in Johnson county, Tenn., Col. Roosevelt declared, the President made "as barefaced an assault upon the merit system as has ever been perpetrated."

EX-GOV. DUNNE IS HONORED ON 81ST BIRTHDAY

Judges, attorneys, and other friends gathered yesterday in the court of Chief Justice Joseph Burke of the Circuit court to pay honor to former Gov. Edward F. Dunne. A portrait of Mr. Dunne was presented to the Circuit court in recognition of the veteran's 81st birthday. The portrait was the work of Mrs. Paul Godehn, a Chicago artist, and was presented to the court as the gift of 100 of Mr. Dunne's lawyer friends. Several judges and attorneys present spoke of Mr. Dunne's work. He served on the Circuit court bench, as mayor, and as governor. Mr. Dunne is now United States commissioner at the World's Fair.

Executives in Printing Industries to Give Talks

Addresses by leaders in the printing industry will accompany the dinner meeting of the Chicago Club of Printing House Craftsmen at the Knickerbocker hotel at 6:30 p. m., Tuesday. Speakers will be A. E. Giebengack, Washington, D. C., United States public printer; John J. Deviny, also of Washington, executive vice president of the United Typothetae of America, and Gilbert P. Farrar, typographic counselor, of New York. About 500 members are expected to attend.

FIND DEMOCRATS OF OLD SCHOOL BACKING G. O. P.

Brooks Says State Mine Area Is Alarmed.

Throughout Illinois, numbers of Jeffersonian Democrats are showing a tendency to line up with the G. O. P. in sending more Republicans to Washington to balance the power in congress, according to C. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for congressman at large.

Mr. Brooks spoke last evening at a banquet given in his honor at the Sovereign hotel by the world war veterans of the 10th congressional district, in which Mr. Brooks lives. The chairman of the affair was Joseph F. Novotny.

"These Democrats I have encountered," Mr. Brooks declared, "have a feeling that the only guarantee of a stable government is to balance the next congress by sending Republican members."

Reaction to New Deal.

In discussing the reactions to the New Deal of people he met during his 17,000 mile campaign trip throughout Illinois, Mr. Brooks turned his remarks to the mining districts of southern Illinois. He said:

"There is real concern in that district regarding the spending of a billion dollars in the Tennessee valley experiment to create hydroelectric power that will compete with the already idle coal mines of Illinois.

"I found many people with patriotic intentions," he said, "curtailing production on the fertile acres of Illinois, but at the same time asking why the government should attempt to reclaim 65,000 square miles of land by the T. V. I. experiment."

War on Horner Machine.

Turning to the state political feelings, Mr. Brooks continued:

"I found an overwhelming desire to send Republican members to the legislature to break up the Horner machine control of that body. In so far as Cook county is concerned, there is every indication that the people here are determined to break the control of this county government, realizing that any government is administered best when the powers are divided."

Among those at the banquet were: Charles Rapschul, former state commander of the American Legion; James P. Ringley, candidate for sherif; David Shillinglaw, candidate for the board of review; Gen. John V. Clinnin, Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, former United States marshal; Harry A. Riley, Republican committeeman of the 49th ward; Ralph Church, candidate for congressman of the 10th district; Ald. John A. Massen of the 48th ward, Ald. George A. Williston of the 49th ward, and Thomas J. Houston, state central committeeman.

$2,600,000 Postoffice Approved for Los Angeles

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Postmaster General Farley today approved construction of a postoffice building in Los Angeles at a cost of $2,600,000 plus $300,000 for the site.

ANDREW RUSSEL ILL ON DETENTION FARM; SUFFERS HEMORRHAGE

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—Andrew Russel, Jacksonville, former state treasurer and auditor, who is serving a sentence at the United States detention farm at Milan, Mich., on charges growing out of the failure of the Ayers National bank, Jacksonville, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday it was learned here today.

ANDREW RUSSEL.

Word of Russel's illness was received here by C. J. Doyle, his attorney, from J. J. Ryan, warden of the federal farm.

Russel is 78 years old and because of his advanced age his friends fear the illness may be fatal for the veteran Illinois political leader and banker. For years he was a power in the ranks of the Republican party in this state.

He was indicted with Millard F. Dunlap, Jacksonville, president of the defunct bank, in connection with its failure. They pleaded nolo contendere, by which they neither admitted nor denied guilt to charges of misapplication of funds. Both were sentenced to 18 months.

Mayor Bergin, Battling Pneumonia, Given Oxygen

The condition of Daniel P. Bergin, mayor of Chicago Heights and candidate for county commissioner on the Democratic ticket, who is critically ill of pneumonia in St. James hospital at Chicago Heights, was reported unchanged yesterday. Oxygen was administered through the day, and physicians said the next 24 hours would be the crisis. Mayor Bergin became ill Monday at his home at 159 Country Club road.

NEW DEAL FOUND EMBEDDED WITH PUBLICITY MEN

Work Under Multiplicity of Titles.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—The propagandists have embedded themselves so deeply in the obscure units of the New Deal burocracy that an accurate survey of their numbers is virtually impossible. The difficulty is increased by the diversity of their duties and the multiplicity of the titles under which they are carried on the government pay roll.

The interior department, presided over by Harold L. Ickes, may be taken as a typical example. Stuart Godwin, whose qualifications for accuracy and veracity include service as a Washington correspondent on a Hearst news agency, said that the interior department had only two press agents, himself and one assistant. Of course, he said, there was a stenographer.

Others on Roster.

Mr. Godwin, under further questioning, added that there was a publicity man for the subsistence homesteads corporation and one for the soil erosion service, both under Mr. Ickes, but emphasized that the public works propaganda force, with a personnel of eight, was a separate unit.

A telephone call later disclosed that the interior department's national parks service has a propaganda force of 10 persons, with a woman at its head who is carried on the pay roll as "editor-in-chief, division of public relations." Another telephone call led to the discovery of an "editorial section" in the office of education, with a personnel of 10.

The petroleum administrative board, of which Mr. Ickes is chairman, has a press agent equipped with a secretary. This makes a total propaganda personnel of at least 35 in Secretary Ickes' domain of the federal government.

Fail to Give Out "Story."

Two weeks ago a story that received prominent space in newspapers throughout the country broke in the interior department, but it was not made public by any of these press agents. This was Mr. Ickes' suspension of Paul C. Yates, executive assistant to the governor of the Virgin Islands, which was withheld from the public until Yates himself made it known.

The PWA press battery has issued more than 1,000 releases ranging from a single sheet to volumes of more than 100 pages, all containing propaganda, but when a legitimate news story is available a confirmation is about the most than can be expected from the press agents.

The clerical and editorial force of the department of agriculture "press service" includes 12 persons, and the Agricultural Adjustment administration has its own "press section" with 12 more members.

But, like the department of the interior, the propagandists are also intrenched in the bureaus and subdivisions of the main department.

Ninety Workers on Roster.

The division of information of the forest service, also under the agriculture department, has 90 employés. Various other bureaus have employés engaged in propaganda duties at least part of the time.

The NRA press section, which formerly had 50 members and now has 35, essays to function along the lines of a metropolitan newspaper.

NRA has put out almost 10,000 releases and has a mailing list of almost 3,000.

The Federal Housing administration has the next largest press agent corps, with twenty-five members, of which eighteen are writers and seven are office help.

The Tennessee Valley authority has a relatively small propaganda crew, with eight members altogether in Washington, Knoxville, and Chattanooga, but it started something new in government activity last spring by engaging the services of a New York advertising agency for $10,000.

It would require columns to detail all the various publicity setups, but every one of the alphabetical or emergency organizations has one or more press agents and the total is conservatively estimated at 300. Of all the New Deal agencies, the Federal Emergency Relief administration would least be expected to require a ballyhoo squad, but it has one with eleven members.

Mae West Asks for Some Censoring Outside Films

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Mae West believes the time has come for some censorship outside the movies. Going "into character" at a testimonial dinner for Emanuel Cohen, film company official, here last night, she said: "I think it's time I should do a little censoring about some of the stories going the rounds about me. But if you hear any new ones come up and see me."

SINCLAIR AIMS AT SOCIALIZED STATE BY 1938

California Voters Aroused as Never Before.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—What is this EPIC plan to "end poverty in California," over which the electorate is more wrought up than it has been since the days of populism?

Well, nobody knows precisely, not even its author, Socialist Upton Sinclair, who captured the Democratic nomination for governor of California much to the delight of the radicals and anguish of the conservatives in both parties.

Mr. Sinclair, like the President, is a confessed economic empiricist and reserves the right to alter, and does alter, the plan from day to day as new ideas occur to him.

Put Unemployed to Work.

In the main, however, the EPIC plan proposes to put the unemployed to work coöperatively on unused lands and in idle factories, "producing for use, not for profit," on a basis of barter. Gradually this system is to be extended by forcing into bankruptcy and purchasing for a song all industries, banks, utilities, stores, and other forms of private enterprise until a completely socialized state shall be achieved. There also is to be a radical distribution of wealth by means of confiscatory taxation.

One of Sinclair's modifications of the plan provides that temporarily in the interest of quick action the lands and factories shall be rented, not purchased, the rent to be paid by the state in warehouse receipts for products which shall be acceptable in payment of taxes.

The New Deal, according to Sinclair, is only a pitiable start in the direction he essays to lead the country. The NRA and the AAA are tragic failures and will ruin the country. In fact the only part of the New Deal that is sound is the timid experimentation with coöperative factory operation by the unemployed in Ohio and the District of Columbia, these New Deal schemes being pure EPIC.

Warns of Revolution.

But under the New Deal, Sinclair contends, the country is racing to the precipice. Unless the whole country embraces EPIC there will be a revolution, then Fascism, then communism.

As outlined originally by its author the EPIC plan follows:

1. A legislative enactment for the establishment of state land colonies whereby the unemployed may become self-sustaining and cease to be a burden upon the taxpayers. A public body, the California Authority for Land (the CAL), will take the idle land and land sold for taxes and at foreclosure sales and erect dormitories, kitchens, cafeterias, and social rooms and cultivate the land, using modern machinery, under the guidance of experts.

2. A public body entitled the California Authority for Production (the CAP) will be authorized to acquire factories and production plants, whereby the unemployed may produce the basic necessities required for themselves and for the land colonies, and to operate these factories and house and feed and care for the workers. CAL and CAP will maintain a distribution system for the exchange of each other's products. The industries will include laundries, bakeries, canneries, clothing and shoe factories, cement plants, brickyards, lumber yards, thus constituting a complete industrial system, a new and self-sustaining world for those our present system cannot employ.

CAM Will Issue Scrip.

3. A public body entitled the California Authority for Money (the CAM) will handle the financing of CAL and CAP. This body will issue scrip to be paid to the workers and used in the exchanging of products within the system. It also will issue bonds to cover the purchase of land and factories, the erection of buildings, and the purchase of machinery.

4. An act of the legislature repealing the present sales tax and substituting a tax on stock transfers at the rate of 4 cents per share.

5. An act of the legislature providing for a state income tax, beginning with incomes of $5,000 and steeply graduated until incomes of $50,000 would pay 30 per cent tax.

6. An increase in the state inheritance tax, steeply graduated and applying to all property in the state, regardless of where the owner may reside.

This law would take 50 per cent of sums above $50,000 bequeathed to any individual and 50 per cent of sums above $250,000 bequeathed by any individual.

7. A law increasing the taxes on privately owned public utility corporations and banks.

8. A constitutional amendment revising the tax code of the state, providing that cities and counties shall exempt from taxation all homes occupied by the owners and ranches cultivated by the owners wherever the assessed value of such homes and ranches is less than $3,000. Upon properties assessed at more than $5,000 there will be a tax increase of one-half of 1 per cent for each $5,000 of additional assessed valuation.

Tax Will Be Graduated.

9. A constitutional amendment providing for a state land tax upon unimproved building land and agricultural which is not under cultivation. The first $1,000 of assessed valuation to be exempt and the tax to be graduated according to the value of the land held by the individual. Provision to be made for a state building loan fund for those who wish to erect homes.

10. A law providing for the payment of a pension of $50 per month to every needy person over 60 years of age who has lived in the state of California three years prior to the date of the coming into effect of the law.

11. A law providing for the payment of $50 per month to all persons who are blind, or who by medical examination are proved to be physically unable to earn a living; these persons also having been residents of the state for three years.

12. A pension of $50 per month to all widowed women who have dependent children; if the children are more than two in number the pension to be increased by $25 per month for each additional child. These also to have been residents three years in the state.

Prediction True up to Now.

In August, 1933, when Sinclair prepared to run for governor by changing his registration from the Socialist to the Democratic party, he wrote a booklet entitled "I, Governor of California," which in the form of a short novel narrated a-la-Bellamy, how Upton Sinclair was triumphantly nominated in August, 1934, and overwhelmingly elected in November, how he then took charge of state government on Jan. 1, 1935, and by 1938 had put into operation the entire EPIC plan, saved the state from economic collapse and brought happiness to all, including the capitalists. Up to date this latest story from the pen of California's most prolific fiction writer has come true and what one-half of the population and the other half fears is that Nov. 6 will furnish another fulfilment of Sinclair's prophesying.

Up to last month, "I, Governor of California," had gone through editions, 255,000 copies had been sold at 20 cents each and the funds devoted to the Sinclair campaign expenses. In succession since, Sinclair has published booklets entitled "Immediate EPIC," "EPIC Answers," and "The Lie Factory Starts," in the last of which he answers critics, and established a weekly newspaper, EPIC News. All of these are sold at street booths and at the nightly meetings of the 1,000 EPIC clubs to provide campaign funds. Sinclair's forty-seven novels and other works listed in all the pamphlets are also on sale by the EPIC workers.

In "I, Governor of California," Sinclair, after describing his electorial struggle with "the interests" from which he emerged victorious on Nov. 6, tells how he was inaugurated and as his first official act, "stepped to the microphone" and pardoned Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of the bombing of the San Francisco preparedness parade, offering him "my profound apologies for the injustice which the state of California has done to him for the last eighteen years."

Then the new governor gets down to business in a large reception room called "The Goldfish Bowl," all business being conducted in the open, within sight and hearing of everybody, all whispering barred.

Sinclair tells how he drove recalcitrant legislators into line by summoning them to the goldfish bowl and publicly exposing their profitable poker playing with the power trust and other lobbyists; how he then proceded to carry EPIC into effect, Sinclair thus relates.

"The first bill was the provision for land colonies. The legislature set up the California Authority for Land; [the CAL] with a board of five commissioners. The governor appointed two practical ranchers, an agricultural expert from the state university, a real estate expert, and a labor man. The man who was head of the land buying was the meanest man in California, and the governor said in the goldfish bowl that he was selected for that reason, and stood pledged to buy the land as if he were buying it for himself.

Rush Through Emergency Bill.

An emergency bill was rushed through the legislature to provide the first finances. Money was appropriated from the general fund, and the issuing of tax warants was authorized, also loans from the banks. CAL was authorized to rent tracts of land for a year with the option of purchase, and many of the colonies were started in that way. The people came walking or hitch hiking, long before anything was ready for them. They went to work, often without being hired. They slept in their old cars and asked only for food in return for their labors."

Tent villages were established wintering in which was made possible by the well advertised California climate, Sinclair remarking that "However, I may libel the profiteers of California, you may be sure they will never libel the climate." Of course, not. One may remark parenthetically, for Sinclair wants to be elected. The story then proceeds:

"The next measure to pass the legislature and be signed by the governor was that establishing the California Authority for Money [the CAM]. To the management of this institution the governor appointed a man whom he had known for years, who had played the game of stocks and bonds, and knew every trick of Wall street in New York, La Salle street in Chicago, and Spring street in Los Angeles. He had quit the game in disgust and told Sinclair much about the insides of it. Now he was glad to give his expert knowledge to the financing of the EPIC program."

Capitalists Fight Scrip Plan.

The capitalists fought the issuance of scrip for the exchange of products as unconstitutional and also sought to defeat the gigantic bond issue to finance CAM but in a popular referendum "I, governor," triumphed over "the private interests."

"The bond issue was indorsed," the story proceeds, "and the bonds printed and sold. Just as the private banking interests had declared, it injured the banking system of the state, and the CAM soon had a chance to purchase some of the private banks paying for them the physical valuation of their properties. The CAM was glad to have these properties, because it was taking in large sums of money and needed vaults. The people came and bought the bonds of CAM and then they put their bonds in safety under the care of CAM.

"In the meantime, the other measures of EPIC had been passed; including that for the California Authority for Production [the CAP]. Emergency funds had been used to buy lumber yards, brick factories, cement factories, canneries, clothing factories and other idle or bankrupt concerns for producing the immediate necessities."

Last Chapter Entitled Victory.

In the last chapter entitled "Victory," Sinclair describes the attainment by 1938 of the wholly socialized state:

"The process of EPIC was like that of a swiftly flowing river eating into a sand bank. Private industry began to crumble; and as quickly as any productive enterprise failed, it was made over into a public institution. Nothing could withstand the current of coöperation.

"The Big Business Men began to realize that it was no longer an advantage to gain enormous incomes because the state income tax took so large a share of them and when the owner died the state took so much of the balance. Land speculators found that the graduated tax on idle real estate spelled ruin; they gave up their holdings and the state took them over, and the colony laborers moved in and built new homes and social buildings, and the land colonists plowed and planted the soil. By the same method vacant lots in the cities were utilized for gardens under the supervision of ever vigilant CAL. The workers, having plenty of money for homes, took up all the unused buildings and CAP soon had enormous jobs of new construction all over the state.

When New Crops Come In.

"By midsummer, when the new crops began to come in, the system was flourishing. There was food for everybody, and word spread that California was paradise, and all over the United States caravans of automobiles were heading for the Golden State. Nobody worried, because it was known that each of these newcomers would bring a pair of arms and a head. CAL by now had plenty of land, and CAP was turning other building materials and CAM was no longer a speculative venture, but the one solid reality in a crumbling financial world.

"The opposition to EPIC began to collapse, with a suddenness which surprised everybody. The reason was the success of the colonies in planting crops, and the success of the factories in turning out goods. The problem of the business cycle had been solved. Those who needed goods had the means to buy, therefore production useless to argue against that. The movement into EPIC became a tide. and consumption balanced. It was "Another reason for the dying away of opposition was that the opposers did not have so much money to spend. The graduated taxes were taking a large part of the wealth of the unproductive classes. The profit takers were losing their customers, and they saw coöperation booming, and realized that the old system was doomed.

Many Other States Follow.

"A third reason was the continuation of the crisis throughout the nation. The federal government was being compelled to carry out the EPIC plan on a large scale, though without the name. The state governments were beginning to follow, and everybody realized that it was better for local affairs to be managed locally.

"A fourth reason was the moral one. EPIC was right, and the right has a way of prevailing. There was prosperity for all inside the system. The people on the outside had many worries, and they realized if they came inside, they would have none. There were jobs for all—even for those who had managed capitalist industries, because there was managing to be done in EPIC. The old time parasites saw their dividends being pared, their money being taken for taxes. What was the use of trying to pile up wealth any more? It was better to sell out for what you could get.

"And, after all, what was the use of piling up millions which you could not leave to your family? The older people found that the young people were taking it gayly, not worrying about their lost fortunes, because EPIC was so interesting. It was no longer necessary to live on papa's money; and papa, for his part, began to reflect that it had not been entirely good to have the young growing up in idleness. Social ostentation, being no longer possible, was no longer necessary. The fashions were going out of fashion, because there were so few to pay attention. In short, the new principle won its way, that the production of the necessities of life must be a public service, Democratically managed by the community.

"In two years the victory was made complete. The great public service corporations, which had been buttressed behind the rate fixing device, were humbled by the process of taxing them, which reduced the value of their securities. Finally, the state of California took them over at physical cost and thus the greatest source of corruption was gone from American public life. The old order crumbled like a dry-rotted log. Everybody came running to get a desirable position on the bandwagon.

"It was interesting to see what came after the great capitalist newspapers which had dominated the thought of America for a couple of generations. These papers were no longer able to maintain themselves and the question arose, how should a community get its news? The problem was solved by the appointment of governing boards selected from various elements. Two members were named by the employés of the paper, two by the faculties of state universities, two were chosen by vote of the readers, and one was appointed by the governor.

"The same thing happened to the radio stations. They could no longer make money, because the advertisers of cigarets and soaps and hair tonics no longer subsidized them. They were socialized, and the trash was cut out of their programs.

"By the end of the year 1938 the political situation had changed forever. The Republican party had sunk into harmless disuse. Nobody belonged to it except the members of the Better America federation and the Daughters of No More American Revolutions. The Democratic party had become a conservative organization, prepared to live forever on the deeds of its ancestors. The Socialist party was active and powerful, basing its campaign on a demand for the socialization of the luxury trades and the complete abolition of inheritance.

"The governor made a last speech over the radio, saying that he had caused a careful investigation to be made throughout the state of California and that the only poor person he had been able to find was a religious hermit who lived in a cave. Therefore, he considered his job done, and he proposed to go home and write a novel."

ARMY NEEDS BLANK CARTRIDGES—SO NRA IS ASKED TO GIVE IN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The war department considers blank cartridges "essential to the national defense."

So Assistant Secretary Harry H. Woodring wrote NRA in asking a special ruling to permit the army to buy 400,000 blank cartridges, .22 caliber, from the Winchester Repeating Arms company. NRA's permission was needed because the Winchester firm has not signed a certificate of Blue Eagle compliance and President Roosevelt has ruled government purchases must be accompanied by such a certificate.

"The chief of ordnance has advised me," Woodring wrote, "that the supplies in question are essential to the national defense and cannot be procured from other sources which will furnish the required certificate of code compliance. This ammunition is urgently needed."

Because the army deemed the blanks essential for the nation's protection, NRA granted the requested exemption for the purchase.

Blank cartridges, it was explained, are used in firing salutes.

SLUSH CAMPAIGN IS LAID AT DOOR OF WHITE HOUSE

Roosevelt Not Ignorant of It, Says Fletcher.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Responsibility for the "slush" campaign of the Democratic party was laid directly at the door of the White House today by Henry Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee.

HENRY P. FLETCHER.

Mr. Fletcher summoned newspaper men to his office and gave them copies of statements and speeches made by Democratic leaders and candidates, in which claims were made that the rain of dollars upon the nation should bring continued political support to Democratic tickets.

"The distribution of billions of dollars in public funds," declared the Republican chairman, "is being used as a political argument in the electoral divisions of the country with the full knowledge of the administration. If President Roosevelt doesn't know about it, he ought to.

"The President could not be ignorant in view of the fact that this sort of thing has been going on in the very open."

Asked to Explain.

"What sort of thing do you mean?" he was asked.

"The use of public funds in influencing votes for the Democratic party, and arguments for their continuation in power."

"If this government can go along on this basis," exclaimed Fletcher, "the administration can select its own congressmen; it can break down state organizations."

The Republican chairman, with indignant inflection, then read an excerpt from a speech made by President Roosevelt to governors, mayors, and civil works administrators attending a conference at the White House on Nov. 15, 1933.

Acknowledging that he had heard charges that politics was entering into the use of public works funds and of emergency relief funds, the President said on that occasion:

"I want to tell you very, very simply that your national government is not trying to gain political advantage one way or the other out of the needs of human beings for relief. We expect the same spirit on the part of every governor, of every one of the 48 states, and on the part of every mayor and every county commissioner and every relief agent."

Says Promise Is Violated.

Declaring that the President's promise is being flagrantly violated every day, Mr. Fletcher insisted that "something should be done about it."

Asked if he thought Mr. Roosevelt should renew publicly his promise, and give orders to his political aids that no further political capital should be made out of the expenditures of the New Deal, the Republican leader replied:

"I would not presume to tell the President of the United States what to do."

At another point in the interview Mr. Fletcher declared somewhat hopelessly that "the horse has been stolen," and indicated he saw nothing that could be done about the matter at this late stage.

"But the people of the United States should be made aware of this condition," he declared. "As a political argument it is very hard to defeat. It will influence this election and every subsequent election until the funds run out."

Cites "Timing" of Distribution.

Mr. Fletcher said he "did not mean to insinuate this is buying of votes, but I do say that it is used to influence voting in this campaign. The Republican party is not opposed to relief. I do not charge misuse of the funds. But there is propitious timing in its distribution."

The Republican chairman charged that the Democratic national committee has collated all information concerning the expenditures of the New Deal and is making it available to Democratic campaign speakers. New York state, the home state of the President, for example, is said to have received 1 billion dollars in various forms of federal easy money. Other states have obtained smaller sums.

Mr. Fletcher made public a pamphlet circulated in North Dakota, indicating that expenditures in that state totaled 150 million dollars, and then declaring that "a vote against the Democratic candidates is a vote against his [President Roosevelt's] policies and his program," and that "these [Democratic] candidates will coöperate with him [the President] in order that we may receive further benefits."

SLAYER GETS LIFE.

GENERAL MOTORS VICE PRESIDENT WEDS EL PASO, TEX., WOMAN

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Charles Stewart Mott, vice president and director of General Motors corporation, and Miss Ruth Mott Rawlings of El Paso were married at 7 p. m. today in Easter chapel of St. Clement's Episcopal church here.

The Rev. B. G. Williams officiated. Attendants were the bride's sister, Miss Jeannette Rawlings, and Mr. Mott's son, Harding Mott of Philadelphia.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Junius A. Rawlings and a member of the Junior league.

MR. FLYNN BUSY IT APPEARS EVEN IF HE IS ABSENT

Almost Weekly Guest at White House.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Politicians are shuddering at the temerity of Mayor La Guardia, who shouted out in public meeting last week that Edward J. Flynn, New York's secretary of state, hadn't done a day's work in three years.

The mayor was dangerously close to uttering treason when he made this appalling assertion, according to the shivering gossips. For Mr. Flynn is an almost weekly guest at the White House, is President Roosevelt's adviser on New York City subjects, is Postmaster General Farley's closest pal, runs Tammany Hall through his protégé, James J. Dooling, and distributes hundreds of millions of dollars in his position as regional administrator for the Public Works administration.

Rules on PWA Millions.

In addition to pronouncing such rash criticism on one so favored by the political powers that be the mayor was obviously speaking nonsense, Mr. Flynn's friends pointed out. Between trips to Washington, deciding the niceties of doling out federal patronage in coöperation with Mr. Farley, and the even more delicate task of deciding how PWA millions shall be spent, Mr. Flynn is really a very busy man, it was explained.

Of course, the mayor was probably referring to the well known fact that Mr. Flynn isn't seen much in the office of the secretary of state at Albany.

It is even rumored that he no longer calls for his monthly pay check of $1,000 but has it mailed to him wherever he may be.

Appointee of Roosevelt.

Mr. Flynn, who is familiarly and affectionately known as "Ed" around Tammany hall, has had a long and honorable career in New York. He served in the assembly and was sherif of Bronx county where he controls the Democratic vote. He was appointed city chamberlain by Mayor James Walker, now a lonely exile, in 1926. But he really attained the heights when his friend, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was elected governor and appointed him secretary of state, a position which he still holds under Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

He was an ardent member of the Roosevelt Before Chicago club and his appointment to the position as regional administrator of the PWA in the large industrial states of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania was said to be only a fitting reward for his loyalty.

The appointment came a few days after Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes had voiced the noble sentiment that politics would be utterly disregarded in the selection of men to fill PWA posts. Among certain misanthropes, in whose minds linger little that is charitable or trusting, the sentiment was indulged that the Flynn appointment smacked somewhat of politics.

Gets U. S. State Salaries.

Mr. Flynn also gets a salary from this federal position, $6,000 yearly, according to records at Washington, making a total of $18,000 which he annually receives from his state and federal job. But while Mr. Flynn does nothing at all for his $12,000 a year from the state, according to Mayor La Guardia, the latter certainly could not accuse Mr. Flynn of neglecting the $6,000 federal job. So heavy are his duties, indeed, that Postmaster General Farley often runs up to New York from Washington just to help out his friend, Ed, in the task of disbursing PWA funds.

All in all, the political boys point out, the mayor was hardly doing the sporting thing when he declared that Mr. Flynn had not done a day's work in three years.

JANET FAIRBANK MAKES DEBUT AS SINGER IN OPERA

"Opera stars have come down to earth," said Miss Janet Fairbank, Chicago society girl, yesterday afternoon as the curtain fell on the San Carlo Opera company's matinée performance of "Faust," in which she, as Siebel, made her debut in grand opera.

"Everything has changed," said the tall daughter of the Kellogg Fairbanks. "There is a trend toward the simple. The artist is forgetting her temperament. She has to—people no longer want swank or champagne drunk out of gilded slippers."

After eight years of study and concerts in Berlin, Miss Fairbank has come back to this country filled with hope for the future of the American singer. Reduction of stellar salaries, she claims, is resulting in many more openings for other singers.

300,000 NAMES IN POLL BOOKS TO BE ERASED

Judges and clerks of election toiled late last night on a revision of the precinct poll books listing voters who will be granted ballots at the polls on Nov. 6. John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board, estimated that approximately 300,000 names would be eliminated. Before the revision took place there were 1,790,939 on the poll books. Election officials hope to arrive at a definite figure of the registered voters this afternoon.

During the canvass on Wednesday and Thursday the election clerks left suspect notices at the addresses where evidence showed that persons on the poll books were no longer living. In addition cards were mailed Thursday and Friday to all these addresses.

Switch Engine Hits Rail Crew's Coach; None Hurt

Ambulances, fire engines, and police squads were hurried to 76th and Wallace streets last night after a report was sent out to the effect that two trains on the Rock Island railroad had been wrecked. The police discovered that a switch engine of the Belt Line had struck a wooden passenger coach, used by a Rock Island work crew. The coach was knocked off the rails but four men aboard it were unhurt.

DICKINSON OFF ON A TOUR OF MOUNTAIN AREA

Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, who has been the principal speaker for the Republican campaign in the middle west, left yesterday for a tour of the Rocky mountain region, according to an announcement by the national Republican headquarters in Chicago.

On the way the senator will speak tomorrow at St. Joseph, Mo., and Tuesday at Kansas City. He will then go to Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, and Montana for a number of speeches before the campaign closes.

Edwin P. Morrow, former governor of Kentucky, who has just completed a speech making tour in Indiana, is also starting a stump through the west, starting with a speech tomorrow at Hannibal, Mo. He will talk at Brookfield, Mo., on Tuesday and at Princeton, Mo., on Thursday. After speaking in Iowa and Nebraska he will return to Chicago for a meeting of the Kiwanis club on Oct. 25 and wind up campaigning in West Virginia.

NEW DEAL GOES ON TRIAL IN MANY STATES ON NOV. 6

Michigan and Indiana Are Election Battlegrounds.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Michigan and Indiana are two of the midwest states on which Republican and Democrats are concentrating for the Nov. 6 election as battlegrounds in which the New Deal will be on trial by both agricultural and industrial voters.

In Michigan, old Republican rock-ribbed Michigan, the New Deal is starting a campaign distinguished by the same tactics as those used by the Democrats in the Maine September election.

Revive Mackinac Bridge Project.

Old mirages are being revived. Among them is a $30,000,000 dream bridge across the straits of Mackinac, just as in Maine, as a vote teaser, was revived by "Quoddy" project, to convert the tides of Passamaquoddy bay into electicity for which there is no market.

The Mackinaw bridge idea was turned down flat when first presented by Gov. William Comstock, Democrat, who was in disfavor at Washington. PWA tucked it into a pigeonhole but now it is being dusted off and put on display for Michigan voters with a tag, "Not Permanently Abandoned."

Slush Funds Pouring In.

Slush funds in the form of corn-hog-sugar beet checks are being poured into the state in the final month of the election, the Republicans charge.

The Democratic nominees for governor and senator, Messrs. Arthur Lacy and Frank A. Picard, respectively, made a pilgrimage to Washington early this month, and later announced that arrangements had been made for a pay-off of 83 million dollars to some 567,000 depositors to the First National bank in Detroit, and $4,500,000 for the Bank of Saginaw.

Immediately there was a protest from the Nestor of Michigan Democracy, Judge William F. Connolly, former Democratic national committeeman.

"Cheap, phoney bologna by job hunting politicians," was the way Judge Connolly characterized the Lacy-Picard pretensions. He pointed out the pay off was arranged months ago through the RFC.

INDIANA

One of the hardest political battles in years is stirring Indiana, where the New Deal has other issues competing with it for influence on the vote Nov. 6.

Among them are the Dillinger gang and the jail breaks at Michigan City prison, the "dictatorship" of Gov. McNutt and the "2 per cent campaign slush fund."

Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Republican, has for Democratic rival Sherman [Shay] Minton, 44 year old New Albany attorney and close friend of Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Two years ago Indiana elected a solid Democratic delegation in the house at Washington. The Republicans figure they have prospects of regaining at least four house seats in congress and of reëlecting Senator Robinson.

Foremost hurdle recognized by the Republicans is the Santa Claus issue.

The Republicans are now throwing emphasis on the issue of "Emperor McNutt," the line of argument being that McNutt, through his reorganization of the state machinery, became a political "dictator" in Indiana long before the New Deal hit its stride in Washington, and that now he is "emperor of the state democracy and of the statehouse." The Democrats are shouting "Stand by Roosevelt," while the Republicans are countering with the phrase "A vote for Minton is a vote for McNuttism."

GEORGIA

Rock-ribbed Democratic Georgia, "second home" of President Roosevelt, has staged the first political break of the Democratic south with New Deal experimentation. At Macon, the Democratic state convention adopted a platform indorsing the administration of Gov. Talmadge and censuring several features of the Roosevelt administration.

Gov. Talmadge has been one of the strongest critics of the Bankhead cotton control bill, the AAA and NRA.

PENNSYLVANIA

Pennsylvania furnished another political break. This one is indicated between the Roosevelt administration and Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Republican, who has been for the New Deal.

In New York, former Mayor John F. Hylan, now a justice of the Children's court, has announced he will become candidate for governor on the ticket of the recovery party.

ARTHURDALE PROJECT IS VISITED AGAIN BY WIFE OF PRESIDENT

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—The Arthurdale subsistence homestead near here was host today to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on one of her informal visits.

The project, by which destitute miners have been provided with modern homes under government subsidy, is one of Mrs. Roosevelt's pet interests. About 50 families now live in the government cottages, which have all up to date improvements. The families hope to pay for them on the instalment plan.

Mrs. Henry P. Morgenthau Jr. was a guest of Mrs. Roosevelt during her visit. The party intends to return to Washington tomorrow.

THREE HOLD UP BANK.

Marion, N. D., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Three well dressed men held up the State Bank of Marion shortly after 11 a. m. today, escaping with loot estimated by bank officials at between $800 and $1,000.

DOWNSTATE POLL INDICATES GAINS FOR REPUBLICANS

G.O.P. Leaders Surprised by Straw Vote Returns.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Even Republicans were staggered yesterday when the Illinois News bureau, publicity organization of the G. O. P. state central committee, made public some results of an unusual straw vote taken by downstate newspapers.

"It's too good to be true," they said. "We had hoped it would show us at least neck and neck and wished it would show us leading by a nose. But nobody expected it would show us lengths and lengths ahead."

That was just what the returns, which incidentally were not extensive numerically, did show. Taken at their face value, they indicated that the Republicans would trim their Democratic opponents in the downstate area on Nov. 6 by two to one or better. They also showed the Democratic national administration is not so unpopular downstate as is the Democratic state administration.

Believes Test Reliable.

Charles H. Porter, head of the news bureau, admitted his own surprise at this apparent promise of a Republican victory, but expressed his confidence that the test had been made honestly and fairly. He pointed to the character of some of the newspapers which had participated in it—the Danville Commercial News, the Moline Dispatch, the Robinson Argus, and the Pittsfield Republican—as proof of the reliability of the poll.

Each newspaper had been sent 100 printed straw ballots, not carrying the names of candidates as is usual in such tests but instead a series of questions. The replies received totaled 350 and were said to have come from six counties—Crawford, Piatt, Pike, Rock Island, Vermilion, and Whiteside.

Two of the questions bore directly on the Roosevelt and Horner administrations. The inquiry, "Do you believe in the policies of the national administration?" was answered, according to the tabulation, with 127 votes of "yes" and 215 of "no." The same question in reference to the state administration was shown as receiving only 84 "yes" votes and 259 "noes."

The Replies on Congress.

According to the replies listed for other questions 249 straw voters said they would vote for Republican nominees for congress and 113 said they would vote for Democrats; 263 said they would support Republicans for state offices and 87 said they would vote for Democrats for these offices.

At the bottom of each ballot was a line for the occupation of the voter. One tabulation from the results was a list based on the replies concerning state candidates. This was as follows:

	Repub. lican.	Demo-cratic.
Business men	64	24
Wage earners	106	35
Farmers	22	11
Unemployed	3	3
Professional	33	4
Housewife	19	7
Not stated	16	7
Totals	263	87

Batches of 100 ballots each have been sent to other newspapers downstate and additional figures may be made public later.

PLANS PENNSYLVANIA INQUIRY ON SPENDING OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the senatorial campaign expenditures committee, announced today that an investigation would be conducted in Pennsylvania as a result of reports that the Republicans are spending a large amount of money.

Reports reaching the committee, according to Byrnes' statement, are that Republican expenditures for the May 15 primary were much larger than the amounts filed with the secretary of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Senator David A. Reed filed expenditures of $215,000 and his unsuccessful opponent for the nomination, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, filed expenditures of $182,000. Joseph Guffey, the successful Democratic candidate for the nomination, admitted $76,000 in the filing.

Byrnes' statement said the primary expenditures of the Republicans were exceedingly small as compared with proposed outlays of cash for the election campaign. He said the committee's investigators would determine whether hearings should be conducted in Pennsylvania.

SEE DEMOCRATS FOR LA FOLLETTE IN SENATE RACE

Reported They Will Fight Own Candidate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration has abandoned, in the state of Wisconsin, its "hands-off" attitude toward local political issues and is now reported to be actively campaigning against the Democratic nominee for senator, John M. Callahan.

Active support is to be given to Senator Robert M. La Follette by Democratic leaders, it was learned. Senator Robert Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], who conferred with the President recently, will go to Wisconsin to make a direct appeal for La Follette's reëlection, and there are reports that he goes with the blessings of President Roosevelt.

Situation Discussed.

The Wisconsin political situation was discussed here yesterday and today by several Democratic leaders, including Senator Wagner, Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, and Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin.

It was learned that Senator Lewis, who also has discussed the matter with the President, had planned to go to Wisconsin to make speeches for the Democratic senatorial nominee, but that his present plans are not to go to Wisconsin at all.

Senator Duffy, who was elected in 1932 with the support of the La Follettes, has thus far taken no part in the campaign for Callahan, and it is expected that he will not make any appeal for Callahan, although he will campaign arduously on behalf of Gov. Schmedeman, a candidate for reëlection. The governor is opposed by Philip Fox La Follette, brother of the senator and himself a former governor.

Center on Senate Race.

Reports in Washington are that the La Follettes are concentrating entirely upon the reëlection of Robert La Follette to the senate and are inclined not to press hard a campaign against Gov. Schmedeman. The La Follettes are hopeful that the Duffy-Schmedeman forces in the Democratic party will vote for Senator La Follette instead of for Callahan.

There are charges against Callahan, which are given credence in high Democratic circles, that in opposing the nomination of President Roosevelt at the Chicago convention he circulated pamphlets in which Mr. Roosevelt was portrayed as a friend of the Ku Klux Klan. It is also charged against Callahan that after Roosevelt was nominated the same material was used by the Republican organisation in its campaign against the Democratic ticket.

What Do You Get for Your Money?

There is the biggest question of 1934, isn't it?

Necessity or "luxury"—immediate needs or thinking of the future.

And we take it for granted that you know what you want for your money. As to pianos, let us look at them from an angle you may not have considered:

Do you know that right now, as you read these lines, you've got the biggest dollar opportunity you'll ever face again? You have.

Entirely aside from the all-important facts of the enjoyment latent in a fine piano—entirely ignoring its cultural value in the home—

Your carefully poised dollars will never again have such a condition-created opportunity to do double duty. Here's why:

We have been all through the economic stresses and recoveries of the last seventy-seven years. This is not the first time we have had to fit the prices of Kimball Pianos to the times—it is the first time we have been able to offer almost two hundred cents worth of piano for one dollar. That's provable history. Take our word for it.

Thinking, then, of 1934 only—come to our showrooms any day or evening—and make us prove to you that the particular Kimball that fits your pocketbook is the outstanding bargain in the history of the industry.

HUTCHINS MAY GET NRA JOB OF OWN CREATION

Confirm Offer of Post to U. of C. Head.

A possibility that Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins may step into a job of his own creation among the New Deal leaders was seen here yesterday following a confirmation in Washington of a report that the young president of the University of Chicago had been offered a post in the Roosevelt administration.

From a source close to President Roosevelt, it was learned that Dr. Hutchins had been offered a post "of some kind," but its nature was not revealed. The reason for the secrecy, it was said, was for fear of "embarrassing" the university president in arranging his affairs on the Midway to take up his Washington duties.

Refuses to Expand Statement.

Dr. Hutchins refused to elaborate on his statement, first published in yesterday's TRIBUNE, that "if I am to be appointed to a position with the government, the announcement should come from Washington. I have no appointment now."

This statement, however, was taken in some circles as supporting a belief that a government executive position of widespread scope and authority along educational lines is to be created for Dr. Hutchins. It was reported that consideration of such a position was discussed two weeks ago when President Roosevelt and Dr. Hutchins had a conference in Washington.

It is considered likely that President Roosevelt delayed action for a few days while considering the precise scope of the work to be done by the university head.

Supports New Deal Trend.

Since he assumed his duties as president of the university at the age of 31 in 1929, and particularly since the administrations' radical trend became apparent, Dr. Hutchins often has urged creation of a new cabinet post, that of secretary of education, to assume much wider jurisdiction than now held by the commissioner of education.

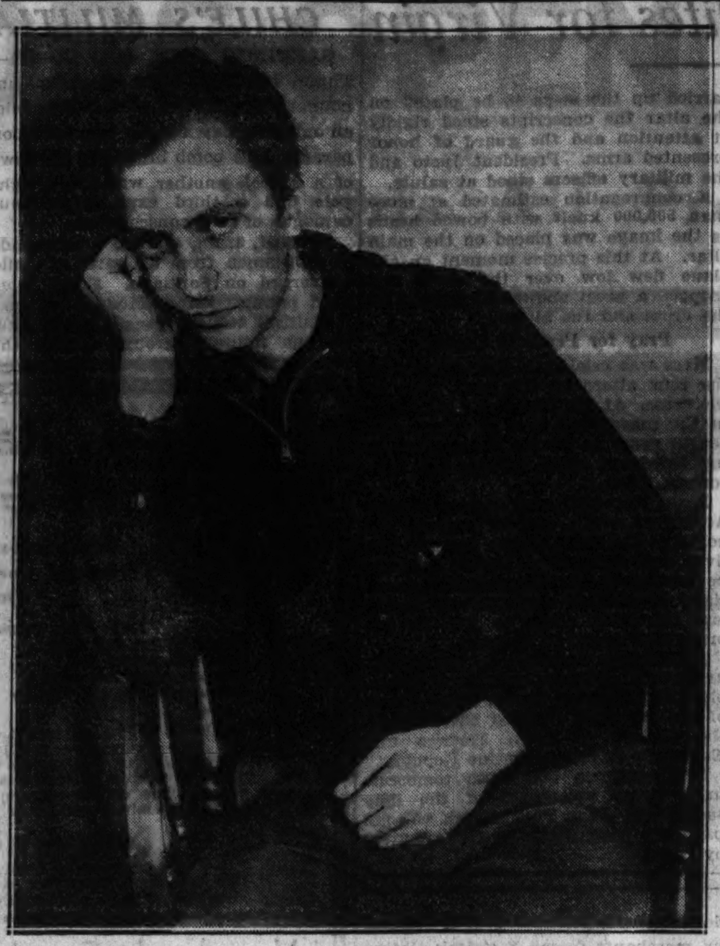
Dr. Hutchins would have the public school system nationalized, and supported in great part by federal funds. More recently he has advocated plans to educate the millions of unemployed, many of whom are without benefit of even elementary schooling. Reformation of the Civilian Conservation corps to include a program of education as well as work, has been suggested in many of Dr. Hutchins' public addresses.

Labor Post Doubted.

One report current after the first revelation of the government offer, that Dr. Hutchins would be asked to head the national labor relations board, recently vacated by Lloyd Garrison, dean of the law school of the University of Wisconsin, was doubted by some of the University of Chicago faculty members. It was pointed out such a job would not be "big enough" to attract Dr. Hutchins.

Until last spring Dr. Hutchins headed the regional labor board, but resigned that post, explaining he needed a summer vacation in Europe, and wished to spend more time with a committee on national policy in international economics, of which he is chairman. There was speculation on the midway on whether Dr. Hutchins would take a leave of absence to accept the government position, or whether he would resign as University of Chicago president.

Confesses Killing Grandmother



James Soldat, 18 years old, at Marquette police station yesterday when he confessed that he and two companions murdered his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Soldat, 67 years old.

THREE BOYS KILL GRANDMOTHER OF ONE; CONFESS

Unconcerned Over Death in $32 Robbery.

James Soldat, 18 years old, 2120 West 18th street, confessed yesterday that on Friday he and two other youths killed his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Soldat, 67 years old, by suffocation with a gag, after robbing her of $32.

MRS. ANNA SOLDAT.

His associates, who also admitted their guilt, are Frank [Red] Showronski, 17 years old, 2133 West 18th place, and John Machlewski, 19 years old, 2204 West 19th street, who is also called "Gacha" and "Mack."

In the Marquette police station the three youths showed no sorrow over their crime. When a photographer told him not to appear so pleased with himself, Soldat asked why he should look sad.

"How's that for acting?" he asked after he had assumed a dejected attitude before the camera.

Plans Fail to Work Out.

"I didn't think it would turn out this way," Soldat said when asked by Assistant State's Attorney Martin Ward why he planned the robbery of his own grandmother.

Soldat was in his first year of high school last year but refused to return to school last month. He told his parents he had been employed at a packing company plant for the last two weeks and to further that deception he gave his mother $12—his share of the robbery of his grandmother—as his two weeks' pay. He said he liked to make airplane models in his spare time.

Machiewski had been arrested twice previously, once for stealing lumber, he said, and again for stealing radios, a crime for which he served 30 days in the Bridewell. He admitted he never worked except at a newsstand at 22d and Leavitt streets. He lives with a brother.

Uncle Points the Finger.

Showronski is an unemployed orphan who lives with relatives. He was in rags, the knees torn from his trousers and his dirty white shirt torn in many places. He alone of the three gained the sympathy of Assistant State's Attorney Ward who said, "Red is just dumb."

Machiewski also wore a soiled white shirt when arrested—no coat or hat. Soldat was neatly dressed. He had on a black cloth sport jacket with zipper front, and a winged skull and crossbones done in green beads on its back.

The three were held to the grand jury on a charge of murder by a coroner's jury at an inquest yesterday afternoon. They declined to testify, saying they had made statements to the police.

At the inquest young Soldat was confronted by his father, Victor, a professional heavyweight wrestler, who hurried home from Omaha on hearing of his mother's death. The boy's mother, Josephine, and his aunt, Miss Anna Soldat, were also present.

"What did I tell you before I left for Omaha?" the father asked on seeing his son a prisoner, charged with murder. The answer, he supplied himself, declaring he had warned the youth to keep away from bad company.

The aunt revealed that James had been suspected on at least two other occasions when the grandmother was robbed. The mother testified that on Friday about 6 o'clock—two or three hours after the grandmother's death—James went with her to the grandmother's apartment and said nothing when the grandmother failed to answer the knock on the door.

It was revealed also that the youth's uncle, Lieut. Robert Soldat, of the Berwyn police, was the first to suspect James because, he said, of the boy's reputation.

Sergts. George Schulman and John P. Shanahan of the Marquette station discovered the crime on Friday night. When Miss Anna Soldat, daughter of the slain woman, returned home from a visit to the World's Fair, she was unable to get into the house and called police.

Live in Same Building.

Sergts. Schulman and Shanahan found the home had been ransacked. The body of the woman was on the floor, the hands tied behind her back with silk stockings, another stocking bound tightly around her mouth, and a blanket wound around the head. Miss Anna said she had $1,400 in a salt bag in a bureau drawer that no one except herself and her mother knew about, and it was found safe.

Mrs. Soldat kept a candy store for a time but closed it six months ago. She lived in the rear of the store. Her son Victor, the wrestler and father of James, lives on the third floor, in the rear, with his wife, a daughter Margaret, 13 years old; a son Edward, 10, and James, the problem boy of the family.

THREE SHOT BY U. S. AGENTS IN DILLINGER FIGHTS DENIED PAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Controler General J. R. McCarl ruled today that the government could not pay the hospital expenses of three persons wounded by department of justice agents in their efforts to bring down John Dillinger.

The three persons are a woman—Miss Etta Natalsky, who was shot when Dillinger was killed in Chicago, and two CCC workers who were wounded when federal agents fired on a car near Little Bohemia lodge in Wisconsin last spring in the belief that the machine carried members of the Dillinger gang.

The men are John Hoffman and John Norris. One of their companions was killed in the shooting and a justice agent—W. Carter Baum—was killed the same night at another point in the vicinity.

McCarl ruled that special legislation was necessary to care for these expenditures.

German Nephew Found Slain in Uncle's Home

Valderman Unger, 22 years old, who came here from Germany a year ago, was found dead yesterday in the home of his uncle, Dr. Gustafus Blech, 1320 Albion avenue, with whom he had been living. He was shot through the body, and a pistol was found beside him. Police of the Rogers Park station said the indications were that Unger had killed himself.

Launch Inquiry Into Death of Dakota Woman Here

An investigation was begun by the coroner's office of the death yesterday of Mrs. Erma Moore, 27 years old, of Deadwood, S. D. Mrs. Moore registered Oct. 6 at the Commonwealth hotel, 2757 Pine Grove avenue. She was found in a coma in her room Friday night and removed to the Columbus Memorial hospital, where she died. Sheffield avenue police said a powder, believed to be a sleeping potion, was found in her room.

GERMAN POLICE ACT TO SMASH CHURCH REVOLT

Seize Pamphlets Protesting Bishop's Ouster.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 13.—Protestants of Bavaria, who are fighting for the freedom of creed and church, today called off meetings and church services which were organized to protest against the removal of Bishop Hans Meisser. The deposed bishop, who was ousted yesterday for opposing Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, Nazi church dictator, is under arrest in the episcopal palace here.

Pastors supporting Meisser had planned to distribute handbills tomorrow among worshipers as a protest against the bishop's dismissal. The GSP [secret police] confiscated the literature tonight before it was issued for distribution.

War Hero New Bishop.

Hans Gollwitzer, a fighting pastor, wearer of the iron cross, was provisionally appointed as Meisser's successor. He was awarded the title of "ecclesiastical commissar." Gollwitzer, a simple pastor at Muehldorf-on-Inn, is 38 years old.

He was a volunteer on the western front during the world war and was promoted to lieutenant.

The official Nazi news service describes him as a man who joined the National Socialist party in his early years and distinguished himself in the Nazi revolution.

Reichsbishop Mueller was scheduled to appear in Munich today to supervise the reorganization of the Bavarian church. According to opposition pastors, he suffered a "heart attack" upon sensing the wave of indignation in the state over Meisser's dismissal and retreated to Altheide, Silesia.

The bishop directed activities in Munich from that place through August Jaeger, Nazi church commissar.

Summons Leaders to Parley.

Jaeger summoned the chief lay officers of the church to the administration building. It was expected he would take action against Dean Sammetreich, close friend of Meisser, who declared in public:

"We know Dr. Mueller has just started to enforce his plans. He wants to overcome the Catholics and Protestants and throw them into a melting pot and turn out Germanic heathen."

Dean Sammetreich has not been arrested and will preach in Meisser's pulpit at St. Matthew's cathedral tomorrow.

Though he is a prisoner in his palace, Bishop Meisser succeeded in sending out an open letter to Reichsbishop Mueller which was published in the Reichsbote.

Fires Questions at Mueller.

"Are you willing, as behooves a Lutheran bishop, to reject openly any teachings which conflict with the gospel?" Meisser asks Mueller.

The question is based on the fact that Mueller's followers, the Nazi German Christians, have refused to accept the full gospel. Oppositionists charge they want it "purified of Jewish influence" and preach racial prejudices. Meisser's followers also declare the German Christians seek to abolish the freedom of the church synods which were established by Martin Luther when he was fighting Catholicism.

"Are you ready, as behooves a Lutheran bishop, to see to it that the servants of God are not persecuted?" Meisser's letter continued. "Are you ready to base the actions of your church government on a truly religious ground instead of violence and force? Are you ready to tell the truth to the German public and fully restore the honor of Protestant bishops and churchmen whom you wilfully besmirched?"

Meanwhile Munich paid high honor to the old royal house of Bavaria. Former Crown Prince Rupprecht, together with other dignitaries, held memorial services in honor of the "Knights of the Max Joseph Order," highest Bavarian war decoration. Crowds lined the streets to cheer the former crown prince. Only 246 knights of the order are still living. The ceremony was held in a church, with a company of reichswehr (regular army) with fixed bayonets lining the aisle up to the altar.

JAPANESE PLAN TO SCRAP NAVAL PACT REVEALED

Acts This Week to End Washington Treaty.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Japan will serve advance notice that it intends to denounce the Washington treaty of 1922 later this year and will reveal its proposals for a new agreement to replace that treaty when tri-power naval conversations between American, British, and Japanese representatives open here probably next Thursday.

Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira and Rear Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto are expected to announce that Japan wishes the Washington pact to end Dec. 31, 1936. This is in accordance with expiration provisions contained in the treaty which, in addition to limiting naval armaments, guaranteed China's territorial integrity.

Japan's Scheme.

Instead of the Washington pact Japan is expected to propose naval regulation drawn on the following basis:

1. Parity in principle among the three main powers.

2. A global tonnage arrangement to replace the 5-5-3 ratio now in force and abolition of the principl of ratio.

3. Reduction, looking toward eventual abolition of "offensive" ships, meaning big battleships and aircraft carriers, with Great Britain and the United States making the chief sacrifices.

4. Unlimited authority for each of the three powers to build additional necessary "defense ships," including cruisers and submarines.

Britain and the United States, however, desire to continue the basis of the Washington treaty of 1922 and the London treaty of 1930, these being a 5-5-3 ratio for battleships and regulation of cruisers, aircraft carriers, and submarines. Both nations are expected to suggest the continuance of the battleship building holiday.

May Offer 20 Per Cent Cut.

In addition, it is anticipated that the Americans will make an offer to cut all tonnages at least 20 per cent, as has been hinted several times in the last few months. This is regarded as a possible counter move to Japanese proposals.

Another matter which is expected to come up is that of political problems affecting naval affairs. Any discussion of the Washington treaty, observers feel, will mean some discussion of political problems, and the delegations may try to determine whether politics will be included in the conference agenda.

No decisions of a final character are to be considered in these preliminary conversations, since all proposals will have to be submitted by the delegates to their governments, and since the conversations are primarily called for the purpose of providing a survey of the possibilities for a successful outcome of the conference next year.

But the drift of the discussions is expected to determine what may be expected after 1936—further naval regulation or a naval building race.

Italy, which plans to build two 35,000 ton battleships, is staying out of the discussions, and the French, for that reason, will just provide an observer. Franco-Italian discussions on the continent are expected to take place soon, and then the troublesome battleship program Italy has will come up.

Singapore Big Factor.

SINGAPORE, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Singapore and the British naval base at Seletar assume a new importance with the reopining of the naval talks in London this week. Naval activity on the island has been considerably hastened during the last few months and is equaled by extensive military preparations. Once completed, admiralty and army authorities say, Singapore will be as impregnable as the historic rock at the gateway of the Mediterranean.

Lying midway between China and India, Singapore has a strategic position on the great trading route to the far east. Also, to the southeast, lies Australia.

COSTA RICAN TROOPS SAIL TO OUST ISLAND TREASURE HUNTERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Oct. 13.—Costa Rican troops sailed today for Cocos Island with orders to oust an expedition of 18 British treasure hunters. The expedition reached the island aboard the yacht Queen of Scots, which was loaned to the adventurers by A. J. Drexel, American sportsman.

The treasure hunters were forced to abandon the use of the yacht because of heavy expense. The ship is now held at Cristobal, Canal Zone, by quarantine officers. They are demanding the cost of the return passage to England of members of the expedition on Cocos island.

It is reported Costa Rica plans to establish a penal colony on the island, forcing convicts to search for an alleged hidden treasure. Among the British treasure hunters is Mrs. Ida Jolly, wife of an author.

BYRD RETURNS TO LITTLE AMERICA AFTER 7 MONTHS

Flies Back from Solitary Weather Base Vigil.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antartica, Oct. 12.—[Via Mackay Radio]—[Delayed.] (AP)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd, his uncut hair a little grayer, returned to this base today after a stay of almost seven months at the Bolling advance weather base, 123 miles closer to the south pole.

The commander of the expedition to the south polar regions was brought back by a plane piloted by Bill Bowlin, who made a round trip flight through misty, uncertain weather.

Recovered from Illness.

Admiral Byrd seemed to have recovered almost completely from his illness in June, an indisposition which caused a tractor party commanded by Dr. Thomas C. Poulter to go to the admiral's rescue in August. During his solitary vigil at the advance weather base Byrd made meteorological observations and kept in uncertain radio communication with this headquarters.

The illness of Admiral Byrd, which he reported with a terse radio message, was attributed to the fumes of an oil stove at his tiny, snowbound weather station.

Dr. Poulter returned with Admiral Byrd today. To members of the force here Dr. Poulter said Admiral Byrd had regained from 20 to 25 pounds in weight since the tractor party went to his relief.

In High Spirits.

Admiral Byrd was in high spirits when he stepped from the plane here. He greeted all members of the station by name and teased them about their beards. He found the flight rather exhausting, and went to the hut of Dr. Poulter for a rest.

The flight was accomplished with considerable difficulty. Bowlin had difficulty finding the obscure weather base. The headquarters here, however, had sent a radio message to the Bolling base telling of Bowlin's departure. Oil soaked rags were set afire and Bowlin finally detected the thin column of smoke sent up from the smudge.

FORMER WOMAN M. P. ASKS ARMS OUTPUT CONTROL

International control of munitions production as a solution of troubles growing out of "too much nationalism" in the world was urged yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, former liberal member of the British house of commons, in an interview at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Wintringham will speak tomorrow at a meeting of the English Speaking Union, 360 North Michigan avenue.

"I deplore the tendency to nationalism," Mrs. Wintringham said. "The more we get the international outlook the better for all peoples."

England, she said, is better prepared for unemployment than the United States by virtue of its old age pension and unemployment insurance laws.

Military Spectacle Marks Eucharist Rites for Virgin

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 13.—An imposing military spectacle gave today's program of the Eucharistic congress a pageantry entirely different to the ceremonies on the three preceding days. The program was devoted to veneration of the Virgin Mary under the title of Our Lady of Lujan. It surpassed in magnificence and enthusiasm everything that had gone before.

Under a brilliant spring sun 7,000 conscripts received holy communion. Soldiers were drawn up in platoons without arms in the Avenida Alvear facing the giant white cross in Palermo park, the center of the Eucharistic congress ceremonies.

Bear Statue of Madonna.

President Augustin P. Justo, generals of the Argentine army, members of the general staf, and several hundred other officers were in full dress uniform and occupied seats on the great raised platform around the cross. In the spacious circle around the base of the cross gayly uniformed cadets of the military academy formed a guard of honor to the statue of the Madonna, which was carried in the procession. One platoon bore rifles with fixed bayonets.

An automobile arrived at the foot of the cross with military escort, carrying the small image of Our Lady of Lujan. It had been brought from the Argentine Lourdes, 40 miles distant. While the image was being carried up the steps to be placed on the altar the conscripts stood rigidly at attention and the guard of honor presented arms. President Justo and the military officers stood at salute.

A congregation estimated at more than 500,000 knelt with bowed heads as the image was placed on the main altar. At this precise moment an airplane flew low over the cross and dropped a great shower of flowers on the cross and the altars.

Pray for Peace in Chaco.

Mass was celebrated immediately at the four altars on the four faces of the cross. At the elevation of the host in the mass the guard of honor presented arms as all the others, including President Justo, officers and conscripts, knelt.

Msgr. Napel, chaplain general of the Argentine army, recited prayers for peace in the Gran Chaco between Bolivia and Paraguay. Before praying he addressed the congregation, especially the soldiers, through loud speakers, exhorting them to join in the prayer for peace in America.

Archbishop Fasolino of Santa Fé, Argentina, addressed the general assembly this afternoon on the third theme of the congress, "Christ the King in the History of Latin America and Especially in the Argentine Republic."

The congress will close tomorrow in a great procession of the holy sacrament. Pope Pius himself will impart his benediction to the congress by radio.

West Frankfort Clerks' Strike Enters 2d Week

West Frankfort, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—A strike of retail clerks virtually paralyzing business here for the last week entered its second week today with no signs of weakening on the part of merchants or clerks. The strike, which closed three downtown stores and caused the picketing of a dozen others, resulted over a demand by merchants for an 8 o'clock closing on Saturday nights. The clerks' union insists upon retention of the 6 o'clock closing hour, in effect ten years.

JUDGE JOHN B. COYLE DIES.

Niantic, Conn., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Judge John B. Coyle of Westchester county, N. Y., died today at his summer home at Black Point club.

THREE BOMBINGS MAR PARADE OF CHILE'S MILITIA

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Three bombings this morning announced the arrival of the Republican militia's day for its concentration parade. One bomb broke the windows of a school, another wrecked a light pole and a third exploded without damages of any consequence.

By boat, train, and auto thousands of militiamen from all parts of Chile converged on Santiago. Forty thousand paraded before Moneda palace.

Political leftists generally and numerous military groups dislike the Republican militia and seek to dissolve it, following a recent split provoked by a militia general staf statement threatening direct action against leftist leaders. Political efforts to prevent today's parade nearly resulted in a national cabinet split.

8 NATIONS HUNT 'BRAINS' OF PLOT TO MURDER KING

Tell How 'Suicide Squad' Was Picked for Job.

Trapped by Trivialities.

Trivial things like a gunman's hunger, his new shoes, his knowledge of the German tongue, and a hotel clerk with a memory for faces, as well as the label on Kalemen's clothing constituted the patchwork of clues that finally led to arrests of the suspects.

Photographs of Kalemen as he lay dead and unidentified at the spot where he killed the king helped to trace his movements. From one such photograph a hotel clerk remembered his face, and those of his associates before the crime.

Here is the cast of characters in the drama as revealed today by the police, with their aliases:

Petrus Kalemen, alias Rudolph Suk.

Marie Vjudroch, the missing gun girl.

Egon Kramer, alias Egon Kvaternik, who accompanied Kalemen to Aix-en-Provence the night before the shooting.

Croat Leader Named.

Dr. Ante Pavelich, chief of the Croat revolutionary band called the Ustashi, to which Pospisil admitted membership. The doctor is also known as Paverich.

Gustav Perec, chief of the Yanta Pusta camp.

The first mystery man in the setup was "the doctor," who gave the band instructions at Lausanne. A second mystery man called Szabo, alias Stancher, was supposed to be a lieutenant of Dr. Pavelich. There was also an old man who delivered the Hungarian passports at Yanta Pusta.

The French police first picked up Kramer's trail at Aix-en-Provence on the day of the assassination. He was identified from photographs obtained from Jugo-Slavian police as a member of the Ustashi. Kramer was supposed to have accompanied the gun girl to Aix-en-Provence.

Two Suspects Escape.

But Kramer was one of those who escaped, along with a man named Chalny and another named Nalis. Police said they were certain Nalis was just a petty thief and had nothing in common with the murderous political fanatics.

Pospisil and Ratich are in custody. From them the police learned most of what they know about the mysterious band.

A woman keeper of a little hotel at Aix-en-Provence revealed that Kalemen had stopped there with two of his companions. This started the manhunt.

The escape of a suspected stranger from the gendarmes at Fontainebleau, dropping in his flight a false passport and a cartridge clip corresponding to those used by the assassin, put the police on the true scent.

Walk Into Detective's Arms.

Detectives learned from the station master at Fontainebleau that two strangers had slipped out and departed in the direction of the Swiss frontier. They flashed orders to intercept them.

By mistake the pair, who intended taking the boat at Evian for Lausanne, stepped off the train at Thonon, almost into the arms of a detective who had been waiting for them.

He trailed them so closely at Thonon that it was to him they turned for help when they failed to make their order understood at a café. The detective happened to speak German, in which language the pair addressed him.

The detective called upon Police Commissary Petit at Annemasse and the pair was taken there after being arrested at 4 o'clock in the morning in bed at a Thonon hotel.

New Suit Provides Clue.

Here entered a small clue. The assassin Kalemen wore a new suit with a Paris label, from a well known department store. Found on one of the suspects was a billfold with a price tag from the same store.

In a tiny railroad station police room the grilling of the pair was started immediately by Commissary Petit. He used third-degree methods called in French slang "cooking." All day long the pair withstood the "cooking" process. One of them, Ratich, finally weakened under relentless questioning and dropped a few admissions, including the fact that their passports had been falsified.

After a sleepless 36 hours Ratich confessed membership in the revolutionary terrorist band. Confronted with documents rushed to Annemasse by Jugo-Slav authorities, Ratich began to implicate others.

Second Suspect Wilts.

Then he was allowed to rest for a while and Petit turned the full fire of his questions on his companion. The second suspect held out until Lausanne police telephoned they had found several strangers had bought new shoes at a store in Lausanne. They gave the numbers in the shoes.

Petit commanded both his prisoners to remove their shoes and found the numbers corresponded. Pospisil turned pale and began his story.

Meanwhile a taxi driver at Aix-en-Provence revealed to detectives engaged in combing that city for clues, that he had driven a "swell looking girl" to a hotel on the Sunday before the assassination with a man.

A big bundle of photographs of Jugo-Slav revolutionary suspects was rushed from Belgrade and taken to Aix-en-Provence, where it was shown to hotel employés. Out of these a waiter picked one as that of Kramer. Turning it over, detectives read the name "Egon Kvaternik."

The waiter identified this man as the companion of the taxicab driver's "swell looking girl." He said he had served them with breakfast on the Monday before the assassinations.

"On the night before, she went to her room alone," said the waiter. "Imagine my surprise when I went to the room the next morning and found him [pointing to the photograph] in the other twin bed."

With Pospisil and Ratich "pumped dry" for the present, Commissary Petit turned his attention to a search for Chalny, who escaped from blundering police at Fontainebleau, and the mysterious "doctor" who was supposed to be the directing force of the assassination.

Gun Practice in Camp.

The "doctor" met the others at Lausanne, and was referred to by Pospisil and Ratich as "the governor" or "the delegate." This led police to believe there were still higher-ups who remained in the Balkans, while "the doctor" was assigned to work in France.

The chief of the camp at Yanta Pusta, Perec, was said by Ratich to have instructed the refugees in revolver practice. Ratich said he met Pospisil at this camp.

An aged man, police learned, arrived at the camp on Sept. 27 with three Hungarian passports. One of these was given to Ratich and the others to Pospisil and Chalny.

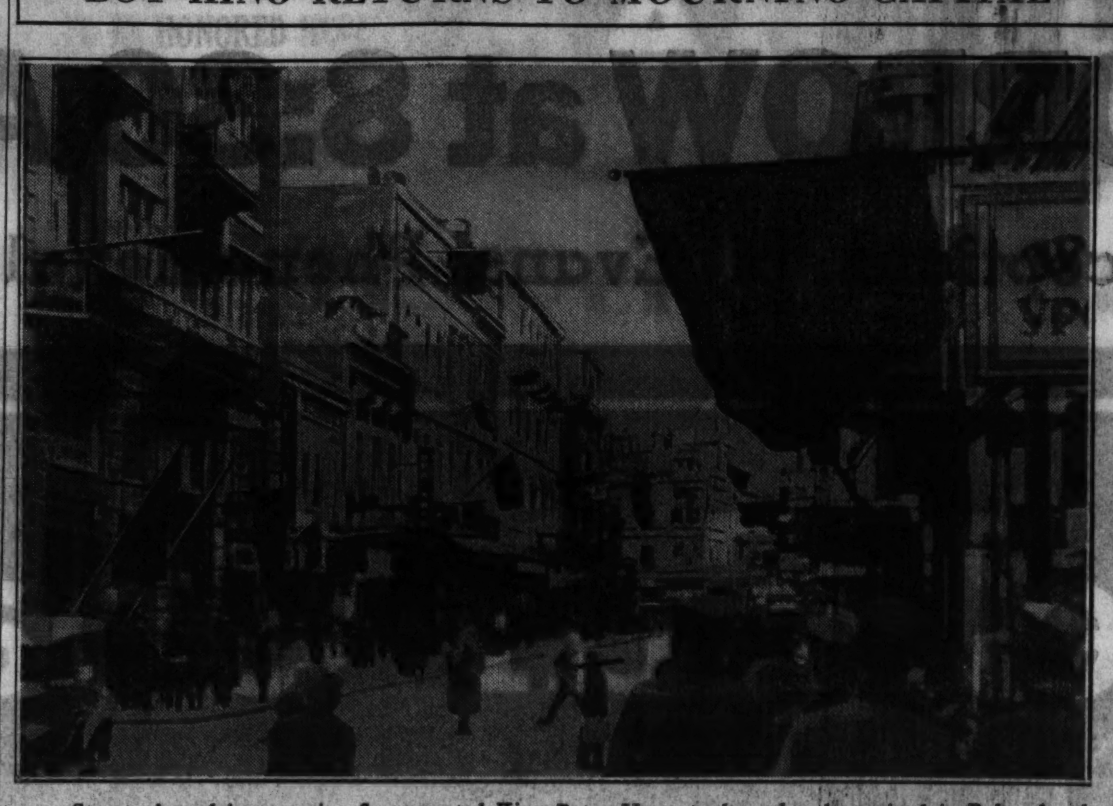
The trio went to Zurich, where they met Kalemen, according to Ratich's story, and a mysterious unidentified leader. The five went from there to Lausanne, where they met the equally mysterious "doctor."

Although he first said the band numbered four, Ratich later disclosed that five had crossed Lake Geneva by steamer to Evian on Sept. 29, and took the Paris train, getting off at Fontainebleau. Three of them went toward Marseilles, Ratich and Pospisil remaining in Paris to receive secret orders. Both Ratich and Pospisil insisted these orders never reached them in Paris.

Italy Seizes Suspect.

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—Egon Schimmer, a Czechoslovak citizen, was held by police tonight on suspicion of having been connected with the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia. His passport revealed that he had been in Paris and Marseilles frequently between Oct. 1 and 10, and had entered Italy on the night of Oct. 10, which was the day after the assassination.

BOY KING RETURNS TO MOURNING CAPITAL



Streets draped in mourning flags greeted King Peter II. yesterday when he arrived in Belgrade, the Jugo-Slavian capital, to await the return of his assassinated father's body, now aboard a destroyer in the Adriatic sea.

A BANANA PEDDLER IS FOUND, BUT HE'S NOT THE ASSASSIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 13.—A man whom police deemed to be an accomplice of the Marseilles assassin of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and who was in the limelight of the world's criminologists the day after the assassination, is in Prague prison today. He had sold bananas without a license to peddle.

When Anton Vavrina was found to be the owner of a passport with a number almost identical with that found on the passport in the pocket of the Marseilles assassin the police of Europe started a search for him. As a former member of the Foreign Legion with a long police record who had sought a job in Jugo-Slavia, he was considered a suspicious character.

Prague police found him in prison without a passport. He had lost it, which seemed even more suspicious. The Prague lost and found department then discovered that the passport had been turned in several weeks ago. Vavrina sighed with relief when he was returned to his cell to serve his term for selling bananas.

Macedonian Leader and His Wife Hide from Police

BEYOGLU, Turkey, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Ivan Mihailoff, Macedonian revolutionist who recently fled from Bulgaria, and his wife, have changed their hiding place in Istanbul and their whereabouts are unknown, Turkish police said today. The couple had been ordered to leave Turkey and it was thought they planned to go to Switzerland.

STRIKING DRIVER BELIEVED TO HAVE TAKEN OWN LIFE

Fear Friend of Stoltzmann Drowned Self.

Fears were expressed last night that Walter Penar, 36 years old, a striking bus driver had drowned himself in the lake. Penar, who lived at the home of Ralph Stoltzmann, 4248 West End avenue, indicted president of Local 1,022 of the Amalgamated union which called a strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company on Aug. 16, has been missing since Tuesday.

WALTER PENAR.

South Park Policeman William Fox found a coat and cap, later identified as Penar's, on the lake front at 47th street. John Penar, 4630 Montana street, a brother of the missing man, asked the police to hunt for him.

Sought for Questioning.

Assistant State's Attorney Crowley said last night that Penar was being sought for questioning.

One of the theories advanced was that Penar may have feared arrest because he was a friend of Stoltzman. The latter, who is charged with complicity in the murder of James Kelly, non-striking driver, is still in jail and failed to obtain his release on bonds yesterday.

Two other union heads indicted in the Kelly murder have not been arrested. They are William Taber, international treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary of the street car men's branch of the union.

Ritchie Praises Loyalty.

Other developments yesterday included a reiteration by the elevated lines workmen, members of the Amalgamated, that they would continue to assist the strikers financially, and issuance of a bulletin by President John A. Ritchie of the bus company, who complimented the loyal drivers for their services. The company, which during the disorders growing out of the strike, paid its workers 50 per cent more than the usual wage rates, has gone back to regular pay scales.

11 Anti-Fascists Get from 3 to 8 Years in Italian Jail

ROME, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Eleven more of the anti-Fascists rounded up in the province of Udine in 1933 were sentenced to prison today by the special tribunal for the defense of the state. Sentences ranged from three to eight years. Including those convicted today prison terms have been imposed on thirty-one persons.

BELGRADE WEEPS AS ITS BOY KING RETURNS HOME

Young Peter Guarded by Thousands of Troops.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Oct. 13.—Square jawed men gulped down the lumps in their throats and red eyed women, clad in mourning, kneeled in the streets today when the 11 year old boy king, Peter II., escorted by his widowed mother and his grandmother, arrived in Belgrade to assume the precarious Balkan patrimony left him prematurely by an assassin's bullets.

All Belgrade was on the streets this morning when the special train brought the little king back from Paris and the city literally was in tears. Women wept freely and men fought back their emotion as the young king and his black veiled mother, Queen Marie, entered an automobile and were hurried away to Cedinje palace. Thousands of troops packed the street in thick lines.

King Salutes Soldiers.

As Peter, wearing long trousers and a gray overcoat, on the arm of which was a black band, emerged from the station his mother patted him lovingly on the arm in a gesture apparently intended to convey to him that he had gone through the ordeal of arrival and was being received as Jugo-Slavia's new monarch with a kingly and proper dignity.

Their big motor car sped through the long lines of serious looking soldiers—probably Europe's most terrible fighters—with the young ruler holding his frail right arm smartly at salute.

His tousled yellow hair fell loosely over his young head and he and his mother, queenly dignified in her grief, made a picture which might well stir Belgrade's population. Queen Marie's sorrow seems to add a deathlike grace to her polished beauty and she appeared to touch the hearts of this rugged race of peasants and soldiers.

King Met by Regents.

When the train bringing King Peter reached Belgrade at 9 a. m., Prince Paul, cousin of the murdered King Alexander, and the other two regents who will help rule the country until Peter reaches his majority, were on the station platform with many members of the government and diplomatic corps. Also there was Princess Olga, Paul's wife and sister of Princes Marina of Greece, who recently became engaged to Prince George of England.

Masses of troops were lined up at the station and densely packed on the square in double lines. Police lines held back enormous masses of people. No one could get within a block of the route over which the king was to pass. There was a wide empty space between the soldiers and the police lines which held back the crowd to prevent any repetition of the Marseilles shooting.

Also in the station were all the members of the skupshtina and the senate, wearing black evening clothes, and 100 black clad members of government offices. There were also scores of generals in flame colored uniforms, each wearing at least twenty medals, as is the usual Balkan style.

Kiss Boy King's Hand.

Prince Paul and Princess Olga and former Minister of Education Stankovitch and Gov. Banterovitch of Zagreb, who with Prince Paul are regents, arrived at the station ten minutes before the arrival of the train. As they drove up a military band played the mournful, haunting music of Jugo-Slavia's national anthem, which is a medley of the anthems of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, and every one slowly came to attention.

The first to descend from the train were a group of soldiers and officers. Then came Peter, followed by his grandmother, Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, in deep mourning, and then his mother.

Prince Paul and Princess Olga first kneeled and kissed the boy king's hand and then greeted his mother. As they passed along the station platform the little monarch looked somewhat bewildered and wondering. Then he straightened himself with a manly bearing. As he walked along three bemedaled generals knelt and kissed his hands. Then the young monarch kissed the hands of the orthodox patriarch.

Offered Bread and Salt.

Just after he had been paid homage by Prince Paul the young king was offered bread and salt by the mayor of Belgrade. This is a ritual of hospitality. The young king did not know what he was expected to do with it until Prince Paul whispered to him to taste it.

While he was being ushered out of the station a military band played Jugo-Slavia's national anthem in subdued measure. As he passed through the lines of troops there were mighty shouts from the soldiers of "God save thee," this being a Serbian military formula. The little king responded, though his boyish voice was lost: "God aid you."

Then he was ushered quickly through the streets to the big, dismal palace, looking like a fortress, on the outskirts of Belgrade, where he joined his brothers, Prince Tomislav and Prince Andrey. They are still too young to realize that Peter, who left them six weeks ago to go to school in England, had come back as king, and they do not understand the tears in their mother's eyes.

Prepare to Receive King's Body.

SPLIT, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Jugo-Slav authorities, obsessed with the fear of another assassination, tonight ordered all windows facing the harbor to be tightly shuttered tomorrow when the body of King Alexander arrives from Marseilles on a Jugo-Slav destroyer.

The measure was believed due to information received by police that terrorists might attempt to throw bombs at high French or Jugo-Slav naval officials accompanying the body.

France, not Italy, bears the brunt of indignation aroused in this ancient city over the assassination of the king. Although 40 per cent of the population speaks Italian, the majority of these resenting Italy's alleged ambition to annex Dalmatia, they take the attitude that Italian connection with the assassination plot has not been proved. On the other hand, they say France guaranteed to protect Alexander and failed to do so.

Two Kings to Shun Funeral.

BELGRADE, Oct. 13.—(AP)—King Carol of Rumania and King Boris of Bulgaria, whose countries have been invaded by fear of a recurrence of the Marseilles assassination, decided today not to come to Belgrade for the funeral of King Alexander. They feared they might be risking their own lives in the prevailing terrorist atmosphere.

King Boris is sending in his place Foreign Minister Kosta Batolov and Minister of War Petko Zlateff, while King Carol is delegating Premier George Tatarescu and Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu to act for him.

Word from Paris, however, said President Albert Lebrun insisted upon taking the same risk that brought Alexander his death. Dispatches said Lebrun had told the French cabinet he would head the French delegation honoring the king at the Belgrade funeral.

In tribute to the king's war career, the chiefs of France's military service will join the president. Marshal Henri Petain, minister of war, will accompany Lebrun, and Gen. Victor Denain, minister of air, will fly to Belgrade at the head of a French air squadron. Francois Pietri, minister of the navy, already is aboard a ship in the fleet escorting the king's body to Split.

SLAIN JUGO-SLAV KING TO BE HONORED HERE AT CHURCH SERVICES

Memorial services for Jugo-Slavia's assassinated king, Alexander I., to be attended by the consular corps and governmental dignitaries, will be held at the Serbian Greek Orthodox church, 1905 Fowler street, next Thursday morning at the same time the king is buried near Belgrade. In the evening there will be services at the church of the same denomination at 9805 Commercial avenue.

It was also announced by the King Alexander memorial committee that services will be held the following morning in St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church at Cermak road and Lincoln street. Russian Greek Orthodox Catholic church authorities said that services would be held in the Holy Trinity cathedral at 1121 North Leavitt street tonight at 8 o'clock. The king attended a military school in Russia, where he was a communicant of this church.

Special masses will be celebrated in the Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic churches on Dec. 17, the day following the king's birthday. At that time there will be memorial services in the University of Chicago chapel.

Memorial services for Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, assassinated with the king, will be held in the Notre Dame church, 1335 Harrison street, at 11 a. m. Wednesday, according to announcement yesterday by Rene Weiller, French consul. French war veterans and members of other patriotic bodies are expected to attend. The two leaders were slain Tuesday at Marseilles, France.

FIRST TROOPS ARE MOVED IN EUROPEAN CRISIS

Switzerland Orders Army to Frontier Duty.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Following the procedure adopted in 1914 after the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Sarajevo, the Swiss army command has secretly ordered reinforcement of the border defense units and the occupation of strategic points vulnerable to surprise attacks. This was learned from a reliable diplomatic source here today.

Switzerland thus becomes the first European country to set its military machine in motion following the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia last Tuesday. Athough the move has no warike significance and is not caculated in itself to aggravate the European crisis, it is considered here as an ominous symptom. The Swiss are jealously attached to their neutrality and nervous about their frontiers, and it is felt that they would not take definite measures for protection unless they feared immediate dangers.

Fear Move by Germany.

Ever since the disclosure last winter of an alleged German plan to strike at Lyons by a surprise march through northwestern Switzerland, the Swiss government has been busy erecting frontier defenses and equipping the republic's army of 400,000 short term conscripts with planes, machine guns, and modern artillery.

Now the military authorities have considered it advisable to move troops at once, and especially artillery units, into wartime positions where they can be mobilized instantaneously to block all potential paths of invasion.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that precautionary measures have been ordered on all Switzerland's four frontiers, but especially along the German frontier.

France Seriously Worried.

Berne is not the only capital where the crisis is considered grave. Thoughtful and well informed Frenchmen are much more perturbed over the situation than is officially admitted. It is realized that this is a slow fuse crisis —as Sarajevo was—and that the fact that nobody lost his head and blew up at the outset is no indication that the storm will blow over.

The seriousness of the situation is considered to lie chiefly in the fact that the disappearance of Alexander—that is, a strong, united Jugo-Slavia—has upset the delicate equilibrium of forces which has maintained a precarious peace in Europe since 1918.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakian foreign minister, who is now in Paris in his joint capacity of "foreign minister" of the little entente and president of the league of nations council, is trying to convince France that it would be advisable to convoke an extraordinary session of the league of nations council to denounce Hungary for harboring and encouraging the terrorist gang which plotted and achieved Alexander's death.

Would Make Hungary Scapegoat.

It is Benes' theory that by making the Hungarians the scapegoats of the crime the Serbs will be able to blow off steam while the big powers can ward off any actual military reprisals against Hungary. The French press is likewise playing up the Hungarian angle very strongly, presumably on the theory that it diverts the Serbs from their traditional Italian enemy, where the real danger is seen to lie.

Many thoughtful observers, however, think a noisy campaign against Hungary is dangerous and fear a catastrophe if it is allowed to continue.

The French are evidently anxious not to become entangled in any row between Serbia and Italy. The semi-official newspaper Temps tonight addressed a thinly veiled warning to Belgrade not to count too much on French support if the Serbs cannot keep themselves in hand.

The foreign ministers of the little entente — Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania—will meet in Belgrade Thursday after King Alexander's funeral to consider what policy to pursue.

JAP ARMY OFFICIALS DEMAND MORE POWER TO RULE MANCHUKUO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 13.—The struggle between civilian and military elements for the control of Manchukuo threatened a cabinet crisis tonight. The dispute came to a head when army officers demanded that the government place gendarmes over the civilian police in a reorganization scheme.

The army threatened to "take what it regards as proper steps if the demand is not heeded." This is interpreted in some quarters as meaning the resignation of Gen. Senjuro Hayashi as minister of war, which would cause the cabinet's downfall.

Acceding to the army's demand would mean legalizing the present military position, which would likely have a bad influence on civilian officials as well as on the relations of Japan and Manchukuo. The army holds, however, that unless it is given control, it cannot maintain peace.

Ambassador Bingham to Get LL. D. from Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, England, Oct. 13.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham will be given an honorary degree of doctor of laws on Oct. 22, on the occasion of the visit here of King George and Queen Mary, who will open the new university library.

ENGINE CONTROL FAILURE BLAMED IN FATAL BLAST

Testimony at an inquest held yesterday in the county building by a jury of engineers and refrigeration experts to determine the cause of an ammonia explosion in the Central Cold Storage company, 350 North Dearborn street, which caused the deaths of two persons and injured a score more Friday morning, indicated that the blast was caused by the failure of a governor on the cooling machine.

LAWRENCE GIBBONS.

Joseph Fornaciari, 2418 West 25th street, an oiler employed in the plant, testified he saw flames issuing from the electric motor and ran to turn off the power. He said the blast followed in a few seconds. Lawrence Gibbons, chief engineer for the company, said he believed that the failure of the governor to check the speed of the flywheel caused it to burst. Parts of the heavy flywheel were hurled through the condenser tank, which freed the explosive gas. The hearing was continued to Oct. 26, when Walter Small, injured engineer, will testify.

200 STATE STREET VETERANS TO HOLD REUNION BANQUET

About 200 men and women of the State Street Veterans' association will attend a dinner at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Palmer house for the organization's second annual reunion, and an evening of singing and reminiscences.

On the program will be a group of old time songs by Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, and several numbers by Hilda Ohlin, Chicago Grand Opera company soprano. Several civic and business leaders of the city have been invited to attend and representatives of 30 State street establishments are expected.

Officers of the association are Henry C. Lytton, chairman; Alexander C. Walker, vice chairman; Lillian Farley, secretary; Charles Hitney, treasurer; William Helmcke, assistant secretary, and C. E. Moore, assistant treasurer. Alphonse Campion, former honorary chairman, who was connected more than 60 years with Marshall Field & Co., died several months ago. Chairman Lytton wired from New York a welcome to be read at the gathering. He will be detained there on business.

FRENCH CABINET SHAKEN UP IN WAKE OF MURDER

PARIS, Oct. 13.—(AP)—France accorded her foreign minister, Louis Barthou, a martyr's burial today, then witnessed the sudden reorganization of the cabinet, so sadly depleted by his assassination and the attendant storm of controversy.

Premier Gaston Doumergue eulogized Barthou in public as a man of peace. Then he retired into a special cabinet meeting to face a ministerial war.

He made Pierre Laval, his minister of colonies, successor to Barthou as minister of foreign affairs. He placed Paul Marchandeau, a former minister of finance, in the chair vacated by Albert Sarraut, who resigned as head of the ministry of interior because of the assassinations at Marseilles. He replaced Laval as colonial minister with Louis Rollin, a former minister of marine.

Justice Minister Quits.

At the close of the cabinet meeting, which had been attended by President Lebrun, Henri Cheron, minister of justice, climaxed the shakeup by turning to Premier Doumergue and tendering his resignation. The premier accepted it, although he had previously remained steadfast against opposition clamor for Cheron's removal as a result of the Stavisky scandal and the closely linked murder of Judge Prince. The premier named Senator Henry Roy as the new minister of justice.

France paid solemn tribute to Barthou, slain last Tuesday, together with King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia just after the latter had arrived on a visit which the foreign minister had counted on to help cement the peace of Europe.

In a brief but impressive funeral address, Premier Doumergue told how Barthou had labored for peace "and died assassinated while welcoming a noble, wise, and chivalrous sovereign, come to France on the same errand."

U. S. Envoy in Procession.

The premier looked tired and haggard as he spoke to the solemn gathering. President Lebrun and the French cabinet, Ambassador Jesse I. Straus of the United States, Sir John Simon of Great Britain, and many leading statesmen of foreign countries marched in the funeral procession.

Barthou's body lay tonight in Pere Lachaise cemetery at the side of his son Max, killed at the age of 18 while fighting with the French army. Leon Barthou, aged brother of the foreign minister, fainted at the cemetery after the burial and was given emergency treatment before going home.

Elaborate precautions were taken at the ceremonies to guard President Lebrun and members of the government. Solid ranks of soldiers stood elbow to elbow along the curb, and six feet from them a solid line of Republican guards. Between the two rows were detectives watching for any sign of the beginning of a disturbance in the crowd at the funeral of the second high French official to be assassinated in the last two and a half years.

Opposes Debt Payment.

In place of Barthou as foreign minister emerged the figure of Laval, former premier of France, who came to the United States in 1931 to discuss the war debts and other international problems with President Hoover.

Laval has consistently opposed making any payment to the United States unless an agreement is reached on settlement of the entire debt. After the chamber of deputies had voted in 1932 to default, Laval, then a senator, declared:

"If there had been only one vote against payment in the senate, that vote would have been mine."

The other new ministers, Marchandeau and Rollin, both are veteran cabinet members, the former having served under Herriot and the latter with André Tardieu. It was thus evident Doumergue was carefully keeping a balance between right and left elements in his government.

Second Convicted in Death of Iowa Man Gets Life

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Hoyt Summers today faced life imprisonment for his part in the "Ride and Bob" slaying of Max Sjoblom, Davenport, Ia., automotive engineer who was shot to death by two bandits on a downtown street three weeks ago. Summers was the second man to be convicted in the case. Robert Riley, who was reported by officers as confessing the killing and implicating Summers, was convicted this week and was sentenced to death. The jury deliberating Summers' fate, returned the verdict convicting him with a recommendation for mercy.

TAKING OVER THE STORES.

The secretary of labor has recently issued a publication which shows more clearly than anything previously has that the purpose of the present national administration is to bring about socialism and nothing short of it. Heretofore the movement to the left had been definite enough but carried on in such a way that the ultimate purpose could be denied when feasible.

The administration apparently now believes that it may come out in the open. It is proposed to replace privately owned retail stores with coöperative associations and clubs. Bulletin 598 of Secretary Perkins' department urges that people secure for themselves the profits which storekeepers have been keeping for themselves all these years. This they are to do through consumer coöperatives. The bulletin also shows in detail how to set them up and manage them. "The distinguishing feature of the coöperative system," the government says in this publication, "is that it exists for the common good. All land, buildings, or goods acquired become the common property of all the members. Every economy in distribution or manufacture and every advance in efficiency made within the society benefits every member of it, instead of going to swell the profits of some one person."

The coöperatives are first to take over the retail stores but eventually wholesaling and manufacturing are also to be embraced. We quote again from the bulletin: "The average workingman who thinks of joining a coöperative thinks only of saving for himself the retailer's small net profit. He does not take due account of the fact that retail coöperative societies unite to form wholesalers, and that these wholesalers go into manufacturing and the production of raw materials, and that the great coöperative movement of the world is moving on to put into the pockets of the consumers that vast fund known as the profits of business." This is not a Socialist party handbook. It is not a piece of promotion literature put out by a man selling shares in a coöperative store. It is a bulletin of the United States department of labor printed by the U. S. government printing office.

The labor department's plan is not new. For a very long time there have been people who believe that the way to general prosperity was through the elimination of the business man and the distribution of "that vast fund known as the profits of business." Experimentation in the elimination of the business man has been going on for a number of years and there is an impartial record of the results. In 1926 the government made a study of consumer coöperation in the United States. It was found that there had been a rapid development of coöperatives between 1916 and 1920. But thereafter the movement had waned. The loss of interest was not due to a disappearance of the desire to participate in profits. It was due to a lack of success of the coöperatives. The government found that between 1920 and 1925 alone 768 coöperatives had discontinued in the United States, largely because of bankruptcy. When the coöperative form of enterprise eliminated the business man it eliminated the successful business management which was the source of profit when there was any. Here are some typical comments from questionnaires turned in by coöperatives which suspended business:

> The coöperative venture went the way of most such ventures and, as far as I know, nobody locally ever thinks about it any more. No more of that stuff for me. It is my fondest hope that the wretched experience will never again be recalled in my memory.
> They had something like 350 stockholders. They thought because they had stock in the store that they owned the works, and would call up and browbeat the help and would not pay their accounts and make claims against the store that were simply outrageous, and would go to the corner grocery rather than buy from their own store, and finally the store got to a place where they owed about $3,300 and I was appointed chairman of the liquidating committee to wind up the affairs. The stockholders lost everything, those that didn't owe the store, but there were a lot of them that owed and we couldn't take it out of them.
> So far as I know this is the only concern in this community engaged in the mercantile business that has ever failed so completely, as for many years this has been a growing community and, as I know from an acquaintance of 35 years, I have never known of a mercantile business failing that had capable management, and as I see it now the only way to get capable management is to have some one who has an interest, preferably a controling interest, to make it good. At one time I was quite interested in coöperative societies and believed in the principle of such societies, which I now certainly do not.

There may be some successful coöperatives which are still in business. But if this form of enterprise proved to be such a failure amidst the prosperity of 1920 and 1925 it is unlikely that it did well in the hard times since 1929. The vast profits of business which the department of labor talks about have not been earned during the last five years. Many of the largest and best managed department stores have lost money almost steadily. In urging the advantages of coöperatives and the profits waiting to be taken, without giving the hazards involved, the government is unfair to the people who might embark in a coöperative enterprise as a result of reading the publication. In the government's own archives it has evidence to show that any coöperative that is started will probably turn out disastrously for those participating in it. In fairness to uninformed people the government should not hold back that information.

Bulletin 598 is a piece of socialistic propaganda which assumes success may be had by a means which generally has resulted in failure. It is important as a publication in that it shows how the Roosevelt administration proposes to extend the New Deal to the retail distribution of merchandise.

SPELLING REFORM.

"At the end of a teaching career of 49 years," writes Prof. Emery Barnes to the London Times, "I am forced once more to ask: Is English education always to begin with a riot of unreason and with insults to young intelligence?"

Prof. Barnes, a distinguished educator and scholar in the faculty of Cambridge university, refers to the spelling of words in the English language. His remarks, of course, apply equally to American education. THE TRIBUNE's modest assault upon the problem we hope has stimulated interest in the subject among our readers and Prof. Barnes' pungent remarks are worth their attention. "Are Samuel Johnson and the Printer's Devil," he asks, "to be allowed forever to teach children to ignore better spellings of earlier times and to avoid phonetics like poison? Why should not eye and ear sometimes agree in writing English?"

Samuel Johnson was fond of "ea," so he spells "death" and "pleasant" and so on, but Dan. Chaucer [a bigger man than Samuel] needs no "a" but leaves us with "deth" and "plesant" and the like. Milton again spells "neer" and "cleer" and "yeer," but Samuel brings his favorite "ea" in again.

The Prayer-book of 1549 [a respectable authority] prints regularly "shal [be]," but now the child is told to use double "l," as tho' the word rimed with "small" and "call."

And what happens to a smart child who spells "hav" and "giv" and "gon"? The words are spelt already, but the young mind must be rebuked until it writes as tho' these three words rimed with "shave" and "arrive" and "bone." Thus our spelling books find a job for an idle "e," but it is a job without any work attached. Again, the nice child who spells "to kno," and stops there, must add a "w," as tho' it rimed with "now" and "cow."

The remedy? A beginning may be made under our own hats [I do it myself]. In our private correspondence we ought to renounce the vilest of our present spellings. Let us write "beleev," not "believe," and "cheef" and "feeld"—and "frend" without the hideous "ie" of modern usage.

The cause is great, says Prof. Barnes. "It is worth a little courage." Besides the sorrows of the child there is another consideration by no means fanciful. The chaos or inconsistency of our spelling is one of the obstacles foreigners meet in learning a language which has better prospects of becoming universal than any other, not excepting experiments like Esperanto and Volapuk. There is a serious effort under way to encourage the general use of our language as a medium of international intercourse and a sensible simplification of spelling would usefully contribute to it.

Editorial of the Day

DIVORCE COURT PROCEEDINGS AND THE PRESS.

[Kingston (Ont.) Whig-Standard.]

We are glad to see that the Toronto Star has at last awakened to the dangerous possibilities of the restrictive legislation proposed by Attorney General Roebuck in connection with the publication of divorce proceedings. After applauding the proposal of Mr. Roebuck, and republishing commendatory extracts from other Ontario papers, the Star now seems to realize that the whole principle of interference with the press on the part of governments is fraught with tremendous danger.

We must confess that we were amazed to see the way in which Mr. Roebuck's proposal to put restrictions upon the press of this province was welcomed by some sections of the press itself. The whole proposal is, in our opinion, one which should be very carefully examined before it receives the approval of the newspapers. At a time when the freedom of the press has become a thing of mockery in some of the foremost countries of the world we in Canada want to guard our heritage with the greatest care. Restrictions on the publication of divorce proceedings may be but the thin edge of the wedge. We are already restrained by law from publishing liquor advertising, yet the people of Ontario, through their government, are in the business, and are complacently reaping millions in profits every year. Now we are to be told what to publish about divorce cases. If we submit to this, what will be the next infringement, proposed by some government or other, on the rights of a free press?

Some newspaper editors may welcome such legislation because, as one paper says, it will solve many problems for the editor. Surely any editor worthy of the name is capable of solving his own problems as to the publication of news. The Whig-Standard has no more desire to force unsavory details before the public than any other paper. It is common knowledge, however, that news of this type is eagerly devoured by the great majority of people, including many of those who profess holy horror at its publication.

As we have pointed out on more than one occasion, daily newspapers cannot possibly be published for children's consumption only. They are published primarily for adult readers. The general public want the news, and they are entitled to it. We believe, however, that self-respecting newspapers can be trusted to keep their columns clean without being restricted by law from publishing certain law court proceedings.

TOO GOOD TO MISS.

At a dog show a lady was negotiating the purchase of a pup, bred from prize parents. "The parents of this dog," said the owner, proudly, "were never beaten, ma'am."

"Dear me," exclaimed the lady, "what well-behaved dogs they must have been; I'll take the pup."

THE CASE AGAINST INFLATION

BY DR. WALTER E. SPAHR.
[Professor of Finance, New York University.]

Outside of war human beings have never succeeded in devising an instrument more destructive of human welfare than currency inflation. It solves no problems, it never has and cannot generate a sound recovery or expansion of business, and it leads only to national impoverishment and disasters. Fiat money issued by a government is a note forged by a government against its people. It is a means of covering up its deficit by stealing from the masses against which the government has already drawn an overdraft which cannot be paid. It is thievery, and it is thievery of the worst sort.

We may avoid sinking to such depths of economic and political disgrace that the government will resort to fiat money. Nevertheless we are progressing rapidly in that direction, and there are not many more steps to be taken before we arrive at that last stage of currency debauchery. Practically all our national bank notes, federal reserve bank notes, and federal reserve notes are issued against government bonds as security—in other words, against the government's promise to pay, against its deficit. Many government bonds have thus been converted into circulating notes—one form of debt used to secure another. And considering the manner and repeated instances in which the government has repudiated its contractual obligations, one surely has some ground for raising queries as to the real value of other contractual obligations entered into by this administration.

With practically all our bank notes convertible into government bonds, with all our paper money inconvertible into a gold standard, with gold certificates counted as reserves in our federal reserve banks, although they cannot be paid out, with the budget seriously unbalanced, with the public debt at the highest point in our history and steadily rising, with no abatement in the administration's spending orgy, with our banks gorged with government bonds, thus counting the government's deficit as assets, with silver certificates being issued against silver with less than half the face value of the certificate, and with our gold being frittered away on a cheap and useless silver we should appreciate the present low and dangerous estate to which our hitherto respectable and respected currency system has fallen and perceive something of the real dangers which lie immediately ahead.

The great mass of people take such matters lightly until they are caught in the deluge for the very simple reason that they do not understand what is taking place. Every person that does understand should do everything in his power to combat these dangerous tendencies. He should talk to his associates, write letters to influential persons, make speeches, write articles, telegraph congressmen, and employ every device of which he is capable to stem the tide toward such a terrible mistake and national disaster.

An entirely different situation prevails when a sound currency is left undisturbed during a depression and a normal or natural business recovery encouraged and aided. After a country has been in a depression for a period of three or three and a half years on the average, existing stocks of goods will have been reduced sufficiently to enable producers, in general, to resume and expand their productive activities, provided they are also permitted to reduce their costs in harmony with prevailing prices. This exhaustion of inventories comes about by virtue of the fact that people must live and continue to purchase in a persistent manner though at a declining rate during the depression. As producers resume operations a demand for raw materials, machinery, and labor is created and a new purchasing power is brought into existence. Employers advance funds to their employés for producing goods which will not reach the market for weeks, months, and even years. The funds advanced to labor and for material are in a large part derived from bank loans and in this manner currency is drawn into existence.

This new purchasing power of labor is spent for goods in stock and not for goods being produced, and, as a consequence, demand relative to the available supply of goods is increased and prices begin to rise. These prices are pulled up because the demand exceeds the supply. And the increased demand is derived from increased employment and wages which, in turn, were derived from the resumption or expansion of activity by producers. This kind of buying by consumers is a confident buying because it is based upon an increased income. It is totally unlike the federal buying which characterizes a period of currency inflation during which people strive in every way possible to protect their incomes and savings from the devastating effects of a depreciating currency. With an increased demand, relative to the existing stock of goods based upon a confident buying, the upward spiral of increased production, increased demand, and rising prices will continue until the goods being produced reach the market in sufficient volume to equal demand. At such a time prices will cease to rise and will straighten out and a state of economic equilibrium will be attained—the most desirable economic condition known to a people. A state of economic equilibrium brings the maximum of prosperity to all classes of people and to a nation. It is the condition which a people should strive to perpetuate by every device known.

We must observe and emphasize in our thinking the fact that when a price level is rising in this normal and natural manner the currency supply is not a cause but a result of business activity. As production increases borrowing increases, and more currency is drawn into circulation. It is for these reasons that orthodox economists have urged the government to permit a sound recovery in business and have opposed currency tinkering and inflation. This is the sum and substance of the fundamental principles involved in the currency issues, recovery programs, and behavior of prices which are agitating the people of this country today. We must not take our eyes off these simple, fundamental issues. The economic principles involved are elemental and clear-cut even though they are, apparently, not clearly understood by the administration or the mass of the people. And it must not be supposed that the principles of economics have been or can be suspended by the New Dealers, or that economic laws will not exact their toll from human beings when violated.

Today our difficult task is to make these simple issues stand out clearly before the people and the government so that the proper road to recovery may be recognized and followed and our nation spared the suffering and distress which will result from the pursuit of paths and means which violate the economic laws of sound recovery.

Let us never forget that a sound recovery and a sound rise in prices are one thing—the desirable thing—and that a rise in prices generated by currency inflation is quite another and is unsound because it leads to disaster. Remembering these things, let us dedicate ourselves to the cause of a sound recovery, a sound currency, and a sound rise in prices, and help lead this country back to that condition of wholesome prosperity and stability for which we are all impatiently waiting.

FLATFOOT, OR FALLEN ARCHES.

WALKING in the open air is the best form of exercise for most people. With many, exercise would take this form were it not for the fact that within a comparatively short distance walking becomes painful.

There are two arches of the human foot—the longitudinal and the transverse. If either is depressed, that is, if the bones do not bear the proper relation to one another, there is not only pain but a poor functioning of the foot with the formation of calluses or corns, or both.

The maintenance of the transverse arch [metatarsal] in normal position is of the highest importance. One can understand the bones of the foot by noting their similarity to the bones of the hand. In the foot there are three sets of bones that correspond to the bones of the fingers from the knuckles to the finger tips. The toes show only two joints, the fingers three. If the fingers were not separated from the knuckles to the ends of the first joints the hand would more closely resemble the foot. The first bones back of the toes form the ball of the foot. They are called the first metatarsals and constitute what is known as the metatarsal arch. The toe bones are the second and third metatarsals.

Now that we are at the top of Anatomy hill, we may understand that if the first metatarsal bones do not hold their normal elevated position—in other words, if on standing these bones are flat on the ground—the arch which they should form has disappeared.

The function of the ball of the foot is to maintain steadiness in walking, to guide the walker, and to relieve the spine and nervous system of jars on the body. If this transverse or metatarsal arch has fallen there is, on walking, an increase in pressure on the ends of the metatarsal bones, causing pain. The pain may be compared to that which is felt in squeezing the knuckles of the hand, rolling the bones one against the other.

Failure of the longitudinal arch brings about the condition commonly known as flatfoot. In such a case it is fairly simple to provide a proper supporting arch and shoes are now built for this purpose. It must be understood, however, that the use of arch supports should not be a continuous process, as supporting the arch does not remedy the weakness. In this type of arch failure it is necessary to tilt the heel inward and thus raise the arch. From then on the problem is one of muscular development. One must practice correct walking out of doors. In one's room walking on the outer edges of the feet may be practiced at intervals.

The treatment of the faulty transverse arch is usually a long procedure. It means proper shoes, a metatarsal pad, and the restoration of the function of the muscles and ligaments that have permitted the arch to fall. The support must fit beneath the foot in such a position that the metatarsal bones themselves will be raised, the ends of the first metatarsals projecting slightly beyond the pad, which should be wide enough to support at least three of the metatarsals.

Exercises are of value, and if persisted in will do much in effecting a permanent cure. An effort must be made to develop the grasping power of the toes. An ordinary Turkish bath towel is placed on the floor; the patient then stands on one edge of the towel and tries to gather the towel under the feet through the use of the toes. Grasping any object with the toes, such as a marble, pencil, or golf ball, is helpful. Massage of the feet with a bland ointment will aid the resilience of the muscles and assist in their development. Walking with the great toes turned inward is an excellent procedure and simulates the pigeontoe gait of the American Indian.

SWELLING OF FACE.

M. T. E. writes: Barring heart and kidney diseases, what would cause regular swelling of the hands and face?

Every morning for several months my hands and face have been swollen, especially around the eyes. I have been told repeatedly there is nothing wrong with my heart, and a recent urinalysis showed no sugar, pus, nor casts. I am 36 years old.

REPLY.

Infection with trichina, commonly called pork worm, could be the cause. This may be determined by a careful blood examination and a study of the history of your case. We recently had an article on trichinosis.

The swelling may be caused by some food upset, or by interference with the return circulation in the arm and shoulder regions, or possibly myxedema.

NO DANGER KNOWN.

F. D. writes: Is there any danger in a person in a weak condition taking care of one who has cancer of the bladder and vomits occasionally?

REPLY.

Not as far as is known.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa.—The Union of South Africa, with less than 2,000,000 white settlers, is now demanding more territory and a larger place in the sun, and, what is more, seems about to get it.

A curious form of local South African imperialism seems to be developing. Dutch or Africander brains are responsible for the new imperialism, which aims to resurrect the dream of old Stephanus Johannes Paulus [Oom Paul] Kruger, one time president of a Transvaal republic, who dreamed of a Dutch commonwealth of nations stretching from the River Zambezi on the north to the Cape of Good Hope on the south.

South West Africa, a former German possession, is the colony this country covets. Since 1919 it has been ruled by the Union of South Africa as a mandate under the league of nations. Since the autumn of 1933, when Nazi agitators plunged its local politics into confusion, it has been slated to become a fifth province of the union, on a par with the Cape of Good Hope, Natal, the Transvaal, and the Orange Free State.

Bechuanaland, Basutoland, and Swaziland are the new territories which face a change of ownership. At present native protectorates, under direct supervision of the British crown, they represent an area 50 per cent as large as that of the present day South African nation. Moreover, they have valuable animal and mineral resources.

Claims to the protectorates have been voiced by South African leaders for some time. Following representations by Gen. Jan Smuts, friend of Woodrow Wilson and King George V., and a categorical demand from Premier J. B. M. Hertzog, there is reason to believe that R. Stuttaford, minister without portfolio in the South African cabinet, brought up the subject again in secret last month in London and thus prepared the way for further discussions in Pretoria. Minor officials from Downing street and the British colonial office comment on the matter less categorically than before. Imperial newspapers have adopted a more conciliatory attitude. Other indications point to the probability of a definite decision within the near future.

South Africa founds its claims on a clause in the federal constitution, or South Africa act of 1909, which says the union has a right to demand incorporation as soon as a formal request for it can be formulated by both houses of the South African parliament. Such request does not now exist in print, but can be drawn up at a moment's notice. With a coalition government in power for 18 months and a fusion one party régime about to come in, there could be no more favorable moment for the achievement of parliamentary unity. This is the fact, interpreted by some as a veiled threat, which Gen. Hertzog conveyed to England last spring.

If Great Britain gives up the protectorates, no formal parliamentary demand will be made. If it does not, a legal summons will quickly be drawn up.

Great Britain bases its reluctance to surrender on the plea that it must protect native [Negro] freedom in the protectorates. This freedom is supposedly threatened by reactionary color legislation in South Africa, legislation which, on annexation, would force down the spiritual and social standard of the natives.

South African leaders retort that the natives prefer bread to freedom. Bechuanaland, for instance, was close to starvation in recent depression times, they say, and the British did nothing to help. The only market for work and exports for local tribesmen was, and is, the Union of South Africa. Stuttaford also told Downing street to reread the South Africa act and find the special native safeguards enunciated therein for the contingency of annexation.

Moreover, it is pointed out, British politicians may be slightly less altruistic than they would have the world believe. The protectorates represent their last political foothold in the southern part of the dark continent. Without them there will be no vantage point from which to survey and at the proper moment check South Africa's movement toward freedom and separation from the empire.

Encouragement for an attitude of resistance doubtless is being extended to the British government from still another quarter—from another African white domain, Southern Rhodesia. As a small, weak neighbor of Bechuanaland and South Africa, Southern Rhodesia logically feels that its turn to disappear may come shortly after that of the protectorates. If the map must be reshuffled, it feels that it is as much entitled to a share of Bechuanaland as South Africa; nay, perhaps more entitled, because its future existence may depend on transit through that territory to a seaport on the Atlantic coast.

And Southern Rhodesia is a pure English colony, without Dutch admixture! That fact was brought home to Downing street by Prime Minister Huggins, who last month felt compelled to make a rapid airplane flight to London.

Basutoland is entirely surrounded by South African territory, Swaziland is so surrounded on three sides, and Bechuanaland on two sides. Swaziland has tin and coal, Basutoland supplies of cheap labor for the Witwatersrand gold mines, Bechuanaland unexploited pastures for land hungry Boer farmers. Disintegrating native tribes that are being crowded out of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State might be brought back to health and contentment on the immense new reserves of Bechuanaland.

LIABILITY FOR DEBTS.

Moline, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if property in my name only could in any way be held responsible or liable for a note signed by my husband as security of payment when the owner is unable to pay. M. A.

Your assets would not be subject to his business debts, but they could be subjected to debts for family expenses.

LEGAL TRANSACTION.

Wayne, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A business deal was made on Sunday by three people. There were no witnesses but the there people involved. One has since died. A note was drawn up and dated back one day. 1. Is this note legal? 2. Could the party who must pay the note be held to it? C. P.

1. Yes.
2. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BOUNDARY LINES.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Thirty-five years ago my family bought a piece of property in Wisconsin, for which they received a clear title. The boundary line on one side of this property was then marked by a fence, which is still standing. The person who owns the land next to us let the fence stand as boundary until two years ago, at which time he stated that a mistake had been made in the boundary and that the real line was about twenty feet farther in our direction, which would run directly through our house. Kindly tell me if this man can legally take from us this strip of land after letting the fence stand as boundary for thirty-five years? C. D.

It seems probable that his right to change the boundary has expired by lapse of time, but various exceptional facts might extend the statutory period. We advise you to discuss the situation with a local attorney.

NOISY RADIOS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Why do so many people play their radios at peak volume? Surely it can't be because of a desire to announce to the world that they own radios, for certainly the ownership of a radio conveys no distinction upon any one. Besides, one who is supposed to know about such things tells me that even half-witted cockroaches know that this practice distorts the tone.

A very nice person said to me: "Don't you think it's largely a matter of thoughtlessness?" "Well," I replied, "let us suppose that you are riding on a train, sharing your seat with another, and you find it impossible to maintain a detached position because the size of your companion is such that you can't occupy the same seat without sitting shoulder to shoulder, hip to hip, thigh to thigh, and knee to knee. Now, let us further suppose that your companion has turned out to be a foot tapper, a finger tapper, a wriggler, a raucous, blatant, open mouthed gum chewer, smells like a careless horse, is full of food and has a cold. Would you call this thoughtlessness?"

No, I'm terribly sorry, but I'm afraid this excuse is not a reasonable one. I'm afraid that in either instance we are in the presence of a villainous kind of bad manners. I don't believe a well mannered person ever bursts into a group of polite people shouting at the top of his voice.

I have often wondered why announcers, broadcasting companies, and radio manufacturers have done nothing to correct this diabolical practice. These gentlemen must know that their future depends upon the abatement of this fiendish habit. Surely they must know, too, that there are already many downright radio haters; that the tribe is increasing; that enough of this sort of thing is too much; and that something must be done about it.

But I must not permit myself to get excited. So I shall only add that it is my sincere belief that a well conducted educational campaign would reduce this nuisance 50 per cent in thirty days.
ROBERT W. DELANEY.

THE EPIC SUCKER LIST.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—This afternoon I received a form announcement asking for a donation to elect Upton Sinclair as governor of California.

Now, I ask you, do they take me for a puddin' head? If California cannot elect its own governor without getting Sunday school collections from other states, then they need a tidal wave out there and not a governor.
INDIGNANT CITIZEN.

Lombard, Ill., Oct. 9.—The Du Page county board of supervisors has called a special election for Oct. 15 for the purpose of voting on a bond issue of $590,000 to build a new courthouse.

These bonds are to be issued for a period of twenty years and are to be redeemed at maturity by the proceeds from a tax levy of 15 cents per hundred dollars valuation on all taxable real estate within the county.

Let us scrutinize the merits of this bond issue. In the first place, the heavy burden of taxes on the average home owner is so staggering that an additional tax levy is out of the question. When we look at the county board's record in creating the forest preserve we can readily see how lavishly the pay roll boys would go about erecting a new courthouse with the receipts from a bond issue. If the present building was sufficient for the county's needs during the boom years, why is it not adequate now during the lean years?

Of all the people we interviewed on the subject no one seems to want the new courthouse except the politicians. They are not satisfied to wait until the November election, but have called a special election at an extra cost to the taxpayers of $4,000. The law reads that the bond issue will carry if it receives a majority of the votes cast at an election. Unless the taxpayers turn out in large numbers the politicians and all their friends will vote in favor of this measure and we will be paying for that courthouse for the next twenty years.
MIKE MCQUADDE.

THE CHANGING CONSTITUTION.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 5.—The original American brain trust which functioned in revolutionary times was composed of three college youngsters, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, and James Madison. Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence at the age of 33, and Hamilton defended it when only 19. Madison was only 36 when he led the fight for ratification of the constitution and Hamilton was only 30 when he and Madison collaborated in producing the immortal letters which comprise the Federalist. The New Deal brain trust is composed of men much more mature, Hugh Johnson being 52, Donald Richberg, 53; Prof. Raymond Moley, 48, and Rexford Tugwell, 43; while George Nelson Peek is a man of 61. Surely these men have a right to an opinion or our universities are in vain.

And the deep fear that our constitution will be torn to tatters does not seem to be well grounded. The Louisiana purchase by Jefferson gave the Federalists of that time a great scare, but the constitution survived. Then the protective tarif of 1824 was unconstitutional in the minds of its opponents, but is universally accepted now. Lincoln "traveled outside the constitution" when he emancipated the slaves, in the opinion of those who were willing to dissolve the Union, but every guaranty in that charter of liberty still stands. It was long commonly held that the President of the United States could not leave United States territory, but two Presidents have done so, and we worried along all right. Our early statesmen held that the regulation of commerce extended only to tidewater with a pinch of salt in it, and congress refused appropriations for internal waterways or other improvements. But that folly has been completely lived down.

Now there are some who thought it quite constitutional to go abroad and kill a million Germans, but think it all unconstitutional to stay at home and save a million Americans. They overlook the important truth that the constitution was made for man, not man for the constitution. To make its guaranties more secure cannot destroy it. Of what avail would it be to save the constitution and destroy the country?
J. ADAM BEDE.

RELIEF IN MENOMINEE.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 6.—I have read with interest the article on Kankakee's relief condition and regret that the author beat me to it.

I expect literally thousands of cities could tell the same story. In our city not one of the gratuitous workers or the one paid secretary [paid by them] is on the staf. Instead, the case workers are untrained. The result is an orgy of giving so that it is almost impossible to hire a man or woman by the day or for odd jobs. It is true our county needed help. The job was too big, financially, but we never wanted the expensive office, the high salaried workers, the utter demoralizing of our dependents, who under the former arrangement planted gardens, picked and canned fruit and vegetables for the winter, and were glad to help themselves as much as possible.

FAIR ATTENDANCE NEAR 14 MILLION; THRONGS IN CITY

Crowds Average 107,000 Daily for Week.

FAIR ATTENDANCE.
Attendance figures for A Century of Progress, 1934, compared with figures for the 1893 and 1933 expositions, follow:

Saturday, Oct. 13, 1934	165,879
Saturday, Oct. 14, 1893	200,891
Saturday, Oct. 14, 1933	279,758
Totals to date:
Oct. 13, 1934	13,983,287
Oct. 14, 1893	17,819,184
Oct. 14, 1933	19,841,018

The 1893 Columbian Exposition opened a month earlier than the 1933 and 1934 Fairs.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The Fair early today will welcome its fourteen millionth visitor, following a huge Saturday attendance which at 11 p. m. had reached 165,879. Not only did yesterday's paid admissions reach a figure topped only by two other Saturdays during the summer, but it climaxed a week of surprising attendance.

The daily average for the week was 107,590, the first week since Sept. 21 to pass the hundred thousand average. As in the last few weeks out of town visitors accounted for a majority of yesterday's crowds. Low rail rates helped swell the attendance, though automobiles brought thousands into Chicago for the week-end.

Two Nations Have Day.

Two major programs, both national in character, will entertain Fair visitors today. They are the presentations of the Albanians and the Czechoslovakian groups.

The arrival of the Albanian minister, Faik Konitza, who will make the principal address today, was one of the major events of yesterday's Fair. Reception of the diplomat was unusual, for it was an occasion when minister met minister. The Albanian diplomat is the first minister from his country to the United States. He was greeted on behalf of the Fair by U. Grant Smith, chief of protocol, who was the first American minister to Albania, serving from 1922 to 1925.

Reception Military Spectacle.

Yesterday's reception was a military spectacle with soldiers, sailors and marines from Camp Roosevelt passing in review. A fifteen gun salute was fired in honor of the official party. Accompanying the Albanian minister were Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, U. S. A.; Prof. Nale Drizari, instructor of Albanian languages at Columbia university; Christ A. Lepon, chairman of the Albanian-American club of Chicago, and others.

The official Albanian program will be held this afternoon in the Court of States. Preceding the ceremonies there will be a parade of Albanians in native custome through the Avenue of Flags.

Another diplomat to be honored at the Fair is Leonard Astrom, minister to the United States from Finland. He will arrive in Chicago at 8:35 a. m. today on the Capitol Limited and will see the Fair unofficially today.

Czechs Celebrate Today.

The Czechoslovakian program will be held in the Court of States, starting at 6:30 p. m. The parade of nationals will form in the Court of Honor at 14th street gate at 6:15 p. m., proceed to the Administration building and through the Avenue of Flags to the states group.

The program will include folk dancing, singing, native music, ending with the crowning of the queen of the day, Miss Emily Krizek, in a colorful pageant. The principal speaker will be Jaroslav Smetanka, consul general in Chicago.

VON GRONAU ARRIVES TO SEE FAIR; PRAISES U. S. PROGRESS IN AIR

Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, the German airman who has led three trans-Atlantic flying expeditions to America [one of them a flight from List, on the Island of Sylt, off Germany, to Chicago, in 1932] arrived in the city yesterday to spend three days at A Century of Progress.

Capt. von Gronau came to Chicago by air from Washington, D. C., where he had been attending the sessions of the International Aeronautic federation meeting. He will leave Tuesday for Miami en route to South America, from where he will fly to Europe as a co-pilot of a German trans-Atlantic mail plane.

"I am amazed at the progress that has been made in commercial aviation in America since my visit here two years ago," said Capt. von Gronau. "The development of night flying should prove especially valuable to America."

World's Fair Notes

A site in front of the General Exhibits building has been selected as the stage where Edmond Zacchini, the human cannonball, will put on his stunt of being shot from a gun twice daily. The first performance will be tomorrow afternoon. Several men have lost their lives in performing this feat.

Twenty-one billiard experts will give exhibitions tomorrow and Tuesday in the French pavilion in the Hall of States. The exhibitions will be from 1 to 5 p. m. and again from 7 to 10 p. m.

The Chicago committee for the Better Housing program will bring two dilapidated houses to the Fair tomorrow to set them up as contrasts to the modern types of houses in the Home Planning area at 28th street in the Fair grounds. On Oct. 24 workmen will show how within less than a day the buildings can be made over into modern dwellings.

"The Burning of a Ship at Sea," which was repeated last night in the fireworks program at the Fair, will be included in every Saturday night display until the close of the Exposition.

An informal buffet luncheon for all foreign consuls and consul generals in Chicago will be held Wednesday in the International Business Machine company's exhibit in the General Exhibits Building.

Prizes for the largest of each species of vegetables and for oddly shaped vegetables are offered by the Fair this, Harvest Home, week at the Exposition. Other prizes will be awarded for the best jack-o'lanterns carved from pumpkins.

During the last two weeks 53,147 public and parochial school students of Chicago accompanied by their teachers, saw the pageant "Wings of a Century." Beginning tomorrow the extra performance at 1 p. m. will be resumed on school days to accommodate high school students who will visit the Fair under the 5c student tour plan.

Wilson & Co. employés, 7,000 strong, will visit the Fair next Friday.

FULLY EDUCATED TEACHERS URGED BY WOMAN DEAN

Preparation that will produce fully educated school teachers is to be desired above the present normal school trend to methodology that turns out expert pedagogues who know only the science of teaching, Miss Virginia Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard college, New York, and one of America's foremost women educators, declared here yesterday.

"I'm in sympathy with the American chemical society position that we are cluttering the mind of the teaching profession with too much methods and mechanics of education," Miss Gildersleeve said. "I think that the society goes too far, but it seems to me that colleges of education should turn their attention to producing 'educated persons' who will instruct our youth, rather than the experts who have lacked full opportunity to study the subjects they are to teach, but have concentrated on how to teach."

Miss Gildersleeve came to Chicago to attend the Barnard day observance at A Century of Progress yesterday as a guest o' the Chicago Barnard club. She was named dean of Barnard college, the women's school associated with Columbia university, in 1911.

GETS YEAR IN BRIDEWELL.

Edward Barron, 20 years old, 1233 Cleaver street, was sentenced yesterday by Municipal Judge Lambert K. Hayes of the Boys' court to a year in the bridewell for larceny. Barron was arrested on Oct. 10 as he was leaving the apartment of Vincent Lukaszewich, 1711 North Whipple street, with $150 and jewels valued at $900.

Amazing Proof of HINES Low Remodeling Costs

NOTE HOW EASILY THESE JOBS CAN BE PAID FOR ON FEDERAL HOUSING TERMS

Mrs. Green receiving $1,000 Prize from Hines representative

How can you improve your home for $100? . . . $200? . . . $1,000? Here is the answer. Look at these remarkable examples of remodeling. They are not fanciful sketches. They are real improvements. And their cost figures cover everything, including labor and all materials.

These improvements are three of the prize winners in the Hines Home Remodeling Contest that anticipated the Federal Remodeling Program by six months. They not only impressively depict the miracles possible with a limited investment, but they also conclusively show what Hines remodeling experience means to the home owner.

Hines sold most of the materials used in these improvements. Hines experts counseled and advised the home owners—showed them how to economize—where to "cut corners." Contractors certified by Hines for skill and integrity also co-operated in saving money for the owners.

Before you decide upon any improvement, consult Hines. Take advantage of their experience. It means a big saving.

OCTOBER RELIEF COST ESTIMATES CUT $1,750,000

But Load Still Exceeds All Past Outlays.

The proposed record breaking Illinois relief burden of $12,178,000 for October has been lightened to the extent of $1,750,000, it was learned yesterday at the Illinois relief headquarters. However, the remaining load to be borne by taxpayers, $10,428,000, still tops all previous monthly expenditures.

The curtailment in spending was revealed after a bulletin was sent to all Cook county relief employés by Administrator Leo M. Lyons asking that they "recommit themselves to a pledge of loyalty to the task undertaken and to lend every possible assistance toward preventing what might become a most serious situation."

Calls Funds Insufficient.

"Because of the upward trend in relief requirements," the bulletin said, "the Federal Emergency Relief administration does not have sufficient available funds to meet the estimated needs."

Subsequently it was learned from Executive Secretary Wilfred S. Reynolds of the relief commission that the reduction had been made from the sum approved at the end of September by the commission members.

"It is true that there were not enough federal funds to meet our original estimated requirements," Mr. Reynolds said. "The reduction was made from the amount we first requested of the federal relief administration. There was no sudden announcement of the cut, however, because we were working constantly toward accord on the matter of federal money with Howard O. Hunter, the district representative of the FERA.

Budget Estimates Cut.

For perhaps the first time a reduction was made from estimated family relief budgets throughout the state of about 3 per cent. This effected a saving of approximately $200,000. Then $725,000 more was taken from the total by a decision not to expand the work relief program, which is declared to be more expensive than direct relief.

Through the revision of case load figures, which unexpectedly showed a slight decrease, approximately $300,000 more was lopped off. Finally, $500,000 was taken from the fund that was to have been used for special activities, such as CWA cleanup work, in future months.

BANDIT GIVES HIS VICTIM CASH TO TAKE GIRL TO FAIR

Michael Siano, 25 years old, of 1116 Vernon Park place, is going to take his girl to the World's Fair today, but only through the sufferance of two kind hearted bandits.

With Miss Helen Szalaj, 21 years old, of 1324 Raleigh court, Michael was seated in his car in Douglas park last night when the bandits appeared, forced the couple into the rear seat, and drove to 25th street and Campbell avenue. There they robbed him of all his money—four dollars.

"Aw, gee," complained Michael, "I was going to take Helen to the Fair tomorrow with that money. Now I haven't a cent and just think how disappointed she'll be."

"O. K., buddy," laughed one of the men, "here's two bucks of it back. That'll take you inside and buy you some peanuts, at least. But you'll have to use the street car—we're taking this automobile."

Which they did.

SHIPS COLLIDE IN CHESAPEAKE; BOTH DAMAGED

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14 [Sunday].—(AP)—A radiogram from the coast guard cutter Apache early today said the steamship W. W. Bruce was likely to ground after ramming the steamship San Vincente in the Chesapeake bay 15 miles below here last night.

The W. W. Bruce's bow was stove in after it struck the San Vincente amidships, ripping a hole to the water line. Its hold apparently filled with water, the San Vincente was listing to starboard, the message said.

Preparations were made to bring the San Vincente here for drydock repairs. It was probable the Bruce would ground at Gibson island, near the scene of the crash.

Although there was a momentary flame as the ships collided, neither reported fire aboard. Neither reported any injuries to the crews.

A. J. M'Vey, Retired School Janitor, Lake Forest, Dies

Arthur J. McVey, 76 years old, 557 North Oakwood avenue, Lake Forest, a native of the suburb, died yesterday at his home. A blacksmith by trade, Mr. McVey was janitor of the Halsey school in Lake Forest for seventeen years until ill health forced his retirement three years ago. He is survived by two sons, Harry and William F., and two daughters, Mrs. Mazie Nolan and Mrs. Francis Paulson. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Mary's church, Lake Forest, with burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

ACCUSED IN SLAYING.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Oct. 13.—(AP)—First degree murder charges were filed today against Charles W. Neal, Colorado ex-convict, accused of beating to death Miss Ida Hanson, 55 year old milliner.

CATHOLIC DIGNITARIES PRAISE WOMEN

TIME FOR SEEING FAIR ART EXHIBIT GROWING SHORT

Public Urged to View Great Paintings.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A plea to the Municipal Art League of Chicago to urge the public to view the $75,000,000 art exhibit of A Century of Progress before it leaves Chicago forever on Nov. 1 was made yesterday by Dudley Crafts Watson of the Art institute at the league's opening fall meeting.

"Only seventeen days of this great exhibit are left, such an exhibit as we in our lifetime will never again view in Chicago," Mr. Watson began. "This summer less than a million persons have visited the exhibit, yet 75 millions live within a day's drive and five millions within a half hour's distance."

Mr. Watson described the exhibit as "more human and beloved" than the first Century of Progress exhibit last year.

Greatest of Great.

"Never have we had such El Grecos and Rembrandts as we have this year, and the most beautiful of the Peruginos ever brought to America. We have made such new discoveries in our American school, as Thomas Eakins and John Singleton Copley. Last year 1,600,000 people rushed into the institute and breathlessly asked for Whistler's 'Mother.' Now they are aware that he had two sweethearts, both excellent paintings."

No profession or business has contributed as much permanent wealth to the world than the field of art, Mr. Watson concluded. Rembrandt alone, he said, gave the world $100,000,000 in absolute property value through his paintings. No great capitalist, he added, has done that.

Plan French Day Oct. 18.

The institute announced the second of its national days to be held before the art exhibit closes. This will be French day, Thursday, Oct. 18, when the French paintings will be on special display in twelve galleries. Many are from Potter Palmer, Ryerson, Birch-Bartlett, and Winterbotham collections. A special reception will be given in honor of Paul M. Jamot, member of the Institute of France and curator of paintings and drawings in the Louvre, Paris, that day in the rotunda of the museum.

Grant Wood, Cedar Rapids, Ia., who has several paintings at the Art institute, arrived in Chicago yesterday on his way from New York to his home. His painting, "Daughters of Revolution," has aroused considerable interest at the art show.

Edmund McCarty, Retired I. C. Master Mechanic, Dies

Edmund J. McCarty, 1428 East 65th street, for thirty-five years master mechanic of the 27th street shops of the Illinois Central railroad until his retirement three years ago, died yesterday at his home. He was 72 years old. McCarty was also the inventor of a patented "frog," a device used to replace derailed cars on their tracks. He is survived by his widow, Joana; a daughter, Ada M., and a son, Harold J. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning from St. Cyril's church.

Samuel Clark, Casualty Firm Official, Dies at Desk

Samuel Clark, 63 years old, 4354 Oakenwald avenue, local manager of the Inter-Ocean Casualty company, was found dead at his desk in the Congress Bank building, 506 South Wabash avenue, yesterday by Charles Hass, a mail carrier. Mr. Clark was believed to be the victim of a heart attack. He is survived by his widow, Adeline.

BURIES HER HUSBAND; HE RETURNS HOME AND SAYS HE NEVER DIED

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The husband Mrs. Anna Ratrosky of Hudson, N. Y., thought she buried several days ago calmly walked into her home tonight and said "Good evening."

The burial was, Mrs. Ratrosky informed police by telephone, just a case of mistaken identity, although the appearance of her husband did startle her momentarily.

Now authorities are in a quandary as to their next move. Originally the dead man was identified from papers in his pockets as Walter Astemak, 56. The body was found Oct. 5 hanging from a gas pipe in the basement of a Manhattan building.

Mrs. Ratrosky came to New York the next day and said it was the body of her husband. She told police he had come to New York two or three years ago looking for work and that she had not heard from him since.

Sorrowfully, she accompanied the body back to Hudson, where it was buried. Then, tonight, the missing husband reappeared.

SLAYS HIS WIFE AND HER MOTHER, THEN KILLS SELF

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Sydney Frostad, 30 years old, a painting contractor, shot and killed his estranged wife and her mother in the latter's home tonight, fled in his car, then killed himself with the same pistol a mile from the death house.

The wife, Clara, 27 years old, a stenographer, was killed instantly. Her widowed mother, Mrs. Frieda Gunderson, 52 years old, with whom she lived at 815 South 23d street, died within a few minutes at the County Emergency hospital.

Neighbors told police that after the shooting Frostad leaped into his automobile and sped away. An alarm was broadcast and he was sought in Milwaukee and surrounding towns.

While this search was in progress Policeman George Luckmann while traveling his beat recognized Frostad's car in front of 2177 South 37th street. Investigating, he found Frostad slumped over the wheel dead, his pistol beside him.

DR. H. E. ALMES, PHYSICIAN HERE 38 YEARS, DEAD

Dr. Herman Earhart Almes, a practicing physician and surgeon in Chicago for the last thirty-eight years, died yesterday at his home, 7430 Prairie avenue, after a brief illness. He was 67 years old. Dr. Almes was born and educated in Pennsylvania, and came to Chicago in 1896.

Dr. Almes is survived by his widow, Mrs. Cora Carnahan Almes. He was a member of the Illinois State and Chicago Medical societies, and was well known in Masonic circles, being a member of the Oriental Consistory and the Medinah Shrine.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. under the auspices of Golden Rule lodge, No. 726, A. F. & A. M., and burial will be at Cedar Park cemetery.

Edward S. Barber, Dentist, Dies After Long Illness

Dr. Edward S. Barber, 56 years old, 2708 Hartzel street, Evanston, a dentist with offices in the Wrigley building, died at his home yesterday following an illness of several months. He is survived by his widow, Mabel, and three children, Vernon, Dorothy, and Frances. Funeral services will be held Tuesday from the chapel, 1732 Wilson avenue.

CATHOLIC WOMEN HEAR PRAISE FOR BENEFIT WORKS

More than 2,200 members of the council of Catholic women in the Chicago archdiocese heard dignitaries of their church praise their accomplishment in the field of charity, welfare, education, and religion yesterday at their fall luncheon in the Palmer house.

The Rev. James C. Curry, director of the council, said that 937 families coming into the Woman's court and the Court of Domestic Relations had been given assistance, 300 children placed in Catholic schools, and many divorces prevented. A home for girls and women was opened at 2501 West Monroe street, which to date has provided 20,736 free meals at a cost of $6,321. This figure also includes the upkeep of the building. Jobs were found for a total of 512 women and girls.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil urged the women to interest themselves in providing continuation schools where girls might be trained in trades or vocations. More homes, he said, should be established for needy women.

Among other speakers were Mayor Kelly and Prof. Helen M. Ganey of De Paul university, who urged the Catholic women to teach their children to practice "the fine art of living as an escape from the new kind of paganism entering intellectual, moral, and spiritual life."

HENRY RHOADES, EX-NAVY OFFICER AND EDITOR, DIES

Chelsea, Mass., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Henry Eckford Rhoades, retired lieutenant commander of the United States navy and a former city editor of the New York Tribune, died at the naval hospital here yesterday at the age of 90. He was taken ill with pneumonia ten days ago.

He knew Abraham Lincoln, attended his first inaugural and received the President's handshake as a soldier in the civil war.

His service in the navy began in 1863, after he had already served in the 5th Connecticut regiment. He made a rescue voyage to the arctic and discovered a coal vein in the frozen north to save his beleaguered vessel, the U. S. S. Juniata.

Burial will be in Arlington National cemetery in Washington.

He served on the Tribune for 20 years prior to his entry into the navy.

WOMAN ROBBER SHOOTS FARMER; BEATS SISTER

Twenty-five dollars was missing from Miller's pockets when neighbors, attracted by sound of shots, found him lying in the back yard with charges from both barrels of a shotgun in his abdomen. Inside the house the sister was found lying unconscious on a bedroom floor.

State police from the nearby Malaga station said Miller gasped: "A Negro woman did it. I never saw her until I turned around and she was standing in the doorway. Then she shot me."

SLEEP DRUG VICTIM IN HOSPITAL.

Miss Betty Royce, 24 years old, found unconscious in her room at the Clayton hotel, 2026 North Clark street, apparently from an overdose of a sleeping potion, yesterday morning was said to be recovering at the county hospital.

POPE OFFICIATES AS NEPHEW TAKES WIFE TOMORROW

Weds Daughter of Rich Senator at Vatican.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 13.—(AP)—No ceremony in the Vatican in many years that was not purely a papal one will compare with the marriage Monday morning of Pope Pius' nephew, Count Franco Ratti, and Signorina Angela Maria Crespi, daughter of millionaire Senator Silvio Crespi of Milan.

Pope Pius himself will perform the ceremony and give the nuptial benediction in the consistorial hall. It is in this hall the cardinals meet with the pope in the consistories that name new cardinals and decide some of the most important questions of the church.

The holy father will also deliver an address to the bridal couple.

Will Dine in Throne Room.

After the ceremony he will preside at a light wedding breakfast in the throne room—one of the very few occasions the pontiff has dined in public.

Many cardinals will attend the ceremony. Hundreds of notables, both of the Vatican and of Italy, have accepted invitations.

This will be the first time a marriage has been performed by the pope in the Vatican in eight years. In 1926 he married his niece Maria Luisa Ratti to Marquis Persichetti-Urolini, now minister plenipotentiary of San Domingo.

The consistorial hall is being placed in readiness for the event. The papal throne of red velvet which occupies one end is being removed and an altar erected there. Benches are being installed for the diplomatic corps and other guests.

Feast Day of Pope's Mother.

The date of Oct. 15 was chosen for the wedding because it coincides with the feast days of the pope's late mother, Signora Teresa Galli Ratti, and of the bride's mother, Signora Teresa Crespi.

Count Franco Ratti is a 40 year old engineer. He is the son of the pope's brother Fermo who died in 1929. He was for some time consulting engineer of the Vatican before being named director of the Vatican City technical service, in place of Commendatore Fabio de Rossi. The latter's resignation was accepted following the collapse of a section of the Vatican library in December, 1931. He was later named president of the central council, which makes him, in effect, the civil head of the papal state. He serves without salary.

The bride's father, Senator Crespi, is one of Italy's wealthiest industrialists.

DR. DANZIGER'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Dr. Fred Danziger, who died Friday at his home, 1727 Bryn Mawr avenue, after a long illness, will take place tomorrow, at 1:30 p. m., at the chapel at 3021 Lawrence avenue. Burial will be in Free Sons' cemetery.

Dr. Danziger, who was 33 years old, was a graduate of the University of Illinois college of medicine in 1929. He is survived by his father, Edward, his mother, Mrs. Eva Danziger, and two sisters, Pearl and Bernice, all of the Bryn Mawr avenue address. Death was caused by a heart ailment.

ROBBERS HANG FUR DEALER BY HIS HEELS, CAUSING HIS DEATH

Denver, Colo., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Tortured for 15 hours by robbers who hung him by his heels in his fur establishment, John Pfeifer, 71, raw fur dealer, died two hours after he was discovered today.

Before he died he gasped to patrolmen that two men held him up at 5:30 o'clock last night.

The bandits, described as youthful and armed with revolvers, had blackjacked the merchant, then wedged him into a trap door so his feet were caught between the floor and the door when it was slammed closed. The door led to the basement and Pfeifer was left suspended in midair.

The only loot of the gunmen was $4.75 they found in Pfeifer's pockets.

SOCIETY CHEERS MRS. M'LAUGHLIN AT POOCH BALL

Irene Castle McLaughlin danced last night at the Pooch ball in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman for the benefit of her dog haven, Orphans of the Storm, at Deerfield. With repeated applause the 600 society folk seated around the dance floor indicated their approval.

"Last year we raised $1,500 for Orphans of the Storm through the Pooch ball," Mrs. McLaughlin explained, after her appearance. "This time we will make it well over $2,000."

Gowned in powder blue chiffon, heavily furred in gray fox, a dress that is an exact reproduction of that in which she made her debut in "Watch Your Step" a number of years ago in New York, Mrs. McLaughlin made a dramatic entrance, shortly after midnight. Then with her partner, Roy Bradley, she danced to the strains of the "Shadow Waltz."

Mrs. McLaughlin's husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, was a member of Mrs. George A. Richardson's party, which also included Mrs. Earle Reynolds, who delayed her departure for California in order to see Mrs. McLaughlin dance. Others who entertained parties at the ball were Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McLaughlin II., Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Behr, Mrs. Howard Linn, the Rush Butlers, and the Edward H. Bennetts.

D. G. ROBERTSON, ATTORNEY IN CITY SINCE 1893, DIES

Attorney David G. Robertson, 70 years old, died yesterday at his home, 911 Reba place, Evanston, of a hemorrhage. Mr. Robertson, who had practiced law in Chicago since 1893, was at one time alderman from the 4th Evanston ward. He was a member of the American, Illinois, and Chicago Bar associations. He is survived by his widow, two sons, and two daughters. Funeral services will be held at the First Congregational church of Evanston at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

CUT 1933 REALTY TAX ASSESSMENT 4% UNDER 1932

Totals $1,839,000,000; Drop Since 1930 Is 47%.

The assessor's office completed yesterday the 1933 real estate assessment and announced that for the purpose of computing the 1933 levy the real property in Cook county is evaluated at $1,839,068,822.

This total is $73,560,315, or nearly 4 per cent less, than the assessment for 1932, which was $1,912,629,137. The assessor explained that the valuation decrease represents simply a continuation of the series of reductions which, since 1930, have aggregated 47 per cent of that year's assessment.

On the basis of an average tax rate of $7 for each $100 of assessed valuation, the 1933 real estate assessment would produce approximately $128,934,816 in tax revenue, if all of the tax bills were collected. On the 1932 valuation, the county treasurer sent out bills totaling $140,578,201, of which $76,456,237 has been collected.

Four Billions in Chicago.

The full value of real property in the county was placed at $4,970,456,270, of which $4,056,140,190 represents the full value of real estate located in the city.

A comparison of the full and assessed real estate values in the city since 1930 follow:

Tax year.	Full value.	Assessed value.
1931	5,670,280,481	2,098,003,781
1933	4,056,140,190	1,500,771,873

Under the law both personal and real estate tax bills must be in the hands of taxpayers at least 30 days before the penalty to date, Jan. 1. Taxing officials promised that every effort would be made to have the tax bills in the mail by Dec. 1.

The task of extending the valuations and fixing the various rates for the 416 taxing bodies in the county has been started by the county clerk.

Officials of local governments some of whose tax rates for 1932 were declared illegal in recent rulings by County Judge Jarecki, have promised to eliminate those rates from their 1933 levies. The city under the leadership of Mayor Kelly already has brought about a saving of $22,619,483 to taxpayers in eliminating tax levies declared illegal by the County court.

Nash Collects $1,300,000.

John O. Rees, director of the committee on public expenditures, has already estimated that $27,000,000 can be saved taxpayers in Cook county if other local taxing bodies follow the city's lead in eliminating doubtful tax levies from their budgets.

County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash reported yesterday that real estate tax collections during the last week were $1,300,931, making a total of $22,324,854 paid in since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda tax receivership law began in April, 1933.

The week's payments of real estate taxes with the total amounts collected and uncollected for four years follow:

Collected last week.	$54,542	$134,141
Total collected....	155,323,613	167,078,194
Uncollected	13,125,428	35,343,332
	1930.	1931.
Collected last week.	$227,921	$290,383
Uncollected	54,754,981	42,693,004

The week's total of 1932 real estate taxes was $593,944, making a total of $76,456,237 paid in on that levy, with $64,121,963 still to be collected.

ACTION TO BLOCK SCHOOL BOARD'S BONDS DISMISSED

A taxpayer's suit to restrain the board of education from issuing $10,000,000 in bonds to redeem outstanding 1928 and 1929 tax anticipation warrants was dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge John Prystalski. Attorney for Jeanne C. Berman, the plaintiff, announced that they would carry the case to the Illinois Supreme court.

Attorneys for the plaintiff contended that the tax warrants are not a general obligation of the board of education and therefore cannot be paid out of taxes. The warrants were issued and sold prior to a general reduction of Cook county assessments, and had been issued up to 75 per cent of the larger prior tax levy. The assessment and ensuing tax levy reduction automatically took from the board any legal obligation to pay warants outstanding above 75 per cent of the reduced levy, it was held.

Ralph W. Conde, attorney for the board of education, declared that while the board may not be legally liable to redeem the outstanding $10,000,000 of warants, it was morally obligated. He declared buyers accepted the warants in good faith and that the original issue was legal.

SALES TAX SUIT ON CITIES' POWER, WATER IS FILED

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The contention of cities and villages that their municipally owned electricity and water plants should not have to pay the state sales tax was taken into Sangamon County Circuit court today when an injunction suit was filed against K. L. Ames Jr., director of the state department of finance.

Affiliated in the suit are 116 municipalities, all owning water plants and 16 of them having power plants.

The injunction petition argued that the municipal plants should not be forced to pay the 2 per cent tax on their gross receipts.

Privately owned utility companies have appealed to the court from a Cook county decision holding that sales of electricity, gas and water come under the tax law.

Farmers Will Find Extra Value in Sugar Beet Tops

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Farmers in beet sugar sections of the drouth area will find an extra value this year in sugar beet tops as live stock roughage. The department of agriculture today estimated there will be 4,500,000 tons of beet tops from the harvest now in progress.

U. S. BUREAU URGES BIRD SANCTUARIES IN MISSISSIPPI VALLEY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The bureau of biological survey, pressing its program of providing sanctuaries for migratory birds, today appealed to land owners in the Mississippi valley to preserve small lakes and ponds as refugees for waterfowl.

J. N. Darling, chief of the bureau, cited the campaign recently inaugurated by the Mississippi state game and fish commission as a model for other states along the river.

Game wardens in Mississippi are explaining to farmers on whose lands are located small lakes and ponds the seriousness of the waterfowl shortage and urging them to make their water areas sanctuaries where migratory birds may rest and feed without danger from hunters.

"Emergency funds and proceeds from duck stamp sales," Darling said, "have provided money whereby we can carry on a restoration of flyways for birds which seasonally cross the United States on the way from Canada to southern points. Many additional refugees, however, will be needed for the full restoration of wild life in this country."

stock, or nearly 100,000 more shares of the stock than the nine partners in the affair had to offer.

On that day, Pennington wrote, the Utility Securities company had bought 4,250 shares in the market, and was "long" a total of 180,829 shares.

Samuel Insull Jr., smiling and talking to the defense attorneys and other defendants despite reports that he had been ill during the night, heard two letters bearing his signature introduced as government evidence.

Use of Insull Signature Approved.

One of these, the second most important of the day, was read by Special Assistant United States Attorney General Forest Harness. It was from "Junior" to C. T. MacNeille, secretary of Corporation Securities, authorizing him to use the elder Samuel Insull's name on circulars provided they had the approval of Waldo F. Tobey and Daniel F. Schuyler, Insull's personal attorneys.

In the letter "Junior" quoted from his father's cable from Europe authorizing the use of his name, and this piece of evidence serves for the government as a link between the senior Insull, who was away, and the alleged mail frauds at that time.

A second letter, also from Samuel Insull Jr., was read to the jury by Mr. Harness. It showed that the younger Insull was not intimately acquainted with the Corporation Securities company's dividend plans, despite the fact he was vice chairman.

The letter said, in part: "I did not realize at the time that the certificates would participate in the dividend, and I am wondering if the public would, unless some reference is made to the fact."

The younger Insull was referring to statements to be made on the circular for Corporation Securities for which he had authorized the use of his father's name.

Bookkeeper Is Second Witness.

While the only other witness of the day, A. P. Arsenault, a bookkeeper for Corporation Securities, was on the stand the government introduced a letter from Martin McDermott, president of the M. Clune company, Indianapolis, asking for information about Corporation Securities. The letter was dated Oct. 26, 1931.

The reply, written by John F. O'Keefe, one of the defendants, stated "with relation to the question as whether or not the assets cover the 'corporation bonds' outstanding, please be advised that there is a substantial margin in the value of the company's assets after deducting all of the company's notes payable, including the serial gold notes."

A letter to which importance was attached by the government was introduced early in the session. It was signed by Samuel Insull Jr., and it was addressed to Utility Securities. It stated that "Junior" was sending over $879,127.25 worth of stock in Commonwealth Edison. Middle West Utilities and Peoples Gas Light and Coke companies to be used as security in making bank loans necessary to cover Corporation Securities stock acquired in the market.

Urges Continuance of Operations.

Insull Jr. listed the stock which had been acquired, 83,000 shares of common stock from the market operations and 49,000 shares of common stock from the original syndicate, and he concluded by saying:

"Please continue these operations as per instructions from time to time, keeping us advised of any changes in the amount."

After Pennington, the last witness, had been excused, the government read minutes of meetings of the board of directors of the Corporation Securities company which disclosed that the company had borrowed $8,500,000 from the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and that the treasurer had been authorized to borrow as much as $15,000,000 if necessary and to give notes for the loans.

Ryan Traction Heir Wins Legal Tilt on Annulment

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Clendenin J. Ryan Jr., heir to the Thomas Fortune Ryan traction fortune who is suing to annul his marriage to Countess Marie Ann von Wurmbrand-Stuppach of Vienna, won two legal technicalities today in his suit and the countersuit of the Viennese beauty for a separation decree. In one, the Appellate court denied the countess' motion to vacate an order of publication leading to the suit, and in the second denied her motion to frame questions for a jury to decide.

Valparaiso, Ind., Bank to Pay 10% to Depositors

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Directors of the Thrift Trust company of this city which went into liquidation last March, today announced a payment of 10 per cent to depositors. It amounts to $40,000.

MONTHLY TOTAL EXCEEDS 1933 BY 215 PER CENT

Biggest Gain Is Shown at Calumet City.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

For the first time since December, 1931, the September suburban construction figures topped the million dollar mark. The total building permits for the month, made public yesterday in the Straus Securities corporation survey of the Chicagoland construction situation, were $1,436,609. This total is more than three times that of the same month last year, $456,383, or a gain of 215 per cent. It is also more than four times that of August, 1934, which was $355,107, an increase of 305 per cent.

In December, 1931, permits amounted to $1,165,000. After that the depression kept the suburban total below the million mark until gradually they slipped below $500,000. The low was touched in March, 1933, at $198,000.

Comparative Figures.

	1934.	1933.
January	$ 450,000	$ 235,000
February	240,000	305,000
March	524,000	198,000
April	530,000	330,000
May	491,000	416,000
June	620,000	435,000
July	435,000	352,000
August	355,000	301,000
September	1,436,000	450,000
Totals	$5,081,000	$3,022,000

Calumet City, of which E. S. O'Brien is building commissioner, was chiefly responsible for the extarordinary gain in September, with permits totaling $696,000. But that community was not alone in making a good showing—Lake Forest reported $204,000, Maywood, $71,000 and Aurora, $62,000.

Mr. O'Brien explained the big total for his city by reporting a $570,000 permit for the new Thornton Fractional Township High school about to be erected at 154th street, near Burnham avenue, replacing one that was burned. He also called attention to a new postoffice to cost $120,000. Mr. O'Brien stated that $170,000 of the cost of the new high school was provided by the federal government, leaving the community to provide $400,000.

Armour Home is Factor.

The large Lake Forest showing of $204,410 was partly the result of a permit for $190,000 issued by William O. Paape, building commissioner, for the residence of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour.

Following are the figures for last month, the same month of 1933 and for August, 1934:

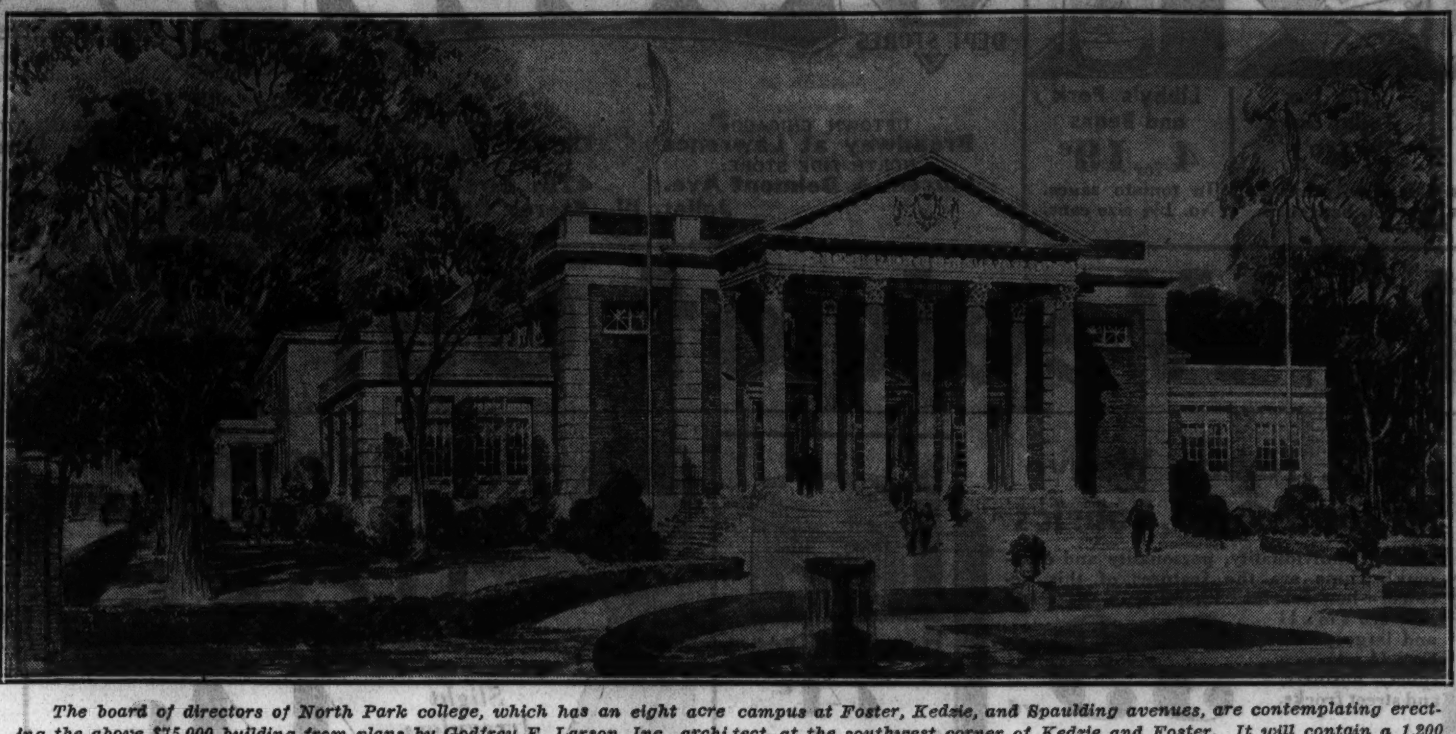
†No report. *None.

According to John A. Benson, building commissioner of Maywood, most of the $71,395 permit total of his town represented the cost of a new 3,000,000 gallon reservoir. Aurora's total of $62,197 included a permit for a new public school, according to F. J. Grommes, building inspector.

A significant feature of the survey is that even with the elimination of the big Calumet City total and Lake Forest's large permit, the grand total for the suburbs still would be $536,000 for September, or 51 per cent over the $355,000 of August and a gain of 18 per cent more than September, 1933.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION TO EXPAND



The board of directors of North Park college, which has an eight acre campus at Foster, Kedzie, and Spaulding avenues, are contemplating erecting the above $75,000 building from plans by Godfrey E. Larson, Inc., architect, at the southwest corner of Kedzie and Foster. It will contain a 1,200 seat auditorium with completely equipped stage, a regulation basketball court and swimming pool, and other athletic facilities, including handball courts. Eleven new classrooms will be provided. The building will be of face brick on all sides, with stone trim and plate glass windows, and will be of fireproof construction. It is hoped to have it completed by next fall. B. C. Greengard made the above perspective.

BEFORE AND AFTER

Wilmette Family Wins $1,000 in Hines Remodeling Contest

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

"Thrilled? I'll say so. I never was so thrilled and excited in my life. I was just starting to play bridge when Mr. Goertz phoned that I had received the first prize — $1,000! I couldn't concentrate on bridge after that!"

MRS. PHILIP T. GREEN.

An excited household it was and no wonder For Mrs. Philip T. Green, 914 Forest avenue, Wilmette, had just been awarded first prize of $1,000 in the Hines Lumber company $2,100 remodeling contest.

The contest began last spring. All summer work was carried on in Chicago and outlying suburbs—modernizing projects of all kinds, including removing old porches, inclosing porches, renovizing basements and attics, bathrooms, and kitchens. Many large remodeling jobs were accomplished, such as structural rejuvenation of homes and apartments, new siding for old, fresh roofs for decaying ones, new foundation and basement walls.

Entries Pour In.

This fall, as the contest neared its close, entries started pouring in, with their accompanying "before and after" pictures of the work done. A jury of awards was selected composed of Percy Wilson of the Federal Housing Administration, Leo Kraemer, manager of the Chicago Lumber institute, and the writer, a member of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE staf.

At the close of the contest a careful study was made of each individual entry and 100 modernizing projects were chosen to receive prizes. There were five major prizes of $1,000 $250, $100, $75, and $50 respectively The remaining prizes were divided Five prizes of $25 each, 20 prizes of $10 each, and 80 prizes of $5 each.

The second prize of $250 went to Mrs. Anna Baird Walsh, 6425 Woodlawn avenue, for the handsome modernization of a parish house basement into recreation rooms for community use; the third prize of $100 to Karl Nelson, 5419 St. Louis avenue; the fourth prize of $75 to Russel Burns, 1350 Elmdale avenue, and the fifth prize of $50 to Arthur D. Walsh, 858 Sunset road, Winnetka.

Tear Out Partitions.

Quoting Mrs. Green as she briefly described the modernizing of her home "You should have seen the house before we started work on it! It was sturdy and stanch and all that but dreadfully old-fashioned. We bought it and moved into it last spring, because we loved the beauty of the site and the surroundings. So as soon as we were in it we went to work to remodel it.

"There was an old front and back parlor, with woodwork that was reddish and sad. We tore out the partition and made one large living room —I've always wanted just such a large living room as this. And we refinished all the woodwork to an ivory tone. By tearing away the old front porch we even made the living room larger than the old two rooms combined; and what added space at its front end also enlarged the master bedroom upstairs.

"We carpeted the floors downstairs, installed French doors throughout, and built sun porches. And, of course, the kitchen—well, it's my pride and joy. I adore a large kitchen. And what we didn't do to the old one! We discarded the old pantry—see, there's the breakfast room in its place. And we had cabinets built in."

New Stairway Built.

She took me upstairs then to the large master bedroom, which was widened when the living room below was extended. A new stairway leads to the second floor. The master bedroom now has a generous supply of windows where the old one had few: also a new bathroom with shower stall.

The exterior of the home was given new cream colored siding and soft shaded green blinds. The walls were fire insulated before the siding was laid. Insulation was applied in the attic also.

"And did that insulation make a difference last summer in keeping the upstairs rooms cool!" Mrs. Green added.

The basement is already in process of modernization. It will have a recreation room—three small children can use plenty of space for their amusement and diversions.

Courage Required.

"It takes courage to buy an old house, picture how it will look when it is transformed, and then plunge ahead," said Mrs. Green. "But it was so fundamentally sound. We used a little imagination and saw easily it could be changed. It cost us a little more than a thousand dollars to remodel it—but to build a roomy, new, well built home on a lovely site like this—think what that would cost!

"We never could have modernized it and accomplished so much for the money we spent if the men who did the work had not been so willing to use materials on hand whenever it was possible. They re-cut and re-fitted materials wherever it was possible.

"It certainly takes skill—I never realized it before—to remodel economically and well, and those men certainly had the skill. Now we have the house—and the prize—and are we thrilled over it all."

LOCAL BANKS LEND $42,324 FOR FHA HOME MODERNIZING

Loans totaling $42,324 were made by banks in the Chicago area under the Federal Housing administration modernization plan up to yesterday, according to Carroll H. Sudler, northern Illinois director for FHA.

The District National bank, 1110 West 35th street, reported the largest number of modernization loans since the campaign got under way. Forty-nine homeowners secured a total of $9,443.

Among the banks coöperating with the Chicago committee of FHA, and which have extended assistance to homeowners, are the following: Upper Avenue bank, four loans, totaling $4,700; Terminal National bank, two loans, $1,152; Pullman Trust and Savings bank, one loan, $1,180; Pioneer Trust, four loans, $1,785.

The Northern Trust company has made four loans totaling $4,325; Personal Loan and Savings, seven loans, $3,363; Chicago City, eight loans, $4,303; Continental Illinois, seven loans, $6,710; First National bank, six loans, $3,820. A bank at Milwaukee and Division has made seven loans totaling $1,760.

One large real estate firm reported that remodeling work to be undertaken as a result of the better housing campaign of FHA will aggregate $77,000 on one property and $6,500 on another—to be financed without recourse to the government plan.

Last week's figures showed a 200 per cent increase of loans in the Chicago district over previous weeks and a 70 per cent gain in the amount of money involved, according to Mr. Sudler.

Architects to Discuss U. S. Remodeling Plans

Remodeling, from the professional viewpoint, will be discussed by eight architects at the monthly dinner and meeting of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects next Tuesday evening, Oct. 16, at the Architects' club. The speakers will be E. S. Hall, John Reed Fugard, Richard E. Schmidt, building commissioner; Earl H. Reed Jr., T. J. Ferrenz, Alfred Shaw, Elmer Gylleck, and Victor A. Matteson.

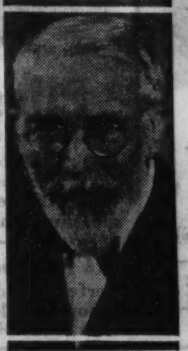
Various phases of remodeling under sponsorship of different federal bodies, such as HOLC, Metropolitan Housing council, FHA, and others, will be discussed by the speakers. The dinner hour has been advanced from 6:30 to 6 p. m.

Floor Covering Firms Rent Merchandise Mart Space

Further impetus to the movement to center the midwestern headquarters of the floor covering industry in the Merchandise Mart was given yesterday when two more leases by leading firms in that field were announced by T. J. Reed, general manager of the Mart, The new lessees are W. & J. Sloane, selling agents, and the Mohawk Carpet Mills, Inc.

North Park College Plans New Building

Steady increase in enrollment in the last few years at North Park college has led to the adoption by the board of trustees of a building program which will have as its first objective the erection of a $75,000 building at the southwest corner Kedzie and Foster avenues. It will contain an auditorium seating 1,200, with regulation theater stage, a swimming pool, basketball court, and provision for other athletics, including handball courts. The new building also will have eleven new classrooms.



THE REV. DAVID NYVALL.

Plans completed by Godfrey E. Larson, architect, call for the use of face brick, with stone trim, on all outside walls, and fireproof construction throughout. According to M. P. Nelson, field secretary, it is expected to have the building ready for occupancy by next fall.

Enrollment Increases.

Last year the college had an enrollment of 1,000, Mr. Nelson said, and this year's student roll is expected to be between 1,200 and 1,500.

North Park college is owned and controled by the Swedish Evangelical Mission Covenant of America. It was founded by the Rev. David Nyvall, who came from Upsala, Sweden, as a private school in Minneapolis in 1891. In 1893 the present main building on the eight acre campus at Kedzie, Foster, and Spaulding avenues was erected and in 1894 the institution was moved from Minneapolis to its new Chicago quarters and renamed "North Park College."

Seven Buildings on Campus.

There are now seven buildings: The main structure, in which most of the classwork is done; the gymnasium and auditorium, the conservatory of music, the men's dormitory, the women's dormitory, the president's residence, and the central heating plant.

The Rev. Algoth Ohlson is president and the Rev. David Nyvall is president emeritus. The latter was active president from 1912 to 1923.

HOLC CASH PAYS $1,171,000 IN PAST DUE TAXES

Delinquent Cook county taxes totaling $1,171,000 were paid by the Home Owners' Loan corporation in the last month, according to Henry G. Zander Jr., state manager for Illinois. In September a payment of $1,071,041 was made to the county collector for general taxes and $100,037 to the county clerk, village collectors, city controler, and the city collector for special assessments.

This represents an average of approximately $290 in deliquent taxes on each of the 4,051 transactions completed by the HOLC during the month. The September figure shows a 7 per cent increase over the more than a million dollar total achieved in August. In all, almost four and a half million dollars of federal funds have been used for paying taxes in Cook county.

Work has started on a two story paper baling plant at 1101-03 South Fairfield avenue, to be occupied by Plotkin & Smith. Edward P. Steinberg of 205 West Wacker drive is architect. The building will be 95x50, of slow burning construction and sprinklered. The cost is reported at approximately $26,000. Krugly & Prochinsky have the contract.

SURVEY SHOWS HIGHER RENTS IN U. S. CITIES

Gain in Family Income Is Indicated.

Reports of increased rentals in many American cities, received by the National Association of Real Estate Boards in a survey just completed through its Institute of Real Estate Management, indicate an improvement in family income or income expectancy, according to Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary. Practically every reply to the questionnaire sent out by the realty organization stated that the outlook for real estate is the most favorable in years.

H. U. NELSON.

An important factor in the situation, Mr. Nelson pointed out, is the rental adjustment going on where property has gone from weak ownership into stronger hands and to more skilled management.

Shows Higher Rents.

"The fall renting season shows residential rents stiffened, not everywhere, but very generally in cities throughout the country," said Mr. Nelson. "The uptrend has brought definit price increases of 5 and 10 per cent, and sometimes, though rarely, higher.

"The rise is not uniform as to types. It has shown itself most strongly for single family dwellings in good condition and for certain apartment types for which the supply is disappearing.

"This news, bad news though it is to the family budget, is good news in the economics of recovery. It lays the foundation without which there can be no revival of the construction industry on any extensive scale.

Earnings Must Rise.

"Except, of course, for individual families or firms for their own needs and use, construction cannot get into swing until we reach the point where earning power for existing buildings is seen to have overtaken costs expected for new buildings, especially, of course, cost of construction."

Among the cities reporting rent increases of varying degrees are Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Syracuse, Newark, Trenton, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Tampa, Lansing, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Kansas City, Mo.; Wichita, Dallas, Los Angeles, Hartford, and Miami, Fla.

Of the above cities, Lansing, with a 25 per cent increase, and Toledo, with a 20 per cent jump, are the leaders in the higher rent movement.

Chicago Rents Up.

Albany and Denver report lower rentals, and Boston and New York realtors state that vacancies are decreasing and rents are being stabilized.

The report on Chicago conditions is based on a recent open forum of renting men held at the Chicago Real Estate board, which disclosed increased rentals ranging from 5 to 10 per cent.

Fred M. Lorish of Swan, Lorish & Caspers, Chicago realtors, had this to say regarding local conditions:

"During the last year vacancies of 1932 were cut in half. Occupancies are now somewhat above normal. Occupancy in the south shore district is between 97 and 98 per cent, and the scarcity of available attractive apartments has resulted in a rental increase averaging 10 per cent in 90 per cent of our Oct. 1 leases. Rent delinquencies have been cut about 35 per cent."

ROTARY RENTS SPACE IN PURE OIL BUILDING

Rotary International, parent organization of Rotary clubs throughout the United States and in seventy foreign countries, has leased the entire ninth and half of the eighth floor of the Pure Oil building, comprising 24,000 square feet, for its international headquarters and general offices, now in the Chicago Times building, 215 West Wacker drive. James H. C. Hill, leasing manager of the Pure Oil building, negotiated the transaction. Rotary will move on Dec. 1.

Rent Space for New Loop Thom McAn Shoe Store

The store at 36 North La Salle street, in the 30 North La Salle building, has been leased by the McCormick estates, through Judson F. Stone, agent, for a term of years for use as a Thom McAn shoe store. When extensive alterations are completed the lessee will open its third loop unit and its sixteenth Chicago store. Warren C. Cahn represented all parties.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of Oct. 5-11, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 30, with a combined cost of $350,498. For the corresponding week last year there were 18 contracts, totaling $307,700. From Jan. 1 to Oct. 11, 1934, the total was $18,979,989, or $3,289,545 ahead of the corresponding period last year, which was $15,690,444.

AMERICA FORE BUILDING LEASE.
The Nashua Gummed & Coated Paper company, of Nashua, N. H., has moved its Chicago offices to the America Fore building, 844 Rush street. Howard L. Storch, manager of the property, represented all parties.

JUDICIAL FIXING OF PRICES FACES 2D COURT TEST

Cleaners Draft Appeal on Set Scale Ruling.

The Appellate court again will be asked to rule on a revolutionary court procedure which permits a judge to restrain service industries by injunction from selling below a minimum price specified by the court itself.

Counsel for twenty-two independent cleaners and dyers, who are ordered to adhere to a minimum price schedule under an injunction issued by Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski which went into effect yesterday will carry the battle to the higher court. The price schedule sets a minimum of 69 cents per garment for cash and carry work and 85 cents for garments called for and delivered. These were the minimum prices agreed on by cleaners to end the lockout in the industry on Sept. 9.

Precedent Set in Laundry Case.

What is generally regarded as a precedent for placing this unusual power in the hands of a judge was set last April 13, when Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, in a similar case, rendered a decision fixing a price of 4½ cents a pound for wet wash laundry.

This ruling was made in an injunction suit brought by members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association to restrain seventeen other members from indulging in "unfair competition" through cut rate prices.

The injunctions in both the laundry and cleaner and dyer cases are in the nature of temporary restraining orders pending a full hearing on the merits of both cases. These hearings, it was indicated, will be conducted by masters in chancery.

At the time Judge Fisher made his ruling attorneys for the laundry minority group announced they would appeal at once from the temporary order to determine the right of a court of equity to regulate price fixing. It was contended that the cut rate owners were operating at a profit and were entitled to determine their own prices.

Upheld by Appellate Court.

However, the Appellate court, during its July term, upheld the temporary injunction issued by Judge Fisher, remanding the case to a trial on its merits. The court's ruling held, for the first time in Illinois, that price fixing in service industries is not a violation of the anti-trust laws. Agreements to fix the price of "any article of merchandise or commodity" would be illegal, the ruling set forth, but this principle does not apply to a service trade.

Attorneys for the cleaners' association cited this precedent and the Appellate court's subsequent approval to Judge Klarkowski. They declared that the injunction was for the public good, that it would serve to eradicate an unfair competitive situation, and would tend to bring order out of chaos in a troubled industry.

Attorney George Lavin, counsel for the minority laundry group affected by Judge Fisher's ruling, who is also representing the cleaners' association in the more recent litigation, declared yesterday that the question of contractual obligation as provided in the bylaws of the laundry association was considered beside the point by Judge Fisher when the latter established his precedent.

Fairness of Competition Held Basis.

Neither, he said, is there a question of a contract or agreement to be adhered to involved in the cleaners' suit. The legal question on which the injunction was based was whether or not unfair competition existed to the detriment of the public and the industry, he declared.

The minimum cleaning prices of 69 and 85 cents under the injunction issued by Judge Klarkowski were based, Lavin said, on a verbal understanding reached at a conference between the cleaners in the Stevens hotel at a meeting called to settle the lockout which had tied up a million garments in cleaning plants. While two of the larger firms refused to abide by the suggested prices, the others agreed, the lawyer declared, for the purpose of ending the lockout although subsequently many have again reduced their prices.

Attorney Irving Breakstone, counsel for the 22 independents among which are included the Abarbanell, Sterling, Michigan, Checker and Peacock firms, contended that the defendants comprise only a small portion of the cleaning and dyeing industry.

Charges Discrimination.

Five thousand small, independent shops are not affected by the Klarkowski injunction, he pointed out, and consequently may continue to set their own prices—making them lower, if they choose, than those forced upon cleaners named in the injunction. The court's action, he contended, is unfair and discriminating in this regard.

Judge Klarkowski's injunction became effective yesterday when Attorney Lavin posted the necessary $1,000 bond. Judge George Fred Rush approved the bond in Judge Klarkowski's absence despite the protest of Attorney Breakstone who had previously taken a change of venue from Judge Rush.

Lawyers have shown keen interest in the outcome of the litigation. The legal aspects, they point out, may mark a new era in the conduct of business.

VISITING RADIO HAMS MAKE MERRY

FOUR BUSINESS LEADERS TO AID IN FUND DRIVE

Chairmen of four more trade groups have been enlisted in the trades and industries division of the 1934 community fund campaign, according to Clarence B. Randall, vice president of Inland Steel company and chairman of the division. They are C. J. Maloney, district sales manager of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., chairman of the electrical group; Samuel L. Haas, president of the Advance Heating company, heating and plumbing group; L. S. Broaddus, manager of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance company, life insurance group; and F. J. Kimbell, president of the Kimbell Candy company, and A. F. Dirksen, secretary of the Chicago Candy association, co-chairmen, confections group.

A meeting of group chairmen is to than 300,000 employed men and women as contributors. This year the community fund is seeking $3,000,000 to aid 130 private welfare organizations.

HUNDRED MILLION ESTATE TO WIDOW OF ROCKEFELLER

Mr. Rockefeller died on Sept. 25 at the age of 56.

By virtue of the bequest Mrs. Rockefeller becomes one of the richest women in the world. No other relative, friend, or charity was mentioned for a bequest of any amount in the will.

Uses Customary Phraseology.

The petition, making use of the customary phraseology, said that the decedant left real estate "exceeding $10,000" in value and estimated his personal belongings as being also in excess of $10,000. Computations, however, show that the estate will amount to, if it does not exceed, 100 million dollars.

The household, personal effects, wearing apparel, jewelry, automobiles, horses, harnesses, and farming implements are left outright to the widow. The residue is left in trust for her with a provision that she is to receive the entire income during her life time. Upon her death the principal is to be apportioned among the Rockefellers' five children, Avery, Mrs. Isabelle Rockefeller Lincoln, Mrs. Winifred Rockefeller Emeny, and the Misses Faith and Gladys Rockefeller.

Names Friend Executor.

John A. Garber, a close personal friend of the testator, and the National City Bank of New York were named as executors and trustees.

Mr. Rockefeller was a nephew of John D. Rockefeller Sr. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. William Rockefeller of New York City.

Married 63 Years, Couple Gets Wire from President

Sturgis, Mich., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lingafelter, long time residents here, celebrated their 63d wedding anniversary. The couple received a congratulatory letter from President Roosevelt.

SUSPECT, 54 YEARS OLD, IS HELD FOR DEATH OF GIRL, 4

Judson W. Byers, 54 years old, 6500 Kimbark avenue, was held at the Woodlawn police station last night in the death of a 4 year old girl he is alleged to have raped. The girl, Marjory Rollins, daughter of Thorald and Thora Rollins, 6244 Greenwood avenue, died last Tuesday at the county hospital. The Rollinses are separated and the mother is on the relief rolls.

Unable to determine the cause of death, physicians asked Coroner Frank J. Walsh to order an autopsy and Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, found the child had been raped. An investigation was immediately launched by First Deputy Coroner Al Brodie, Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad, and Capt. Daniel Lynch of the Woodlawn station.

From Mrs. Rollins they obtained evidence that brought about the arrest of Byers yesterday. Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty joined the other investigaters at the station last night.

RADIO AMATEURS ATTEND HAMFEST ON NORTH SHORE

Come from All Over U. S. with XYL's and Static.

"Hams" from all sections of the country gathered at radio station W9PZ of the Lakeside Radio club on Sheridan road, a mile and a half north of Lake Bluff, for an all day "ham fest" yesterday.

"Hams" are self-styled licensed amateur radio operators, some 46,000 of whom operate throughout the United States, and their "ham fest" yesterday was a W9PZ "homecoming" in celebration of the station's instalation of powerful new phone transmitters.

From all parts of the United States the "hams" came, some with their YL's [amateur radio for "young lady"], some with their XYL's [the same for wife] and a few with their static [children]. One "ham," Louis Falconi, known to his contemporaries of the ether as W5ZA, accompanied by both an XYL and a static, drove continuously for 36 hours from Roswell, N. M., to Chicago in order to be present.

More Than 1,000 Register.

As early as 9 a. m., the rustic estate of Thorne Donnelley, president of the Lakeside Radio club, which has its acres sprinkled almost equally with chickens and antennae, was crowded with guests, and by night more than a thousand had registered all trying to meet in person all the voices they had chatted with over the radio.

The center of attention for all was the radio station itself, said to be one of the most elaborately equipped amateur transmitters in the country, but a continuous flow of entertainment and refreshment also was provided from 8:30 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Present Variety Program.

Other features of the day were a series of technical addresses given over the public address system by radio experts, an exhibition tennis match at noon at the Shoreacres Country club [Charles Garland, William J. Croker, Preston Boyden, and Thane Halsted, players], and an exhibition of golf shots by Chick Evans and Jack Westland during the afternoon.

Among the famous "hams" at the homecoming were Dr. James Hard [X-IG] of Mexico City; "Buck" Taylor [W4LU] of Signal Mountain, Tenn.; J. D. Slaughter and the whistle [W4MU], and his partner Bill "Little Eva" Stuart [W4BDB], both of Cleveland, Tenn.; the Purdue university "gang" [W9YB], and two Puerto Ricans, R. Bartholomew [KHSA] and Fred Marco [K4SA].

FIRE IN LOOP BUILDING.

A small fire, apparently started by a cigaret, caused damage estimated at $10 to a closet on the sixteenth floor of the Kimball Hall building, 306 South Wabash avenue, yesterday.

MICHIGAN AVE. SIGNALS IMPROVE ON 2D DAY TRIAL

Trafic Speeded Under New System.

Michigan avenue's new signal system, between Oak street and Roosevelt road, performed much better yesterday, on its second day of operation. South bound rush hour jams in North Michigan were not nearly as acute nor as prolonged as during the initial performance of the progressive lights on Friday.

THE TRIBUNE roadster, in one of its trial runs, was delayed a few seconds in entering the system south bound at Oak street at 9:12 a. m. but thereafter was able to cover the 2.3 miles to Roosevelt road without being stopped except for a few seconds at Randolph street and at Washington street.

Northbound Trafic Faster.

North bound trafic moved through the day with a marked saving of time as compared with travel under the old simultaneous blinking of the red and green signals. There seemed to be prospects that the engineers will deliver on their promise that the new system will save 65,000 motorists an average of two minutes daily by reducing the number of stops for red lights.

William C. Brandes, city signal engineer, said that adjustments were being made in the timing of the lights at each intersection and that the experimenting will continue for at least another two weeks until the motorists are given a maximum of utility from the boulevard pavement.

Left turns eastward into Monroe street continued to be a bottle neck. The back pressure from this stricture on trafic was noticeable as far north as Michigan avenue, sometimes north of Ohio street. Motorists anxious to reach the outer drive in Grant park blocked themselves as well as through trafic.

Otto Jelinek, south park trafic engineer, announced that painters will go to work Monday morning marking two lanes for the left turn eastward off Michigan into Grant park, one lane going to the left of the safety island and the other to the right of the island. At present, it is quicker to continue south to Jackson boulevard or the Congress street plaza to reach the outer drive.

Red and Green at Once.

The engineers feel confident that the flexibility of the new light system is such that vehicular travel in the boulevard can be made safer as well as faster than ever before. The pedestrian problem is a tougher nut to crack.

To permit a continuous movement of automobiles, it was necessary at fourteen intersections that the green light should show for south bound trafic at the same time as the red light for north bound, and vice versa. This gave the pedestrians the right of way to only half the street at a time, forcing them to pause midway in the crossing on safety islands.

HEAD OF HOSPITAL FOR INSANE SUED AS WOMAN DIES

Suit for $10,000 damages against Dr. Charles F. Read, superintendent of the Elgin state hospital for the insane and Dr. M. Haffron, a ward physician there, was filed in federal court yesterday. Plaintiff was the Trust Company of Chicago, administrators of the estate of Mrs. Marguerite Schubert, an alien German, who the petition alleges died as a result of mistreatment at the hospital during a voluntary stay there in Ortober, 1932. The suit was filed by Attorney Franz Schulze for the trust company.

Mrs. Schubert, who was survived by a husband, Albert W., also an alien, entered the hospital Oct. 5, 1932, on a permit which she obtained from the Du Page County court, seeking treatment for a nervous disorder.

A TOUCHDOWN AND A TACKLE—FIGHTIN' IRISH STYLE

It's over! George Melinkovich, Notre Dame's right half back, crashes the Purdue line for a touchdown in second quarter of yesterday's football battle at South Bend. Melinkovich was one of the stars in the 18-7 victory of the Irish. He ran 64 yards for Notre Dame's first touchdown, and later took Mike Layden's pass for a 34 yard gain to Purdue's three yard line. He then carried the ball across the goal line in two plunges, the second of which is shown in the photograph.

LINDBERG KICKS EXTRA POINTS; PASSES SCORE

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 13.—That bothersome point after touchdown which last year cost Illinois its two most important football games rose up again today to decide the Red Grange homecoming battle between Illinois and Ohio State in Memorial stadium. This time the point was on the Illinois side of the ledger and the Illini walked off the field after 60 minutes of the wildest football seen here in many years with a hard won 14 to 13 victory.

Even then, Illinois had to try twice to score that one point that snatched the victory away from a fast, alert, hard running Buckeye eleven that battled until the final gun, before it finally succumbed.

First Kick Is Wide.

That point that brought victory to Illinois over Ohio State for the first time in five years came in the first quarter after the first touchdown of the game at a time when the apparent superiority of the Illini was being manifested so convincingly that hardly any one thought it would matter in the final result. And Illinois required two chances before it made the point. It was scored by the flying Swede, Les Lindberg of Lockport, who had a second try at the goal posts because Ohio State had been offside when his first place kick went wide.

Capt. Regis Monahan of the Buckeyes, who kicked the point after touchdown that beat Illinois at Columbus last year, 7 to 6, missed his attempt for the point after Ohio State's first touchdown and it cost his eleven the game.

Ohio Rallies in Third.

It was a hard fought, thrilling struggle in which the Buckeyes pitted a great running attack against the shifty, intricate passing offensive of a lighter Illinois eleven. For the entire first half, the Illini line outfought the Scarlet and Gray forwards and kept Ohio State's great running backs in check, but late in the third quarter, trailing by 14 points and apparently badly beaten, the Buckeyes rallied and carried the battle to the Illinois goal, rushing over two touchdowns almost before the Illini realized they were on the retreat.

With only a few minutes remaining, Ohio State had one last chance to snatch the victory from the fire, but again the Illini checked the Buckeyes' running attack and Capt. Monahan's last bid for a place kick from the 40 yard line failed.

Big Gains Through Air.

Illinois attempted 13 forward passes and completed 8. Three were incomplete and two were intercepted by Ohio State, one of these interceptions stopping Illinois' first threat at the Buckeye goal. Ohio State attempted 15 passes and completed 9. Five were incomplete and one was intercepted. Illinois gained a total of 159 yards

Boilermakers Are Beaten by Long Runs

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 13.—A run, a pass and an intercepted pass, three brilliant Notre Dame plays in the second period, gave the Irish an 18 to 7 victory over Purdue this afternoon. Forty-five thousand, the largest crowd to gather in Memorial stadium in three years, saw Notre Dame's first victory under the guidance of Elmer Layden, the full back of the Four Horsemen eleven, a triumph gained at the expense of Layden's team mate, Noble Kizer, who ten years ago blocked for Layden's line smashes and runs.

George Melinkovich, powerful Notre Dame right half back, ran 64 yards for the first touchdown. Two minutes later he caught Mike Layden's pass for a gain of 34 yards and hammered 3 yards through the line for the second touchdown. Then in the closing seconds of the half, Fred Carideo, a substitute for Don Elser at full back, intercepted Duane Purvis' forward pass and raced 75 yards for the third Irish score.

Carter Makes Touchdown.

The Boilermakers drew the consolation touchdown in the fourth quarter when Jim Carter led them 66 yards in a drive against an Irish eleven composed of fourth and fifth team men, and crossed the goal in ten plays. Dan Toriello, Purdue quarter back, place kicked the extra point, the only successful try of the afternoon.

Purdue might have recovered after Melinkovich's touchdown sprint. There still was a possibility Purdue might come back even after Layden's first down pass which caught the Boilermaker secondary unprepared. But when Carideo dashed through more than half of the Purdue players, aided by a quickly formed screen of blockers and finishing with a spurt which carried him in front of three pursuers, the Boilermakers received the coup de grace.

Actually, measured by yards gained the teams were equal. In first downs Purdue held a margin of 11 to 5. But Irish alertness, confidence, and revival of fighting spirit, accounted for the difference in points.

Purdue Lacks Confidence.

Purdue was not confident. Despite a first quarter in which the Boilermakers hemmed Notre Dame far in Irish territory, Purdue lacked the vital spark which was needed to knit its players into a well drilled unit.

Lack of confidence, no doubt, can be traced to the injured Duane Purvis, who played well, but not exceptionally, and more in particular to the fact that he alternated with Jim Carter. Since Purvis could not kick because of his injured ankle, it was necessary to keep Leon Dailey and other punters in the game. Carter cannot punt. Hence Purvis' passing was not backed by the threat of Carter's running. And in this fashion Purdue's offense collapsed.

Purdue held the whip in the first period. Had the Boilermakers capitalized on opportunities the entire trend of the game might have been altered.

Somebody's going to hit the turf pretty soon, and it's going to be Duane Purvis, Purdue back, who is shown here being tackled by a Notre Dame player who means business.

O. K. WITH KING TO LOSE WIFE, BUT HIS DOG—!

"That dog has personality, just like me," the 'King' confided, "I don't mind losing my wife, but when she takes my dog, that's too much."

Unable to find a judge to hear his complaint, the Kingfish, otherwise known as Harris Krakow, departed after announcing that he is not going to contest his wife's divorce suit when it is called tomorrow before Circuit Judge Finnegan.

NORTHWESTERN DEFEATED, 20-0, ON WEST COAST

Palo Alto, Cal., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Northwestern encountered another elusive ball carrier here today in the person of Robert [Bones] Hamilton, who led Stanford to a 20 to 0 victory.

Like Oze Simmons of Iowa, Hamilton ripped through and around the Wildcats for repeated gains. He scored the Cardinal's first two touchdowns in the second quarter and only a staunch goal line defense kept him from another in the final period.

The Wildcats never had a chance against the rugged Stanford eleven which completely bottled up their attack. Even the Purple passes were ineffective. Stanford's alert secondary intercepted most of George Potter's passes, which lacked the accuracy of his tosses in the Marquette and Iowa games.

N. U. Placed on Defense.

With its running attack stopped and its aerial game broken up, the Wildcats were called upon to wage a defensive battle almost from the start. In this phase Capt. Al Kawal stood out. He broke through repeatedly to toss the Cardinal backs for losses and on several occasions he raced far afield to bring down a Stanford ball carrier hard bent for the goal. He was applauded as he left the game in the closing minutes. Bob Swisher Purple safety man who played most of the game, was given a warm tribute as he walked from the field. His handling of punts saved much ground for his team.

Iowa Rallies, But Nebraska Wins, 14 to 13

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 13.—Nebraska's supposedly set-up eleven exploded with the power of a giant cannon cracker and the blast carried Iowa's flashy team to an unexpected defeat before 33,000 today. The score was 14 to 13, making the third one point defeat the Cornhuskers have inflicted on their neighboring state rivals in their last four meetings.

The Hawkeyes, apparently sure of themselves, started slowly. The Cornhuskers also started slowly but for a different reason. They seemed awed by advance reports of their foes' strength. Then, after two listless periods, Nebraska cut loose. A red jerseyed athlete went over the goal for a touchdown. Within a few minutes Iowa countered with a touchdown but missed the kick for the extra point and this was the difference that still stood after one more touchdown had been registered by each side in the final quarter.

Huskers Stop Mr. Crayne.

Iowa's ball carrying strength was centered in Full Back Dick Crayne and Oze Simmons, the Negro boy who made himself famous a week ago against Northwestern. These were the two men on whom the Cornhuskers concentrated their defensive fire. Crayne raked the Nebraska line frequently for short gains but was stopped in many of the pinches. Simmons repeatedly was away on apparently serious threat, but never got so far on his way that he couldn't be brought down before it was too late.

The Hawkeyes, however, went down fighting and made a spectacle of the final quarter. First they bounced back with seven points, which balanced seven Nebraska had scored a few minutes before. Then they opened up with a dazzling display of passing and running. But the runs were never lengthy enough and the passes were continually slipping from the arms of the would-be receivers. With only a few seconds of play remaining, the Cornhuskers intercepted one of these and their one point margin was safe.

Oze Drops the Ball.

The flashy Simmons, feared at the start, and still feared until that Iowa pass was intercepted was guilty of an offense that may have kept the early part of the game scoreless. After a dash through the Cornhusker wall, Oze dropped the ball just as he was being tackled. Nebraska recovered on its 18 yard line and a threatened touchdown was thwarted. If that was an offense, the colored boy compensated for it when in the fourth period he received a pass to put Iowa in position to score its second touchdown.

The first indication that Nebraska might eventually prove itself in unexpected fashion came late in the second period. After being outplayed at every turn the Cornhuskers opened a drive in this period and marched 43 yards through passing by Bauer and plunging by Francis. The Hawkeyes

MAROON BACKS' LONG RUNS, PASS ROUT MICHIGAN

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The University of Chicago's Maroons, starved and bullied these many moons by unsympathetic neighbors in the Big Ten, yesterday roared back into eminence in the football firmament by crushing the University of Michigan's proud Wolverines, 27 to 0, before 25,000 at Stagg field. This was the worst licking a Maroon herd ever gave the Wolverines and one of the worst thumpings the warriors from Ann Arbor ever absorbed on any terrain.

It was something more than an upset. It certainly was a rout. The erstwhile lowly Maroons had everything they slyly hoped they had on offense and they had infinitly more than they thought they possessed on defense, as attested by the fact the Wolverines only once penetrated Chicago territory as deep as the 28 yard line.

Seventh Victory in Series.

It was the seventh victory the Maroons have won from the Wolverines in the 22 games since the series began in 1892, and the third shutout. The most points the Maroons ever ran up on Michigan was 21, in 1897, and that year the Wolverines were able to ring up 12 points.

This sweet victory, won by the long oppressed against a team that for five years prior to this season has won all or a piece of the conference championship and a team which one short year ago was rated the best in the nation, will furnish an indefinite, amusing topic on the University of Chicago campus, for yesterday's affair was the last game of a five year contract. There can be no game next year, nor the following. Thus laurels won by the inspired Maroons yesterday cannot be plucked away until 1937, if then.

The 1934 Maroons are no flash in the pan. They rolled over Michigan yesterday because they knew what they were trying to do and had the talent to do it. They ran and they blocked. They kicked and they returned kicks. Moreover certain brilliant young gents whom we shall soon discuss gave every evidence that they can do their stuff many times for the restored glory of the Midway.

A Mr. Bartlett Appears.

Those patient U. of C. bugs who had been growing paler and paler with each trip to their and other Big Ten football parks knew that one Jay Berwanger would play a great game against the Wolverines. In a mediocre cast last year, a season in which the Maroons scored only one touchdown in conference competition, the Dubuque iron man had shown stellar talents. Berwanger scored two of the Maroons' touchdowns, the first two, yesterday.

But they hadn't heard or thought

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 13.—Pittsburgh Panthers, keyed for the occasion, flawless in execution, vengeful in spirit, stopped Cotton Warburton this afternoon and thereby defeated Southern California, 20 to 6, before 55,000 spectators. This triumph atoned in part for two defeats in Rose bowl contests. It shattered the coast record that Jones coached Trojans never had lost two contests in succession.

When Pitt stopped the elusive Warburton that was the ball game. His teammates were not the aggressive, charging Trojans of old. At times they appeared almost futile against an alert opposing forward wall and secondary, which outcharged in the line, blocked magnificently and showed a finesse lacking in its rivals.

However, when one says Pitt stopped Warburton the statement must be amplified. It stopped his long parades down field, but it could not stop his passing. That passing was directly responsible for Southern California's lone touchdown in the second period after Pitt had counted twice so easily that the affair seemed in danger of becoming a rout. That touchdown encouraged the Trojans to greater efforts and for a few minutes even Pitt partisans had shivers at their revived strength.

Although first downs were equal at nine each, there was no question of Pitt superiority. It combined with an always dangerous overhead attack, a running game in which effective blocking took out opposition. The Trojans, on the other hand, could do almost nothing in their running, being balked at the ends and thwarted in line thrusts. Ball carriers were frequently thrown for losses. Under these conditions, the result was inevitable.

Pitt's first touchdown came shortly before the end of the first period. The opportunity was the result of breaks after passes from California's 22 yard line had failed to score. After a second Pitt pass into the end zone grounded, the Trojans took the oval on their 20 yard line. On second down, Howard's punt was blocked and Munjas recovered for Pitt on the 21 yard line. An overeager Trojan was offside for five yards penalty. Nicksick, behind fine interference, then added ten yards around his right end to the six yard line. Another fatal offside by the Trojans and the ball was on their one yard line. They held for two downs, then Weinstock vaulted in the air for Pitt's first count. Weinstock's attempted placement was wide and the score was 6 to 0.

Southern California then rushed in Warburton, who had not started, but even his presence did not frustate a speedy second touchdown. Weisenbaugh ran back Clemens' punt 30 yards. The same player then passed to Baxter for 14. Weinstock picked up three. Weisenbaugh sifted through left tackle for 22 yards and a touchdown. Weinstock kicked the point. Score, Pittsburgh, 13; Southern California, 0.

Trojans March 80 Yards.

As the second period neared its end the Hollywood favorites gave their only sustained thrill of the day. It was an 80 yard march for their lone counter. Taking the ball on downs at their 20 yard mark. Warburton went nine through the center of the Pitt line. Wotkyns made first down. Warburton hit the line, pivoted and streaked down field until forced out of bounds at Southern California's 48 yard line. On third down thereafter, Warburton passed to Clemens who was downed by Nicksick at Pitt's nine yard line for a net gain of 41 yards. Wotkyns picked up three. Warburton then duplicated his pass to Clemens for a touchdown.

Shotwell blocked Clemens' attempt for the extra point. The half ended after the next play.

Southern California opened the second half with greater strength but its impetus was soon frustrated after a dangerous start in which a pass from Warburton to Fuhrer yielded a net gain of 41 yards. At its 26 yard mark Pitt rallied desperately, stopping the Trojans inches short of a first down. This gallant stand was nullified when Malarkey fumbled and Reboin recovered for Southern California at Pitt's 23 yard mark. On fourth down, Wotkyns' clever lateral to Warburton was worthless because Weinstock anticipated the move and downed Cotton in his tracks, Pitt recovering the ball on downs. It was the Trojans' last serious threat.

Alert Panthers Score Again.

Pitt again took advantage of a break near the end of the third period. Warburton's quick kick was partly blocked and Pitt obtained the ball at Trojan's 35 yard line. On the first play, Randour tossed a long pass to Baxter who received the ball a few yards short of the goal line and stumbled over for the final counter of the game. Weinstock added the extra point.

Southern California tried many passes in the fourth period without avail. The Pitt secondary of five men [which tactics both elevens used all afternoon] was equal to the occasion. The game ended with the ball in Pitt's posession on the Trojans' 16 yard mark.

Here are the statistics:

	Pittsburgh.	So. Cal.
Net yards from scrimmage	159	105
Forward passes attempted	11	12
Forward passed completed	3	5

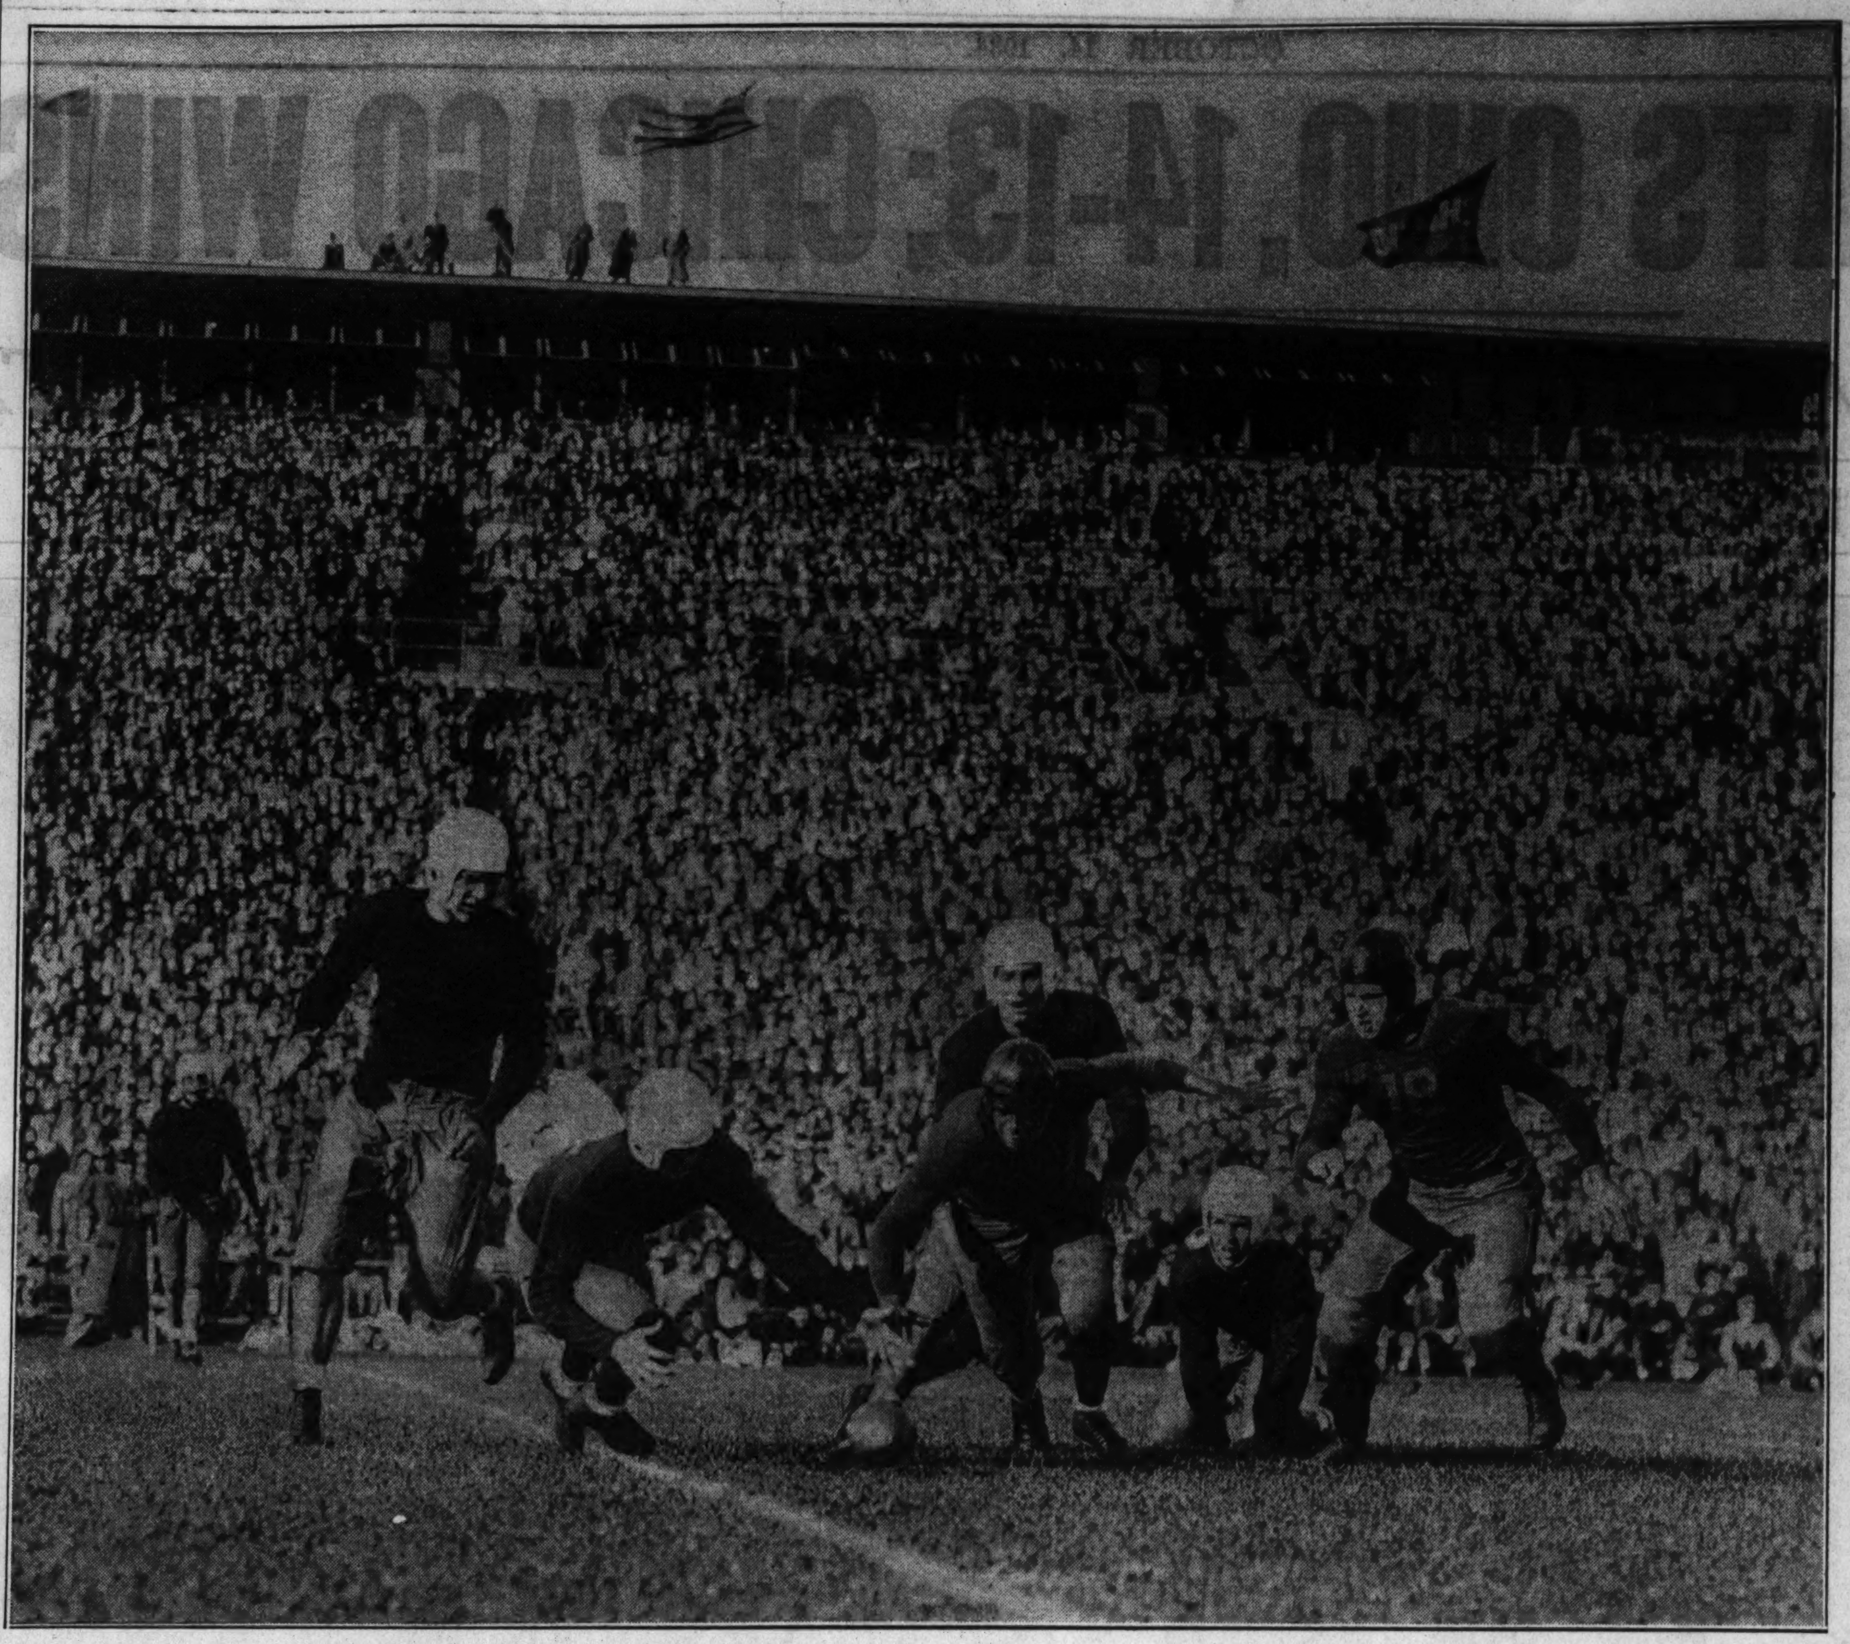
AHA, A FUMBLE! AND A MAROON POUNCES ON BALL



The old gridiron cry of "Ball! Ball!" goes up as Willis Ward of Michigan fumbles a lateral pass from Russ Oliver in the second quarter of game with Chicago at Stagg field yesterday, and an alert Maroon is about to recover before Ward, Negro star of the Wolverines, can get his hands on it. No. 18, on the right, is Russ Fuog, Michigan center. A crowd of 25,000 watched the Maroons whip the Wolverines, 27 to 0.

MISSOURI STILL SUFFERS; IOWA STATE WINS, 13-0

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Tommy Neal, 160 pound Iowa State sophomore quarter back, joined with the veteran full back, Bill Allender, and Frank Hood, end, to hand Missouri a 13 to 0 drubbing in the Big Six conference today before 8,000.

Neal was the motive power of one of the best cyclone attacks in years, scoring one touchdown on a wide end sweep and dashing 38 yards to place the ball in position for Allender's touchdown pass to Hood.

Iowa State came to life in the second quarter after a punting duel between Fred Poole and Allender, on one side and Smoky Joe Angello, had them on fairly even terms through the first period.

Neal Goes 38 Yards.

Neal started it by darting through the line for a 38 yard gain, to the Tiger 35 yard stripe.

Allender went around his right end for four yards, and a few plays later shot a flat pass straight to the goal line, where Hood took it for the first touchdown.

Houston Breaks Up Pass.

Only once were the Cyclones retarded as they marched goalward. That was when Clair Houston, Missouri full back, stepped in to break up a lateral pass play after Hood had taken Allenders' lob at Missouri's 14 yard line. Lineup:

IOWA ETATE [13]		MISSOURI [0]
Hood	L. E.	Powell
Schagroth	L. T.	Saldofsky
Hayes	L. G.	Ream
Brown	C	McMillan

KANSAS WINS, 34-12.

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 13.—(AP)—A slow-starting Kansas eleven finally got under way here this afternoon to roll over St. Benedict's college, 34 to 12. The losers scored first blood and trailed at the half by only a point after touchdown.

The Jayhawkers pushed over two touchdowns in each of the last two quarters.

CARLETON PASS BEATS GRINNELL ELEVEN, 7 TO 0

Grinnell, Ia., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Grinnell made a gallant effort today to break its long losing streak, but Carleton college came through with a 7 to 0 victory to spoil the pioneer homecoming.

Carleton scored in the second period on a pass from Senior to Boisen after a 15 yard penalty apparently had stopped the scoring threat.

Grinnell made its best effort to score in the first period when it reached the 10 yard line only to lose the ball on downs.

With Senior and Petraborg leading the attack, Carleton rolled up 252 yards from scrimmage, while the Pioneers made 136.

Wisconsin Triumphs Over South Dakota State, 28 to 7

Madison, Wis., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Wisconsin came from behind to score twice in each of the second and fourth quarters this afternoon and defeat South Dakota State college, 28 to 7, in the last game before opening the Big Ten campaign next Saturday at Purdue.

South Dakota State threw a scare into Wisconsin ranks in the first four minutes of the game when Belfany shot a beautiful 35 yard pass to Miller, who had slipped through the Badgers' secondary and ran 18 yards for a touchdown. Arndt kicked the extra point to give the Jack Rabbits a 7 to 0 lead before the game was well under way.

Wisconsin started its touchdown march early in the second quarter when Tommy Fontaine shot a 15 yard pass to George Deanovich who raced 10 yards to South Dakota's nine yard line. Fontaine and Full Back Eddie Jankowski carried the ball to the one yard line from where the latter crashed through his own right tackle for a touchdown. Mario Pacetti's reliable toe, which was to add four points for the Badgers in as many tries, booted the extra point.

A profitable air attack resulted in the second Wisconsin touchdown in the same period. Standing on South Dakota's 35 yard line, Fontaine shot a 20 yard pass to Russ Callahan, husky sophomore end, who was hauled down on the nine yard line. Another pass, Fontaine to Stan Haukedahl, who leaped into the air on the goal line to spear the ball in the midst of a horde of South Dakota players, netted the touchdowns.

Both of Wisconsin's touchdowns in the last quarter were scored by George Dehnert, a reserve full back.

INDIANA, 6; TEMPLE, 6

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—A hard fighting University of Indiana football team today held Temple to a 6-6 tie before 18,000 surprised fans at the Owl stadium.

Each team scored a touchdown and each failed to kick the extra point. Indiana scored in the early moments of the second period when Wendell Walker, 190 pound full back, raced 35 yards around Temple's left end for a touchdown.

Temple counted in the third period when Dave Smukler, full back, tossed 12 yards to Don Watts, who caught the ball on Indiana's 47 yard line and sped into the end zone.

A short kick by Frey, which went out of bounds on the Owls' 35 yard line, set the stage for Walker's run. On the first play from scrimmage, the Hoosier came out of formation behind splendid interference to hit at Temple's left tackle. Walker was through the line and in the open before Temple's secondary defense could adjust itself. The lineup:

MICHIGAN STATE WINS

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—Michigan State college scored a 13 to 0 victory over Carnegie Tech today.

Held scoreless during the first half, the Spartans opened a passing, running attack in the third period to net ten points, adding three in the final quarter.

Six of State's points were made on field goals by McCrary and Zebo, while Reynolds counted the touchdown on a double lateral contributed to by Colina and Klewicki. McCrary added the point after touchdown from placement.

State Has Big Edge.

State registered 17 first downs to Tech's five and gained 362 yards, 86 of which were from passes. Tech gained 90 yards, 25 of which were the result of completing two passes out of 11 tried.

Joseph Mihm, Carnegie' blocking back, outkicked both of the state kickers, although Kurt Warmbein placed several out of bounds within the Tech ten yard line. Mihm averaged 42 yards to State's average of 35.

Terebus Is Stopped.

State stopped Tech's best back field threat, Steve Terebus, while the eastern eleven could not bottle up Warmbein or Zebo. The victory broke a deadlock created last year when the teams fought to a scoreless tie. Lineup:

CARNEGIE TECH [0].		MICHIGAN STATE [13].

Dempsey Guarantees Purses to Save Davenport Show

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey saved a fight show here last night. When boxers looked over the small crowd in the Davenport coliseum, they decided there wasn't enough money in the house and refused to go on. Dempsey came to the rescue and assured them their purses and donated his service as referee.

CHICAGO'S LONG RUNS, PASS BEAT MICHIGAN, 27-0

Bartlett and Berwanger Each Score Twice.

so much about one Ned Bartlett, a sophomore. Those who spake tidings of Bartlett's skill usually revealed that his home is in Glendale, Cal., and since Glendale is only five miles from the campus of the University of Southern California, the skeptics naturally wanted to know how he ever got to the Midway if he was as hot as alleged by his boosters.

After yesterday's amazing spectacle there is no need of going into the why and wherefore of Mr. Bartlett's presence in our midst. The young man made a 20 yard pass to Johnny Baker which put the ball on the one yard line at the close of the first quarter. It was the only pass completed by the Maroons and led to the first Berwanger touchdown on the first play of the second quarter.

And He Had Just Started.

That one play would have been enough to give the Californian a swell introduction in his first Big Ten start, but the kid from Glendale had just started. He put on a magnificent demonstration of elusive running to make the third and fourth touchdowns.

But while handing the palm to the two score makers you must, of course, pay the usual tribute to the line and the blocking backs. Any team that beats a Michigan team has to have a strong line. A strong line is something new at Chicago, on the basis of a half dozen years reflection and it is said that the art of blocking and even the term itself had been almost lost to the Midway. We had heard before the game that blocking had become an obsession and the term a household word this year. Yesterday the lads showed the results of this concentration, especially in the course of Berwanger's 43 yard sprint in the third quarter for the second Chicago touchdown.

Berwanger who played more minutes than any Big Ten back last year, was a workhorse yesterday. He carried the ball ten times in the first half, for a gain of only four yards, of which one yard was good for that first touchdown. In the second half he went out for yardage. He carried the ball eleven times for a total of 78 yards. He averaged 3.8 yards on his 21 efforts during the afternoon. He kicked the three extra points after missing the first one and his 18 of the 19 Maroon punts averaged 39 yards despite two very bad foozles.

Tommy Flinn, the Maroons' fiery quarter back, carried the ball only once from scrimmage, but was one of the brightest stars of the game, especially as a field general and a returner of punts, which included one 39 yard sprint.

The first touchdown, the one that would have been enough to win, sprang from a disappointment in which Berwanger was thrown by Ward for a 15 yard loss.

Flinn Gallops 39 Yards.

Toward the close of the first quarter Regeczi punted to Flinn on the latter's 22 yard line. Tommy made the aforesaid 39 yard dash along the side line to Michigan's 39 yard line. Then Ward pitched Berwanger for that 15 yard loss. Berwanger made an incomplete pass, then punted ably, the ball rolling dead on the Michigan five yard line. Regeczi punted out to Flinn who returned eight yards to Michigan's 26 yard line. Ad Schuessler, midget full back, was sent in for Nyquist and Bartlett went in for Berwanger.

Schuessler made four yards off tackle and Bartlett passed to Baker, who took the ball on the one yard line just before stepping out of bounds. There was much cheering by the Chicago portion of the crowd as the players and officials ran back into the field and a touchdown was announced. But it was not a touchdown, just the end of the quarter. As the teams lined up on the opposite end of the field Berwanger was rushed back in and negotiated the needed yard through the center of the line for touchdown No. 1. His attempted point kick went to the right of the goal.

Berwanger Makes His Long Run.

The second touchdown followed an exchange of punts. Berwanger's kick rolled to a stop on the 11 yard line as the second quarter approached the five minute point. Regeczi punted to Flinn, who returned 8 yards to Michigan's 43 yard line. On the first Chicago play Berwanger broke to the right end behind a flock of Maroon interferers blocking superbly, cut forward at the side lines, and raced to the goal line. Berwanger kicked the extra point.

On the fourth play of the fourth quarter, Bartlett, back in for Nyquist, broke through right tackle for a 30 yard gallop to Michigan's 35 yard line. Then, after recovering a bad pass from center, Bartlett ran through a broken field 15 yards to Michigan's 20 yard mark. On a play off left tackle, Bartlett swept through and around four Michigan startled would-be tacklers for a touchdown. Then Berwanger kicked the extra point.

Thereafter Ward returned Berwanger's kickoff to Michigan's 30 yard line. Michigan was penalized five yards for too much time. Oliver's forward pass was intercepted by Perretz of Chicago, who ran to Michigan's 11 yard line. After two Chicago thrusts had failed, Bartlett, after fumbling the pass from center, shook his hips at one Michigan tackler after another to cross the Wolverine goal line. Berwanger kicked the extra point.

Chicago made eleven first downs on running plays to eight for Michigan. Chicago made a first down on its only completed pass and one when the Wolverines drew two successive offside penalties.

North Carolina Triumphs Over Georgia Eleven, 14-0

Athens, Ga., Oct. 13.—(AP)—North Carolina defeated the University of Georgia, 14 to 0, today in an interconference game the Georgians had been favorites to win. The North Carolinians scored in the second and fourth quarters, meantime checking the Bulldogs on several occasions.

Army Runs Over Drake Eleven, 48-0

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The hard charging army football team today buried a heavy Drake eleven, 48 to 0, on Michie stadium field before a crowd of 12,000.

After the cadets had taken over a 13 to 0 lead in the first quarter, reserves got a trial, and before the game was over practically every member of the squad of 39 saw at least one minute of action.

The contest was lopsided with the exception of a few minutes in the fourth quarter when a reserve army team was held for four downs on Drake's three yard line.

Army scored early in the opening quarter when Jack Buckler heaved a short pass to Half Back Ed Grove, who raced 15 yards to the goal and Capt. Joe Stancook place kicked for the extra point. Later Buckler shot another short pass to Ralph King, who galloped 40 yards to score.

Buckler scored twice in the second period, and King, Stancook, and Bill Martz, a reserve back, tallied in the third.

CARDINALS GET CHANCE TODAY TO CONQUER BEARS

But Can They Do It? Ah, Let's Wait and See.

Game on Air

W-G-N will present an exclusive broadcast of the Bears-Cardinals game today from Wrigley field. The broadcast will start at 2 o'clock, fifteen minutes before the kickoff, with Bob Elson at the microphone. W-G-N will broadcast all Bear games this season, both at home and on the road.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The oldest rivalry in professional football will be renewed today when the Bears, champions of the National league, meet the Cardinals at Wrigley field. The game will mark the opening of the professional season in Chicago.

History in the series, which started in 1920, when the Bears were known as the Staleys and were beaten 7 to 6, favors the Bears. They have won 17 of 27 contests from the Cardinals. Five were scoreless ties.

Circumstances, however, give the Cardinals a better chance to stop the Bears' dominance than at any time since 1929, when an aroused Cardinal team fell on a squad of weary Bears and whipped them, 40 to 6. Chief among the factors buoying Cardinal hopes is a defense generally recognized the best in the National league with one possible exception. Detroit has not been scored upon and also is the only team to cross the Cardinal goal line, defeating the Chicagoans, 6 to 0.

Cardinals Are Rested.

The Cardinals, however, will probably find their greatest asset in a schedule quirk that makes today's game the third in eight days for the champions. The Bears met the strong Brooklyn team last Sunday and stopped over at Pittsburgh to beat the Pirates on Wednesday. It was such an arrangement that brought the Bears home to Wrigley field in 1929 to fall before the rested Cardinal eleven by the largest score piled up by one team in the fourteen year old series.

Chicago will get its first glimpse of several new pro league stars in today's game. One of these is Beattie Feathers, who came up from the Tennessee campus last fall and has been leading the Bears on a rampage that has accounted for four victories in their quest for their third consecutive league championship. Feathers is the spark plug of the Bears' attack, which rival coaches have said is the best the league has ever seen.

Old vs. New.

The loose hipped, long striding southerner will be the only new man in the Bears' starting lineup, but the Cardinals will present a front which contains only two of the men who completed the season in the National league last year. A complete rebuilding has been accomplished in the Cardinal camp, sixteen of the twenty-two men on the squad being newcomers to professional football.

This reorganization has not been limited to personnel alone. A new offense, designed by Coach Paul Schissler, has been worked over for three weeks and will be unveiled, it is reported, to the embarrassment of the Bears. Schissler has been extremely secretive about his attack, but he promises it will produce all the sensations and possibilities lacking in last year's Cardinal offense.

Mikulak, Russell Start.

The chief performers in this new system are Mike Mikulak, giant Oregon full back, who starred against the Bears in the all-star game; Doug Russell, a Kansas State half back who ran 102 yards against Cincinnati, and Dave Cook, former Illinois back, who Schissler believes will become one of the hardest hitting backs in the league. These three men, with Greene, the quarter back, will make up the starting back field and are all newcomers to pro football.

Paul Pardonner, former Purdue star, and Homer Griffith of the University of Southern California, will appear in the game, but are being withheld from the opening kickoff because of injuries which are not completely healed.

RICE TRIUMPHS OVER SOUTHERN METHODIST, 9-0

Houston, Tex., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Rice Owls, sensing a chance at their first Southwest conference football championship, cleared the first hurdle at top speed today, blanking Southern Methodist university, 9 to 0.

Bill Wallace dashed 36 yards for the touchdown at the end of the first period after Witt's 60 yard kick had rolled dead on Southern Methodist's 3 yard line to give the Owls the upper hand for the first time in the contest.

Jack Rabbit Smith immediately punted back, but the ball traveled only to the 36 yard line, where Wallace picked it up on the bounce, cut back, and raced across the goal line. McCauley missed the try for extra point.

After the teams came back for the second half Rice pushed to the Dallas team's 17 yard line. Sylvester responded with a place kick.

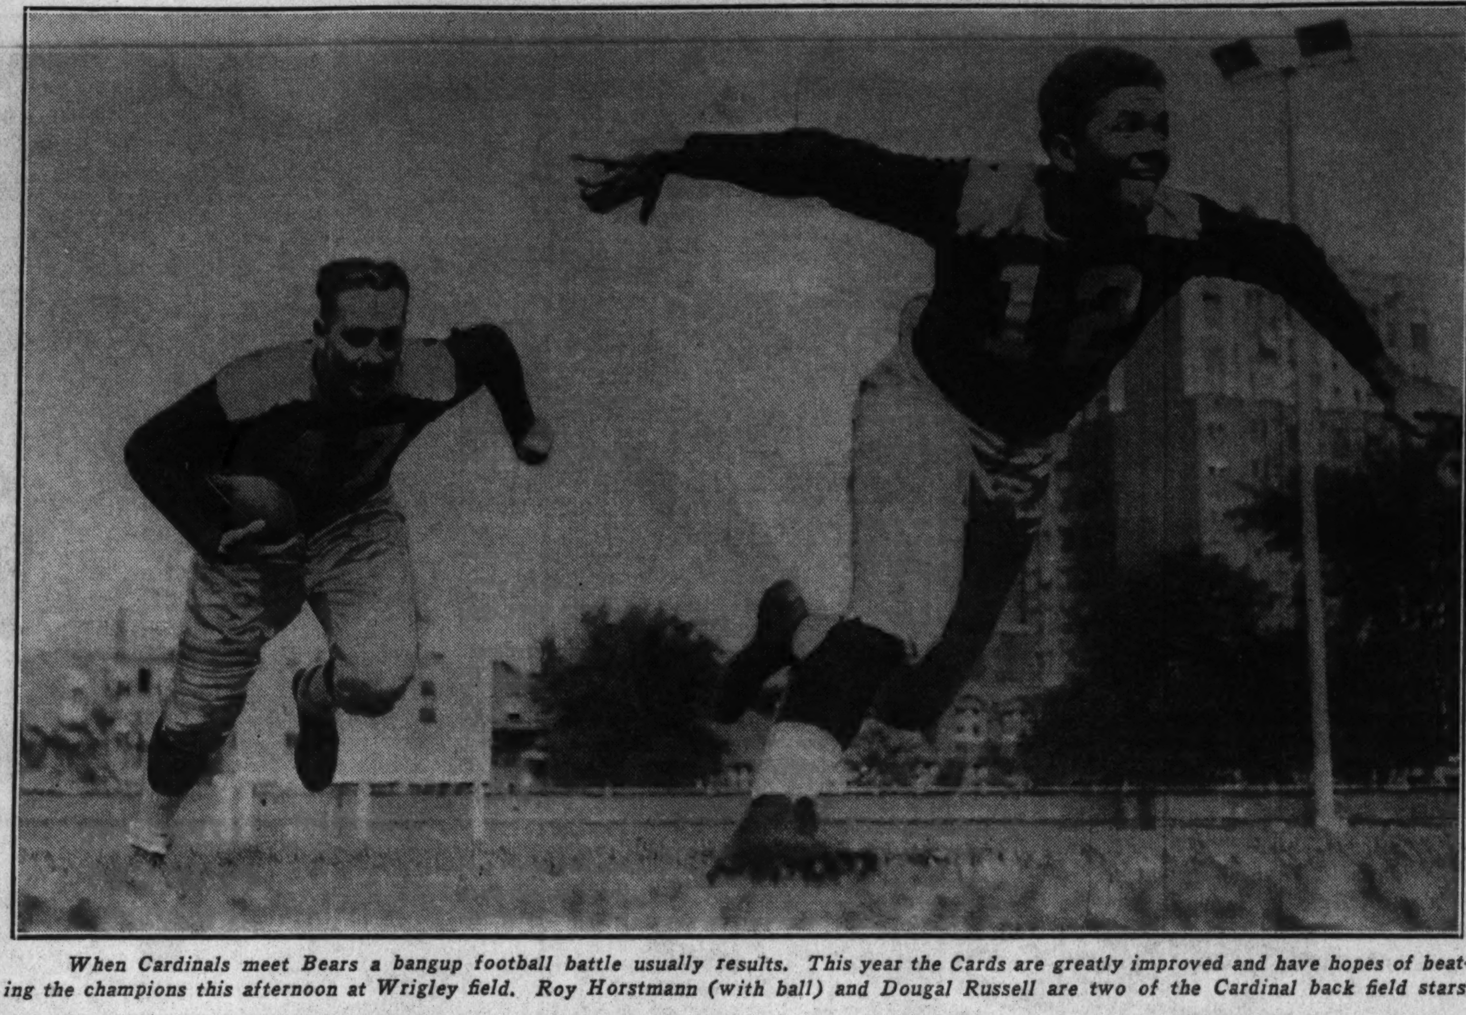
NO QUARTER ASKED IN THIS BATTLE!



When Cardinals meet Bears a bangup football battle usually results. This year the Cards are greatly improved and have hopes of beating the champions this afternoon at Wrigley field. Roy Horstmann (with ball) and Dougal Russell are two of the Cardinal back field stars.

If Cardinal backs expect to get anywhere they first must run past these husky members of the Bear line, among others. Left to right are Ted Rosequist, tackle; Joe Zeller, guard, and Art Buss, tackle.

ford scoring threats in the first quarter, but it was apparent that the Cardinal was not to be denied. The break came shortly after the opening of the second quarter when Potter's punt from the 23 yard line was partially blocked and went out of bounds on the Northwestern 30 yard line.

Hamilton Makes Touchdown.

Here the Stanford attack started again. Head smacked center for one yard. Then Hamilton passed to Topping who was dropped on the Wildcats' 16 yard line. On the next play Hamilton hit at Northwestern's right tackle, broke through and cut back to cross the goal line standing up. Riley blocked Moscrip's attempt for the extra point.

A few minutes later Stanford counted again. Swisher took the kickoff behind the goal line and returned to the 15 yard line. Potter's punt went out of bounds on the visitors' 40 yard line, from which point Hamilton started another march by smashing through left tackle for five yards. Van Dellen, who had replaced Maentz at left half, celebrated his entrance into the game by slipping through left tackle for 14 yards and a first down on Northwestern's seven yard line.

Hamilton Scores Again.

He was set back for a four yard loss on the next play, but Hamilton followed this up with a punch over center which carried to the three yard line. He hit again at the same spot and bowled over for a touchdown. Northwestern opened the second half with a passing attack which started off auspiciously enough. After an exchange of punts, Swisher passed 10 yards to Leeper for a first down on Northwestern's 37 yard line. Geyer hit through center for five yards, and then Potter's long pass fell into the arms of Frank Alustiza, who fell in behind rapidly forming interference to run 47 yards for a touchdown. This time Moscrip's placement sailed between the crossbars.

Northwestern Passes Fail.

The final period found Northwestern vainly attempting to advance from within its own territory by a passing attack, but each time a march got under way Stanford turned it back by an interception and the Wildcats were called upon to wage another goal line defense.

The Purple line, outweighed 15 pounds per man, made a strong defense against the rushes of the Stanford forwards in the final period.

Stanford gained 247 yards from scrimmage, compared to 39 for Northwestern. Stanford completed two passes out of 11 for a gain of 36 yards, while the Wildcats were completing 6 out of 14 for 23 yards. Stanford made 12 first downs, against two for Northwestern. Both of Northwestern's first downs were made by passes.

Survivors of elimination trials held yesterday will face the starter's flag at the Roby-Chicago Speedway this afternoon when the tenth annual running of the Roby-100 is held at the 108th street and Indianapolis boulevard track. It will be the 10th anniversary of the 100 mile event. Jack Leech, veteran promoter of Hammond, will give the signal to the field of 20 promptly at 3 o'clock.

Three entrants have stood out in practice runs and will be favorites today.

They are Duke Nalon of Oak Park, winner of the 50 mile championship at the track earlier in the season; Tip Hansen of Chicago and John Gruber of Melrose Park.

Other leading entrants are Don Donaldson, Chuck Neisel, Don Ehue, Wild Bill Bender, Roy Ebett, Bill Woss, Chuck Briles, John Rossen and L. L. Whitaker, veteran Hammond driver who is the only pilot to have competed in all nine past championship events.

RODAK'S BATTLE WITH PAUL TOPS WEEK IN BOXING

Three professional shows and four amateur cards are on this week's Chicago boxing schedule. Pro shows will be offered tomorrow at White City and Marigold Gardens and Friday at Cicero stadium. Amateur cards will be held tomorrow at Community Recreation center, Tuesday at Queen of Angels hall, Thursday at C. Y. O. center, and Friday at 24th Ward club.

Leo Rodak, South Chicago featherweight challenger, and Tommy Paul, who has held the class championship, will meet in the most important contest of the week. They are scheduled to fight 10 rounds at White City at 129 pounds.

Although the phrase, "It will be one of Rodak's hardest tests," has been used on at least six occasions previously, it can be put to use again for tomorrow's bout. Paul arrived early enough to allow critics to observe his physical condition and boxing for the first time in almost two years. Tommy lost his title to Freddy Miller on May 13, 1933, at the Stadium. They left the gymnasium satisfied that Paul has lost none of his cunning and his condition remains superb.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Irvin Gilbreath, 185 pound full back, led the University of Texas to a 19 to 0 victory today over Oklahoma. An estimated crowd of 21,000 persons saw Gilbreath score two touchdowns in the second period and one in the fourth to keep Texas' unbeaten record clean.

The Longhorns made sixteen first downs against three for the Sooners, and kept the Oklahomans on the defense practically all of the game. The final two periods were played in a downpour.

Bohn Hilliard, Texas half back who last week scored the touchdown that beat Notre Dame, was injured slightly in the second half and was replaced.

BRADLEY TECH TOYS WITH RIPON; TRIUMPHS, 32-0

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Bradley Tech rolled over the Ripon eleven today, 32 to 0. Bradley scored early in the game after a blocked punt had placed Ripon in trouble, and then came through with four touchdowns in a third period spree.

Jagunich, full back, scored twice; Lee and Gene Handley once each, and Miller once,

The Illinois river, famous duck hunting area for many decades, is now marking time until the big flight of pintails and mallards comes down from the north. Down near Cairo, Ill., where the big Mississippi river sweeps past broad sand bars and a large wild game refuge is in operation, the sportsmen are waiting for the honking flocks of wild geese to arrive. It is usually early November before the sportsmen unlimber their goose guns down there.

Along the Illinois river dozens of day shooting places again offer the free lance hunter a chance to bang away at ducks—provided he has the currency to defray expenses. In some localities the prices for blinds, decoys and a boat are moderate, compared to former years. In others, they still are a trifle steep, although still below the level established before the depression.

A listing which we have made of open, day shooting places along the upper and lower Illinois river gives the sportsmen the following tips on localities:

Putnam [upper Illinois river]. Some blinds on island between lakes Senachwine, Mud and Swan, available at a cost of $15 per hunter. Board and lodging extra [about $1.50 a day]. The price includes a man to pick up birds, but at that it is somewhat higher than the charge at other places along the river.

Bureau, Ill. Big marsh near here. Charge is $12 a day per man unless you book three shooting days. In that case the charge is $10 a day. Board and lodging extra. Old established place.

Lacon, Ill. Very good marsh below Lacon. [We hunted here.] You reach marsh by boat on the Illinois river. The charge is $7.50 per man a day for a blind, two to a blind. If you take a blind alone the charge is $15 for the day. The marsh is "fed" or, as the government calls it, "baited." Hunters can find board and lodging in Lacon. The last time we hunted here we had a mixed bag of mallards, pintails and widgeon.

Henry, Ill.. The charge is $10 per man a day for use of a good blind with decoys. Reservations in advance and paid for or it's "no go." This also is a good duck country. Room and meals are extra at $1.50 per day.

Topeka, Ill. [pretty well down the river]. Slightly different system of charging at one, old established place in this territory. It's $12 for the day in case you get your limit of 12 birds. If you don't it costs you just $10 for the day's shoot. Shooting from dry land. Board and lodging extra.

Bath and Snicarte, Ill. [Below Havana]. This is in the heart of a great duck country. Many day shooting places. One of the best asks $12.50 a day for blind, decoys and board and lodging. Shooting from land blinds. This area is especially good late in the season after the upper Illinois is pretty well frozen up.

DE KALB ELEVEN HOLDS WESLEYAN TO 6-6 DEADLOCK

Each Team Scores in Last Quarter.

De Kalb, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—De Kalb Teachers and Illinois Wesleyan, defending champion in the Little Nineteen conference, fought to a 6 to 6 tie in De Kalb's homecoming game this afternoon.

De Kalb did not unleash an offensive threat until the fourth quarter when three completed passes netted 66 yards and placed the ball in scoring territory. One advance was stopped on the one yard line.

Peterson scored De Kalb's touchdown when he ran 32 yards after catching Weger's fumble in the air. Weger fumbled on the first play from scrimmage. Wesleyan scored late in the same quarter after McMackins received an 18 yard pass to put the ball on the five yard line from where Kaska carried it over on the third play. Both teams attempted to add the extra point from placement, but De Kalb's was wide and Wesleyan's was blocked.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS, 53-0.

Scoring in each quarter and making fifteen first downs to their opponents' two, the North Central college football team defeated Wheaton yesterday, 53 to 0.

Smith, Dittman, and Dieber, North Central backs, reeled off lengthy gains consistently. Holte and Dillon stood out at guard and center.

Wheaton made only 60 yards from scrimmage while its passing game was stopped cold. Adler, a freshman full back, was another North Central star.

ELMHURST, 8; ST. JOSEPH, 6.

Rensselaer, Ind., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Elmhurst college defeated St. Joseph college today, 8 to 6. Elmhurst scored a safety in the first quarter on a blocked kick. Elmhurst scored its touchdown early in the second quarter when Niedsted went over center. St. Joseph scored in the last quarter on a lateral pass to Patten.

CARBONDALE, 14; NORMAL, 6.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Carbondale Teachers defeated Illinois State Normal today, 14 to 6, scoring two touchdowns in the second quarter. Normal made its touchdown in the fourth quarter after receiving a short punt on the Carbondale 30 yard line. Alex, Normal full back, on a double reverse went to the Carbondale 2 yard line, then carried the ball over for a touchdown.

LAKE FOREST, 12; LAWRENCE, 7.

Lake Forest topped an early Lawrence touchdown with a long pass and an interception in the second quarter that netted 12 points for a 12 to 7 victory yesterday at Lake Forest.

Lawrence scored in the first quarter when an exchange of kicks and line plays brought the ball to the Lake Forest 10 yard line, where a pass over the goal line scored the touchdown. Schrieber kicked goal.

Lake Forest scored its first touchdown in the second quarter on a long pass from Eiserman to Dohr. The kick for point failed.

Rouse of Lake Forest intercepted a Lawrence pass and returned it 95 yards for a touchdown, just as the half ended. Neither team scored in the second half.

AUGUSTANA, 21; KNOX, 0.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Led by Marack, fleet half back, Augustana defeated Knox, 21 to 0, this afternoon. Marack made all three touchdowns and Smiley kicked all three extra points.

It was the twenty-first consecutive defeat for Knox.

McKENDREE WINS, 20-6.

Rolla, Mo., Oct. 13.—(AP)—McKendree college of Lebanon, Ill., defeated the Missouri School of Mines, 20 to 6, in a football game today. It was homecoming for former students of the School of Mines. The absence of McGregor, who was injured last week, weakened the miners.

DEANS PITCH FOR MILLS TODAY IN EXHIBITION GAME

Cardinal Stars to Face K. C. Monarchs.

The famous Dean brothers of the St. Louis Cardinals, Dizzy and Paul, capitalizing on their prominence since pitching the St. Louis club to the world's championship, will enrich the family coffers with a few more thousand dollars this afternoon by pitching for the Mills semi-pro team against the Kansas City Monarchs at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

DIZZY DEAN.

Since the announcement was made that the pair would visit Chicago there has been an unprecedented demand for tickets at the west side park and some 15,000 are expected to watch the dazzling curves and fast balls of the two pitchers who stopped the Detroit Tigers in the world series. The remaining box seats and general admission tickets will be placed on sale this morning.

Dizzy and Paul have had little rest since they started their way to the world series. Immediately after the series was concluded Dizzy and Paul flew to Oklahoma City for an exhibition game. They will arrive in Chicago this morning from Des Moines, Ia.

Orders Extra Baseballs.

The incident which occurred at Oklahoma City last Thursday night when 15,000 Oklahomans acclaimed their most prominent sons by pilfering every ball which was within reach and led to the abrupt ending of the game at the end of five and one-half innings because of the lack of balls, has prompted Manager Bill Harley of the Mills to purchase several extra dozen so that the game will proceed the regulation nine innings.

Sharing the spotlight with the great Deans will be a couple of players who obtained their professional experience with the Mills and now are on the rosters of major league clubs. Johnny McCarthy, lanky, hard hitting first baseman, who will succeed Sam Leslie at first base for the Brooklyn Dodgers when the latter is traded or sold this winter, as the Dodger officials have announced, and George Caithammer, 22 year old catcher for the Chicago White Sox, will perform for the Mills.

Caithammer, who came to the Mills last spring after a year in the Nebraska State league, was signed last August by the White Sox and will serve as the battery mate of the Deans for several innings. Two veteran catchers, Babe Goldwaite and Al Stokes, also will catch the Deans, according to Manager Harley.

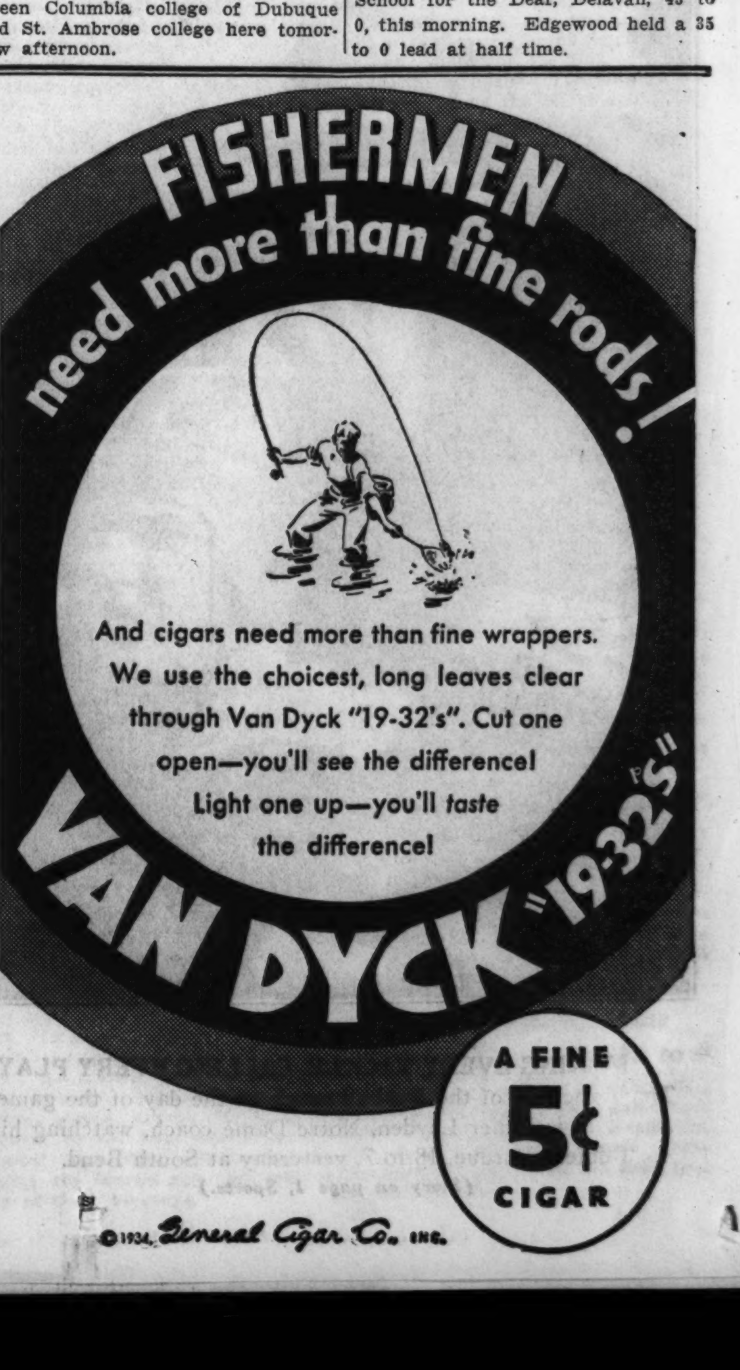
Goodman Back in Outfield.

The others who will appear in the Mills' lineup include Nick Polley, former Lane Tech star, second base; Benny Hellgeth, shortstop, and Art Conroy, third base. In the outfield will be Dave Goodman, another former Mills star, who performed in the Western association last season and who has been obtained for the occasion; George Gerken, and Bert Atkinson.

The Deans will leave Chicago immediately after the game for Milwaukee, where they will appear in another exhibition game tomorrow night. After their barnstorming trip is over the two will give their arms a rest, but will continue to pick up greenbacks by performing behind the footlights on a vaudeville tour.

Edgewood Preps Defeat School for Deaf, 43 to 0

Madison, Wis., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Edgewood High school football team, Madison, defeated the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, Delavan, 43 to 0, this morning. Edgewood held a 35 to 0 lead at half time.



62 YARD SPRINT HELPS YALE WIN FROM PENN, 14-6

Quakers March 83 Yards for Touchdown.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Yale defeated Pennsylvania before 26,000 half frozen spectators here today, 14 to 6.

With a couple of hardy backs, Warwick and Kurlish, leading the procession, Penn escaped a shutout by storming 83 yards down the field to the Yale two yard line late in the third period and then scoring on the first play of the last quarter.

Yale began firing with the opening whistle. Roscoe took a Penn kick and ran it back to his 36 yard line. Two plays later, Morton shook off a pair of tacklers and ran 62 yards for the first score. Capt. Claire Curtin added the point.

After three futile tries in the third period, Roscoe finally got away a ten yard pass to Kelly, then went behind the Penn goal line to catch a nine yard heave from Schultz for a score. Again Curtain kicked the point.

HARVARD, 13; BROWN, 0.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—Fred Mo. ley and Shaun Kelley today carried Harvard to a 13 to 0 triumph over Brown on a muddy field.

Five minutes after the battle got under way Moseley ran around his left end, then cut back beautifully and scored standing up after an 18 yard sprint. Kelley made the game safe for Harvard late in the contest by intercepting a flat pass and romping 26 yards for a touchdown. Tom Bilodeau kicked the point after Moseley's touchdown.

PRINCETON, 35; WILLIAMS, 6.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—Held scoreless in the first period by a remarkable series of goal-line stands, Princeton rallied in the second and third quarters to swamp Williams, 35 to 6, at Palmer stadium today.

Elmer Sandbach, sophomore, was the big punch of Princeton's attack. Sandbach took the kickoff to start the second half and ran 92 yards for a touchdown.

Princeton made 14 first downs to 2 for the opposition, while the Tiger backs were good for 202 yards from scrimmage, as against 26.

GEORGETOWN WINS, 9-0.

New York, Oct. 13.—[U.P.]—Georgetown overcame Manhattan today, 9 to 0. At the start of the second quarter the ball was in Georgetown's possession on Manhattan's 16 yard line. Saverine passed to Parcell on the two yard line. Parcell stepped over the goal line. Meglen kicked the extra point.

In the third period a Manhattan fumble was recovered by Georgetown, but the ball was lost on downs on the Manhattan six yard line. Welsh's attempted pass was blocked, a safety being scored.

COLUMBIA WINS, 29 to 6.

New York, Oct. 13.— [U. P.] —The Columbia steamroller crushed Virginia Military institute eleven, 29 to 6, today before 18,000.

V. M. I.'s only score was made in the last quarter when Charlie Banks, substitute left end, recovered a blocked Columbia punt in the New Yorkers' end zone.

Columbia scored two points in the first period on a safety in the second period. Tommy Tomb, quarter back, stepped over for a touchdown after advancing the ball himself on a series of deceptive spinners. Barabas galloped for two touchdowns. He kicked both extra points.

LAFAYETTE BEATEN, 14-0.

Easton, Pa., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—An aggressive Franklin and Marshall eleven defeated a favored Lafayette team, 14 to 0, today. Franklin and Marshall scored in the second and third periods.

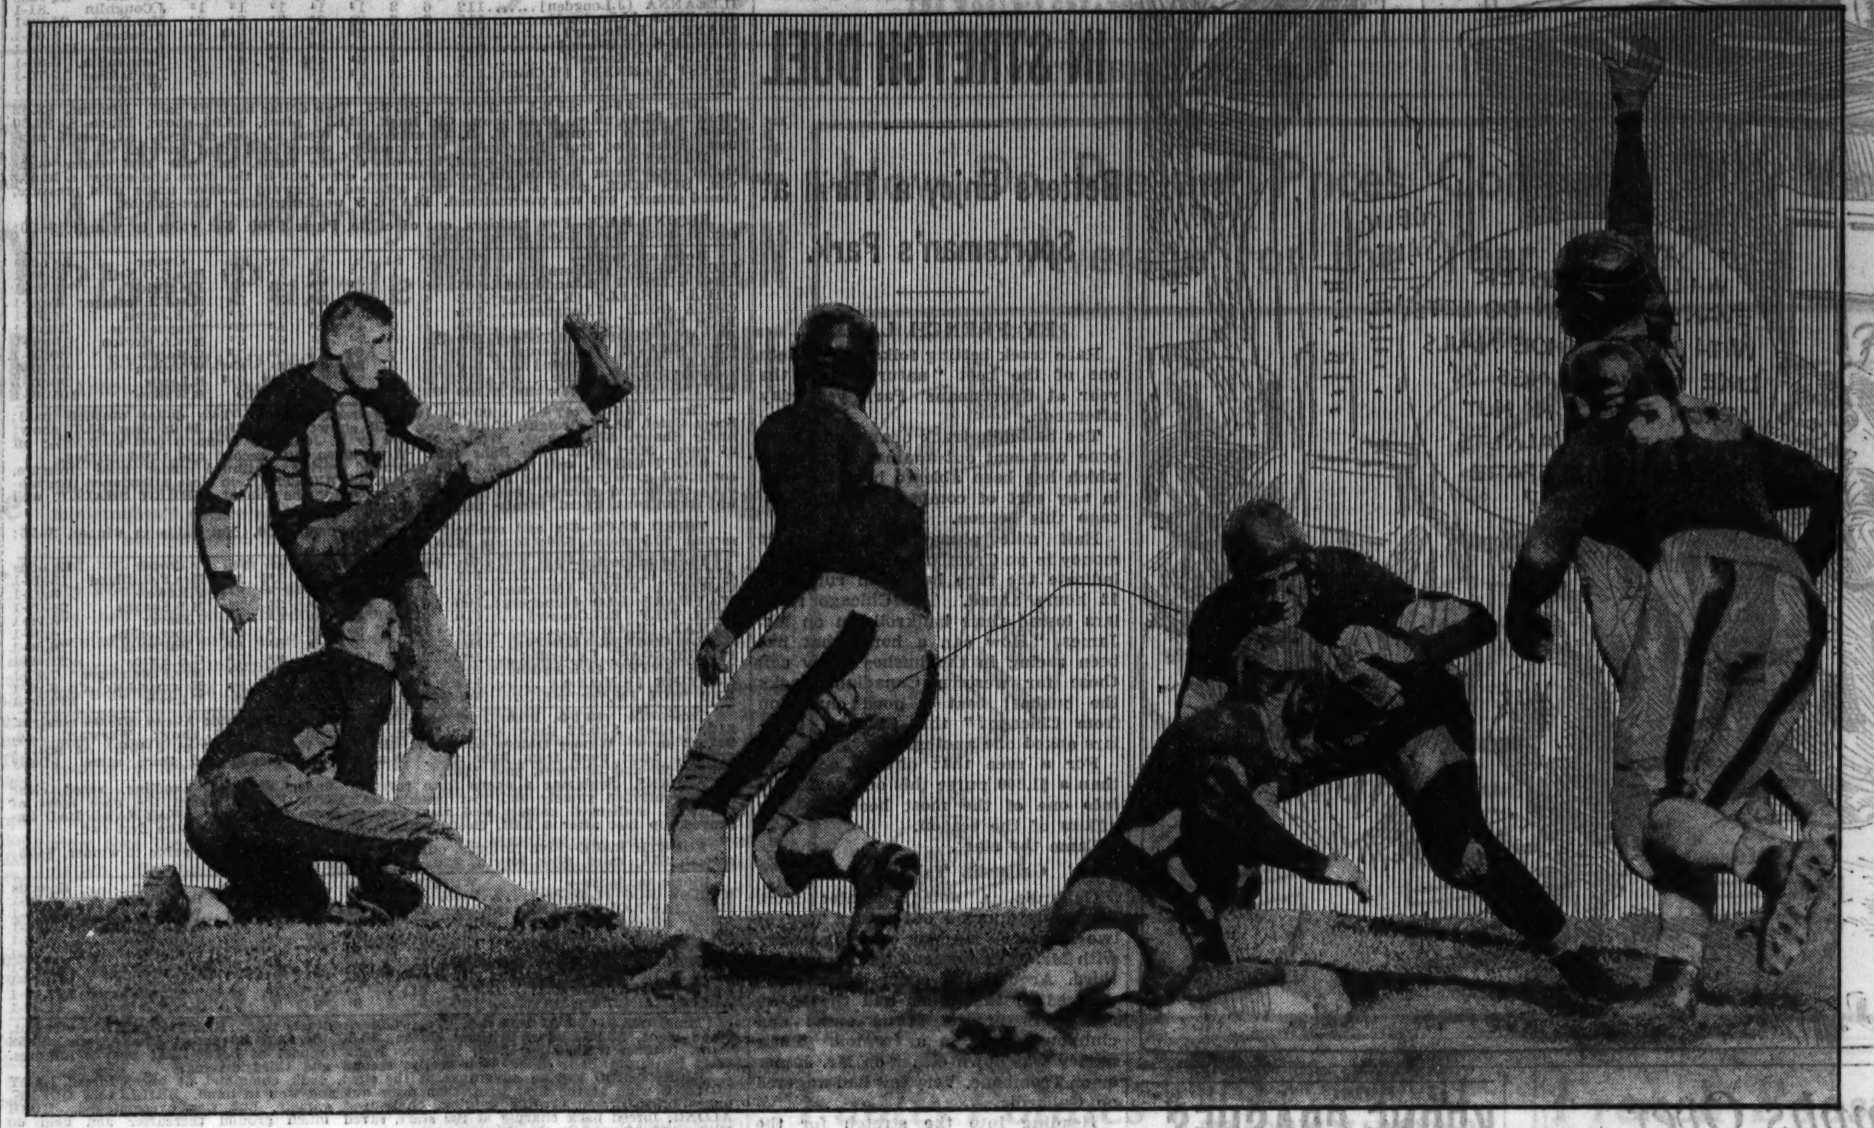
BLACKHAWKS TO START DRILL AT URBANA TODAY

Clem Loughlin, new manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, champions of the National Hockey league, will lead nine members of the squad to Urbana, Ill., this morning, where they will hold their opening practice this afternoon. Other members of the squad are expected to report to Manager Loughlin tomorrow.

The players who will depart this morning are Joe Starke, Art Coulter, Tom Coulter, Art Weibe, Johnny Gottselig, Lola Couture, Mush March, Bill Kendall, and Louie Trudel. The players will be accompanied by Coach Helge Bostrum.

Among the players expected in Urbana tomorrow are Howie Morenz, speedy center, who came to the Hawks from the Montreal Canadiens; Martin Murke, also formerly of the Canadiens; Lorne Chabot, Paul Thompson, Tommy Cook, and Taffy Abel.

IT'S GOOD! AND ILLINI FANS ROAR CHEER



Les Lindberg of Lockport kicks the point after touchdown that gives Illinois 14-13 victory over Ohio State yesterday in homecoming game at Champaign. Jack Beynon, quarter back from Rockford, is holding the ball. Lindberg was called on to boot across two extra points and succeeded each time, although he got two chances on one attempt. This was after first Illinois touchdown, when Les' first kick was wide, but Ohio State was offside, and he got another opportunity. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

on passes, including both of its touchdowns, and Ohio State made 129.

Ohio had a marked advantage on the ground, its backs ripping through the lines and around the ends for a total of 183 yards, while Illinois gained 116 by its running plays. Illinois made 10 first downs to 13 by Ohio State, and the difference in play in the two halves of the game are best told by these figures. In the first two quarters, the Illini controlled the ball most of the time and made seven of its first downs then, while Ohio State, stopped on the ground and in the air, made only three. In the second half, the Illini made three first downs and Ohio State ten.

Illini Start with Rush.

Illinois started off with a rush at the opening kickoff. Taking the ball on the 32 yard line Lindberg, Froschauer, and Theodore had a first down on Illinois' 42 yard line in three ays. Lindberg gained two more and Illinois' first pass fell incomplete, but on third down Beynon flipped a pass to Froschauer for another first down on the Buckeyes' 29 yard line. A penalty for offside slowed up the Illinois attack, and on fourth down Beynon passed to Lindberg, who was knocked out of bounds on Ohio's 10 yard line.

Again the Illini running attack was stopped for two downs, and Heekin stopped the Illini advance by intercepting a pass on his 10 yard line and running back to the 21 yard line before he was pulled down. Two line plays gained nine yards, but as Kabealo plunged through guard for the necessary yardage for first down, he fumbled, and Lindberg recovered the ball on Ohio State's 33 yard line to start the Illini on their goalward march again.

Lindberg Throws to Beynon.

The big Swede flipped a pass to Theodore for a five yard gain and then plunged through the line for four yards. Froschauer slipped off right guard for another first down on the 17 yard line. Wetzel, the Buckeye center, stopped both Lindberg and Froschauer at the line of scrimmage. Lindberg then faded far back and threw a high arching pass that dropped into Beynon's arms over the goal line for a touchdown. Lindberg attempted to place kick for the extra point, but his effort was wide. Ohio State was offside, however, and on the resulting second try, he kicked the point.

Neither team gained consistently for a time in the second quarter. Finally Lindberg punted out of bounds on Ohio State's 46 yard line and Ohio State started the sweep that carried it down to the one yard line before the Illini threw the Buckeyes back.

Heekin Runs 20 Yards.

Kabealo, J. Smith, and Heekin rushed the ball to a first down on Illinois' 43 yard line in three plays. Heekin tore around right end for 20 yards. Stan Pincura passed to Wendt on the 5 yard line. Lindberg broke through and tossed J. Smith for a loss but on the next play Illinois was offside and was penalized to the one yard line. Twice the Illini piled up Smith and Heekin. Then came Wetzel's high pass which eluded Heekin and Illinois took the ball on downs after the Buckeye had smothered the ball on the 16 yard line.

In the third quarter, after several exchanges of punts, with Lindberg having a little the better of Kabealo, Illinois took the ball on its 38 yard line after Kabealo had punted out of bounds. In four plays, two of them passes, Illinois swept down the field 64 yards for a touchdown.

Lindberg tried Ohio's right tackle and bounced back a yard. He tried the left tackle and picked up two. Then he shot a long pass to Beynon and the little quarter back was pulled down on the Ohio State 33 yard line. The next play, the most thrilling and intricate of the many triple and double passes which the Illini used, brought a touchdown.

Fischer, who had gone in at full back, took the pass from center. He turned and handed the ball to Lindberg, who tossed a lateral pass to Froschauer. Beynon, meanwhile, had run far back and out to the left. Froschauer, out at the right, turned and passed across the field to Beynon and as the confused Buckeyes pursued him, Beynon sent the ball arching high over the secondary defense to Gene Dykstra, right end, who was waiting in the zone. Lindberg kicked goal and Illinois led, 14 to 0.

Coaches—Robert Zuppke, Illinois; Francis Schmidt, Ohio State.

Ohio State Gets Going.

Then the entire complexion of the game changed. Lindberg kicked off and Heekin brought the ball back to the 33 yard line. Kabealo and Heekin took the ball to Illinois' 44 yard line by ripping through the line. Heekin added three more yards and then Pincura shot a forward pass to Wendt, who was downed on the 19 yard line. Kabealo and J. Smith added four yards before the third quarter ended.

Wetzel took Kabealo's place at full back and after Heekin had picked up two more, he darted through the right side of the Illinois line and raced 13 yards for a touchdown. Monahan's place kick was wide, and Ohio was trailing, 14 to 6.

Parade Is on Again.

Lindberg kicked off to Wetzel and he returned to his 37 yard line. Then Ohio State started marching again. Pincura passed to Cox, who tossed laterally to Boucher for a gain of 3 yards. Pincura shot a short pass to Heekin and he went out of bounds on the 43 yard line. Wetzel plunged for a first down on the 49 yard line. Pincura passed to Heekin and though the ball fell to the ground it was ruled complete for interference by Illinois, on the Illini 43 yard line.

Wetzel squirmed off tackle for another first down. He was stopped momentarily and Pincura took up the burden, passing to Wendt on the 9 yard line. Pincura took the ball from center on the next play and handed it to Heekin, who went outside right tackle and skipped across the goal line for a touchdown. This time Monahan kicked the goal for the extra point.

Illinois was leading now by one point, 14 to 13.

Monahan Tries Field Goal.

After an Illinois pass had been intercepted by Boucher behind the goal line for a touchback, Ohio State pushed down the field, with Wetzel hammering at the line to take the ball to the Ohio 44 yard line. Pincura passed to Boucher and the ball was on Illinois' 38 yard line. Then suddenly the Illini defense tightened. Heekin failed to gain and twice the Illinois backs knocked down forward passes. In a last desperate attempt to score, Capt. Monahan dropped back to the 47 yard line and attempted a place kick, with Fisch holding the ball. The ball sailed off wide and low and Illinois put it in play on the 20 yard line. Fischer had just hammered away at the line for a first down when the game ended.

The game was attended by a crowd of 30,000, attracted partly by the ceremonies in honor of Red Grange, who was presented with an illuminated scroll welcoming him and his teammates of 1923-'25 back to his alma mater, and honored by elaborate formations of the Illinois band in his honor. But all this was forgotten when that spectacular second half got underway. It is doubtful any one remembered Grange was there then.

OREGON ELEVEN IS BEATEN, 16-6, BY WASHINGTON

Portland, Ore., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The University of Washington triumphed over Oregon today for the first time in eight years, 16 to 6.

Eight minutes after the start Elmer Logg booted a field goal from the Oregon 32 yard line. In the second period Washington made a drive from Oregon's 33 yard line to a touchdown, Byron Paines, passing to Jim Cain for the score. Logg scored the extra point from placement.

The lead appeared safe until Logg let a punt get away from him, and Oregon obtained the ball on Washington's 33 yard line. Frank Michek plunged for touchdown after the ball had been advanced by a running attack.

Washington's second touchdown came on another forward pass, Art Ahonen to Burl Bufkin, who caught the ball in the end zone. Lineup:

CALIFORNIA, 7; PACIFIC, 6.

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The University of California football team defeated the College of the Pacific, 7 to 6, here today.

A blocked kick for point after touchdown, prevented the Tigers from gaining a tie, and only the failure of two Pacific receivers to hang onto passes kept a cheering crowd of 20,000 from witnessing an upset.

In the first period Charles Bertoli and Monty Reedy advanced the ball to the Pacific 6 yard line and Reedy took it over. Bertoli booted a perfect place kick.

In the second period the Bengals scored on a 70 yard run by half back Bob Wicker, after the Bear defense had been scattered and disorganized by a barrage of passes. Bob Randall tried a place kick for the tying point, but the Bear line broke through to block the attempt.

BOGUS BILL ADDS TO TROUBLES OF PEPPER MARTIN

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, returned home today with his left arm in a plaster cast. And to add further to his troubles he discovered he had been given a $100 counterfeit bill when he cashed a check in St. Louis.

Although Pepper could play world series baseball with the injured arm, it may keep him from his usual winter's hunting. He must return to St. Louis within the next month to have the arm operated upon to correct a fracture.

The third baseman discovered he had received a $100 counterfeit bill when he gave it in payment for an automobile trailer.

Jocky Is Thrown from Horse; Fear Skull Fracture

Nebraska's Runs and Passes Hand Iowa 14 to 13 Surprise

Nebraska Marches On.

Nebraska revolted again as soon as the third period opened and this time there was no stopping it. Bauer brought the kickoff back to Nebraska's 20 yard line. Cardwell fumbled but Benson recovered for a first down on the 30 yard line. Bauer went through his left tackle to the 46 yard line. Francis contributed a few yards and Bauer then passed to Cardwell, putting the ball on Iowa's 27 yard line. A plunge by Cardwell and one by Bauer shoved the Hawks back to their 13 yard line. Then, after two line plays had been thwarted, Bauer passed to McDonald in the end zone for a touchdown and Francis place-kicked for the extra point.

The Hawks were far from panicky. On the kickoff Simmons dashed back to Iowa's 36 yard line and followed with three yards through the wall. Crayne made it first down on Iowa's 47 yard line. Simmons then ran the ball into Nebraska territory, leaving 42 yards to go. The touchdown came in a hurry. Crayne passed straight over the line of scrimmage to Page and the latter, after Walker had blocked off the last Cornhusker tackler, raced over the goal line. Fisher missed the placement that eventually proved the difference between defeat and a tie.

Iowa Fights Back.

As the third period ended the Nebraskans were on the Iowa 18 yard line after an advance from the 44 yard mark. The final quarter opened with Francis plunging to the 14 yard line. Cardwell contributed two yards and Bauer six. Francis plunged again to make it first down on the Hawks' four yard line. Then he dove through the wall to the one foot mark. He plunged again without gain but followed with a lunge inside Iowa's left tackle and this time went over for the second touchdown. Francis again kicked the extra point, giving the Cornhuskers a 14 to 6 lead.

Immediately after that second Nebraska touchdown Iowa showed itself at its best. A poor punt by Francis went out of bounds on Iowa's 46 yard line. Simmons took a pass from Crayne and cut back across the field for a 25 yard advance. Douglas caught Oze from behind or he might be going yet. Simmons then dashed over his own left end to the Cornhuskers' 16 yard line. After a couple of short gains a pass over the goal grounded. Then Crayne took the ball and swept over his own left end. Just as tacklers were closing in on him he tossed a pass to Simmons, who leaped and caught it on the one yard line. Before he could dive over the goal Williams rammed him out of bounds. On the next play Crayne plunged through center for the touchdown. Simmons drop kicked for the extra point and also the final point of the battle.

Figures Are Convincing.

The figures on the spectacle show that the Cornhuskers had a wider margin than indicated by the score. They registered 17 first downs against 15 for Iowa. In rushing they piled up 237 yards against 158 for the Hawks. Nebraska attempted nine forward passes and completed four. Iowa attempted 21, but only six made connections. The Cornhuskers also intercepted two Iowa passes, but none of their own was captured by the enemy.

Early C. Y. O. Ring Entrants Number 640

This week will mark the closing of entries for the fourth annual Catholic Youth Organization amateur boxing tournament which is scheduled to open Oct. 22. All entries must be received in the offices of the C. Y. O., 31 East Congress street, by Saturday night.

A heavy rush of entries yesterday sent the total number of amateur boxers enrolled to 640. This number is expected to be doubled before the closing date.

The west section, where the first bouts of the tournament will be fought Oct. 22, leads in the number of boys entered with 300. The south section is next in line with 215 while 125 youngsters have signified their intention of representing the north side.

Competition for the archdiocesan trophy, which will be awarded to the parish scoring the greatest number of points in the tournament, will be exceptionally keen this year. Last year St. Alexander of Villa Park, a west side team, and Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, representing the north section, tied for first honors. Ray and Charlie Wozniak led the St. Alexander team while Jimmy Christy and Frankie Schultz scored the majority of points for Our Lady of Mt. Carmel.

Tom O'Connell, C. Y. O. boxing director, yesterday cautioned all youngsters who want to enter the tournament to send their entry blanks in immediately. The tournament is open to any Catholic boy in the city or suburbs over the age of 16 years. Entry blanks are being distributed by all parish priests and may also be obtained by calling at the C. Y. O. center.

Sectional preliminaries will open with the west side trials at the West Side Community Center, 4721 Madison street, Oct. 22, 23, and 24. The south side will open hostilities at White City on Oct. 24, 25, and 26, while the north section trials are set for Loyola university, Oct. 29, 30, and 31. The finals will be staged in the Chicago Stadium, Dec. 5.

Glenna Vare Wins Golf Tourney Final, 7 and 5

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare's comeback to golf reached new heights today when she turned in a smashing victory to win the classic Berthellyn cup. Turning in a 79 round over the Huntingdon Valley Country club course, the five-time winner of the national crown needed but 13 holes to overwhelm Edith Quire of Reading, Pa., 7 and 5.

BOILERMAKERS BEATEN, 18 TO 7, BY NOTRE DAME

Melinkovich and Carideo Score on Long Runs.

Purdue defended the north goal with some advantage in wind and a tremendous advantage in the accurate kicking of Dailey as compared to the short, low kicks of Andy Pilney, Notre Dame's left half back.

The Irish, fearing Purvis' long distance passing, elected to use a six man line with a box secondary formation and Bud Bonar back in safety position. Through this line Purvis, Dailey, and John Drake, full back, lunged for three first downs. Dailey kicked out on the Irish 5 yard line and Pilney's return punt carried only to Notre Dame's 26 yard line. Purvis lost a yard in three plays and his fourth down pass fell incomplete.

Four plays later the Irish scored. Elser was stopped at the line. Shakespeare raced wide around Purdue's left end for 11 yards, progressing by excellent blocking of his interference. Melinkovich rammed through for 5 yards and then went around Purdue's right end for a touchdown run of 64 yards.

Blocking Is Effective.

Melinkovich, as had Shakespeare, received excellent blocking for 20 yards. Then he ran head on into a Boilermaker, stopped to jerk free, and after this pause continued down the east side line, outrunning Carter, whose desperate dive at the 5 yard line failed.

Wallace Fromhart, substitute quarterback for Bonar, stubbed his foot into the ground in his attempt to add the extra point, and the ball merely rolled out of Elser's hands.

Notre Dame kicked off to Purdue. Unable to gain in two plays. Dailey kicked to Fromhart, who was downed on the Irish 25 yard line. However, Purdue was penalized for clipping, and when Referee Frank Birch had stepped off 15 yards from the point of the foul, Notre Dame had the ball on Purdue's 37 yard line.

Layden Throws Pass.

Mike Layden, brother of Coach Layden, entered the game during the time out for the penalty. Layden is easily the best passer on the Notre Dame squad. He proved it, and at the same time took complete advantage of Purdue's unsuspecting backs. Layden dropped back a few steps and fired the ball over the heads of two Boilermaker backs who had permitted Melinkovich to race by them unnoticed. The pass gained 34 yards and Melinkovich reached Purdue's 3 yard stripe. Cliff Baumbaugh crossed over to make the tackle.

Melinkovich lunged through center for 2½ yards and then smashed inside of Purdue's left tackle for the touchdown. Fromhart's placement, with Layden holding, sailed to the left of the uprights.

Despite this crushing blow, the second touchdown, Purdue rallied gamely near the end of the period. Starting from the Boilermaker 18 yard line, Purvis led the assault. With aid from Drake the pair smashed to midfield and there received additional help because of a penalty on Notre Dame. Finally Purvis passed to Frank Haas, who made a leaping catch on Notre Dame's 28 yard line. The pass gained 13 yards.

Carideo Intercepts Pass.

Drake was stopped on the next play. Again Purvis passed, but this time Carideo stepped in front of the receiver near the side line. His running start took him to midfield before Purdue scarcely was aware of the interception. Here Carideo, slowed down, sidestepped two tacklers, and then ran the last 40 yards safely in front of three pursuers. Tony Maziotti, now playing right half back, kicked wide in his try for the point. The half ended during the course of Carideo's 75 yard run.

The third quarter ended in a stalemate, although Notre Dame had one excellent opportunity presented. Carter, smashing at the Irish line on a spinner play, ran into two charging tacklers and fumbled. Joe Sullivan, left tackle, recovered for Notre Dame on Purdue's 24 yard line. The Irish gained six yards in three plays by Layden and Carideo. Then a fourth down pass fell incomplete over the goal line.

Purdue Starts Drive.

Notre Dame gradually replaced its men in the fourth quarter. Fifty-four players were used during the game. With less than three minutes to play, Purdue began its touchdown drive from its own 34 yard line. Carter ran the ends and Drake hit the line in this procession which finally arrived at Notre Dame's 5 yard line. Here a penalty on Notre Dame for fourth time out put the ball on the 1 yard line, and on the next play Carter hit Notre Dame's left guard for the touchdown. Toriello place kicked the point.

The game was played with a minimum of passes. Purdue attempted only six, completing two for 23 yards. Notre Dame completed one in eight, but another was ruled completed because of interference and gave the Irish seven yards.

TEMPLETON WINS WATERBURY CUP; DEFEATS AURORA

Westbury, N. Y., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Templeton brought the polo tournament season on Long Island to an end today by defeating Aurora, 9 to 8, in the final match of the Monty Waterbury cup event on International field of the Meadow Brook club. The match was decided after two minutes of overtime play, when Ray Guest drove through a free hit from the sixty yard mark following a safety by Eddie Gerry of Aurora.

Today's victory was the second major tournament to be captured by Templeton this week, the guest quartet having beaten Aurora, 10 to 7, on Tuesday in the final match for the national open title. Aurora was defending the laurels won last year in both of these tourneys.

Billiard Stars to Hold Show at World's Fair

Twenty-one leading billiard players will participate in exhibitions tomorrow and Tuesday at the World's Fair. All of the present champions, as well as former champions, have agreed to appear, and the days have been set aside as National Billiard days.

The exhibitions, free to the public, will be held in the Grand Salon of the French Pavilion in the Hall of States on Northerly Island. The tournament is sponsored by the National Billiard Association of America, the governing body of billiards in the United States.

The 21 stars will demonstrate all the different forms of the billiard game dating as far back as 100 years ago. In addition they will give a series of fancy shots.

Those who will appear include the following:

Ruth McGinnis, women's professional pocket billiards champion.

George Sutton, Toledo, O.

Charles Seaback, Astoria, N. Y.

Kinrey Matsuyama, New York City, 1934 national 3-cushion billiard champion.

George Spears, Chicago.

P. Natalie, Chicago, 1933 northern sectional champion.

These 21 stars will open a six month's tour of the United States Oct. 22, in connection with the national "Better Billiards" program. They will play in all the larger cities from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and from the Canadian boundary line to the Gulf of Mexico.

Valparaiso Eleven Runs Over Evansville, 19 to 0

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Valparaiso won its third game here this afternoon defeating Evansville, 19 to 0. Valparaiso made three marches the length of the field that resulted in scores.

LAKE VIEW WINS 3D IN ROW; BEATS AMUNDSEN, 6 TO 0

Harrison, Hyde Park and Fenger Also Triumph.

Victories of Lake View, Hyde Park, Fenger and Harrison Tech featured the third round of games in four sections of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday.

Lake View scored its third consecutive victory and took undisputed possession of first place in the north section, defeating Amundsen, 6 to 0, at De Paul field. Full Back Kaiser plunged one yard for the winning touchdown in the first quarter.

Harrison Tech, defending champion, which lost its opening game in the west division, defeated Austin, 14 to 6, at Mills stadium. Juszozyk ran 17 yards for a touchdown after catching a lateral pass in the last period to enable Harrison to triumph.

Students Delay Game.

Students swarmed over White City field in the third period as Hyde Park defeated its traditional rival, Englewood, 6 to 0, for its third straight central section victory. The game was delayed 20 minutes before police restored order. Hyde Park now leads the sectional race.

Hyde Park scored early in the first quarter when Full Back Hamity tossed a 20 yard pass to Art Siegel. Englewood threatened in the third period, reaching the one yard line, but lost the ball on downs.

Fenger went to the top in the south division, defeating Phillips, 12 to 0, at 115th and Halsted streets. Williams scored the first Fenger touchdown in the opening quarter on a 10 yard run, and Kubika, substitute left guard, scored on a 20 yard dash after intercepting a pass.

Roosevelt and Senn Win.

Roosevelt and Senn triumphed in two other north section games. The former beat Foreman, 19 to 0, and Senn won, 7 to 6, from Schurz. In the west division, Marshall scored its second triumph, defeating Farragut, 14 to 13. Calumet won its second south section contest, routing Hirsch, 25 to 6, at Shewbridge field.

TETTERTON AND SCHNEIDER HEAD EVANSTON CARD

The two leading dirt track drivers of the district, Ted Tetterton of North Chicago and Jimmy Schneider of Evanston, will head a star field of pilots in today's program of automobile racing at the Evanston Motor speedway, Lincoln and Devon avenues.

Starting at 3 p. m., when the starter's flag will send the field away in a 10 lap race, there will be four events contested. Another 10 lap race, one at 15 laps and a windup at 20 laps complete the card.

Tetterton and Schneider have been on a victory march at the northwest side half-miler recently. Between them they have practically monopolized the races, Tetterton running up a string of nine straight victories and Schneider one of six before they were defeated.

Their chief rival today seems to be Ernie Carlson, a young Chicagoan.

Evanston Triumphs Over Deerfield, 21-7; Maine Wins

Maine Township High school of Des Plaines, champion of the West Suburban conference, and Evanston, co-champion of the Suburban league, made successful starts in their opening league games yesterday. Evanston defeated Deerfield, 21 to 7, at Evanston, and Maine won, 6 to 0, from Downers Grove on the latter's field.

Maine made its touchdown early in the fourth quarter when Singer, left half back, scored from the one yard line. Maine threatened in the second period, but the Downers Grove line held. It was Downers Grove's second conference game and its first loss.

Score on Passes.

Two of Evanston's touchdowns against Deerfield were scored by forward passes, and the third came on a one yard plunge by Smith. In the second quarter, Smith caught a long pass from Babcock and dashed 15 yards for a touchdown. Babcock scored on a pass from Smith in the third period.

In another West Suburban conference game, York of Elmhurst, handed Hinsdale a 13 to 6 defeat at Hinsdale. It was York's first conference victory and Hinsdale's second defeat. Ward and Weber scored York's touchdowns, the former after a 16 yard pass from White, and Weber going over from three yards out.

Thornton Routs Bloom.

Thornton Fractional of Calumet City and Thornton High of Harvey triumphed in South Suburban league games. Thornton Fractional defeated Blue Island, 20 to 6, and Thornton High routed Bloom, 25 to 6.

ST. IGNATIUS, 39; WEBER, 0

St. Ignatius' football team yesterday scored its first victory in the west section of the Chicago Catholic High School league, routing Weber, 39 to 0, at St. Philip field. It was Weber's second straight defeat.

Leading St. Ignatius was Tony Ippilito, full back, who scored four touchdowns. He accounted for three in the first half. In the third quarter, Ippilito dashed 60 yards for his other score.

Four league games will be played today, St. Patrick and Leo making their first appearances in league competition. Leo will oppose De La Salle in an east section game at St. Rita field, 63d street and Claremont avenue, and St. Patrick will meet St. Philip at St. Philip field, Van Buren and Albany streets.

Mount Carmel, which defeated Loyola, 33 to 0, last Sunday, will seek its second triumph in the east division against De Paul at De Paul field, Webster and Sheffield avenues. In the other game St. George of Evanston will face Loyola at Loyola stadium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue.

The St. Ignatius-Weber lineup:

NEW ROCHELLE CRACKS DOWN ON LANE TECH, 36-0

New Rochelle, N. Y., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Lane Technical High school of Chicago today lost, 36 to 0, to New Rochelle High school at Senior field here. A crowd of 8,000 watched the Westchester county champions score their 19th victory in three seasons, during which time they have held all opponents scoreless.

New Rochelle counted in the first five minutes of play when Connie Rizzotti went over from the three yard line. Thereafter Lane was on the defensive as the New Rochelle backs cracked through the line and raced outside the ends.

PARKS DISTRICT GYMNASIUMS TO OPEN TOMORROW

Gymnasiums in the four parks of the Chicago parks district, formerly the northwest parks system, will be opened tomorrow. Swimming, boxing, wrestling and gymnastics are among the events on the program for regular classes. The classes will be under the direction of Harold Baker.

The classes will be held at the following parks: Blackhawk, Laverne and Belden streets; Riis park, Narragansett and Fullerton streets; Kosciuszko park, Avers and Diversey, and Kelvyn park.

KRONE CRASHES COLLEGE GATES WITH MATMEN!

Dr. John Krone always has contended that heavyweight wrestling is a noble, uplifting sport worthy of the support of any community's best citizens. In some quarters, the doctor's claims were not taken seriously, but those scoffers now have been dealt a body blow by the old campaigner.

He is going to take the grunters and groaners into a university. At last he has grappling on the high plane he believes it should be.

Next Friday night, the veteran promoter will lead a herd of 12 plus-200 pounders to the historic campus of Loyola university and usher them into the spacious gymnasium.

It will be Krone's hour of triumph. A professional heavyweight wrestling program at a center of learning.

Dramatic Art, Doc?

Said Krone last night:

"When I arranged to get the Loyola gymnasium and stated my intentions were to stage a wrestling presentation, it was suggested that perhaps what I wanted was the dramatic art classroom and not the gym. But one bumps into those sorts of things."

It was suggested in some quarters that Dr. Krone was granted use of the gymnasium because certain of the Loyola professors, having read and heard by word of mouth of these strange creatures who bounce, bite, bicker, blow, blaspheme, batter, etc., in the ring, wanted to study them at first hand. So it would not be surprising if the front row next Friday night were filled with educators.

Abe's on the Card.

And what specimens the doctor has to offer! Take, for instance Abe Coleman, called the "ape man," a squat, hairy chested individual who is only 5 feet 2 inches tall, but who weighs 212 pounds. His opponent is Jim McMillen, who boasts a degree from the University of Illinois. These two are down for the main event, one fall with an hour and half time limit.

The professors also will have a chance to see other collegians, now turned wrestlers in action. There is Leo Numa, who was quite a campus figure at the University of Washington, and Dr. Karl Sarpolis, from the University of Chicago. Numa goes against Hans Bauer, the German carpenter. Sarpolis will meet Fred Grubmier.

ST. CHARLES HOLDS ANNUAL HORSE SHOW

The second annual St. Charles horse show will be held today. Work horses of Kane and DeKalb counties will compete for a silver trophy to be awarded for the best draft horse in halter and the best team of draft horses shown in harness. Val Crane, Edward J. Baker, and Roy Petersen, St. Charles, and T. E. Courtney, DeKalb, have entered horses in these classes.

In the jumping classes the 124th Field Artillery of Chicago, headed by Maj. M. J. McEachren, will have eight horses. Other jumpers entered are those owned by George Tennis, Aurora; G. G. Woodruff and Henry T. Stanton, Wayne; Francis Bontell, Elburn; Joseph W. Savage, La Fox; Jevne Haugen, Barrington, and Le Roi John Williams, Oak Park.

Cornell Graduates Win in University Golf Tourney

A five man team composed of Cornell university graduates won the University tournament at the Chicago Golf club yesterday with a score of 375. The members of the team included Capt. E. P. Waud, A. H. Little, B. F. Taber, A. J. Love, and H. O. Wetmore. Yale was second with a total of 376.

Harris Beats Alonso for Town and Tennis Title

Jack Harris defeated Jose Alonso, former Spanish Davis cup star, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2, in the finals of the Chicago Town and Tennis club championship tournament yesterday. With Jimmy Anderson, Harris won the doubles title also defeating Sternberg and Nielsen, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

MR. JAMES WINS FROM TROMBONE IN STRETCH DUEL

Betters Enjoy a Thrill at Sportsman's Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Race track betting folks walked into one of the best "naturals" of the year at Sportsmans' Park yesterday afternoon.

The half-mile track champion Trombone was sent out against Mr. James which has been able to hold his own in any sort of company around Chicago this season.

Half mile plungers moved their money in on Trombone in a manner to indicate the race had been run fully 12 hours ahead. The Chicago regulars tossed their bankrolls in on Mr. James. "How can a horse that has been racing in the bushes [they call those far western Canadian tracks the bushes] beat a good champion from Chicago?" the Chicago regulars asked one another.

Gallardia Takes Lead.

Gallardia, a noted sprinter from downstate jumped out into a lead of two lengths. He was running easily with Mr. James second and Trombone third. Around the short course they whizzed in this order and the 10,000 spectators in the grand stand and clubhouse were in a turmoil. Their money was down either on Mr. James or on Trombone. Very few had wagered on Gallardia.

Heading into the stretch for the final run home, Mr. James and Trombone moved up and both passed Gallardia. Their ding-dong finish and stubborn battle through the last furlong was one the crowd will not soon forget.

Mr. James had the most courage and his nose was showing in front as the field passed the line of finish. Gallardia, while conquered, stayed right with them and was close up in third place as it ended.

Keester Makes a Ride.

Jocky Keester was in the saddle on Mr. James. Few of the great jockies of other years have judged pace better and not many of them have ridden a more furious finish.

Mr. James, a son of St. James-Wonderful One, formerly ran for Roy Carruthers, general manager of the Arlington Park Jocky club. He raced in the silks of Clarence Davison of Chicago yesterday, having been purchased by Davison at the end of the Arlington Park season.

Mr. James ran the seven furlongs within a second of the track record. The time was 1:27 3-5. He paid $7.66 for a $2 ticket. Trombone had been made the favorite in the final minutes of the wagering.

Hildur Prince, another champion from the half mile tracks, got many of the half mile track plungers even when he won the mile and a sixteenth sixth race. This was the third victory he had scored during the first week of the Sportsmans' Park season and he accomplished the task quite easily. Wild West finished second and Norman D. was third, but neither was able to offer a serious challenge in the stretch.

Backers Well Paid.

Hildur Prince paid off at better than 6 to 1 in the betting. Old Johnny Leyland booted him on to his easy victory. The time was within less than a second of the track record when he galloped the distance in 1:49 2-5.

The unusual situation of Ald. Coughlin sending an odds on favorite to the post developed in the first race.

Illeanna, a daughter of Polymelian-Camilla S., was the alderman's color-bearer. The dash at 7 furlongs, which engaged 2 year olds, was little more than a romp for the Coughlin filly. She galloped in front most of the way and beat Gin Buck and Diane S. by three lengths.

Wood Leads in Golf Tourney at Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., became the favorite in the $5,000 Louisville open golf tournament today as he turned in a card of 139 for the thirty-six holes already played. His total was four below his nearest rival and five below par for the Louisville Country club course.

Throughout today's second round of play Wood kept up with the pace he set in the opening round yesterday when he knocked four off par with a card of 68. He went around the first nine holes this morning in par 37 and came back in 34, one under standard, for a total of 71.

Espinosa Shoots 69.

However, Wood's card was not the best of the day. Abe Espinosa of Chicago cut three off par in the second round for a 69, but his 76 of yesterday raised his total to 145.

Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn was one of the few others who beat par. His 36—34—70 gave him a total of 146 and kept him in the running for the prize money to be split up after tomorrow's final thirty-six holes.

Next to Wood in the standings tonight were Jug McSpaden of Kansas City, with 143, made up of a 70 yesterday and a 37—36—73 today, and Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., who bettered his 73 of Friday with a 35—35—70 today.

Three Tie at 144.

Others who turned in cards that kept them in the running for at least some of the smaller awards included Byron Harcke of Highland Park, Ill.; Ernie Harrison of Little Rock, Ark.; Herman Barron of St. Paul; Guy Taulsen of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Al Watroud of Birmingham, Mich.; Clarence Click of Bloomfield, N. J.; Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J.; Charles Lacey of Great Neck, L. I.; Tommy Armour of Chicago; Willie Klein of East Williston, N. Y.; Al Collins of Kansas City; Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee; Mortie Dutra of Royal Oak, Mich., and Harry Cooper of Chicago.

Time, :23, :47 3-5, 1:01 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Rickey Roo, $7.14 straight, $4.48 place, $3.36 show; Brilliant Queen, $6.50 place, $4.30 show; Rush Along, $3.58 show. Winner trained by G. H. Morton. Went to post at 3:16½. At post 2 minutes. Start bad from Bahr gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

RICKEY ROO had an advantage at the start, took command at once, forced LADY LORENE wide at the first turn, then drew out and won in hand. BRILLIANT QUEEN, under brisk pressure while gaining, challenged gamely, but was overmatched. RUSH ALONG, forced back sharply at the start, saved much ground thereafter and held on with good courage in the drive.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:46. At post ½ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

MR. JAMES, reserved off the early pace, responded gamely to strong pressure, wore down GAILLARDIA, and stood the drive gamely to outfinish TROMBONE. Latter improved his position gradually, challenged gamely, but was not good enough. GAILLARDIA set a fast early pace but weakened in the drive.

200 AVERAGE IS STILL DREAM OF CLASSIC LEAGUE

Bowlers to Resume Chase for Mark Tonight.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

With a few members getting acquainted with totals over the 700 mark and others finding the 600 bracket more often, averages are improving in the Classic Bowling league, but 200 bowlers are as scarce as snow in the summer time.

During the week Billy Goldammer, Herb Freitag, and Charley Wass coaxed the pins to lend a little cooperation with the result that they all exceeded 700. Goldammer had 724, Freitag 722, and Wass 703. Freitag's lofty count lifted his average to 199, which gives him a tie with Louie Levine for the individual leadership.

What promises to be the most interesting match of tonight's round at the Lorraine Arcade, 810 North Cicero avenue, will be the meeting of the first place Pabst Blue Ribbons and the Monarch Beers, who are tied for third place. Other matches are between Vrba Motors and Edelweiss, Classic and Budweiser, and La Salle-Windsor and the Baby Ruths.

Gold Coast League.

Anheuser-Busch, formerly the Gold Coasts, are holding a one game lead over the Curtiss Butterfingers in the Gold Coast Major league, with a record of ten won and five lost. Despite Zajac's 674 series, the McKessons lost three games to Hoerber Beer and dropped into the cellar. Schedule for Tuesday:

Triangle Shirts vs. McKesson's Old Crow, White Horse Tavern vs. Hoerber Beer, A. J. Williams Jewelry vs. Curtiss Butterfingers, Anheuser-Busch vs. Luxor Cigars.

Here and There.

Otto Stein, national match game champion, will continue his Chicago performances today, meeting A. Plunge at the Highland Recreation at 3 p. m.; Leo Krisch at the Monte Carlo Recreation at 7 p. m., and M. Mareticke at the Cheltenham Recreation at 9:30. . . . The Menorah society of Northwestern university will open its mixed league this morning at the Tavern Town Sport center. Sully Bates will be present to instruct some of the members who are trying out his new ball.

Randolph League.

Paced by Petersen's 681, the Milfords won three more games in the Randolph league, but their most dangerous rivals, the Mineralites, kept in step by picking up a like number of victories. It's getting to look more and more that the race will be a two team affair, since the Birk Brothers, who finished closest to the Mineralites last year, were knocked off in three more games.

Woodlawn Major League.

The revamped Everett Coal Company team, formerly the Oofondaliers, went wild in the Woodlawn Major league when they totaled 3,273 for high series and clicked with 1,177 for their first game. Dick Winsberg led with 722, which included a 288. Others on his team had: Taylor, 676; Brown, 641; McGlone, 634, and Reinhart, 600. For their opponents, the Crest, West had 616, which included a 266 game. Other 600 totals were Kluge, 623; Hile, 617; Kelly, 603; Helgren, 660; Darling, 603; Bernhardt, 690, and Cooksey, 625. The "400" club had for new members Armstrong, 478; Gordon, 481; Fitzgerald, 490, and Christie, 483. The schedule for tomorrow night:

Everett Coal Company vs. Woodlawns, American Brakebloks vs. Crest Recreation, Brucks vs. James M. Whalens, Miller High Life vs. Blooms Florists.

Windy City League.

The Mineralites rolled 3,067 for high series in the Windy City league and this lifted them into first place with 12 won and 3 lost. Biggest factor in the Mineralites' success was Bobby Rusch with 742 and a 268 game, both season highs. Two defeats at the hands of the lowly Pilsen Olympias knocked the Lauterbach Coals into a second place tie with the Charles Denbys and O'Keefe Coals. Tomorrow's schedule:

Charles Denbys vs. Blazek Tailors; O'Keefe Coals vs. Soper Brothers; Bender-Bluemke Dairy vs. McKesson's Old Crow; Pilsen Olympia vs. J. M. Kralovecs; Vogel Brothers vs. Mayor Cerny; Betinis Boosters vs. Vrba Motors; Curtiss Buy-Jiminy vs. Mineralites; Lauterbach Coal vs Arcade Tavern.

North End League.

Joe Sinke, with games of 245, 224, and 263 and a 733 total, and the Birk's Superbs, with a 3,135 total, topped the shooting in the North End Traveling league. Sinke's scores were the second high in this league this season. As a result the Superbs had little trouble downing the P. J. Westers in three games. All of the leaders held their respective places, the league-leading Milfords taking two from the Miller High Lifes, the Samuelsons copping the odd from the Foxes and the Idle Hours doing likewise to the Michelobs. The second place Samuelsons will meet their first stiff test tomorrow night when they roll the league-leading Milfords. The schedule:

Milfords at Samuelson's arcade, 7 p. m.; Fox's De Luxe vs. Birk Brothers, at Lincoln square, 7 p. m.; Miller High Lifes vs. Westers at Bryn Mawr, 7 p. m.; Superbs vs. Michelobs at North Town, 7 p. m.; Idle Hours vs. Butterfingers at Gold Coast, 9 p. m.

About the Women.

By sweeping their series while the Birk's Superbs were losing one game, the Alberti Jewelers are now undisputed leaders of the Congress Ladies' league. After 15 losses, the Unhochs, who added Tracey Lawler to their lineup, crashed through to three victories over the Grein Funeral Directors. Among the high games were those of Harriett Bennett, 240; Gertrude Dornblaser, 229; Marie Warmbier, 223; Fritzi Trettin, 222; Celia Grob, 214; Dorothy Burmeister, 213; Marie Matkin, 211; Margaret Frank, 207, and Edith Kirg, 203.

BALD? Give Your Scalp a Chance

Japanese Oil is the name of the remarkably successful preparation that thousands are using to get rid of loose dandruff, stop scalp itch and grow strong, healthy hair on thin and partially bald spots where hair roots are not dead. This famous antiseptic counter-irritant stimulates circulation in the scalp, brings an abundant supply of blood to nourish and feed starved hair roots—one of the chief causes of baldness. STOCKS WEAKEN ON UNCERTAINTY ABOUT DOLLAR

All Groups Decline; Turnover Larger.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 13.—Confusing advices from Washington regarding the administration's actual currency policies made for uncertainty in speculative circles today. Selling orders predominated in the early trading. The list steadied somewhat later, but closed irregularly lower.

Losses among the more active trading mediums ranged from a fraction to around a point. Favored specialties here and there moved against the trend for one reason or another. A few specialties advanced as much as 2 or 3 points.

Merchandising Shares Dip.

A feature was the softness of low priced merchandising issues, which have been buoyant of late on an increase of bullish speculation based supposedly on reorganization plan reports and generally better business statistics. The explanation for the sudden reversal in the group's trend today was that the securities commission had listed one of the most popular issues of the lot for early investigation.

Further price cuts in the gasoline markets were reflected in lower quotations for the pivotal oil shares. Standard Oil of New Jersey sold off a full point on the disclosures that this company had slashed its prices 4 cents a gallon in the last three days.

The so-called currency metal stocks were sold on the chorus of overnight denials at Washington that a further devaluation of the dollar is in immediate prospect. The more active issues of the group turned about with other victims of the early selling, however, and the final losses were generally in terms of fractions. The fresh decline in wheat militated against the farm implement and mail order shares and textile stocks were sold following the President's affirmation of the 36 hour week for the garment industry.

Auburn Moves Against Trend.

In the automobile division Auburn moved against the trend for a gain of more than a point, while Chrysler and General Motors were seeking easier ground. Brokers said the buying in this and other strong stocks reflected in some measure a widespread belief in the street that some form of inflation is coming, regardless of the reports to the contrary.

Railroad shares swung with the general list. Delaware and Hudson provided some diversion by dropping nearly 2 points and later recovering about half its lost ground.

U. S. Steel dropped a point in the early trading, recovered, and then fell back to close a point lower. American Telephone was a weak spot in the communications group.

SEC WILL USE "DETECTIVES" IN STOCK MARKET

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission, which on Monday assumes its full power over the security markets, today marshaled a corps of "stock market detectives."

Wall street experts have been selected by the commission for the "detective" rôles to see that manipulation is curbed. Theoretically, they will be able to tell, in part, from watching the ticker tape whether manipulation is in progress.

The SEC's final preparations consisted largely of checking lists of registered securities so that exchanges may know what issues are eligible for trading. Registration means that the corporations concerned have filed statements disclosing certain information about themselves with the SEC. Only such securities may be traded in legally. Registration at present, however, is largely a matter of form and will later be made more stringent.

Margin requirements, set by the federal reserve board, follow the SEC act which provides a range of 25 to 45 per cent. These become effective Monday.

MANUFACTURERS WILL SCAN 1935 UNDER NEW DEAL

"What Industry May Expect from the New Deal in 1935" will be the subject of four dinner meetings sponsored by the Illinois Manufacturers' association, in St. Louis on Oct. 19 and Feb. 15, East St. Louis on Nov. 22, and Belleville, Ill., on Jan. 18, it was announced yesterday.

R. E. Wantz, president of the association, and Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chairman of its advisory board and president of the Whiting corporation, will address the first St. Louis meeting. Silas H. Strawn, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and James H. Shannon, congressman at large from Missouri, will speak at the East St. Louis session.

New Bond Call Adds to Money Plans Puzzle

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Announcement yesterday of the treasury's call of another $1,870,000,000 of Fourth Liberty loan bonds for redemption next April 15 only deepened the mystery surrounding the administration's future monetary policy.

The business and financial world had not been certain that the treasury would issue another call and after the call was announced everybody seemed puzzled as to what it meant.

Some experts interpreted the treasury's decision to go ahead with its program of converting the 4½ per cent Liberty bonds into new bonds bearing a lower rate of interest as definitly constructive development.

Most observers, however, took the view that the treasury had no alternative. Having started the program of calling and refunding the Fourth Liberties, it was pointed out, the treasury could not stop in the middle of this program without admitting failure. This would have been bad for the markets generally, and an exceedingly poor move just before the elections.

Originally there were more than six billions of the Fourth Liberty Loan bonds outstanding, but the amount has been reduced by stages and after the redemption announced for next April 15 there will be only a little more than a billion left outstanding.

The conversion program began just a year ago when the treasury called $1,875,000,000 of the bonds for redemption on April 15, 1934. According to the terms under which the Fourth Liberties were sold during the war a call for redemption must be made six months in advance.

The idea behind the calling of these bonds for redemption has not been to pay them off in cash and thereby reduce the national debt. The purpose is to persuade the holders of the called bonds to accept new long term bonds, bearing a lower interest rate, instead of demanding cash.

The program hasn't been very successful. Holders of an unexpectedly large proportion of the called bonds have chosen to demand cash and others have been willing to accept short term bonds but have spurned long term bonds in exchange for their holdings.

The result has been to increase the proportion of the national debt represented by short term notes. Furthermore, there has been a shift of the government debt from the hands of private investors to the banks. Increasingly the banks have been called upon to absorb more of the national debt.

The second episode in the treasury's conversion program came last April when an additional $1,250,000,000 of Fourth Liberties was called for redemption Oct. 15, 1934. Again the treasury offered holders of the called bonds new long term bonds in exchange for their holdings. This time, however, holders were also offered short term notes. The books on this exchange plan were closed last Thursday and the final figures had not been announced yesterday, but indications were that holders of nearly 20 per cent of the bonds would demand cash. Of the remaining billion holders of nearly 600 millions chose short term notes rather than long term bonds.

How the treasury proposes to meet the additional $1,870,000,000 of bonds which it has called for redemption next April has not yet been disclosed. Obviously it is not the treasury's purpose to redeem them in cash. Another exchange offer is anticipated. It may be announced in December, when the treasury has an additional billion dollars of refinancing to do.

The feeling of uncertainty about the dollar and government credit has been deepened by the events of the last week. President Roosevelt has disclosed that he believes that commodity prices are still too low and that further debasement of the dollar is by no means impossible.

This uncertainty is not helpful to the treasury's operations, but it may be cleared up before next spring, when the treasury has to begin persuading bondholders to accept new bonds instead of cash.

There have been indications that when congress meets in January there will be determined efforts to get new legislation placing the federal reserve banks under the thumb of the treasury. If that should occur the treasury would be able to force the reserve banks to plug up any gaps in its financing operations by requiring the reserve banks to buy more government bonds.

This would, at least temporarily, stiffen government credit and it would, of course, further disguise the effect on government credit of the New Dealers' extravagances.

The main question then would be just how long the reserve banks could go on bailing out the leaking treasury before the public would discover that the government's resorting to the central bank was merely inflation in disguise. If handled cleverly the program might be handled with a fair degree of success until after the presidential election year of 1936.

GRAINS TUMBLE WHEN INFLATION DOSE WEARS OFF

Decline in Foreign Markets Factor.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The inflation scare was pushed aside in the Chicago grain market yesterday. Wheat prices tumbled sharply and pulled other grains down as a result of the decline in the foreign markets Friday while American markets were closed.

The sensitiveness of the market to foreign developments is due to the fact that any material widening of the gap between domestic and foreign prices would make possible importations of foreign grains. Selling far above foreign prices the grain market here is theoretically on a domestic basis. Actually its ability to advance is definitly restricted by foreign prices.

The closing quotations on Liverpool wheat yesterday were 2½ cents a bushel below prices there prior to the holiday here. The Winnipeg market was down about 2 cents.

Chicago Decline More Moderate.

Chicago prices yesterday did not decline the full amount that had taken place in the foreign markets and wheat finished 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents with the December future closing at $1.00⅝. December wheat sold below a dollar a bushel but recovered before the end of the day. Corn futures lost 1 to 1⅜ cents with the principal delivery finishing at 75⅞ cents.

The basis of the decline in the foreign markets Friday and again yesterday was the news on the Australian crop. Needed rains have been received there, according to advices, and prospects for the crop are improved. Argentina was also offering wheat at lower prices and the demand for it slowed up.

In Canada the more favorable weather sped up harvesting and threshing operations, which have been retarded. Marketings of wheat by farmers in the northern area picked up with resultant hedging pressure on the market.

Winter Wheat Lacks Rain.

Aside from the confusing monetary outlook the most important domestic factor now influencing the market is the condition of the winter wheat crop. Apprehension over the new crop has increased steadily for several days. Reports from the southwest give a gloomy picture of the outlook. Early predictions that the derth of moisture in the subsoil would bring heavy damage to the new wheat are being borne out.

The reaction in prices yesterday brought no real depression in sentiment. Some corrective decline had been expected and it was only a matter of when it would come. The volume of trading yesterday was not heavy.

Oats and rye futures followed the trend of the market leaders and closed moderately lower. Oats ended ⅜ to 1⅛ cents below the Thursday quotations and rye lost ⅝ to 1⅝ cents. Another cargo of Polish rye was unloaded in Chicago yesterday.

MOODY'S INDEX REVEALS MIXED BUSINESS TREND

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Statistics appearing during the last week indicated a mixed business tendency, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output.

H. H. ADAMS QUITS NORTH. INDIANA PUBLIC SERVICE

H. H. Adams, vice president and general manager of the Northern Indiana Public Service company, has resigned his position, effective Monday, it was announced yesterday by John N. Shanahan, chairman.

He also resigned as assistant to the president of the Gary Heat, Light and Water company as vice president and general manager of the Indiana Hydro-Electric Power company, and from the directorate of the Indiana Service corporation. No reason was given for his resignation nor was appointment of a successor revealed.

Morse Dellplain, who resigned the presidency of Northern Indiana Public Service earlier last week, will leave soon for Philadelphia, to become vice president of the Welsbach Street Lighting Company of America.

GRIGSBY-GRUNOW CREDITORS SEEK REORGANIZATION

Reorganization of the Grigsby-Grunow company under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law was asked in federal court here by three creditors with claims aggregating $29,785. The case was assigned for hearing to Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

The creditors—Stille Young corporation, Raffel corporation, and Nielson Brothers—charge the firm is insolvent and unable to pay its debts. The bill says a bankruptcy petition was filed Feb. 17, 1934, and adjudication occurred shortly afterward. Assets, according to the petition, total $8,188,657 and liabilities $4,650,000.

Faulty Politics Hurts Nation, Says Childs

Politicians think they are economists and not a few economists think they are politicians; as a result we get the worst of both, C. F. Childs, president of C. F. Childs & Co., one of the biggest dealers in government securities, says of the present situation in the company's current bulletin.

C. F. CHILDS. [U. & U. Photo.]

"The duty of the economist is to state the economic law; the business of the politician is to implement it," the review says. "Unfortunately the economic outlook of the politician is governed not by what he ought to do, but by what he thinks he can do with the greatest political advantage to himself and his party. The public is never told the economic truth. The touchstone of present economic program appears to be 'yearings' instead of earnings."

How Business Is Disturbed.

Enforcing expenditures instead of economies, testing socialistic schemes instead of applying proven principles, imposing monetary maneuvers to cheapen currency instead of assuring sound money, continue to disturb the confidence of business, stagnate initiative and alarm capital, the bulletin asserts.

"Our nation has the will and wealth to readjust its affairs to present day conditions, but hesitates to lend support to uncertain governmental policies, idealistic reformations and vast expenditures, politically prescribed and promoted," it says.

"No government can make work except by the uneconomic expedient of appropriating the nation's savings, or alternately by inflation. By absorbing the public's savings with loans or taxation we destroy those very savings which would have been available for natural recovery of trade when economic principles are once more allowed free play. The best the government can do since it cannot work is to anticipate future work and leave it to posterity or the next government to get us out of the mess."

Declares Inflation Fraud.

The company describes currency inflation as a deceitful disease, an insidious fraud, which invariably leads to social and financial catastrophe. What first appears to be a temporary stimulant is ultimately recognized as a sinister, poisonous drug, making debt payments easier but robbing the thrifty creditor, the bulletin points out.

"We can continue jockying the dollar indefinitly for internal purposes with little realization that the dollar has been ravished and its caretakers robbed until reckoning days arrive," it says.

By removing disturbing factors public confidence would normally suffice to maintain U. S. government credit at the highest level enjoyed by the world's nations, the review says, but warns that while disturbing factors and conditions prevail confidence will be limited.

"Since low interest rates do not attract individual investors, banks possessing unprecedented excess reserves or unlendable deposits on which they pay little or no interest are primarily and naturally purchasers of government securities," it continues.

Banks Are Main Support.

"Banks are now the government's main support of the national credit. Owned by private capital and merely trustees for depositors, banks also must have confidence in the national credit. Their stockholders might be the chief victims from a market decline in government securities.

"In general banks may pledge government securities to obtain special deposits of public funds under governmental supervision. Such performances temper the accusation that government securities are altogether frozen assets when the market is unable to absorb them at nominal quotations. A respectable degree of liquidity, coupled with the knowledge that the bonds are as sound as the government or its currency, should never find United States government bonds an undesirable asset."

WEEK'S COMMODITY TRADING MARKED BY UPTURNS IN GRAINS

The advance in the grain market was the outstanding development in commodity markets last week. Grain futures rose 3 to 5 cents a bushel, although yesterday's trading carried quotations off from the top prices.

Other commodities followed an irregular trend. Inflation fears, however, resulted in a number of commodities closing above the preceding week's quotations.

The following table shows yesterday's closing quotations on a representative list of commodities as compared with the preceding week's final prices and the high and low quotations for the season:

DOLLAR RALLIES AGAINST FRANC AND STERLING

New York, Oct. 13.—[Special.]—The dollar was stronger in the exchange market here today as the British pound lost 1½ cents and the French franc dipped 1⅜ points. Foreign prices on gold and silver also declined.

The pound closed at $4.91¾, against $4.93¼ on Thursday, while the franc was quoted at 6.64⅝ cents, which placed the value of the dollar in terms of the franc at 58.95 cents, compared with 58.82 cents on Thursday.

Canadian dollars were 6¼ points higher at $1.0218¾, while other leading currencies were lower in sympathy with the easing of the franc. The German mark closed at 40.66 cents, down 4 points. The Italian lira dipped 1¼ points to 8.63½ cents, the Swiss franc 7 points to 32.88, and the Dutch florin 9 points to 68.38.

Bar gold in London declined 4½ pense to 142 shillings 8½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $35.22, based on the opening of sterling at $4.93⅝. An amount valued at $1,041,549 changed hands. Bar silver was 1-16 penny lower at 24⅜ pence a fine ounce. The price of foreign silver for industrial use in New York was unchanged at the high level since 1929 of 53⅝ cents an ounce.

Total sales of 25 chain store companies, including two mail order concerns, for September totaled $183,980,350, against $164,973,324 in September, 1933, an increase of 11.52 per cent, according to a compilation by Merrill, Lynch & Co.

CHICAGO'S GASOLINE BATTLEFRONT QUIET; WAR RAGES IN EAST

While a temporary cessation of hostilities occurred yesterday in Chicago's gasoline price war the battle continued in several other states. Standard Oil company of New Jersey cut its retail price another cent a gallon in northern New Jersey, making a total reduction of 4.4 cents since Thursday.

The additional cut brought a protest from Allen B. Tint of the Regal Oil company, who wired Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, that "the entire gasoline price structure so laboriously developed over the last eighteen months is seriously threatened."

Standard officials charge Regal Oil with precipitating the clash by meeting Standard's cut of 2 cents a gallon Thursday with one of 2.4 cents. A similar situation prevailed in southern New Jersey where reductions aggregating 5.4 cents a gallon have been made by Standard since Thursday.

French Boost U.S. Tarifs as Bargain Basis

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Publication this week of a new decree by the French government increasing duties on American sewing machines and certain categories of machine tools has revived interest here in the commercial problems underlying the business crisis everywhere.

The prevailing impression in American business circles here is that France is arbitrarily increasing tarifs on American imports in the expectation that early negotiations for a Franco-American trade accord will result. Diplomats of this country with real Gallic logic have figured out that since it is obviously going to be necessary for France to make some concessions to obtain advantages from America, the only way to do this painlessly is to slap on all sorts of duties before the negotiations start and then offer handsomely to restore them to a former level.

Many Tarifs Increased.

To substantiate this sinister suspicion American business observers here point to a long list of United States exports on which the French government has decreed larger or smaller tarif increases during the last few months and also to the fact that sewing machines and machine tools, hit by the latest tarif boost, are already under the quota.

Justification for the increased duties in this case are more than obscure unless the French are planning to eliminate the quota on these articles altogether and depend on the tarif to protect the home market—and so far they have given no indication of having any such thing in mind.

American diplomats here are thoroughly familiar with the French policy of increasing duties and diminishing the quota just to obtain an improved bargaining position, but it is very difficult to do anything about it.

Markets More Cheerful.

On the financial front, shaken this week by the assassinations at Marseilles, there is very little to say except that with real Gallic perverseness the bourse is feeling much better than last week. The ministry of finance has somehow achieved the miracle of persuading the cautious citizens of this republic to take some 7 billion francs—$46,000,000—out of their socks and invest it in medium term treasury bonds, thus making it easy for the government to reimbuse holders of the so-called Clementel 1924 bonds maturing this year and leaving something over for emergencies. In consequence the issue will be closed Monday.

French rentes toward the end of the week recovered losses caused by the news of King Alexander's assassination and the bourse as a whole ended with a more cheerful tone.

There is also beginning to be evident a noticeable easing up of the tension on the money market, discount rates on various categories of government bonds reflecting the tendency clearly.

AM. TELEPHONE OPERATING NET SAGS IN AUGUST

American Telephone and Telegraph company in a report covering operating activities only, excluding nonoperating income and nonoperating charges, shows August gross revenue of $7,379,797, against $7,531,780 in August, 1933. August net operating income was $1,120,477, against $1,618,438 a year ago. Gross for eight months was $60,148,666, against $57,337,036.

New England Telephone and Telegraph company, a subsidiary, reported August net operating income of $1,016,081, as compared with $1,202,417 in the same month a year ago. Gross income for the month was $5,600,850, compared with $5,437,113 a year ago.

Britons Hoard Gold Again as Pound Plunges

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Renewed hoarding of gold and further weakening of sterling in terms of gold made the week interesting if unmemorable. John Bull's paper pound now buys a shade less than 60 per cent of the gold contents of the old gold sovereign. That is history for you.

All the woes which in the popular view of the "city" followed Winston Churchill's resumption of the gold standard on April 28, 1925, flowed from the fact that the new gold pound was said to be overvalued against gold by about 10 per cent; that is, when foreigners sought to buy pounds with which to pay for their imports from Great Britain they found the pound too expensive by about 10 per cent, which is only another way of saying that British goods were that much too high in price.

But Trade Doesn't Expand.

Now there is a depreciation of the pound by slightly more than 40 per cent and the world ought to be tumbling over itself to procure the admirable products of British workshops. But in the last 12 months British exports—even when measured in depreciated paper pounds—wobbled along just a shade better than horizontal.

Here and there individual firms find the outlook exhilarating but the nation's workshops as a whole miss forign trade acutely. This is partly their own fault, or at any rate the fault of the whole rigid British technique, for across the channel, little Belgium, faced by a precisely similar contraction in world trade, studies the situation carefully and, despite the handicap of being on the gold standard, accomplishes the remarkable feat of very nearly doubling its exports to—of all countries—Japan.

Say Foreigners Buy Gold.

The hoarding of gold continues on a fairly big scale. One continental financial newspaper suggested that Englishmen are rushing to buy gold but in London we say disdainfully that foreigners are doing it all. Foreigners are understood to include Americans. It is probably true that the new "forward" market in gold owes its present remarkable vitality to American funds in London. It is now possible to buy or sell gold for three months and six months delivery in advance, precisely like any other commodity.

The jump in silver during the week was remarkable. The rise Thursday of the spot price by one penny and one-eighth per standard ounce has not been seen for many long days. The bullion market was distinctly excited but New York came in a heavy seller during the afternoon on the view that price had risen beyond reason. There is now a heavy bull account in the white metal.

EXPECT CLOSER TIE BETWEEN U. S. AND BANKERS

New York, Oct. 13.—[Special.]—The annual convention of the American Bankers' association, which opens in Washington a week from tomorrow, may mark a turning point in the relations between the banking community and the federal administration. It is regarded as certain that it will mark a turning point in the relations between the association and the so-called "big bankers" of the country, particularly the big Wall street bankers.

The convention program has been given over almost entirely to the government. The program announced by Francis Marion Law, president of the association, includes addresses by President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

In the course of these addresses the administration's attitude toward the bankers and its expectations of further changes in the legislation governing the banking system may be thrashed out. The opinion is growing among bankers that the rift between the bankers and the government which arose out of differences over monetary policies and banking reforms is beginning to be healed. An opportunity will be provided at the convention to test this opinion.

QUEBEC FORCES HIGHER PRICES FOR NEWSPRINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Oct. 13.—Newsprint manufacturers in Quebec province will feel Premier Taschereau's "big whip" if they make new contracts with United States publishers for newsprint at $40 a ton, the present price.

The "big whip" is withdrawal of all governmental aid in the form of reduced stumpage dues and ground rents, all of which have been cut in the last few years by as much as 50 per cent.

Unconfirmed reports that the St. Lawrence Pulp and Paper corporation was signing 1935 contracts with Hearst and Scripps interests at $40.00 were responsible for the premier's threat to withdraw governmental aid.

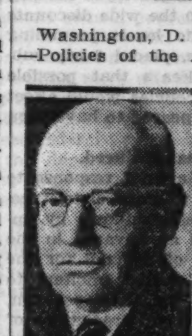
NEW ENGLAND FINANCIAL SERVICE

244 WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

GERMANY, U. S. CLASH ON DEBT, TRADE ACCORD

Method of Payment Means Loss.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[U.P.]—Policies of the American and German governments collided head-on today on two important issues—the manner in which Germany proposes to meet interest payments on her bond issues, and the principle of "most favored nation" treatment in commercial relations.



DR. HANS LUTHER. [A. P. Photo.]

In the first, the German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, formally notified William Phillips, undersecretary of state, that in meeting the Oct. 15 payment of interest due on the German "Dawes" bonds, Germany proposes to pay American holders of these bonds 50 per cent in cash, or foreign exchange, and the other 50 per cent in registered marks, which is a limited form of German currency which may be spent only in Germany, and is not usuable for purchase of foreign exchange.

Good Only at Discount.

It was explained by the German government that these registered marks might be traded for foreign exchange on a basis of about 30 per cent discount. On such a basis the American bondholders would receive about 75 per cent of the payment due them.

The American government contends this is discrimination against the American bondholders. The state department asserts that arrangements have been made by the German government for payment in full to other nationals.

Of less interest, perhaps, to the general public because of its technical nature, but considered by state department officials as far more important in the national scheme of things, was Germany's decision to abrogate the "most favored nation" clause in the German-American commercial treaty. State department officials said this struck "at the very heart of the treaty," because it is the declared policy of the American government to maintain "most favored nation" treatment in its foreign commercial policy.

Would Eliminate Clause.

Luther, in serving notice of Germany's intention to abrogate the commercial treaty on Oct. 14, 1935, made it plain that Germany desires to renew that treaty, with the "most favored nation" clause eliminated.

In this clause each nation guarantees the goods of the other treatment on an equality of that accorded the "favored nations" Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his advisers believe this clause in all future commercial treaties is necessary to speed international recovery.

The German government, however, contends that retention of this clause prevents Germany from negotiating two party agreements with a number of foreign nations for better arrangements and trading methods by which Germany might obtain the raw materials necessary to her industry.

About $1,000,000 Involved.

The amount involved in the loan payment is not large—something less than $1,000,000. The total due on Oct. 15 as interest on American held Dawes bonds is approximately $2,100,000. Of this sum the German government had paid into the Bank for International Settlements at Basle, Switzerland, the equivalent of $1,113,000 for transfer to the American bondholders. There remains about $974,000 to be paid in registered marks.

Informed that the plan was being put forward by the German government, the state department on Oct. 10

Notice of third call for partial redemption before maturity.

To holders of fourth liberty loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38 and others concerned:

Public notice is hereby given:

1. All outstanding fourth liberty loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38 (fourth 4¼'s) bearing serial numbers the final digit of which is 5, 6 or 7 (such serial numbers in the case of permanent coupon bonds being prefixed by the corresponding distinguishing letter E, F or G, respectively), are hereby called for redemption on April 15, 1935, on which date interest on such bonds called for redemption will cease.

2. This third call for partial redemption is made pursuant to the provision for redemption contained in the bonds and in treasury department circular No. 121, dated September 28, 1918, under which the bonds were originally issued, the bonds to be redeemed having been determined by lot in the manner prescribed by the secretary of the treasury.

3. Outstanding fourth 4¼'s bearing serial numbers (and prefix letters) other than those designated are not included in or affected by this third call for partial redemption.

Holders of fourth 4¼'s now called for redemption on April 15, 1935, may, in advance of that date, be offered the privilege of exchanging their third-called bonds for other interest-bearing obligations of the United States, in which event public notice will hereafter be given.

Full information regarding the presentation and surrender of fourth 4¼'s under this call is given in department circular No. 525, dated October 12, 1934.

HENRY MORGENTHAU JR., Secretary of the Treasury.

Treasury Department, Washington, October 12, 1934.

Fourth 4¼'s bearing serial numbers ending in 1, 2, 8, 9 or 0, have heretofore been called for redemption.

COPPER DEMAND BROADENS; PRICE BASIS IS FIRM

Zinc Reduced $1.50 a Ton; Lead Steady.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Demand for copper suddenly broadened in the last week, following a protracted period of dullness. There were indications that the 9 cent basis for Blue Eagle electrolytic would be maintained and the market derived further support from views attributed to the administration favoring higher commodity prices.

Consumers who had delayed making purchases owing to the wide discounts under the domestic levels prevailing in foreign markets, placed fairly substantial orders. Fears that possible changes in NRA policies would affect the copper code appeared to have been allayed.

Zinc Prices Reduced.

Zinc made only a brief response to reports from the tri-state district regarding a two week shutdown by important mines and an advance in the ore price. Failure of demand for the metal to broaden caused smelters to reduce quotations by $1.50 per ton, but consumers held off. Predictions of a further advance in ore and firmness of speculative markets accounted for a slightly steadier undertone toward the close of the week.

Tin prices fluctuated erratically in direct reflection of changes in sterling exchange, but business was small. Prices at London in terms of sterling were unchanged. In this country new tin plate buying is expected to taper off toward the close of the year, pending announcement of prices that will prevail in 1935. Last week's rate of tin plate operations was off to about 40 per cent of capacity.

Lead Quiet and Steady.

Lead remained quiet and without quotable change. The various consuming trades were said to have anticipated the bulk of their October requirements and apparently were not disposed to make further forward commitments. On the other hand, smelters had sufficient orders to absorb metal output and there was no pressure.

Antimony dealers reported the appearance of some European inquiry for metal owing to firmness at China, but domestic business was still confined to small prompt lots at steady prices.

Curb Exchange's Short Interest Shows Increase

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The short position in stocks on the New York Curb exchange as of Sept. 28 was 19,485 shares, against 14,632 shares on Aug. 31, the exchange announced today.

COTTON FUTURES DECLINE AS LIQUIDATION DEVELOPS

Scattered liquidation developed in cotton futures yesterday. Weakness in foreign markets and the poor consumption during the month of September, combined with the letup in inflation talk, were the dominating influences. Closing trades were at net losses of 9 to 15 points in Chicago and 6 to 15 points in other markets.

Census bureau report placed consumption of cotton in September at only 290,000 bales, compared with 421,000 bales in August and 499,000 bales in September last year, the textile strike being a factor in curtailing the use of the staple last month. Spot cotton closed 10 points lower, with New Orleans, 12.65 cents; Galveston and Houston, 12.60 cents, and New York, 12.55 cents. Prices follow:

10 government issues	108.20	108.19	108.06	102.34

New York, Oct. 13.—Bond prices were mostly higher in fairly active trading today. United States government issues were up 1-32 to 15-32 of a point on a turnover of $1,131,500, compared with $2,449,100 last Saturday. Total transactions rose slightly to $6,591,000.

High grade domestic issues showed the most strength. What part the attempt of Washington to allay fears of further inflation had on the bond market is difficult to determine, although the opinion of most traders was that it was not an important factor.

The rail obligations showed the most strength of the domestic groups, probably reflecting the belief that the freight rate increase would be granted by the ICC and also that the new Association of American Railroads would be able to do something to aid the carriers. The utility group also was moderately higher, but the industrial issues were slightly lower.

The foreign list was about steady. German government 7s, the Dawes plan loan, gained 1½ points on the announcement that part of the interest on the bonds would be paid Monday. The Young plan bonds also responded fractionally.

Whisky Certificates.

The flood of inquiries to Investors' Guide regarding whisky warehouse receipts indicates not only that many inquirers know little about them, but that some regard them as desirable investments.

These receipts merely indicate that the owner has a barrel of whisky reposing in some warehouse. Distilleries are in the main more interested in producing whisky than in holding it. Many of them do not have the capital necessary to store as well as manufacture the product. They therefore deposit a barrel of freshly made whisky in a government warehouse, get a receipt for it and sell the receipt.

Prior to prohibition the general market for the warehouse receipts was saloonkeepers, who, anticipating a lively over the counter business for aged whisky some years in the future, would lay in an early supply. Today, however, the market consists largely of the uninformed public.

Even if the dealers in whisky certificates would give the sucker an even break the certificates would be speculative. The whisky must remain in the warehouse for a number of years. During that period warehouse charges accumulate and a substantial portion of the whisky is lost through evaporation.

It is impossible to determine what legislation regarding whisky will be passed in future years and what new taxes might be imposed. Most important, however, is the question of what demand will exist for whisky when the hopeful whisky owner attempts to sell his liquid asset at the time of withdrawal.

Results to date have been disappointing. Expectations of liquor consumption, especially of the high grade whisky, were woefully exaggerated.

The chief fault with the peddlers of the certificates, however, is the extortionate prices they ask. Whisky that sells for $30 and $40 a barrel is being sold by high pressure methods at fancy sold by high pressure methods at prices of anywhere from $70 a barrel up.

He is glibly told that the receipts are acceptable collateral for bank loans. We have yet to find a bank that will accept them indiscriminately.

There is also another factor that should be given consideration—all whisky is not of the same quality. Individual distilleries turn out different grades of whisky. The majority of it will not age even if it is left in the finest barrels for a century. It will come out just as green as when it was warehoused.

The type of barrels in which the liquor is stored plays an important factor in the ageing process.

It is thus readily apparent that warehouse receipts for whisky are not the "sure thing" that many houses that have been high pressuring the public into buying have claimed them to be. It can also be readily understood why Investors' Guide cautions the general public not to deal in them.

NATION'S MEAT PACKERS GATHER HERE TOMORROW

Federal Official to Talk on Supply Prospect.

Between 1,200 and 1,500 representatives of the nation's meat packers will gather here tomorrow for the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers in the Drake hotel. Advance registrations set an all time record yesterday when the thousand mark was crossed.

The highlight in tomorrow's program is expected to be an address of C. A. Burmeister of the bureau of agricultural economics, Washington, D. C., who is regarded as an outstanding authority on available supplies of live stock in this country.

His talk, "What Will Receipts of Live Stock Be," is expected to reveal just what supplies will be available for processing during the coming year.

Trade Treaties One Topic.

Considerable interest is also attached to a speech on the same program by Henry F. Grady, chief of the trade agreement section, department of state, who will discuss reciprocal trade treaties, particularly those affecting the meat packing industry.

Chester C. Davis, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment act, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner Tuesday evening. His subject has not been announced but it is expected to deal largely with problems of the industry.

Other speakers include Prof. Josh Lee, University of Oklahoma; George Kramer, chairman of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers; Fred E. Clark, Northwestern university; I. M. Hoagland, chairman of the institute's committee on distribution methods; Jay C. Hormel, vice chairman of the institute; and William Whitfield Woods, president of the institute.

Sausage More Popular.

The lowly sausage may soon become as closely identified with beer as ham is with eggs, it was brought out at a preconvention committee meeting yesterday, in which methods of meeting the growing demand for sausage provided the chief topic of discussion. So popular has the sausage become since repeal that sales throughout the country for consumption with beverages and Dutch luncheons have been the greatest on record.

W. H. Gausselin of Chicago, chairman of the National Organization of Sausage Manufacturers, told of the wide variety of sausages now being manufactured, asserting there is a different type for every taste and requirement.

Many Varieties Available.

"Some kinds provide the ideal complement for beverages, others serve as the chief course of the meal, and others are most popular for picnics and incidental purposes," he said. He added that sausage sales in Chicago have been greatly stimulated because of foreign visitors to the Fair, who were offered more than 100 varieties.

Thirty-five men with fifty years of service in the packing industry will be awarded gold service buttons at tomorrow's session. Twelve states are represented. Two of the men are from Cook county. They are William J. Stube, 63, of 5442 South Paulina street, pork production foreman for Wilson & Co., and Peter Rothermel, 1122 North Elmwood street, Oak Park, who is secretary of Hately Brothers company.

BUTTER FUTURES ADVANCE; EGGS UNCHANGED TO HIGHER

Butter futures advanced despite bearish news on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing ¼c to ½c higher. Eggs were unchanged to ⅛c higher.

The movement of storage stocks of butter in the last three days totaled 300,000 lbs. into storage, while in the same period last year over 900,000 lbs came out of storage. This bearish news, however, did not prevent fairly active short covering and new support. The cash market was ½c to 1c higher, which helped the futures.

The movement of eggs out of storage was 11,000 cases less than last year. Receipts were light. Buying was moderately active early, but near the close selling showed a tendency to increase.

Sales: Butter, 70 cars; eggs, 66 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 19 cars; potatoes, 2 cars. Prices follow:

Crop Experts Assert Nation Faces Big Feedstuff Shortage

How severe the feed shortage will be this winter is a matter of lively speculation. The necessity for strict economy in the use of available feedstuffs is obvious. The situation may become much more alarming than is actually necessary if the available supply is not carefully meted out from the beginning, it is generally agreed.

Henry C. Donovan, crop statistician for Thompson & McKinnon, has made a compilation in which he compares the number of animals to be fed and their normal annual consumption with the total of available corn. His figures give effect to the reduction in the number of animals that has taken place this year.

Donovan's figures show that animals to be fed would normally require 2,150,000,000 bushels of corn, but he points out that the present indicated production is only 1,417,000,000 bushels. He further attempts to allocate the available supply to the various classes of live stock.

He finds a hog which normally consumes 17 bushels a year will have only 11.2 bushels. Cattle must be content with 6.6 bushels per head compared with their normal consumption of 10 bushels per head. Horses and mules will get 11.9 bushels apiece instead of their usual 18 if the allocations made by Donovan were actually carried out. Extreme economy is necessary at once, he concludes.

Another leading crop statistician, Nat C. Murray of Clement, Curtis & Co., accents the same picture with a different set of figures. Murray took the indicated aggregate production of the five leading feed grains this year and compared it with the average for the period from 1927 to 1931.

The indicated production for principal producing states this year is 53,297,000 tons of the five grains as compared with the average for the five year period of 100,717,000 tons. This year's production represents only 52.9 per cent of the average annual production of the five year period, which is considered normal.

The crops included are corn, oats, barley, grain sorghums and rye. He details his figures by states also. The details show that this year's crop ranges from a low of 11 per cent of the average in North Dakota to 84 per cent of average in Michigan. In Iowa the total supply available is 44 per cent of normal, in Illinois 49 per cent, and in Indiana 62 per cent.

Another side line on the situation is found in a message received by James E. Bennett & Co. from a feed dealer in Wetherford, Okla. His message follows in part:

"Much wheat went into the ground between Sept. 1 and 20, and got off to a good start, but with no subsoil moisture and no rain since Sept. 10 [about 32 days] the ground is very dry and much of the wheat is dying. All the sorghums are suffering for rain and the prospects for all the feed crops are being reduced.

"If we don't get good rains within 10 days the western half of Oklahoma will be in as bad shape as it was during the July and August drouth.

"With corn shipped in from the north it has to be sold at $1 a bushel, which is 10 cents above what we can pay for wheat. As a result much wheat is being fed to live stock and poultry."

STORED BUTTER DROPS IN SEPTEMBER; FIRST TIME FOR THE MONTH

Storage stocks of butter increased more than 4,000,000 pounds during September, the first time on record that a gain has been shown for that month, the government's monthly report reveals. Last year a net decline of 763,000 pounds was registered, while the average drop for the last five years is 13,000,000 pounds. Total holdings on Oct. 1 were 124,814,000 pounds.

Storage stocks of eggs aggregated 6,803,000 cases, or 663,000 less than last year and 535,000 below average. The movement out of storage during the month amounted to 1,135,000 cases, or 343,000 less than last year and 95,000 under the average for the month.

Frozen egg holdings were 99,881,000 pounds or 6,699,000 pounds more than last year and 6,112,000 more than average. However, 2,800,000 pounds more frozen eggs were consumed in September than in the same month last year. Cheese holdings totaled 108,646,000 pounds, or 9,323,000 more than last year and 24,892,000 more than average. Dressed poultry stocks were 55,271,000 pounds or 5,094,000 more than last year and 5,912,000 more than the average.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 13.—An encouraging amount of business has developed in the last week on territory wools. Sales have included a broader selection than has been taken from territory lines for many weeks. Bids were rejected on a considerably larger volume that was actually moved. Spot Texas wools were quiet and Texas wools held in the country have been less active since the recent advance in prices. Fleeces were quiet except in a few cases where pressure to sell enabled buyers to pick up small lots offered below the generally quoted prices.

LIVE STOCK MEN DECLARE RAIL RATES UNFAIR

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[U. P.]—The Chicago Live Stock exchange today filed complaints with the interstate commerce commission against railroad rates for transportation of meat and packing house products from points west of Chicago to Chicago and points east, charging they are lower than the rates on live stock.

The complaint charged that lower rates on animal products give the slaughterer located west of Chicago a "decided advantage" over those located in the Chicago area or eastward.

The points of origin affected include the states of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

The complainants asked that the railroads be required to answer the charges in a hearing and that after investigation a cease and desist order be issued to stop alleged violation of the interstate commerce act.

U. S. Purchases 4,775,000 Pounds American Cheese

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Federal Surplus Relief corporation today awarded contracts for 4,775,000 pounds of natural American cheese which will be distributed through relief channels. The awards were based on cheese market prices at Plymouth, Wis., and San Francisco, Cal., Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator announced.

U. S. SLAUGHTER OF LIVE STOCK SETS RECORD

Prices Hold Well Despite Vast Program.

Considering the huge volume of meat animals handled by the packing industry last week and for the last three months prices are withstanding pressure remarkably well. Most classes of cattle finished the week about in line with a week earlier, some kinds showing a little improvement. The hog average for the week was down only 5 cents, while closing prices in the lamb trade were 15 to 25 cents higher than a week ago.

Supplies, both commercial and government owned, poured into the packing centers all week. The total movement was not much smaller than when the selling wave was at its height during the summer in the drouth regions. Cattle receipts were smaller due to reduced federal buying, but the decrease in this department was offset by stepping up slaughtering of "relief" sheep.

Stock Killed for Consumption.

Although a big share of the cattle, calves, and sheep going through the plants is government owned, all animals except those condemned are being slaughtered for consumption, whether for the unemployed or for the paying consumer. This is contrary to the pig killing program when most pigs bought by the government were simply destroyed.

September set up some new slaughter records for that month, and 1934 stands a good chance of being the greatest packing year in history, so far as volume is concerned. The September cattle slaughter in plants under federal inspection in the entire country totaled 1,786,025, including government owned drouth cows, the greatest number of cattle ever killed in one month. Its nearest approach was the August kill of 1,576,204, also of this year.

Huge Cattle Slaughter.

The cattle slaughter for July, August, and September reached the huge total of 4,554,210. This compared with 2,413,382 during the same period in 1933, which was the largest previous kill since 1925. In nine months packers have slaughtered more cattle than in any full year since 1927. The nine months' total at 9,434,673 compared with 6,296,152 in 1933 and already is ahead of the nine months' total of the record year of 1918, when 8,185,000 were killed during the nine months.

Calves slaughtered totaled 830,728 the last month, a new September record, against 405,382 a year ago, and the nine months' kill of 5,140,548 is greater than any full year in history, comparing with 3,625,677 calves the first nine months of 1933.

Hogs showed a decrease, due to the pig killing program of last year. Only 2,600,923 hogs were killed, the smallest September total in six years, against 3,038,000 a year ago.

The nine months' slaughter of hogs at 31,821,405, compared with 35,136,873 in 1933.

Sheep Slaughter Sets Record.

A new September record of 1,733,951 was made in the sheep and lamb slaughter, compared with 1,608,661 in 1933.

The cattle market sagged during the forepart of last week but rallied later, closing in decidedly stronger position. The biggest share of the week's run changed hands at the earlier decline, however, and this held the week's average price of beef steers down to $7.75, indicating a loss of 15 cents for the week. Steers a year ago averaged $5.50. Top weighty beeves at $10.25 equaled the previous week's high mark, with the bulk of sales of steers within a range of $5.75 to $9.25.

Sheep and lambs for the last three weeks have experienced practically no price fluctuations. For the last 20 days the top prices for lambs have been $6.75 in all but three sessions and the tops on these three days were at $6.85.

Hog prices rallied early in the week, but the market slipped in the last few days. Packers made practically no material saving in their costs, however, the average price for the week at $8.15, tax included, comparing with $8.20 the preceding week. The weekly average, however, has gone down $1.55 since the high point of the year.

Three Commodity Markets Closed; Open Tomorrow

Most of the principal commodity and security markets resumed trading yesterday after the Columbus day shutdown, but the commodity exchange, the cocoa market and the coffee and sugar exchange in New York stayed closed. All markets will be open tomorrow.

PEARSON URGES REVALUE MONEY, AVOID INFLATION

Hints NRA Policies Check Recovery in U. S.

New York, Oct. 13.—Prof. F. A. Pearson of Cornell university, in an address today before the young men's board of trade, declared moderate revaluation of currency through an advance in the price of gold was "the best protection against inflation."

"Wild inflation will not occur in this or any other country that has had a substantial advance in the price of gold," he told his audience. Dr. Pearson has collaborated with Dr. George F. Warren, one of President Roosevelt's monetary advisers, in extensive studies of price fluctuations in relation to the value of gold.

Just back from a trip abroad, Dr. Pearson predicted England would stay off gold "for some time," and told of improvement in economic conditions in countries in the so called "sterling area."

Too Much Regimentation.

Acknowledging that there had been some interruption in the course of recovery in the United States, Dr. Pearson hinted it might be due to too much regimentation. He noted particularly that England's recovery thus far had been achieved with the "minimum of regimentation." While not mentioning the NRA by name, he had this to say regarding recovery in the United States:

"This remarkable recovery was retarded by a combination of events that was started with the highest motive—further recovery. Among other thing, the nation decided to create additional purchasing power by raising wages at a time when unemployment was a serious problem."

He ventured no forecasts on the future course of the dollar, but expressed the opinion informally, after his address, that a further decline in the British pound would not depress internal prices in the United States.

Contrasts Nation's Status.

"The slowly rising sterling price of gold is the most important economic, social, political and educational phenomena in the rapidly changing world panorama," he said. "Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, India, South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, Argentina, and Brazil are quite content to be in the sterling bloc and tied to England's variable price of gold.

"Economic conditions are improving in these countries. There is little or no social unrest. Not one of them has a dictator. There is little difficulty with planned production and regulation. Many have balanced their budgets. Most of these countries have turned, or are turning, 'right.'

"The gold bloc of western Europe, which continues to maintain its predepression prices of gold, has declining commodity prices, high unemployment, low business activity, social and political unrest and continues to turn 'left.'"

REPORT U. S. NOTE REASSURES CHINA ON SILVER PLAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—[Special.] — The American government's reply to China's recent protest on the United States silver policy has been handed to Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, the Chinese minister, Williams Phillips, undersecretary of state, disclosed today, and is understood to have assured the Nanking government that the United States treasury would try to make its silver purchases in such a manner as to upset Chinese currency as little as possible. The notes will be made public simultaneously early next week in Nanking and Washington,

As the only country still completely on the silver standard, China has felt herself to be the principal victim of American silver buying in the world market. Under the act, congress directed the purchase of silver until the United States held one-fourth of its currency reserves in the metal and three-fourths in gold. It was obviously impossible for this government to tell the Chinese it would stop buying silver anywhere it could get it as long as congress had directed the purchase of such a large amount.

FOREIGN TRADE GROUP TO HEAR WHAT U. S. PLANS

Federal Chiefs to Speak at Chicago Meeting.

Reciprocal tarifs, trade treaties, and other important problems in the field of international trade will come in for lively discussion here Wednesday, when exporters and importers from all important trade centers of the middle west will gather for a foreign trade conference at the Stevens hotel.

The meeting is sponsored by the Export Managers' club of Chicago, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and allied groups. Chief speakers will be Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and George N. Peek, special adviser to President Roosevelt on foreign trade and president of the Export-Import bank.

Trade Policy to Be Explained.

Murchison will tell of his department's plans for furthering export trade, explaining the working of the new bargaining policy and its effects on business. Peek's address will be his first public utterance on plans for bringing the United States back to its proper place in international trade.

What do the Export-Import banks and the bargaining tarif policy mean to mid-west manufacturers? How will governmental efforts be beneficial in increasing exports and decreasing imports in the face of a world wide movement? Peek is expected to answer these questions.

Other Well Known Speakers.

Other speakers include Harland H. Allen, economist; Charles E. Herrick, exporter; J. D. Fletcher, export manager of the Caterpillar Tractor company; Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations; John Abbink, acting chairman of the National Federation of Foreign Trade association; Col. J. F. Quinn, import manager of Montgomery Ward & Co.; Kenneth H. Campbell of the National Association of Credit Men, and Prof. R. J. Ray of Northwestern university.

CHICAGO STARCH FIRM WILL HAVE CANADA BRANCH

The Stein-Hall Manufacturing company, Chicago, and its affiliated company, Stein, Hall & Co., Inc., New York, manufacturers of starch products, have formed a Canadian subsidiary, Stein-Hall, Ltd. It will be located at Toronto, where a factory has already been purchased, according to the Toronto industrial commission.

It was stated that manufacturing of starch products for the Canadian market will be started soon. Officers and directors of the new company will include Frank G. Hall, president, and W. W. Strasser, treasurer of the Chicago and New York companies; Louis E. Leverone, vice president and general manager of the Chicago concern, and Allan R. McCleary of Toronto, who will be managing director in charge of operations at the new plant.

C. & E. I. OBJECTS TO REROUTING OF CHICAGO TRAINS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad has filed a complaint with Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, against the plan to route through Louisville and Nashville trains from the south between Evansville, Ind., and Chicago over the Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad.

The C. and E. I. has been carrying these trains over its tracks. The new service would begin at the end of October. The C. & E. I. told Eastman that routing of the trains north over the C. C. C. and St. L. would constitute a duplicate service entailing unnecessary waste and expense inasmuch as the C. and E. I. would have to continue its service because of express and mail contracts.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES CLOSE STEADY TO LOWER

Longs sold lard futures rather freely yesterday as the result of the weakness in hogs and grain, while cash interests and houses with eastern connections were buyers on the break. Inside figures were not maintained and the close was unchanged to 2½ cents lower. Bellies were nominally 5 cents lower to 15 cents higher. Cash and leaf at $9.37 while bellies were lard was quoted at $9.27, loose at $9.30, held at $13.35. Prices follow:

AUTOMOBILE OUTPUT FOR 1934 ESTIMATED NEAR 2,500,000 UNITS

Automobile output during 1934 will total at least 2,500,000 units and not more than 2,750,000 units as compared with 1,986,208 in 1932, according to a study of the automobile industry made by Theodore Prince & Co.

"Although automobile production in 1933 showed an increase of some 39 per cent over 1932, "the study points out, "it should be noted that in reality it reflected primarily an improvement in the position of the dominant factors in the medium and low price fields, Ford, General Motors and Chrysler. The upturn in sales in 1933 brought a sharp accentuation of the world-wide trend towards lower priced cars, in which field consumer buying was concentrated."

The low priced car field has been the center of trade rivalry again this year. Sales of six of the leading low and medium price cars increased 44.6 per cent in the first seven months of the year over a year ago, while the gain in all other lines was 24.6 per cent.

Dodd was instructed to express to the German authorities the expectation of the United States "that no discrimination will be practiced against American holders of bonds of the German external loan of 1924," and said this government "is unwilling to believe that, having made provisions for the full payment of all bondholders, the German government will either overtly fail to honor its written obligation to treat all branches of the loan on an equal footing or plead inability to transfer less than a million dollars to honor this obligation."

Phillips Won't Comment.

Phillips declined to comment on the attitude toward the German proposal, now that it has been made formally, but in other state department sources it was said there was no reason to depart from the attitude represented by Ambassador Dodd on Oct. 10.

Luther denied the intention or desire of his government to discriminate against American bondholders. He said that some European countries, in their trade with Germany, habitually had a balance owing to Germany. It was possible, Luther said, in these cases to make special arrangements by which the bond holding nationals of those countries received full payment. In the case of the United States, however, the balance of trade was in favor of this country and difficulty was experienced in obtaining sufficient foreign exchange.

Luther said exactly the same proposition had been made to all bondholders — half payment in cash and half payment in registered marks. Nationals of those countries which had unfavorable trade balances with Germany would have no difficulty in disposing of the "register marks," as they may be used to purchase any commodity in Germany.

No Surprise in Berlin.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—The denouncement by Germany of her trade treaty with the United States provoked no surprise in American official and business circles in Berlin. It is accepted as a logical sequel to conversations carried on between Ambassador Luther and the state department.

The provisions of the present pact were viewed on the German side as being wholly in favor of the United States as a result of altered economic and currency conditions, and Germany's action in availing herself of the twelve months' notification clause, therefore, is wholly in the nature of a precautionary measure.

The German government, it was announced today, was not only ready but anxious to initiate negotiations for a revised treaty at the earliest date. The framework of the treaty as it now stands, it was stated, was to remain unaltered, but certain features of it, especially the provisions in article 7, called for overhauling.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The time schedule of the Hudson-Terraplane "Ruggedness Car, Century of Progress Ranger," has been tightened considerably. Now running on the fourth lap of the 1,800 mile circuit through four states, the Ranger has passed the 8,000 mile mark. An indication of the revised schedule is demonstrated in the fact that during twenty-four hours the car covered over 968 miles.

One very important feature of the ruggedness test, in addition to rough roads and adverse weather, is the change in drivers. Six different men handle the car during one lap and no two drive in the same manner. One may be hard on brakes, another on the clutch, another on the motor, etc.

The official finish of the run will be held at A Century of Progress 1:30 p. m. next Tuesday, which is exactly two weeks to the hour from the start. At that time it is estimated that the car will have completed over 10,000 miles of continuous running, which will be in addition to the original 19,447 miles placed on it by the owner, M. C. Schwab of Milwaukee.

Polls taken by the Automotive Daily News, trade paper of the motor industry, show a nation wide sentiment among dealers as overwhelmingly in favor of revision or elimination of the Blue Eagle code governing retail car sales. In Chicago, there is dissention among dealers over the enforcement of the local code.

The trade paper also balloted dealers on the question of whether 90 per cent enforcement of the code could be obtained. In early returns, there were 44 votes believing such enforcement possible and 80 votes that such a possibility was extremely remote.

The week of Jan. 26 to Feb. 2 has been set as the dates for holding Chicago's 1935 annual automobile show, the first event of its kind to be staged under dealer sponsorship.

Announcement to this effect has just been made by H. T. Hollingshead, chairman of the show committee. As is customary, the exhibition will be at the Coliseum.

It is expected that manufacturers who in the past have held special shows during the main event will discontinue the practice in Chicago, as they have decided to do in New York, so that all interest and activity will be concentrated within the four walls of the Coliseum.

Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation will address the opening session of a three day convention of the American Trucking associations at the Stevens hotel, Oct. 22. He will talk on "Federal Regulation in Relation to the Trucking Industry," which is expected to be one of the subjects about which the "fireworks" will shoot during this first annual convention of the trucking industry as a whole.

The association is a national body, composed of more than 100 state and local groups, which has charge of the code administration of the national trucking industry. At the session, a board of 48 electors will choose the permanent national code authority.

Attendance at the Hupp Motor Car corporation's World's Fair exhibit in the Travel and Transport building has passed the two million mark, according to figures just compiled.

The average number of safe driving tests given since the Fair opened has been 87 daily, or a total of 13,485. With five persons in the test car on each occasion, the number of riders has reached the 67,425 mark. Thirty visitors to the exhibit have watched each test on an average from outside the glass enclosed, air conditioned test chamber.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

EDUCATING PUBLIC.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—I am in full accord with your campaign toward educating the public so as to both speed up trafic as well as prevent automobile accidents.

For the last year I have tried to prevail on our various park boards to install signs at regular intervals along the boulevards and the outer drive reading "Slow trafic keep to right along curb, except when turning left."

If this was done, and the law was enforced as is being done on the Dunes highway in Indiana, the public would soon learn. I would suggest a regular fine of $1 for each violation, this money to go either into the corporate fund, or preferably into the policemen's benefit fund. Our own people are as great, if not greater, violators of all rules of driving as our visitors. The slowest drivers, both men and women, keep invariably to the left, or at the center of the road, instead of staying at the right hand side, so that fast moving trafic cannot pass them up in safety.

AUTO TAXES.

Villa Park, Ill., Aug. 7.—Your many articles about auto owners who have failed to secure their auto license plates certainly makes no hit with auto owners who have paid their pound of flesh to our grasping state political machines. Why do you not with your great paper make use of its golden opportunity, start a campaign to lessen our terrible auto tax. A saving here would benefit all.

Roadside Tree Program Goes Into 2d Year

The Illinois highway department is preparing for its second season of extensive roadside planting. Twenty-six hundred miles have been planted with small trees and shrubs since the state undertook this beautification enterprise last fall.

Long lived and hardy varieties are being used in this work. Many of the projects are not impressive to the eye today because the plants are small. They are designed to please highway travelers ten, twenty, and thirty years from now.

Saplings planted on the right of way total 61,398 with 160,662 shrubs. The trees, wherever right of way widths permitted, were not placed in formal rows but in natural groups. Approximately 84 per cent of the plant life has survived the summer's drouth, a good record according to gardeners.

Was Joseph Medill's Plan.

Charles E. De Leuw, assistant chief highway engineer, in telling of the landscaping, called attention to an address made by Joseph Medill, editor of THE TRIBUNE, before the 1870 constitutional convention advocating an amendment authorizing tree planting under public supervision.

"Trees are ornamental and beautiful as well as useful," reads an excerpt of the manuscript. "They exert a refining and civilizing influence; they endear families to the old homestead; they contribute to the innocent pleasure of life; they are 'a thing of beauty and joy forever.'

"What could possibly be more charming or delightful to the vision than to behold in every direction noble rows of trees, spreading their grateful shade and protecting branches for man and beast and bird?

Contribution to Beauty.

"What could so greatly contribute to the beauty of the prairie landscape as to see the railways and highways fringed on either side, as far as the eye could reach, with thrifty and vigorous young oaks, maples, elms, chestnuts, sycamores, pines, larches, and, on the low grounds, poplars, hemlocks, and willows, and other varieties of useful and ornamental trees? . . .

"Mr. President, in conclusion, this convention has it in its power to immortalize its name, and cause unborn generations to bless its memory, if it be instrumental in clothing the nakedness of our nude state with an emerald and umbrageous garment. When all other amendments and revisions are forgotten, this one will grow greener and brighter with each recurring vernal season."

NONWORK HOUR SAFETY DRIVE IS COUNCIL'S PLAN

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chicago Safety council has just inaugurated a service to employers in educating their employés to avoid personal injuries and deaths from accidents in nonworking hours. Heretofore the council has been engaged mainly in efforts to reduce occupational mishaps.

The reason for the new service is that risks of life and limb in industry have been appreciably reduced in the last few years while the risks in nonworking hours, due principally to the increased automobile toll, are much greater than a few years ago.

The situation was dramatized by a speaker before the recent annual convention of the National Safety council in Cleveland, O. He told of wives of steel workers a few years ago who welcomed their husbands home from work with the prayer, "My, I'm thankful you lived through the day at the plant without being hurt."

Bosses Now Apprehensive.

"Today," continued the speaker, "it's the foremen and the superintendents who are apprehensive about the arrival of the steel workman. In view of the relative risks, it would not be amiss for the boss to greet his employés in the morning with a prayer, 'My, I'm thankful that you got away from your home and to the plant safely.'"

The safety council bulletin announcing the new service carried an article by Albert S. Regula, executive secretary of the Industrial Relations Counsels, Inc., discussing these relative risks, writes:

"Reports received from several insurance companies as to death from accidental injuries among industrial group life policy-holders showed 3,753 fatal injuries to employés outside the plant in comparison with 1,459 fatalities from works injuries, a ratio of 2.5 to 1. This experience covered from 2 to 2½ million insured lives during the three year period.

"One insurance company reporting the place of occurrence of accidental death showed that 51 per cent occurred in public places, 28 per cent at work, 8 per cent at home and 13 per cent not stated.

The Economic Standpoint.

"But you may ask, 'Why should employers concern themselves about accidents occurring to employés outside of working hours?' One may say that there is no responsibility on the part of the employer to do so. Well, let us put humanitarian considerations aside and look at the problem from a purely economic standpoint.

"In industry, we have found much of the justification for accident prevention activities in the cost factors involved—decreased production due to the absence of injured employés and the inefficiency of new employés hired to take the place of those seriously injured and interruptd production schedules; increased overhead from machinery or equipment out of service, training of new employés and the cost of workmen's compensation; increased labor turnover because new employés must be hired to replace those seriously injured; increased spoilage of materials by new and untrained employés and damage to equipment, materials or product.

The Employer Suffers.

"It is quite immaterial whether an employé is injured inside or outside the plant gates. The employer suffers these losses in either event. While the cost of workmen's compensation is not a factor in the case of a nonoccupational death or injury, the employer in many instances is faced with a direct cost for death benefits under group life insurance plans which have had such wide application to industry.

"There is, therefore, ample economic justification for a more active interest on the part of industry in the safety of their employés at home, on the highways and in other public places. To this broader field of accident prevention activity employers should turn their attention with the same degree of enthusiasm, effort and constructive planning as has characterized the industrial accident prevention movement."

The Chicago Safety council service, for which a fee is charged, consists of furnishing employers with posters, bulletins and suggested talks designed to train the employés to protect themselves against accidents in nonworking hours.

CHURCH RALLIES FOES OF NEW DEAL

MELODY FLOODS LIFE AND HOME OF MRS. GARNETT

Poet-Composer Has Southern Charm.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

There are three pianos—one on each floor—ready to voice inspiration wherever it comes in the Garnett home on Judson avenue in Evanston. When it comes under the eaves ir rain beat or wind whisper, then the rooms ring with the sound flood of silver that cascades down two flights.

When it comes at dusk with the wraith of the Lullaby Lady, then sleepy time tunes steal down from the second floor as lightly as childrlen on tiptoe.

The grand piano in the living room responds to ideas with great versatility. Sometimes it is the bright notes of madrigals that spring from the keyboard, tripping and twirling and spinning. Sometimes it is the stately strains of oratorios that rise like the fragrance from incense swung in a golden censer.

Melody Her Language.

Melody is the language of Louise Ayers Garnett. It is in the buoyancy of her voice, in her smile of rare charm, in the movement of her expressive hands. It is the atmosphere that pervades her house with a vibrant aliveness even in the silences of its southern repose.

Southern, because the Garnett home—a large frame house with a wide veranda set back from the street on a broad sweep of lawn—is one of those several translations in the Chicago vicinity that, varying a line from the young British poet, are corners in a northern field that are forever Dixie.

The rooms, spacious, harmonious, comfortable, are typical in a gracious tradition. There is a symbolism to be read in the two daguerrotypes on the mantel, one of a proud and beauteous belle in poke bonnet and crinolines, the other a gallant gentleman with strong features and impressive sideburns—paternal grandparents of the younger Garnett generation—Mr. and Mrs. John Hancock of Chicago yesterdays.

House Is Southern, Too.

Southern, too, is the house in its easy hospitality, which colored Cora with the gleaming smile expresses musically in her "Good mo'nin', ma'am," when she answers the bell. Cora, incidentally, is the "white witch" of the household. By some faculty mysteriously compounded of percepiton and deduction she can discover the whereabouts of all articles mislaid from cellar to garret, be they books or toys, manuscripts or collar buttons.

How Mrs. Garnett's verses and songs went out and won fame brings a warm laugh from their author, who insists that she is a poor marketer. She was still at Fort Dearborn seminary—a student scribbling history exams in riming couplets and Latin declensions in triolets. One day a classmate was singing. It chanced that a well known music publisher heard. Miss Louise Ayers, vastly bewildered, received a business letter stating that her song, "This Little Maid of Mine," had been accepted for publication.

The idea of submitting a poem to the magazine editors came later.

Secret Too Good to Keep.

The youthful poet-composer was in her last year at Dearborn when Eugene Hancock Garnett assumed a major rôle in her personal romance. He had taken his law course at the University of Michigan and had been admitted to the bar. He was the son of Judge Gwynn Garnett, one of that distinguished group of Kentuckians associated with Carter H. Harrison in the making of Chicago history. The Garnetts were married—shortly after graduation at the siminary—in June of 1900.

The first published poem—it was named "The Dream Boat"—was to have been a surprise for Mr. Garnett. It was sent to a prominent publisher. The editor's reply, with $15 attached, stated that the verses would be given a full page in the magazine ith panel illustrations. The news was confided to a jubilant black Mattie in her kitchen. But as a strict secret. Not one word must be breathed of it to Mr. Garnett.

"He was scarcely in the door that night," Mrs. Garnett confessed, "when the whole story came tumbling out. And then he had to make a solemn promise not to tell Mattie that I had told him." The $15, very especially the author's own, were entrusted to Mr. Garnett, who enjoys recounting how many times they were withdrawn thereafter and how variously they were spent.

Captures Art in Sound.

Few of her artist colleagues are as prolific as Mrs. Garnett. Teeming ideas are not to her so many escaping wings. She snares them with a swift technique. Dozens of her musical compositions are pictures from the art galleries caught in sound. Dozens of her poems sung themselves into words while she listened to the symphony.

Humorously she refers to the different trends her output has taken. There was the Elizabethan period when the family, entering gayly into the pre-

EDITOR OF SCHOOL PAPER

Miss Betty Jayne MacGee is the senior editor of The Raven at St. Scholastica academy this year. The first fall issue of the students' monthly publication appeared last week. Miss MacGee, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. MacGee of 1935 Chase avenue, was assistant editor of the paper last term, when it was awarded honors in the competition sponsored by the National Scholastic Press association. Miss Catherine Byrne is co-editing the periodical with Miss MacGee this season. [Gibson Photo.]

OUR TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rose, 1044 Balmoral avenue, are playing host to a party of friends and relatives tonight at the French Casino. The occasion is the celebration of their 35th wedding anniversary, which fell on Oct. 10. Our Town offers congratulations.

The brief account that Miss Evelyn Bloomfield, Portia of the north side who resides at 2310 Lincoln avenue sent Our Town of her months' vacation abroad reads quite as interestingly as a novel. The night life in Paris, an English fishing village, a real Swiss chalet, and the Zuyder Zee are only a few of the things she told about.

PRACTICALLY perfect, is her dad's pronouncement and he ought to know. While Dr. Frank E. Hartman of 2418 Lunt avenue, has been hobbling around on crutches, convalescing from a foot infection, he has been rehersing 15 year old Margot in the dance steps she will exhibit at 8:30 tomorrow night in the program presented by the American Academy of Music at the Illinois Host House at A Century of Progress.

OUR TOWN'S congratulations to the eighteen new members recently initiated into Notre Dame council, Ladies of Isabella. They are Miss Virginia Arney, Miss Laverne Fleming, Mrs. Barbara Cech, Mrs. Catherine Edwards, Mrs. Margaret Marshall, Mrs. Hilda Hannaford, Mrs. Irene Lesnick, Mrs. Florence Keefe, Mrs. Catherine Weber, Mrs. Margaret Kiel, Mrs. Catherine Brodie, Mrs. Irene Zyburt, Mrs. Anna Hunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Lilla, Mrs. Helen Le Beau, Mrs. Nell Burns, Mrs. Ethel Mertz, and Mrs. Tillie Klonder.

N. Nelson Meyerhoff made his debut on Oct. 3 at the Evanston hospital. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Irving E. Meyerhoff who reside at 251 Cedar avenue, Highland Park.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH POFELski, 2340 Carver street, renewed the marriage vows they made 50 years ago in Poland at a wedding blessing service last Saturday morning in All Saint's cathedral, 2028 Carolina avenue. In the evening they received congratulations of their friends and relatives at a reception in their honor, held at 2254 West Fullerton avenue. Their three sons and four daughters, as well as the eighteen grandchildren and great-grandchildren, joined them in the celebration.

SHOULD all Our Town's students at St. John's Military aca emy get homesick at once, the Cadet Review would no doubt have to cease publication. No less than nine of the staf are ours. Seymour B. Odens, 434 Roscoe street, is sports editor. Frederick A. Weber, 4927 North California avenue, is head of the military department. Franklin S. Allen, Drake hotel; George P. Ellis Jr., Evanston; George W. Landau, 5440 Berteau avenue; Robert C. Nelson 3500 Lake Shore drive; Stanford L. Optner, 3920 Lake Shore drive; Louis C. Schultz and William R. Wright of Highland Park, are all staf reporters.

CLUB DANCE CHAIRMAN

The Junior auxiliary of the Glenola club will give its annual [illegible] dance at the Vista del Lago next Saturday. Miss Celeste O'Hara, 6441 Lakewood avenue, is chairman for the party. [illegible]

FIVE DISTRICTS ARE ASSEMBLY BATTLE SCENES

Contest in Seventh of Chief Interest.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Only five districts are concerned in the north side legislative races, but there is a fight in each one. Four are electing senators this fall and two of these districts also have contests for house seats. The remaining district is in the midst of another house battle.

Perhaps as interesting a race as any is found in the 7th district. Certainly it concerns a more diverse population than in most other legislative subdivisions, for the 7th includes north shore and west suburban residential sections as well as the highly industrialized regions around Blue Island, Harvey, and Chicago Heights on the south.

Two newcomers were nominated for the senate in this district. Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield] had been a candidate for a third term, but he died suddenly shortly before the April primaries. To succeed him the Republicans nominated a young resident of River Forest who has not been a candidate for public office before, although his father and brother held county and city posts.

Two River Forest Candidates.

Arthur J. Bidwill, 1403 Bonnie Brae avenue, River Forest, is the Republican nominee. He is engaged in the printing and office supplies business at 511 Plymouth court, and is a graduate of the Notre Dame law school. His father was the late Joseph E. Bidwill, alderman of the old Ninth, now the Eleventh, ward in Chicago. His brother, the late Joseph E. Bidwill Jr., was clerk of the Cook county Circuit court.

Opposing Bidwill is Charles F. Baumrucker, 750 Forest avenue, River Forest, who has been in the jewelry business in Chicago for many years and is serving his second term as president of the National Association of Credit Jewelers. He is also chairman of the Chicago district code authority for the jewelry trade under the NRA. Baumrucker has been village president of River Forest for four years.

The house contest is between Mrs. Bernice T. Van Der Vries of 968 Pine street, Winnetka, and Representative Frank E. Foster, 15633 Lexington avenue, Harvey, Republicans, and Oscar S. Johnson, 500 South Pine street, Mount Prospect, and Frank G. Ring, 15226 Honore street, Harvey, Democrats.

Mrs. Van Der Vries in First Race.

Mrs. Van Der Vries has been a member of the Winnetka village council for two terms. She is making her first try for the legislature and was nominated over a big field of candidates in April. Mrs. Van Der Vries was born in Kansas and was educated at the University of Kansas and Barnard college.

In the Winnetka council, the Republican nominee has been chairman of the health committee and served also on other important committees. Her husband, John N. Van Der Vries, is manager of the central division of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Representative Foster, who maintains law offices in Chicago, is completing his second term in the house. During the war he served 21 months in the house and was 13 months in France with the Third division.

The other house contests are in the 31st and the 6th districts. In the 31st Senator Harold G. Ward, 5447 Lakewood avenue, a Democrat, was renominated for a second term. He is opposed by a young lawyer, Homer Dodge, 4747 North Malden street, who spent four years in the state's attorney's office under John A. Swanson.

Completing First Term.

Senator Ward is chairman of the judiciary committee in the upper chamber. He is completing his first term. During the war he was one of five brothers who saw service in France, two of them being killed. Harold Ward was a first lieutenant of field artillery. Mayor Kelly named him a member of the appeals board of the state liquor commission. Ward guided the state law through the senate last year.

Attorney Dodge is now a law partner of his former superior, Mr. Swanson. He served as second assistant to the former prosecutor during his last eighteen months in office and also handled most of the election fraud cases. He was successful in several large fraud prosecutions.

Ennis is a graduate of Harvard university and the Northwestern university law school. He has never held public office, but ran unsuccessfully for the city council several years ago. Saltiel is a graduate of the John Marshall Law school. He is a member of the 46th Ward Republican organization and is a cousin of former City Prosecutor William D. Saltiel.

Sitting Members Nominated.

Democrats renominated two sitting members in the 31st district—mason S. Sullivan, 2046 Mohawk street, and Pierce L. Shannon, 927 Buena avenue. Sullivan is an assistant corporation counsel, a post he also held under the late former Mayor William E. Dever He has served two terms.

Shannon is senior accountant in the

The play will be given in the St. Gertrude auditorium, 6218 Glenwood avenue. [Maurice Photo.]

Maloney Upholds Democrats.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

From the platform of the Tenth congressional district a fierce battle is being waged by Ralph E. Church, the Republican nominee for congress, and his Democratic opponent, David B. Maloney, over the clear cut issue of sound Republican principles of government, versus the New Deal and its radical enactments.

But incidental to this general fight there is bubbling to the surface some local political bitterness that has its origin in previous campaigns. Although somewhat befogged by the platform skirmishes, there appears to be a deviation from party lines in this campaign that is perplexing to the voters in the district.

Would End Uncertainty.

Church is stumping the district with a call for the voters to rise up in opposition to governmental competition in business and against political panaceas for the country's economic problems. He is asking for a wise weighing of issues and men so that the fear and uncertainty of what a "rubber stamp" congress will do next can be removed as an obstacle to the revival of normal business conditions.

In his speeches telling blows are being struck against the ineffectiveness of the national administration's measures to combat the depression. Especially, he attacks congress for passing important laws automatically and often without reading, and the national recovery administration which has engendered a multiplicity of codes and a mass of confusing regulations that have been a yoke around the neck of industry.

"That our economic situation is steadily growing worse," Church says, "is proved by the disheartening fact that the national relief rolls have increased in numbers every month since May of this year. As a further indication, President Green of the American Federation of Labor declared in a recent speech that there were now the unparallel total of 14,000,000 unemployed within our borders.

Pleads for New Confidence.

"The decision which the voters will make at the polls Nov. 6 will determine whether we are to continue in this listless and stagnant era of despondency, with business and commerce prostrate, with millions out of employment and other millions on relief, or whether our business and industry shall be regenerated with new confidence.

"Our nation is in the grip today of fear and uncertainty. We have plans without blueprints, system without method, order without arrangement, and battles without strategy. Industry and capital, labor and man power are paralyzed by the uncertainty of tomorrow.

These fears and uncertainties are the principal obstacles to the return of prosperous times, in Church's opinion. To remove them, he says, it is necessary to return to Republican principles of individual liberty, and for congress to again accept its constitutional responsibility of legislating for the country.

Asks NRA Codes' Repeal.

Further, he says, the NRA codes must be repealed, the regimentation of millions of honest men in an attempt to punish a handful of business pirates must be abandoned, expenditures and taxes must be lowered, and the dollar must be protected against any possibility of selfish political manipulation. He promises in his platform to work for these things.

While Church is attacking the New Deal and its ramifications the ghost of his April primary campaign against Congressman James Simpson Jr. arises to point him out as a recipient, either with or without his seeking, of largess from one of the New Deal progenitors.

The New Dealer is Harold L. Ickes, Winnetkan, and Roosevelt's secretary of the interior and dispenser of Public Works administration billions, who formerly had been identified as a Republican. The Ickes beneficence—this time only a letter and not, as in Maine, the half opening of PWA purse strings—is shown as a factor in Church's victory.

Church Aids Given Jobs.

The letter was written by Ickes as a private citizen to Walter F. Dodd of Winnetka, but copies of the manuscript were sent out by Church. Its attack on Simpson led to conjectures whether Secretary Ickes was seeking to build up a personal machine in Cook county and Illinois, and doubts as to the propriety of a member of a Democratic cabinet taking a hand in a local Republican primary.

Beyond this act there have been charges that Ickes has given jobs to Republicans who now are working for Church. In one of these positions is Harold W. Snell of Winnetka, Ickes' chief lieutenant in his home territory and a Republican district committeeman who, by Ickes' appointment, is general freight, passenger, and immigration agent for the governmentally owned Alaska railroad. Several precinct committeemen also hold jobs under the national government, some of them in Ickes' department.

Church has denied that he has any connection with Ickes, and points out that Ickes had not mentioned his name in the letter and that had there been three candidates for the nomination the question of Ickes helping him would not have been raised.

"I have had no jobs from any one," said Church. "I'm a Republican and county controler's office and was formerly in the dairy business. He is also finishing his second term.

In the 6th district, adjoining the 31st, is the third north side house contest. Three sitting representatives were renominated—two Republicans and one Democrat—and the Democrats are seeking a second seat.

Republican candidates in this district, which includes much Chicago territory as well as the village of Evanston, are Representatives Drennan J. Slater, 1049 Michigan avenue, Evanston, and Arthur E. Fischer, 3600 North Claremont avenue.

Slater is an attorney. He is a graduate of the Evanston public schools, Dartmouth college, and the Northwestern university law school. He is a member of the faculty of the latter institution. He served on important committees of the house during his first term and is secretary of the Republican caucus.

Fischer is completing his second term. He is a salesman and a member of several lodges and German-American societies.

Sponsor of Repeal Bill.

Democratic candidates in this district are Representative Joseph H. Donahue and County Commissioner Charles H. Weber, 2920 Southport avenue. Donahue is purchasing agent for the Chicago Board of Education. He has been a clerk in the office of the bailif of the Municipal court and was for eight years chief examiner of the Cook county civil service commission. He is completing his second term in the house.

Weber was sponsor of a bill to repeal the Illinois prohibition law during his eight years at Springfield before election to the county board four years ago. He has a real estate business on the north side as well as a beer distributing agency.

Huckin is chief deputy clerk of the Superior court and a former commissioner of the old Portage Park district. Johnson was formerly in the real estate business and was a commissioner of the northwest park district. He is a protégé of Frank Kalteux, Republican committeeman of the 39th ward.

Battle for Senate.

A hot battle for the senate is progressing just north of Chicago in the 29th senatorial district, which includes parts of the 42d and 43d wards. There, Representative Robert M. Woodward, 211 East Delaware place, Republican, is running for the senate after two terms in the house, against Representative William J. Connors, 209 East Chestnut street, Democratic committeeman of the 42d ward.

Representative Woodward is a graduate of Northwestern university and its law school. He is a lecturer in law at his alma mater. He has served as assistant corporation counsel and assistant state's attorney and was active on the floor at Springfield.

Representative Connors attended business college and was in the creamery package manufacturing business for many years. He was superintendent of license under former Mayor Dever.

Carveth Wells to Speak at Country Club of Evanston

Carveth Wells, explorer and lecturer, will speak on "Kapoot, or Russia Today," at a program to be presented at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening by the Country Club of Evanston at its clubhouse. The talk will be illustrated with motion pictures. Charles F. Hemenway, entertainment chairman, is in charge of the program.

THRESHOLD PLAYERS TO OPEN SEASON

The smiles of this handsome sextet suggest "There's Merriment in a Monocle" as a subtitle for "Petticoat Influence," the comedy that will open the season for the Threshold Players of Glencoe on Friday at the Central School theater. The cynosure for the eyes of his fellow players is Thomas H. Ratcliffe of Winnetka. Grant Phillips of Evanston occupies the arm of the divan behind Nancy Harris Pershall of Glencoe. Mrs. Pershall has the leading role in the play. Sam S. Otis of Winnetka is holding hands with Mrs. Victor A. Spoehr of Glencoe, forgetful of the proximity of Macpherson Holt of Lake Forest.

THEATER AT N. U. TO OPEN SEASON WITH IBSEN PLAY

"Peer Gynt" Will Be Given Oct. 24.

Under the direction of Garrett H. Leverton, the Northwestern University theater will open for its seventh season on Wednesday, Oct. 24, with Henrik Ibsen's "Peer Gynt." The play, now in rehearsal, will be given also on the following Thursday and Friday.

GARRETT H. LEVERTON.

Other plays scheduled for production at the theater during the first semester include "Shore Acres" by James A. Herne, the Capek "Insect Comedy," and a second Ibsen drama, "Ghosts." "Shore Acres" will be given on Nov. 7, 8, and 9, and the Capek comedy on Dec. 12, 13, and 14.

The four plays selected for production for the second half of the season are John Webster's "The Duchess of Malfi," Eugene O'Neill's "S. S. Glencairn," "The Tempest," and Jacinto Benevente's "Saturday Night." The Webster play will be given on Feb. 27 and 28, and on March 1, and O'Neill's drama on March 20, 21, and 22. "The Tempest" will be the annual Shakespearean anniversary production and will have a four day run, opening April 23. "Saturday Night" will close the season on May 15, 16, and 17.

On the production staf assisting Mr. Leverton this season, John Baird will coach the players and have charge of makeup. Lee Mitchell will direct scene designing, and Theodore Fuchs, stage lighting. Bernice Prisk will supervise costuming. The production assistants will be Charles Zoeckler, Charles Vance, Robert Breen and Mary Jane Husing.

CO-CHAIRMAN

Mrs. A. Louis Flynn of 1127 North Shore avenue is co-chairman of the north side committee sponsoring the annual football game for the benefit of the charitable work of the Sisters of Mercy. The game will be played Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4, on Soldiers' field between St. Philip and Mount Carmel elevens. Jeremiah Kennelley is north side chairman. Loran D. Gayton is general chairman.

LAKE VIEW HIGH SCHOOL NAMES EDITORIAL STAF

Frank W. Boege has been chosen editor of the Lake View Lantern, student newspaper of the Lake View Evening High school, for the third consecutive year, and Herta C. Walland will be associate editor, also for the third consecutive year. Other members of the staf include Florence Dietsche, associate editor; Elizabeth Foster, advertising manager; Helen Borchardt, circulation manager; Frank Schienfeldt, exchange editor, Alice Johnson, women's sports editor; William Zillman, men's sports editor; Steve Walsh, inquiring reporter; and Mary Jacoby, William Heindresen, Harold Daniel, William Ehrich, and James Leahy, reporters. J. Z. Jacobson is faculty adviser.

TRAFIC MISHAPS FOR EVANSTON ARE INCREASING

Trafic accidents in Evanston, for two years acclaimed as America's safest city, have increased this year over a corresponding period for 1933, according to statistics released on Wednesday by Kenneth Dickinson, assistant director of the Evanston accident prevention bureau.

There have been 818 accidents this year, as compared with 775 accidents prior to Oct. 8 in 1933. Seven deaths have resulted in the same period, compared to four last year.

Injuries, however, were 223 last year, and are only 216 this year. An increase in the toll of pedestrians is noted in the accident, injury, and death statistics.

SORORITY DANCE FUNDS WILL AID NURSE SERVICE

North Shore Alumnae chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will give its annual philanthropic dance on Wednesday, in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Proceeds will help support a social service worker in the Frontier Nursing service in Kentucky. Mrs. James Solheim, 7385 North Damen avenue, is general chairman for the dance Mrs. John E. Boodin, 4529 Greenview avenue, is in charge of ticket sales.

Lake View Kiwanians Plan Halloween Costume Party

A hard times costume party and dance to be held on Hallowe'en is being planned by the Lake View Kiwanis club as its next ladies' night program. Three prizes will be awarded for best costumes worn by men, and three for the best costumes worn by women. Rudolph Rolfs is chairman of the committee in charge of the event, which will be held at the Wrightwood club, 624 Wrightwood avenue. Ladies will be admitted free.

NOTED SPEAKERS LISTED IN FORUM OF ANSHE EMET

Ludwig Lewisohn Will Discuss Germany.

A course of 15 lectures on problems of the modern world—emphasizing particularly the present problems of the Jewish race and religion—will be presented by the Anshe Emet forum in its 1934-'35 series, which was announced last week.

LUDWIG LEWISOHN

The series will include beside single lectures a symposium on the Christian and Jewish views of civilization by Solomon B. Freehof and Charles Gilkey, and a debate on communism by Maurice Samuel and James Waterman Wise.

Lewisohn Gives First Talk.

The first of the lectures will be presented by Ludwig Lewisohn, speaking on "What Happened in Germany." The lecture will be presented on Nov. 6 in the temple, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street.

Following the symposium on Christian and Jewish views of civilization, to be presented on Nov. 13 by Dr. Freehof and Dean Gilkey, the remaining lectures will include:

Nov. 20—"Is the American Jew Safe?" by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

Nov. 27—"The Jew in a Changing World," by Prof. Louis Finkelstein.

Feb. 19—"Where Is Civilization Going?" by Prof. Scott Nearing.

Feb. 26.—"Why We Laugh Like Human Beings," by Max Eastman.

ORCHARD STREET MEETING TO ACT ON ASSESSMENTS

A meeting will be held by the Orchard street committee of the Greater North Side Improvement association on the subject of the Orchard street special assessments at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at Olivet institute, Cleveland avenue and Blackhawk street.

Mrs. E. E. Birmingham, president of the association, will speak on the proposed Halsted street widening plan. The plan would eliminate the necessity for widening Orchard street, according to Charles V. Pagano, chairman of the Orchard street committee.

Although most of the special assessments were paid three years ago by the Orchard street property owners for the widening of the street from Clybourn avenue to Diversey parkway [including the opening of the street through the block south of Diversey parkway], the work has never been done because the city of Chicago was unable to pay the public benefit share of the assessment.

Ravenswood Improvement Body Elects New Officers

Oscar R. Smith was elected president of the Ravenswood Improvement association at its annual meeting held recently, succeeding E. W. Miles. Mrs. Guy Cubley was elected vice president, and F. W. Mitchell, who was acting secretary, was elected secretary-treasurer. The newly elected board of managers includes Mrs. Helen Cothairn, Judge Daniel G. Ramsay, Dr. J. J. Gill, Mrs. C. H. Pierce, Mrs. S. J. Donaldson [delegate from the Ravenswood Woman's club], J. D. White, E. F. Wilson, the Rev. Elmer E. Williams, Guy Cubley, Mrs. E. E. Johnson, C. B. Aldrich, and M. H. McKeever.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

MR. AND MRS. F. J. UTZELMANN.
[Elmer T. Boll Studio.]

A family dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Utzelmann of 4237 North Damen avenue, on Sept. 24, in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Utzelmann, who have resided in Ravenswood for 26 years, moved from Saginaw, Mich., to Chicago 35 years ago. Both were born in Canada. Mrs. Utzelmann is a member of the Mothers' Drama club, and one of that group's past presidents. Mr. and Mrs. Utzelmann have one son, H. C. Utzelmann, and one daughter, Mrs. Grace McDonald. Their four grandchildren are Gwendolyn McDonald and Eleanor, Robert and Lorraine Utzelmann.

CHURCH RALLIES NEW DEAL FOES IN CONGRESS RACE

Opposes D. B. Maloney in Tenth District.

my job if elected to congress will be to help bring the country back to sound Republican principles of government. I am opposed to this governmental spending and burocracy."

The Democratic nominee, on the other hand, does not claim to have had any aid from this neighbor member of the Democratic cabinet, but has the full support of the Cook and Lake county Democratic committees and the use of the slogan, "Forward with Roosevelt and recovery." There is, however, some rankling because Republicans are sitting in good Democratic jobs.

In his speeches Maloney, while not engaged in mentioning the improvements in the district that he would work for, takes up the cudgels for some of the New Deal acts. He says that it is the duty of congressmen to prevent the passage of any measure which violates the constitution, but that it is not their duty to make themselves the Supreme court of the United States.

Defends Money Policies.

"The power of congress to legislate for the general welfare of the people," he says, "is elastic and capable of expansion so as to keep pace with human progress. The constantly multiplying forms of industry and the growing complexity of our civilization now more than ever before call for legislation which does not arbitrarily affect individual rights. It is after all the duty of the Supreme court to pass upon the constitutionality of legislation."

Maloney says he believes that the government should furnish work for persons able to labor but unable to find employment on federal public works that will assist in the stimulation of private industry and business. He speaks also in defense of the administration's revaluation of gold and the charge that it constitutes inflation.

Charges have been made by him that a number of his signs have been torn down in the north shore suburbs and in Lake county. In Lake county, he stated, a truck was driven through a fence at the spot where one his signs hung.

Attorney for Villages.

The Democratic nominee was born at Arcadia, Wis. He attended the University of Michigan, being graduated from the law school in 1914. For several years afterwards, until the election of the late Mayor Dever, he was engaged in the general practice of law. Under Dever he was special attorney for the board of local improvements. Since then he has served as village attorney for more than twenty suburbs. He lives in Chicago at 6418 Magnolia avenue.

Church was born and reared on a farm in Vermilion county, Ill. He attended both the University of Michigan and Northwestern university. He practiced law in Chicago for 25 years, and for 16 years was a state representative. He was a dry. His record was praised by the Legislative Voters' league.

Changes to Wet Side.

Not until he became a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in 1932 did Church veer to the wet side. Then, he said he had become convinced that prohibition evils formed a social problem that congress could no longer sidestep and advocated an amendment to the 18th amendment to enable trial of any rational liquor control plan.

The Tenth district begins at North avenue and the north branch of the Chicago river. Its eastern boundary is Halsted street between North and Fullerton avenues, Racine avenue between Fullerton avenue, and Irving Park boulevard, and then the lake shore to the Wisconsin state line. Its western boundary follows the river to Belmont avenue, Western avenue between Belmont and Devon avenues, then along Devon and Albion avenues to Harlem avenue, where it juts out into the county.

It takes in all of Lake county and the townships of Evanston, Niles, New Trier, and Northfield in Cook county. Its Chicago territory embraces all of the 48th and 49th wards, and sections of the 41st, 43d, 44th, 45th, 46th, 47th, and 50th. It is normally Republican territory and had a population in 1930 of 577,261.

Simpson Wins on Recount.

Carl R. Chindblom, a Republican, represented the district for 14 years in congress. He was beaten out in the 1932 primary in a three cornered race with Simpson and Church. Church won on the face of the returns, but a recount gave the nomination to Simpson.

Simpson won in the election, although Church, running as an independent, polled 45,067 votes. The count for the winner was 101,671, while Charles H. Weber, the Democratic nominee, received 100,449 votes. In the 1934 primary Church won over Simpson by 2,956 votes. The total of the Republican votes in this primary was 67,950, while Maloney and four other candidates received only 48,208 votes.

MEN OF 6 METHODIST CHURCHES WILL HOLD EVANSTON MEETING

The first joint social meeting of the men of the six Methodist churches in Evanston will be held at 6:45 o'clock Friday evening at the Hemenway church, 933 Chicago avenue, Evanston. A roast beef dinner, a musical program, and "only one speech" have been promised by the committee in charge.

THE REV. ERNEST F. TITTLE.

The Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church, will be the speaker. Special guests will include Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, President Horace Greeley Smith of the Garrett Biblical institute, and the Rev. Aubrey S. Moore, superintendent of the Chicago northern district of the church.

Harold J. Sandercock is chairman of the committee in charge, which includes Don A. Jones of the Covenant church, C. David Johnson of the Emmanuel church, Oliver R. Aspegren of the First church, the Rev. David Helikson of the Church of Our Savior, Charles S. Graves of the Hemenway church, and Ralph Ward of the Wheadon church.

MEETING OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS OPEN TO PUBLIC

State Society Convenes in Evanston Oct. 24.

North shore home owners, from Evanston to Waukegan, as well as real estate dealers from all over the state, will be welcome at the annual convention of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards to be held on Oct. 24 and 25, at the Evanston Country club.

Discussions of home financing, taxation, and modernization will be the principal features of the convention program from the home owners' point of view, according to Jules F. Fisher, general chairman.

Aid Property Owners.

In extending the association's invitation to the general public, Mr. Fisher said that each year the gathering of real estate men has attracted large numbers of interested property owners who find in the various sessions an opportunity to become better acquainted with the problems of real estate ownership, and the methods of their solution which are being successfully employed in some communities.

This is the first time that the state convention has been held in Evanston, and local real estate dealers and brokers are planning an elaborate reception for several hundred men and women from all parts of Illinois. Due to the improvement in the real estate business during the last six months, the convention this year is expected to be one of the largest since 1929.

North Shore Chairmen.

V. J. MacDonnell, chairman of the north shore committee, is in charge of inviting real estate men and women from Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, Glencoe, and Highland park. Mrs. Gretta P. Fuller, Evanston broker, is chairman of a women's committee which is making plans for the entertainment of the wives of delegates.

As the entire program of discussions is to be crowded into two days, Wednesday evening, Oct. 24, is to be set aside for a social function which will be open to the public. Tickets for the dinner to be held at the country club that evening will be available at real estate offices in Evanston.

The convention is to be concluded on Thursday to give the visiting real estate men and their families a chance to spend the week-end at the World's Fair.

Other committees include: Reception and registration, Mrs. Pierre Beach, Mrs. J. W. Work, Mrs. Ben Salomon, and Mrs. Ray Dowdall; tour entertainment, Mrs. H. L. McDaniel, Mrs. Stewart Matthews, Miss Lucille Larson, and Mrs. Richard C. Johnston; tea, Mrs. Matthews; transportation, Mrs. J. Harper Payne, Mrs. Christian J. Golee, Mrs. George Cyrus, Mrs. Jules Fisher, Mrs. James S. Lewis, Mrs. Lowell Baker, and Mrs. Norman Lighthart; card party, Mrs. W. J. Pickard (house), Mrs. Herbert Jenks (equipment), Mrs. Robert Crane (awards), Mrs. Golee (flowers), and all other members of the women's committees.

ROGERS PK. CLUB WOMEN TO HEAR CHICAGO WRITERS

Miss Gerstenberg, Miss Laughlin on Program.

Special little flurries on the part of the membership to get the city children off to school and the breakfast dishes done early on Tuesday morning in order to be at the Rogers Park Woman's club promptly at 10 o'clock will have an explanation in the lure of the footlights. A special program will bring Alice Gerstenberg, native Chicago playwright and founder of many local theatrical groups, to the club for the early session in a talk on the stage and the a b c's of play writing.

Another prominent Chicago author, Clara Laughlin, will be heard after luncheon at 2 o'clock, under the auspices of Mrs. D. C. Showers, program chairman. Miss Laughlin's subject will be "Traveling Through Life." Mrs. Showers also will present John Shank, tenor, in a group of songs.

A club institute is scheduled for 11 o'clock, following Miss Gerstenberg. The speakers will be Mrs. A. L. Ashton, Americanization chairman; Mrs. A. G. Hold, chairman of applied education; Mrs. Ford Hicks of the fine arts department and Mrs. R. E. Maurer, head of the legislation division. A bulb and seed exchange will be conducted all day under the garden department, which is headed by Mrs. Henry Glenn Ross. Mrs. Herbert H. Englehard will review Caroline Miller's "Lamb in His Bosom" at 12:45 o'clock.

Evanston Woman's Club.

The fine arts department, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edward L. Middleton, will present Janet Fairbanks, soprano, and Margaret Sweeney, harpist, in recital at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Woman's club of Evanston. At the morning session, opening at 10:30 o'clock, the two major prize winning works of fiction, "Lamb in His Bosom" and Samuel Rogers' "Dusk at the Grove," will be reviewed by Mrs. Harry Eugene Kelly. Samuel Rogers is the son of a former rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church. Mrs. W. T. Hall will give "Without Gloves" by Frank K. Kent.

Mrs. Homer D. Lininger will have charge of luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Presiding at the tea tables after the afternoon program will be Mrs. Bert Holmes, social chairman; Mrs. A. L. Gunthorp, Mrs. Alonzo Lord, Mrs. A. B. Phipps, Mrs. C. L. Scripps, Mrs. C. W. Pank, Mrs. John Dienner, Mrs. James Stannard, Mrs. A. D. Upton, Mrs. F. E. Gridley, Mrs. D. C. Turnbull, Mrs. R. C. Fenner, and Mrs. F. E. Winans. In the group that will assist with serving will be Mrs. Thomas Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Alex Jackson, Mrs. Wilson McMillen, Mrs. John Schwender, Mrs. Vaughn Scott, Mrs. Austin Lindstrom, Mrs. Stewart Cushman, and Mrs. James P. Grier.

Ravenswood Civic League.

Charles R. Simmons will speak on "Better Government" before the Ravenswood Civic league at 2 o'clock Friday at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A. The program, arranged by Mrs. Ethel Ross Snow, will include music. Mrs. James W. Murray will preside. The social committee will serve tea.

Lake View Opening.

The Lake View Woman's club will open the fall season with a reception for the president, Mrs. F. M. Tuckerman, at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the Granada hotel. The Nafshem string ensemble will be presented in a musical.

North End Reception.

Reciprocity day, with Mrs. Benjamin F. Gridley presiding, will be observed by the North End Woman's club tomorrow. Lorado Taft will speak. His talk, entitled "My Dream Museum," will be illustrated with 125 lantern slides. Mrs. Edward C. Moore will speak informally on Gertrude Stein's opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts," that is to be presented at the Auditorium next month. Mrs. Samuel V. Robuck and Mrs. Harley L. Ward have arranged the program.

Rogers Park Neighbors.

The Woman's Neighborhood club of Rogers Park will hold an all day meeting on Friday at the Indian Boundary fieldhouse. Byrd Arnold Smith will speak on "The Fortified Personality" and Mrs. Arthur Percy will present a musical program. Members will give book reviews.

Ravenswood Meeting.

Mrs. Charles A. Drake will report on the state federation of women's clubs at 2 o'clock at the regular meeting of the Ravenswood Woman's club. Highlights of entertainment on the program will be a review of "Lamb in His Bosom" by Mrs. Charles Bennett of Batavia, a talk on interior decorating by Jean Sterling Nelson, and the singing of songs composed by club members—Mrs. Alben Young, Mrs. Frank A. Cole, Mrs. Homer Lackey, and Mrs. Robert Lysle—by the club chorus.

Ravenswood Auxiliary.

Mrs. Charles F. Hoerr, 4253 North Hermitage avenue, will be hostess to the junior auxiliary of the Ravenswood Woman's club at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Edgewater Catholics.

A reception and luncheon at which presidents of north shore clubs will be guests will open the 24th season for the Edgewater Catholic Woman's club Friday afternoon at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mrs. Clement J. Cox, the president, will receive with the board of directors. Susan Christoph Semer, coloratura soprano, will sing, and there will be a style show.

Edgewater Woman's Club.

The Edgewater Woman's club will view the Century of Progress exhibit at the Art institute at 2 o'clock Tuesday under the auspices of Mrs. Emily Hawley Sherman, art chairman. Miss Helen Parker, a member of the staf of the institute, will give a gallery tour talk. In arranging the program Mrs. Sherman has been assisted by Mrs. Charles H. Challen and Mrs. Edmund A. Curtis.

Welles Park Meeting.

Musical programs that were given at A Century of Progress will be reviewed by Mrs. A. F. Burhop of the music department at a meeting of the Welles Park Woman's club at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harry Kurrasch, 4126 North Francisco avenue. Mrs. Frederick D. Williams, chairman of the fine arts department, will read a paper on Sir Joshua Reynolds and will review "Lamb in His Bosom" at the afternoon session.

North Shore Tour.

A tour of Bahai temple in Wilmette will be made by the North Shore Woman's club and guests at 11 o'clock Thursday. The visitors will lunch at Shawnee Country club. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. Burnett Dewey Warner, Miss Sarah H. Hornbrook, Mrs. Harry F. Brand, Mrs. Lillian R. Dale, Mrs. Paul Meyer, Mrs. John W. Schwab, Mrs. George Veesenmeyer, Mrs. Walter H. Weber, and Mrs. Lillie Winterhalter. The tour will be sponsored by the civics and education department, of which Miss Hornbrook is chairman.

Music Study Club.

The Music Study club will hold its first fall meeting at 3 o'clock today at the home of Mrs. Laura Dean, 180 East Delaware place. Mrs. William E. Mayher, the president, and Mrs. Henry Hartung, who formerly headed the group, will be honorary hostesses. Other officers serving this season are—Miss Erna Keim, vice president; Mrs. J. A. Young, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Osborne, recording secretary; Mrs. Thomas Lester, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Laura E. Dean, treasurer, and Mrs. Harvey C. Johnson, auditor.

Brownson Circle.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Oliver T. Cody, Brownson circle will open the first of its fall study classes at 1 o'clock tomorrow. Morton D. Zobel of the English department of Loyola university will discuss the beginning of the novel. A business session at 2 o'clock will be followed at 3 by a program on which Margaret Livingston, soprano, accompanied by Addienne Cooper, will sing and Mrs. Irving W. Clock will make "Suggestions for the Fall Book Shelf." Hostesses will be Mrs. Daniel B. Hayden, Mrs. William P. Dietz, Mrs. James A. O'Callaghan, and Mrs. Bertrand W. Evans.

Canterbury Club.

Glenola Juniors.

Plans for the annual fall dance given by the Juniors of the Glenola club are being formulated by a committee headed by Miss Celeste O'Hara, with Miss La Vergne Boucher, Miss Katherine Burke, and Miss Helen Horan as assisting members. The dance will take place Saturday at the Vista del Lago. The auxiliary held its opening meeting Thursday. The Rev. F. G. Dineen of St. Ignatius church, spoke.

Catholic Woman's League.

Mrs. Frank T. O'Brien, 2500 Lake View avenue, will be hostess at tea to the North Shore Catholic Woman's league at 2 o'clock Wednesday. A book review will be given by Mrs. Sidney Beech, president of the league.

MELODY FLOODS LIFE AND HOME OF MRS. GARNETT

Poet-Composer Has Real Southern Charm.

vailing mood of "Master Will of Stratford," "A Forest Rondo," and other compositions after the Shakespearean manner, generously seasoned the conservation with ays, nays, prithees. avaunts, lackadays, and beshrew me's. There was the later period of spirituals and poems in Negro dialect.

Dialect Proves Accurate.

"Something atavistic" was Mrs. Garnett's explanation of "Black and White" and similar verse. "How do you dare?" her husband laughed. "Your dialect—how can you know it's accurate?" (There was the black face of a Virginia "mammy" in Mrs. Garnett's early memories.) "But I feel sure that it is," she insisted. Confirmation came from the publisher in the form of a request for biographical material. Mr. Garnett paid him a visit to assure him that the author of the poems was Caucasian.

Mrs. Garnett was born in Plymouth. Ind. Her grandparents, after freeing their slaves, moved west from Virginia. Old Culpeper Courthouse was the district from which they came, as did Mr. Garnett's forebears.

She tells of a motor trip through the valleys of the Shenandoah and Rappahannock a few summers ago The car was stopped on the main thoroughfare in Culpeper. "We thought we had violated a trafic rule and that the family history in Virginia was tc have a jail sequence," she related. "But it was the local custom preserved from more courtly days; the old man who signaled pleasantly welcomed us to Culpeper." In the name of ancestral Virginians he, in turn, was presented with a packet of cigars purchased from the corner drug store.

Both Author and Musician.

Combining author and musicianship at times, at times collaborating as composer or as librettist, Mrs. Garnett has written not only voluminously but in many forms. There have been plays, cantatas, poems, stories, and operettas for children. There have been instrumental solos and ensembles, more sophisticated verse, chorals, and oratorios. There was also a novel, which had a lengthy itinerary. The circumstances of its completion, told by friends, made headlines in the continental newspapers. It was finished in Switzerland as a Christmas present for her daughter.

The story, "The Joyous Pretender," was conceived and started at the family ranch in Wyoming. At different times chapters were added—a few at the MacDowell colony of Peterborough, in New Hampshire, a few more in Michigan. The manuscript was slipped in a trunk when Gloria of the red gold hair, accompanied by her mother, left for Paris to study the violin.

She was searching for something new to read one idle afternoon when Mrs. Garnett thought of her half told tale. Reiterated pleas for "the end of the story" had their effect. The last chapters were written during a holiday sojourn in the Alps, in time to be slipped into Gloria's Christmas stocking.

Dreams of Irish Isle.

Love of travel has taken her to many far places, but there is that in Mrs. Garnett's lyric description of certain scenes which is more revealing than even her gift for vivid imagery and facility of expression. Surely no one of the Gael would doubt the ultimate source of songs "a heart width wide" and "a dream length long" who heard Mrs. Garnett assert that when she stepped on Irish soil "something came lilting up from the ground and tapped my feet."

There is a spot detached from the mainland of Ireland which she has not yet seen whose name alone, Mrs. Garnett says, brings a nostalgic tug at her thoughts. Some day she will pack and be off for the Aran Islands—Aranmor, Inishmaan, and Inishere—of the silver mist in the blue bay of Galway. She thinks long, in the native phrase, on the paths of John Synge, on the fisher folk at their nets and at their peat fires—on the clear Gaelic voices.

NEW PRESIDENT

Mrs. Mabel Rudd Holdhusen. [Bernie Photo.]

The Evanston Business and Professional Women's club has entered upon a busy season under the presidency of Mrs. Mabel Rudd Holdhusen. At a dinner meeting tomorrow the group wil be addressed by Miss Celia Howard, a former president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who will discuss the pros and cons for a new state constitution.

Noted Troupe Will Open Evanston Drama Club Year

Under the presidency of Mrs. Joseph Pearson, the Drama club of Evanston steps into its 1934-'35 season with a coup d'état that will have every aspiring sister group definitly respectful for months to come.

MRS. JOSEPH PEARSON. [Eugene L. Ray Photo.]

The internationally famous Hedgerow theater, directed by Jasper Deeter, will make its first stop on a transcontinental itinerary in the north suburb next Thursday to play before the Evanston organization and its guests at the Woman's club.

Revise Eastern Schedule.

A triumphant program committee has announced that, in order to keep the engagement with the originators of the drama clubs, the players are rearranging their eastern schedule and will hurry the trip in their automobile caravan.

Mr. Deeter will present his troupe in St. John Ervine's "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," with Miriam Phillips in the title rôle. The story is that of a temperamental actress who sweeps into a quiet English vicarage with her cockney manager, Hobbs, to hear Goeffrey Considine read a poetic drama. The object of the visit is soon lost in the maze of humorous events that develop from Mary's propensity for acting off stage as well as on.

35 Plays on Schedule.

The Hedgerow theater in Rose Valley in suburban Philadelphia, now generally accepted as the outstanding Little theater in the country, was started twelve years ago by Mr. Deeter. It has a répertoire of 108 plays, keeping thirty-five, which range from the classics to modern forms of theater entertainment, on its active schedule each year.

The director, a native Pennsylvanian, began his career in the east and in Chicago as a newspaper man. His lively interest in the theater led to a connection with the original Provincetown theater in New York. Mr. Deeter rose to the directorship of that group, discovering Ann Harding through his production of "Inheritors."

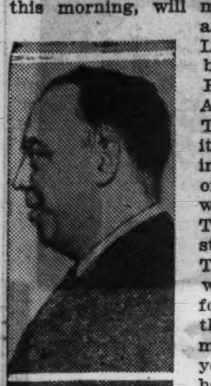
PRESBYTERIANS OF LAKE VIEW TO OPEN FETE TODAY

Six Week Jubilee Marks Golden Year.

Six weeks of jubilation, beginning this morning, will mark the golden anniversary of the Lake View Presbyterian church, Broadway and Addison streets. The church had its early meetings in the Town Hall of Lake View, where the present Town Hall police station stands. The present site was purchased for $4,000 after the church had met for several years in the town hall.



JUDGE W. P. STEFFEN.

The celebration will open today with a special "Service of Inauguration" at which a combined choir of 90 voices will sing. The Rev. Leslie G. Whitcomb, pastor, will preach the sermon.

Special features of the six week period to follow include: Oct. 26, an anniversary youth dinner, with Judge Walter P. Steffen, toastmaster; Nov. 4, a men's anniversary service, with the Rev. Norman B. Barr, speaker; Nov. 7, an anniversary reception by the Women's society, with Mrs. George L. Robinson, speaker; Nov. 11, Sunday school day, with the Rev. Harry C. Munro, speaker; Nov. 18, jubilee Sunday, with an historical pageant in the evening; Nov. 23, the anniversary dinner, and Nov. 25, Thanksgiving service, with the Rev. Henry S. Brown, preacher.

Took Rifles to Church.

Back in 1884, when the church was first organized on what was then Evanston avenue, the country thereabouts was open, and many of the members attended in horse drawn "rigs" ranging from buckboards to surreys. Some of the young bloods were wont to take their squirrel rifles along in the carriage, and were sometimes late to church because they had stopped to take pot shots at small game that ventured too close to be passed up. This practice was the subject of one of the early sermons, and the sinners were admonished to cease desecrating the sabbath—but it was not uncommon to hear the country stillness broken by the sharp crack of a rifle for many Sundays thereafer.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, executive secretary of the Chicago Presbytery, who will preach the Thanksgiving sermon ending the period of the anniversary celebration, is one of the nine pastors the church has had during its 50 years. The Rev. H. J. Frothingham was the first pastor, at a salary of $75 per month. Others who followed were the Rev. Floyd Hoke, the Rev. Leland M. Gilliland, the Rev. J. M. Fulton, the Rev. Charles H. Wisner, the Rev. Frank M. Carson, the Rev. Mr. Brown, the Rev. Emerson Olds Houser, and the Rev. Mr. Whitcomb, present pastor.

Bought Lot in 1885.

The lot at Addison street and Evanston avenue [now Broadway] was purchased in 1885, but it was three years later that the first church was to be erected there at a cost of $10,000. Meanwhile, the congregation met in the town hall, and a tent was temporarily pitched on the church site.

It was an ill fated piece of canvas however, for first it blew down, and after being set up more staunchly, burned down later in the summer. The congregation hastened to get another tent, and members made use of the charred chairs until the coming of winter forced the renting of Oak hall, on Clark street.

Des Plaines Cooking School.

The annual cooking school will open in Des Plaines at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and will continue through Thursday and Friday. Miss Opal Neidhammer will conduct the classes.

FALL BRIDE

One of the prettiest of the early fall brides is Mrs. Robert Harroun Hommel, whose wedding took place Monday, Sept. 10, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred George Schultz of Beardstown. Mrs. Hommel, formerly Mary Elizabeth Schultz, is a graduate of Ferry hall. She attended Mundelein college and also the University of Wisconsin.

FOUR SCHOOLS GIVEN HIGHEST R. O. T. C. RATINGS

North and Northwest Side Units Cited.

The Lake View High school R. O. T. C. battalion won first place among the city high school military units, and with units from Senn, Roosevelt, and Lane Technical High schools was among the outfits to win "honor" rating—the highest classification given. Only six schools received the rating and four of these were the north and northwest side schools named. This was revealed by official notification received by Sergt. Alford D. Lee, military instructor at Lake View, from the Sixth corps area headquarters.

Schurz High school won "excellent" rating, the classification given to a second group of eight schools, and was first on this list, having been nosed out of the honor rating.

The ratings were given on the basis of the annual spring inspection held five months ago by the war department inspectors, who were Maj. Ernest J. Carr, R. O. T. C. officer of the Sixth corps area, and Maj. John D. von Holtzendorff, professor of military science and tactics of the Chicago high schools.

Lake View, winner of first place on the honor list, has won the honor rating every year since 1922, with the exception of 1929. Sergt. Lee last week attributed its high rating to the cooperation given by Olice inter, principal, and Capt. Louis D. Walz, band instructor, and the intensive effort of the student officers under the command of Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Raymond L. Hicks.

HEADS AUXILIARY

The woman's auxiliary of the Ravenswood hospital will hold its annual card party and style show at 1:30 o'clock Friday, Oct. 26, in the Crystal ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mrs. William W. Lill, 119 Abingdon road, is president of the auxiliary.

CONSUMERS OF NORTH SHORE TO MEETWEDNESDAY

Two Sessions of Forum Scheduled.

An Institute on Consumer Problems, a free open forum meeting, will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Deerfield-Shields Township High school in Highland Park. This meeting will initiate the work of the Lake County Consumers council, as part of the division of the National Emergency council, to represent the consumer's point of view in the manifold problems now being dealt with in national legislation and administration.

The first session at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, will be addressed by Dr. James Peter Warbasse on "Cooperation as One Method for More Effective Consumer Buying."

Paul Douglas Night Speaker.

At the second session, to be held at 8 o'clock in the evening, Dr. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago will speak on "Problems of Price and Quality Standards Under the Codes."

The services of Dr. Douglas were obtained through the joint efforts of the Lake County Consumers council and the Highland Park League of Women Voters. Both Dr. Douglas and Dr. Warbasse are members of the consumers' advisory board of the National Recovery administration. Dr. Douglas is a professor of economics at the University of Chicago, and Dr. Warbasse has been president of the Coöperative League of the United States since 1916 when it was organized.

The Lake County council is one of 200 in the United States which have been formed to find and disseminate facts, both to and from the consumers and the national government, for the protection of consumers against possible discrimination in the development of prices and code standards of quality.

Seen as Protection.

Organized labor and organized capital usually have regarded the settlement of such questions as purely a bargain to be driven between themselves, it was explained, and the formation of a consumers' organization is regarded as the logical way to insure that consumers' rights will not be taken away from them in the struggle.

Mrs. Maurice A. Pollak of Highland Park is chairman of the Lake County council, which includes H. E. McArthur, Edward Carlson, Dr. J. W. Frederick Davies, and Miss Florence Denison of Waukegan; Mrs. Henry A. Sellery, Mrs. George Carr, E. R. Baum, and Brs. Ralph Fletcher Seymour of Highland Park; Jacob J. Novak of North Chicago, and Miss Florence Kimmelsdue of Grays Lake.

WED HALF A CENTURY

CATHOLIC DRAMA LEAGUE TO GIVE PLAY PREMIERE

Benefit Production Will Open Tuesday.

Peter J. Koessler's new play, "But Few Are Chosen," will have its première on Tuesday at the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street, under the auspices of the Catholic Drama League of Chicago. It will be given with a cast of league players for a twelve day run as a benefit for the Holy Name Technical school at Lockport.

The play, essentially Catholic in atmosphere, has, as the title suggests, the subject of vocations to the religious life as its dominant theme.

The central figure is a red robed "prince of the church," whose wisdom, courage, and quiet humor have an abiding influence on the various members, young and old, of the family around which the story is woven.

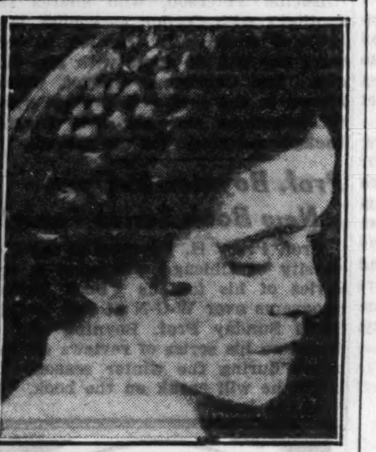
The rôle of the cardinal will be played by Mr. Koessler. The young playwright was the author of several of the 44 plays and pageants which, during the last 10 years, the league has given under his direction.

Members of the supporting cast of "But Few Are Chosen" were taken from Little Theater groups in Chicago parishes. They are Miss Margueritte Schenden, Miss Mary Francis, Miss Rose Polster, Miss Harriet Klein, Miss Margaret Stueve, Miss Elizabeth Kessel, Miss Theresa Grassl, Edward M. Gatz, Henry Stricker, Henry Bock, Francis Stueve, William Kohnen, and William Knoebelsberger.

Nuns of the archdiocese will attend a special matinée performance of the play at 2:30 o'clock next Saturday. A special evening performance for the clergy will be given on the following Monday.

The Holy Name Technical School for Boys, which will benefit from the league's dramatic presentation, is under the sponsorship of the Holy Name society. The Most Rev. Benjamin J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of Chicago, is its special patron.

IN LEAGUE PLAY



Miss Mary Francis of 1050 George street will be seen in the important rôle of Cecelia in the Catholic Drama league's presentation of "But Few Are Chosen." Miss Francis is the president of the league.

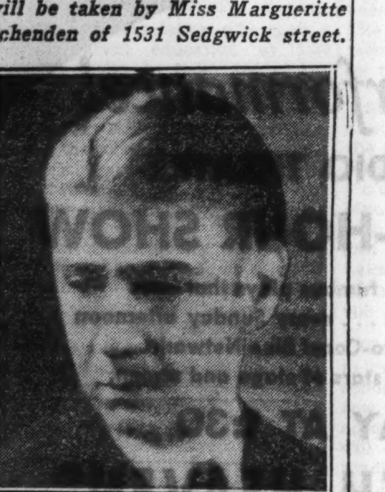
In the same production another leading part, that of Susan Shaw, will be taken by Miss Margueritte Schenden of 1531 Sedgwick street.



Peter J. Koessler, 1819 Larrabee street, is the author of the play and the director of the drama league. He will appear as Cardinal Winters, leading character in the story.

Rogers Park 8500

1. Blue and gold or green and gold knit dress that fits perfectly into the Fall picture (14-20)......$15

2. A 2-piece llama cloth with a silk scarf to contrast. Bonfire and navy, green and black, maize and brown (14-20)..$22.75

3. Here's a checked llama wool in 2 pieces—particularly smart for sports or street. In new Fall shades, 16 to 20............$25

4. A charming velveteen in jewel colors is grand for town and country. In sizes 14 to 20............$25

The reason we chose these to sketch is that they were the very latest—and further, they are typical of the smartest fashions for town and country. And then, too, you'll find them far less expensive than you might expect from their style and smartness.

And this suit was selected from our new collection. Brown with Kolinsky trim and a tiny muff to match. $50. (Sketched at right.)

High Fashion For Fall Means High Crowns $5

Tomorrow we're stressing our grand selection of new Fall hats—the smaller models to wear with coats and suits as well as types for afternoon. Hatter's plush, velvet, antelope and bagheera are much in evidence.

Field's Famous Flawless Chiffon $1.15

Sheer, ring free and clear—that is why these hose are among our best sellers. And then, their reinforcement makes them long wearing as well as good looking. In tattoo, chica, fog, bongos, gunmetal or black...the colors that best harmonize with your Fall apparel.

Bags to Complete Your Fall Ensemble $5

An ensemble with either one of these bags is destined to be a success. These black ones gain individuality from their gold novelty clasps—others are platinum calf or suede.

Two New Fielco Models Just Arrived $6.50

The first—a black or brown suede with calf trim. The same shoe comes in crushed calf, black or brown, with patent trim. The 4-eyelet oxford is in suede with calf trim, or crushed calf with patent trim. Both come in black or brown.

RADIO PROGRAMS DULL? TRY THESE FOR A CHANGE

Harold Stokes, Kay Kyser Win Praise.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If it takes more than a cigaret to give you a lift, you may get it from these:

Harold Stokes' new W-G-N Dance orchestra, presenting both old and new favorites with unusual arrangements. Stokes' programs are characterized by a variety unknown to most night club bands. There's lots of sparkle, gayety, and spontaneity to the music of this orchestra.

The March of Time. This grand program has plenty of imitators but none that approach it in dramatic effectiveness. If you were listening last week you must have got a chill out of the Bruno Hauptmann episode, much hashed over as the subject is.

Kay Kyser Promising.

Kay Kyser's novel vocal introductions to his numbers. A pleasant relief from tedious announcing. Watch this orchestra. Like Hal Kemp Kyser came to this spot practically unknown hereabouts. Like Hal Kemp, he probably will become a radio celebrity.

The merry antics of the folks on Fred Allen's Town Hall Tonight. Though Fred is reported to be getting tired of radio his show in no way reflects this attitude. Every one appears to have a whale of a good time putting on this hour of hey hey.

Art Kassel's sweet smooth rhythms and his featured singer, Norm Ruvell.

Try These for Fine Music.

For some of the finest music on the air we recommend: Henry Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra with Attilio Baggiore; the Detroit Symphony orchestra with guest artists; Charles Previn's Silken Strings, the Sentinels Serenade, the Martini-Stueckgold-Ponselle combination; George Gershwin's hour, and the perennial Harry Horlick.

Not All Good, Nor All Bad.

Among the new programs viewed with mixed emotions:

Hollywood hotel: Good music by Ted Fio-Rito, William O'Neal and Rowene Williams. Dull and vapid talks by film guest stars, and unpleasant Hollywood gossip. Widely heralded as THE new show of the season on Columbia this loosely organized hour turned out something of a disappointment.

Eddie Cantor: Just as always playing to the visible instead of the invisible audience. Much laughter from the studio crowd over things the radio listener misses. There is nothing new on this hour—good music, bad jokes.

New Orchestra Praised.

The new W-G-N concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, is evoking much praise among listeners. Excerpts from letters and telegrams:

W-G-N—You have the finest orchestra on the air out of Chicago. Your program last evening was best yet. Fine conductor; wonderful singer. Congratulations.
CHARLES STORZ,
Lake Geneva, Wis.

W-G-N—With the addition of the concert orchestra under Mr. Weber's capable baton you have accomplished a degree of excellent radio presentation that would indeed be difficult to surpass.
L. M. B. MORRISSEY,
Davenport, Ia.

Dear Mr. Weber: I wish to congratulate you heartily on your beautiful program of Sunday night. It was most enjoyable and I shall be listening every Sunday night.
C. E. GULLETT,
Lincoln, Ill.

Dear Mr. Weber: Tonight I have listened with much pleasure to your program and want to say I thoroughly enjoyed every number and every soloist. "The Prize Song" and Svendsen's "Romanze" are especial favorites of mine. . . . Please accept my hearty congratulations.
MRS. CARL R. CHINDBLOM,
916 Judson avenue, Evanston.

This and That.

Ronnie and Van have just turned down an offer to appear as headliners at Radio City. The comedians are kept here because of their Sunday engagements with Tony Wons.

Helen Marshall, star of the Romberg show, is the latest Missouri girl to make good in a big way in radio. Miss Marshall comes from Joplin. Last two years has also seen the rapid rise of Jane Froman, Gladys Swarthout, and Martha Mears, all natives of the Show Me state.

George Olsen and Ethel Shutta have decided to make Wednesday night celebrity night at the College inn. First two guest nights are reported to have been notable successes, a host of radio stars turning out to greet this popular team.

Willis Cooper, author of those horrifying Lights Out ghost dramas at NBC is writing a novel. An interested publisher has induced him to begin work on a long promised opus.

NEW ORCHESTRAS TO BE HEARD ON W-G-N TUESDAY

Two musical organizations, new to many Chicagoans, will make their appearance on the air over W-G-N on the Chicago Theater of the Air program Tuesday evening at 9:30 o'clock. They are Ina Ray Hutton and her "Melodears," a dance and concert orchestra composed entirely of women, and H. Leopold Spitalny and the Chicago theater orchestra. Spitalny succeeds Josef Cherniavsky as the theater orchestra director for a limited engagement.

The "Melodears" are making their first appearance in the middle west. These 17 feminine musicians achieve a style of music usually characteristic only of male musicians. They are the product of Irving Mills, discoverer of Cab Calloway, Duke Ellington, and the Blue Rhythm band, and were rehersed secretly in New York for eight months before Mills permitted them to be heard or seen. The orchestra is appearing as the feature of the Chicago theater stage show this week. With the orchestra is the singing team, the Frazee Sisters.

Fred Allen Writes

Dear Larry: Am enclosing the Town Hall Bulletin for the week: Many a self-made man wishes he had called in some outside help. . . . Federal government inaugurates program to purchase goats. That's one way of getting them. . . . New York sets apart October as Milk month. Here's cow! . . . England reduces phone rates. Scotch business men claim it's hardly worth while to reverse charges. . . . Commodities may be rising but talk is still cheap. . . . Pupils picket high school for shorter hours. Boys will be organized! . . . Counterfeiters and people trying to pass gold notes find themselves in the same boat today. . . . Many radio listeners are helping the cotton business by stuffing their ears when crooners are on the air. . . . Portland says "A wit and his lips are soon parted."

Cordially, FRED ALLEN.

Dr. S. A. Eliot Will Be Sunday Evening Speaker

Dr. Samuel A. Eliot of Boston, Mass., will be the speaker on the Chicago Sunday Evening club program, which is to be broadcast by W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 o'clock tonight.

W-G-N TO REPORT BEAR-CARDINAL FOOTBALL GAME

Elson to Handle Pro Grid Contests Again.

W-G-N will open its professional football schedule today with Bob Elson presenting a detailed account of the Chicago Bears and Cardinals game from Wrigley field. During the season all of the games to be played by the Bears, champions of the National Professional league last season, both at home and abroad, will be broadcast by W-G-N. The broadcasts of the pro football games, under the same sponsorship as last year, again are to be an exclusive feature on W-G-N.

Bob Elson, who announced the baseball games throughout the summer and who has broadcast all of the professional football games in previous years, will handle the microphone regularly. He will broadcast from a special booth built in the upper deck on the 50 yard line at Wrigley field.

Guests to Be Introduced.

As in former years, Elson will introduce a number of guests during his broadcasts. Sports celebrities, members of the contesting teams, and various stars of the stage, screen, and radio who attend the games will be interviewed.

Today's game between the Cardinals and Bears, Chicago's two entries in the title race, should bring a great battle. The Bears, champions last season, have strengthened their great team, while the Cardinals, always a tough foe for the Bears, have an almost entirely new squad which has shown great power in the games already played.

Broadcast Starts at 2 P. M.

The broadcast will start at 2 o'clock, fifteen minutes before the kickoff.

Next Sunday the Bears play Cincinnati. The three out of town games on the schedule are Nov. 11 at Boston, Nov. 18 at New York, and Nov. 29 at Detroit.

IRISH-CARNEGIE GAME ON W-G-N NEXT SATURDAY

Notre Dame university plays Carnegie Tech at the Notre Dame stadium next Saturday, and W-G-N will broadcast the battle direct from the field. Notre Dame and Carnegie are traditional rivals on the gridiron, and a hot battle always results from the meeting of these two teams. Quin Ryan will broadcast the game from the W-G-N radio booth in the press box on the 50 yard line. This is the only game this season to be broadcast by W-G-N from Notre Dame.

"Helen Trent" Goes Network

Virginia Clark, who plays the part of "Helen Trent" in the W-G-N air sketch by the same name. The "Helen Trent" program returns to the CBS network tomorrow for the winter season. The program is to be heard at its usual time, 1:15 p. m., on W-G-N and the network. [Seymour Photo.]

'Washington Masquerade' Roses and Drums Episode

"Washington Masquerade," a new Roses and Drums episode giving a vivid picture of the capital in the tense early summer days of 1864, when the southern general, Jubal Early, was threatening the poorly manned defenses of the city, will be presented over WENR at 4 p. m. today. Leading numbers of the cast include Reed Brown Jr., Helen Claire, John Griggs, Jack Roseleigh, and Porter Hall.

N. U. LYCEUM OF THE AIR TO OPEN ON W-G-N TODAY

Professors to Discuss Many Subjects.

Northwestern university at 10 o'clock today will open a "Lyceum of the Air" over W-G-N. Professors of the university will collaborate in presenting weekly talks on a wide range of subjects, including news events, books, applied psychology, and various intellectual avocations. The programs will be broadcast from Annie May Swift hall, on the Evanston campus.

Every Sunday at this hour W-G-N will present the "N. U. News Talk" in which a professor will be interviewed regarding some problem of current interest. The first speaker will be Augustus R. Hatton, professor of political science. His topic will be "National Parties in Local Politics."

Plan Psychology Series.

Another series of programs entitled "Applied Psychology" will be broadcast by Northwestern each Monday evening from 7:45 to 8:00 p. m. beginning tomorrow. The first talk will be given by John J. B. Morgan, professor of psychology, and author of "Keeping a Sound Mind" and "Making the Most of Your Life." His subject will be "Getting Along with People."

The third series under Northwestern's Lyceum of the Air will be given each Tuesday evening at 7:45 to 8:00 p. m. Entitled "N. U. Book Talks," it will present interesting information regarding modern books. The first talk next Tuesday will be made by Alpheus W. Smith, professor of English. He will discuss "The Shape of Things to Come" by H. G. Wells.

Leisure Series Planned.

On each Wednesday evening at 7:45 a series of programs entitled "N. U. Leisure Hour" will be presented. The talk on Oct. 17 will be made by Oliver J. Lee, professor of astronomy. It will deal with the joys of star gazing.

Two short plays will be presented on Saturday evenings, Nov. 10 and Dec. 8, at 8:00 to 8:15 p. m. by a picked group of players from the Northwestern university school of speech under the direction of Garrett H. Leverton, professor of dramatic production.

HENRY WEBER TO FEATURE LEHAR WALTZES TODAY

Orchestra's Versatility to Be Demonstrated.

A brilliant program of the classics with music from the operas and the works of the old masters will be presented by Henry Weber and the W-G-N concert orchestra on its program from 9:15 to 10 o'clock tonight. The new W-G-N director has selected a program which is designed to demonstrate the versatility and talent of his new orchestral organization which made its debut for W-G-N listeners last week.

Director Weber will present Lawrence Salerno, W-G-N's golden voiced baritone, as the vocal soloist, while Edward Vito, harp vituoso, will again be the featured instrumental soloist.

Salerno will be heard in two songs, "Jurame" and the brilliant "La Partenza," by Gordigiani.

Waltzes by Lehar.

Among the outstanding offerings of the orchestra will be the famous "Gold and Silver Waltzes," by Franz Lehar, "In the Village" and "March of the Sardar," from the Caucasian Sketches by Ippolitov-Ivanov, and the introduction to act three of "Lohengrin." The program:

Overture to "Massaniello" .... Auber
"Claire de Lune" [Moonlight] ...... Debussy
"Jurame" ....
Lawrence Salerno, baritone, and orchestra.
"In the Village" [Caucasian Sketches] .... Ippolitov-Ivanov
"March of the Sardar" [Caucasian Sketches] .... Ippolitov-Ivanov
"Poeme" .... Fibich
Edward Vito, harpist.
"La Partenza" .... Gordigiani
Mr. Salerno and orchestra.
"Gold and Silver Waltzes" .... Lehar
Introduction to act three of "Lohengrin" .... Wagner

Berenice Taylor, soprano, and Mr. Salerno will be the soloists with the concert orchestra on its program from 9:15 to 9:45 p. m. tomorrow night. Mr. Salerno will sing "Ramblin' Joe" and "They Didn't Believe Me." Miss Taylor will offer "Lover, Come Back to Me" and "Slumber Song."

Orchestra Selections.

Mr. Weber and the orchestra will play the overture to the "Secret of Suzanne," "Kashmiri Song," two of the great tunes from Ferd Grofe's Mississippi suite, "Creole Days," and "Mardi Gras," and selections from "The Red Mill," by Friml, with Miss Taylor and Mr. Salerno singing a duet on the song "Because You're You."

On Friday evening Attilio Baggiore W-G-N's operatic tenor, will offer four songs on his half hour program with the orchestra at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Baggiore has selected "Lunga de Lei Traviata," "Smilin' Through," "Colleen o' Mine" and "Fulfillment" and his songs. The orchestra numbers will include music of the Russian composers, Votichenko and Tschaikowsky, and Verdi, Strauss, and Weinberger.

IREENE WICKER WILL START NEW SERIES THURSDAY

Ireene Wicker will start a new series of "Singing Lady" programs next Thursday at 5:30 p. m. over W-G-N and NBC. Each Thursday she will tell the story of some famous animal or bird and for her opening story she will tell the true story of Cher Ami, the carrier pigeon who won the D. S. C. during the world war by carrying a message to headquarters which saved a battalion of soldiers from death.

Tomorrow "The Singing Lady" will tell the story of Bryan O'Lin. On Tuesday evening she will tell the exciting tale of the pioneer vessel, Sea Venture, which was wrecked off the coast of Bermuda in 1609. On Wednesday the story of the boyhood of the famous French landscape painter, Corot, will be presented, while on Friday she will relate the story of the childhood of the famous musician, Franz Liszt.

Frost on Chapel Hour.

Prof. Edwin B. Frost, professor emeritus of astrophysics at the University of Chicago, will be the speaker on the university chapel service broadcast at 11 o'clock this morning over W-G-N.

LONE RANGER AUTHOR FINDS HIS RADIO HERO HAD REAL LIFE DOUBLE

When James Jewell conceived and produced the radio dramas, "The Lone Ranger," the stories of the old west which are heard every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evening at 7 o'clock over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System and the Michigan Radio network, he had no idea that such a person had ever stalked across life's stage. Mr. Jewell made his hero a combination of all manly virtues, put him into the western setting and gave his imagination a chance with the scripts.

Now, if John DuBois of Grand Rapids isn't stringing the dramatic boss of the "Lone Ranger" series, a character similar to the "Lone Ranger" did actually exist.

Mr. DuBois says he knew the "Lone Ranger" well. He tells stories about him which Mr. Jewell has never yet embodied in the dramas but which will be used from time to time. Mr. DuBois names other men who spent their younger years in the western country and who also knew the "Lone Ranger" well. He said they all will authenticate his stories as well as a number of the stories which have been broadcast.

Only one detail of the radio character and the real "Lone Ranger" is incorrect, according to Mr. DuBois, and that is the fact that the "Lone Ranger" great horse, known as "Silver" in the radio scripts, was a bay—not a white horse.

MUTUAL CHAIN TO LAUNCH NEW PROGRAM FRIDAY

A new series of programs of modern music and the old favorites known as the "Musical Memory Book" will be presented on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System network starting next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The program which features Norman Cordon, Lucille Peterson, the Choristers quartet and Lou Katzman and his orchestra will be fed to the network by the New York outlet, WOR.

Cordon will be the master of ceremonies on the program as well as a featured soloist. The program portrays Cordon looking through his book of musical memories and as he selects the tunes the orchestra with its soloists will present them. Music of the latter part of the 19th century as well as the more modern tunes will be presented on this program.

Lucille Peterson, who shares the spotlight with Cordon as soloist, is a brilliant singer. In addition to solo work she will do duets with Mr. Cordon. The Choristers quartet, widely known in the east, will present quartet selections and also will furnish background music for the soloists.

Prof. Boynton to Open New Book Series Tonight

Prof. Percy H. Boynton of the University of Chicago will open a new series of his famous "Book Talks" programs over W-G-N at 6:45 tonight. Each Sunday Prof. Boynton will be heard on his series of reviews of literature during the winter season. Tonight he will speak on the book, "So Red the Rose."

NORTHWEST P.-T. COUNCIL'S FALL PARLEY IS OCT. 23

Topics Include Membership, Child Guidance.

Parliamentary procedure, child guidance, and membership expansion are topics that will be discussed by prominent speakers before the Northwest Council of Parent-Teacher Associations at its annual fall conference on Tuesday, Oct. 23, at the Jefferson Park Congregational church, 5314 Giddings street. Registration will begin at 9:45 o'clock.

MRS. F. RUSSEL LYON.

Mrs. F. Russel Lyon, council president, will conduct both the morning and the afternoon session.

The speaker on the morning program will be Mrs. L. Cass Brown, who is parliamentarian for the state as well as the national parent-teacher congress. The remainder of the morning will be spent in round table conferences of committee chairmen from the nineteen member associations in the council.

The council chorus, directed by Mrs. William T. Reid, will open the afternoon program with music. Dr. Harold S. Hulbert of Aurora, authority on adolescent psychology, will be presented in a talk on "Child Guidance from the Viewpoint of Mental Hygiene." Dr. Hulbert spoke before the state P.-T. A. convention in Springfield last April. Mrs. Edward W. Jackson, state membership chairman, will also speak at the afternoon session.

Reservations for luncheon, which will be served at 12:15 o'clock, will be taken by Mrs. Anton K. Thompson, 4527 North Richmond street, until next Saturday.

Council chairmen who will preside at the round table discussions in the morning will be Mrs. R. W. Vanderpool, program; Mrs. M. J. Gerber, parent education; Mrs. Thomas Davies, membership; Mrs. Robert Cammack, national P.-T. A. magazine; Mrs. T. J. Kaufman, bulletin; Mrs. Joel Davis, humane education; Mrs. Clifford Osborne, citizenship and legislation; Mrs. J. D. King, leisure time; Mrs. Arthur Klecker, motion pictures; Mrs. Caroline Cobb, summer roundup; Mrs. J. Gold Barker, ways and means; Mrs. Clarence C. Blume, home making and thrift; Mrs. Loren C. Wilder, student aid, and Mrs. R. E. Ailsworth, publicity.

Mrs. Lyon will conduct a conference of P.-T. A. presidents.

A faculty day reception in the school auditorium at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow will open the season for the Parent-Teacher association of Sullivan High school. Mrs. Raymond C. Mons, the president, will introduce all the members of the teaching staf. Ralph Margolis, director of physical education, will speak. Mrs. F. W. Oesterreich will have charge of the social hour. Mrs. H. L. Procter will be present to enroll new members.

Judge John Gutknecht of the Municipal court will speak on "Boys, Dads, and Courts" at the Fathers' night meeting of the Bateman P.-T. A. on Friday. The patrol boys and the Silent Members' club will present a program of entertainment. A movie for the benefit of the Children's Aid society will be given at 3 o'clock Wednesday in the school assembly hall.

Mrs. G. R. Freedlund, the president, will present Mrs. Frank Marshall, state high school adviser, in a talk on education and the work of the parent-teacher groups at the first meeting of the Von Steuben High school association at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow. There will be a reception for the teachers.

The Mozart association will open a class in parent education at 1:30 o'clock Thursday in room 204 of the school. Mrs. W. B. Pratt, the guest speaker, will have as her subject "Why Parent Education?" Mrs. I. J. Iverson, the chairman, has planned the year's program on the general theme, "Parent Education Today for Better Parents Tomorrow."

Members of the faculty will be special guests of the P.-T. A. at a luncheon for the new principal of the Morris school, Miss Ethel Richardson, on Tuesday. Mrs. Meta E. Randall has charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Gertrude L. Cook, the president, recently appointed the following members to serve as committee chairmen: Mrs. J. W. Hargraves, music and program; Mrs. Thor Vddstrom, child welfare; Mrs. George B. Wolf, school welfare; Mrs. Jacob Schleacter, juvenile protection; Mrs. Josephine Nagel, better films; Mrs. Roy Peterson, membership; Mrs. L. Auld, refreshments; Mrs. Randall, ways and means; Mrs. Ethel Nelson, room mothers; Mrs. Frances C. Olsen, legislation, and Mrs. Esther D. Geis, publicity.

A membership drive has been launched under Mrs. Peterson's direction. The association will give a card party on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 23, at the Peterson Furniture company, Belmont and Seminary avenues.

At its meeting at 3 o'clock Thursday the Oakton association of Evanston will hear a talk on "Building Social Attitudes in Young Children" by Miss Miriam Brubaker, head of the nursery school of the National College of Education. Mrs. Hugh Brower has been appointed corresponding secretary to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Edgar Morgan, who recently removed from the city. Mrs. John R. Palmer will serve as parent education chairman for the year. Mrs. Robert S. Capitain, social chairman, is planning a dessert bridge for Oakton mothers for Tuesday, Oct. 23.

A dessert bridge to welcome the mothers of new students will be given by the St. Francis Xavier P.-T. A. of Wilmette at 1:30 o'clock Friday. Mrs. Robert Markham, the new president, will receive with Mrs. William Dillon and Mrs. Horace Geignon, first and second vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Charles Rogers, the treasurer, and Mrs. James Ford and Mrs. Thomas Lucas, recording and corresponding secretaries. Mrs. Alva Chubb is the newly appointed motion picture chairman. Mrs. John Tracey recently was named director of publicity.

"Censorship and the Movies" will be the subject of a talk by Mrs. Chester H. Greene, state better films chairman, at a meeting of the Audubon association at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday. The program will include entertainment. Refreshments will be served by the social committee.

St. Henry's P.-T. A. will hold its annual card party on Wednesday at the club at Ridge and Devon avenues. Playing in the afternoon will begin at 2 o'clock and the evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Cyrilla Bienwold is general chairman for the party. Mrs. C. J. Benigan is in charge of ticket sales. A bake sale in conjunction with the party will be conducted by Mrs. Joseph Simon.

The St. George auxiliary will meet in the library of the St. George High school, Evanston, at 2 o'clock tomorrow, with the mothers of freshmen as special guests. Mrs. George Norgan will sing and there will be daamatic readings by Miss Eileen Jacobs. Mrs. W. J. Burns is the program chairman.

The Central School Neighborhood club of Evanston opened fall activities under the presidency of Mrs. Robert S. Rowe last Monday with an informal tea. David E. Walker, superintendent, and F. W. Nichols, secretary of the board of education of district 76, were the speakers. Austin Coggins, pianist, played.

With Mrs. Rowe the officers of the organization are: Mrs. Donald Sweet, vice president and program chairman; Miss Mary Lynch, second vice president; Mrs. F. R. Jones, recording secretary; Mrs. J. H. Funk, treasurer, and Mrs. Karl Steinkamp, corresponding secretary. The committee chairmen are: Mrs. I. L. Merry, ways and means; Mrs. Arthur Lindquist, room; Mrs. D. J. Stoutenberg, membership; Mrs. C. W. Wightman, tea; Mrs. Albert Vogt, welfare; Mrs. R. D. Baker, library; Mrs. Fred Kramer, films; Mrs. Harry E. Floyd, hospitality; Mrs. C. M. Joice, registration, and Mrs. E. Steinley, safety. Mrs. W. A. Burr and Mrs. G. N. Johnson are delegates.

BENEFIT DANCE CHAIRMAN

Mrs. James W. Solheim of 7385 North Damen avenue is chairman of the benefit dance that will be given on Wednesday at the Edgewater Beach hotel by the North Shore alumnae of Alpha Omicron Pi national sorority.

[Moffett Photo.]

PRESIDENT

WED

Miss Miriam Rosemary Wilhelm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm of 4500 North Racine avenue, became the bride of Robert Roy Crouse of Cincinnati recently. The wedding took place in the rectory of Holy Name cathedral.

JUDGE HELLER TO TELL OLIVET OF POLL HONESTY

"The Responsibility of the County Judge for Honest Elections" will be the subject of discussion when Municipal Judge Samuel Heller addresses the free forum held at the Olivet institute, 1441 Cleveland avenue, Tuesday evening.

Judge Heller will explain his own experience in the 1932 election, when he was forced to go to the judge of a neighboring county to obtain a recount of the votes in Cook county, which proved his right to the office.

Also included on the program for the evening will be J. W. Bergthold, who will speak on "Causes for Unemployment and a Remedy."

Meetings of the forum are held each Tuesday and Saturday evening and are open to the public. The Rev. Norman B. Barr, superintendent of the Olivet institute, is in charge.

North Side Fratority to Hold Fall Frolic Tonight

Zeta Sigma Alpha fratority will present its annual fall frolic at 8 o'clock this evening at the Tower Town club, 820 North Tower court. Miss Bess Harris is chairman, assisted by Miss Adele Dennison, Miss Yeta Gross, and Sidney J. Kosner on the general dance committee. The publicity committee includes Abe Aver, chairman; Miss Dorothy Cohn, and Stanley Henicoff. Ira Davidson is chairman of the advertising committee.

FOUR SUBURBS ACT TO SPEED UP HOUSING LOANS

North Shore Committees to Aid Home Owners.

Modernization plans for north shore homes, taking advantage of the loans offered under the federal housing act, received new impetus in Evanston, Wilmette, Glencoe, and Winnetka last week with the organization of committees to aid home owners in obtaining the loans and to advise them on what items they are allowed to expend the borrowed money.

Particular acceleration of the loan applications was seen in the announcement that the government has liberalized the terms of the original modernization program to include certain items of equipment which are not definitly built-in or nondetachable from the premises to be improved.

Lending Rules Liberal.

According to Ira Rosenberg, chairman of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce committee on housing, practically all of the rulings changed by the federal housing administration were made more liberal, while the lending institutions—usually local banks—are given wide latitude in determining what improvements are eligible for loans.

Thus, items now eligible practically without qualification, include domestic water heating systems and equipment, all types of oil burners, air conditioning equipment, gas ranges and water heaters, electric ranges, linoleum and "patent" floor coverings [not including rugs, carpets and matting], and the landscaping of grounds, as well as any other ground improvements on a site occupied by a home. In Evanston the loan seekers are being assisted by the chamber of commerce and the Evanston Real Estate board through special committees.

An array of special committees to work under the Wilmette Better Housing committee was announced by Joseph H. Heinzen, chairman, 1518 Lake avenue, who said that much progress toward the restoration of deteriorating homes in that suburb has already been made through the application of property owners for loans from north shore banks, which are insured against loss on all loans up to 20 per cent of the aggregate under the housing act.

Committees Are Announced.

In the selection of committees, D. J. L. Walther and Arthur Lee were chosen to collaborate with Mr. Heinzen. Wilmette committees, whose headquarters are at the chamber of commerce, include:

Executive—E. C. Cazel, Stanley Peterson, B. L. Keeler, Mrs. Esther R. Stone, William D. Leary, and Mr. Heinzen [chairman ex-officio].

Finance—Mr. Keeler, chairman, Mr. Leary, Marcus J. Mick, John H. Davies, and Robert Ricksen.

Publicity—Mr. Cazel, chairman, Philip Hoffmann, Jack Hughes, A. C. Wolff, Mrs. A. E. Klunder, Mrs. Harry L. Barker, Mrs. John Clark Baker, Mrs. Leonard J. Van Deursen, Mrs. George Bassler, and Mrs. Terrell Stapp.

Consultation—Mr. Peterson, chairman, L. M. Yost, C. C. Henderson, Robert Rae, R. A. M. Anderson, Mr. Davies, W. C. Huggins, and Frank H. Gathercoal.

Harry A. Dornbos, 411 Linden avenue, was appointed field campaign manager. Information, registration and similar matters will be taken care of by Miss Tillie Spak, executive secretary. Local contractors should register at once with the executive secretary, stating what branch of the building industry they represent.

FHA Groups Are Formed.

Both Winnetka and Glencoe have completed local FHA organizations, the one in Winnetka being headed by Robert F. Doepel and the one in Glencoe by Henry C. Wienecke. General discussion of the housing act was featured at a meeting held on Monday evening at the Winnetka community house under the direction of the Winnetka Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was attended by numerous representatives of the building trades and banks, as well as by home owners.

ENGAGED

Announcement of the engagement of their daughter Janice to Harold Du Bois is made by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan C. Weil of 1140 Pratt boulevard. Mr. Du Bois is the son of Mrs. Bessie Du Bois of 7049 South Green street.

AVIATION POST TO HOLD AIR SHOW AT GREAT LAKES

Model Plane Contest to Be Navy Day Feature.

All boys under 16, who reside in Lake county, are eligible to enter their planes in a model airplane show to be held on Navy day, Oct. 27, at the Great Lakes Naval Training station by Admiral William A. Moffett Aviation post, No. 771, of the American Legion.

Admiral Wat T. Cluverius has made the naval station available for the event and, as part of the day's entertainment, will provide a naval air demonstration with navy planes flown by naval flyers. Prizes will be awarded to those entering winning models.

The judging committee, composed of aviators, is headed by Maj. Chester L. Fordney. There will be no entrance fee for contestants, and admission to the station will be free. Entrants are requested to be at the station at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of the show.

The post's executive committee, headed by Thorne Donnelly, Lieut. John M. Hoskins, George L. Hart, and Commander W. M. Solberg, is sponsoring an Aviation Youth program over station WCBD each Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Chicago and Cook County council, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will meet tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Republic building, 209 South State street.

Mrs. Gertrude Spinks will be installed president of the auxiliary of Chicago Elevated post, No. 184, Tuesday evening at ceremonies to be held in the Crystal room of the Great Northern hotel. Other officers to be installed are Mrs. Walter S. Corda, first vice president; Miss Helen Mahoney, second vice president; Mrs. Margaret Sturch, third vice president; Mrs. Mary Segale, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Bridge, chaplain; Mrs. Anna O'Kelly, historian; Mrs. Vera Thurnow, musician; Mrs. Ruth E. Schultz, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Olive McClain and Mrs. Jack Corda, color bearers.

Mrs. Katharine Worley was recently installed president of Chipilly post auxiliary; Mrs. Lolita Steinbach, first vice president; Mrs. Josephine Schwantes, second vice president; Mrs. Frances Mundt, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Worley, chaplain; Mrs. Norine Miller, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Helen Martin, historian, and Mrs. Laura Miller, secretary.

A year of service has been outlined by Mrs. H. R. Dearborn, president of the Cook County council, American Legion auxiliary. On her corps of officers are Mrs. Edward Dowd, first vice president; Mrs. George Cassiday, second vice president; Mrs. R. C. Webber, treasurer; Mrs. Alice Morgan, historian; Mrs. E. K. Willet, chaplain, and Mrs. Nina Law, sergeant-at-arms.

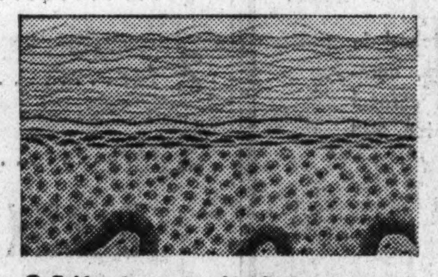
SEE DRY, ROUGH SKIN COME CLEAR . . . SMOOTH . . . TRANSPARENT . . . WITH THIS SATINY SKIN SOFTENER



● Epidermis, or outer skin. Surface consists of horny cells which are constantly drying up, causing roughness. (By permission of the publisher.)

● Skin made harsh—sallow—thick—by rough, dried particles—dead cells of the horny layer of the skin. They can actually be melted.

SCIENCE has found a way to transform harsh, rough, dry skin to silken smoothness and blushing translucence.

A noted dermatologist says: "Dry, harsh skin is caused by dead, horny cells which cling to the outer surface skin. Melt them, and the skin then becomes clear—smooth—radiant."

Skin authority explains

When we took Pond's Vanishing Cream to him, he reported:

"Vanishing Cream possesses keratolytic properties. It dissolves the keratin or dry, horny cells on the surface which make the skin look old. When they are melted, the young, underlying cells, full of life, are seen. Vanishing Cream also protects the skin's natural moisture from drying outside influences, such as sun and wind."

Just smooth on this fragrant skin softener. See how smooth your skin is! Think how daily treatments will transform your skin!

Use Pond's Vanishing Cream before powdering. Powder goes on evenly, never "cakes" or roughs up in blotches. Rouge blends in, stays fresh and vivid. Nose and chin shine is absolutely ended.

And always give face, hands and elbows a beauty treatment while you sleep. After cleansing, smooth on Pond's Vanishing Cream. All through the night it will soften—and satinize your skin. You will delight in the new, young, smooth skin which greets you in the morning.

Begin today to make your skin lovely. Simply send coupon below with 10¢ for 10 days' supply.

Little Orphan Annie
IT'S TH' MOUTH-PIECE, BUSARD-
LET HIM IN-
ANOTHER HUNDRED THOUSAND? IT'S A SHAKE DOWN- I WON'T KICK IN ANOTHER DIME-
O.K., PAL- I'M ONLY ADVISING YOU, AS YOUR ATTORNEY- BLUSTER AND HIS CROWD ARE ALL SET TO BRING YOUR CASE TO TRIAL AND SLAP YOU BACK IN JAIL-
I GET IT- THE POLITICIANS PLAN TO ROB ME OF EVERY CENT I HAVE- YOU MUST BE IN WITH THEM-
NOW, NOW, BLEEK- I'M KEEPING YOU OUT OF JAIL, DON'T FORGET- WHAT'S A HUNDRED GRAND AND FREEDOM, COMPARED TO A CELL?
I STILL THINK YOU'RE IN LEAGUE WITH THOSE CHISELERS- HERE'S A HUNDRED THOUSAND-DON'T BE SILLY- MY ONLY THOUGHT IS FOR YOU- THANKS- I'M SURE I CAN ARRANGE FOR A CONTINUANCE NOW-
A FEW MINUTES LATER----
AH, THERE, McBRIBE- HOW ARE YOU, HEELY?
WOW! DON'T TELL ME THAT'S FOR US-
HELLO, SANTA CLAUS! CERTAINLY IT'S FOR US- HOW MUCH DID YOU GET?
FIFTY THOUSAND- NOT BAD, EH? OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO POSTPONE THE TRIAL A FEW WEEKS FOR THAT-SURE- BLUSTER AND COGG DO WHAT WE SAY- HERE'S YOUR HALF, HEELY-
THAT'S RIGHT- WE GET THE DOUGH, AND BLUSTER AND COGG GET THE PUBLICITY-
AH- ONE MORE LINK IN THE CHAIN THAT SHALL TRIP THEM-
I TOLD BLEEK IT WAS PAY OR GO TO JAIL-
DID YOU TELL HIM "CRIME DOES NOT PAY?"
HA! HA! AND "HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY"- LOOK AT US-
AND AN HOUR LATER, IN THE PRESENCE OF WUN WEY, A SOUND FILM UNROLLS-
I KNOW ANNIE- BUT WE'LL NEVER BE SAFE WHILE THAT MAN IS AT LARGE-
SHUX- YOU CAN'T MOVE WITHOUT STUMBLING OVER ONE OR TWO OF WUN WEY'S GUARDS-
WE HAVEN'T BUDGED OUT OF HERE SINCE WE CAME- THERE'S NO WAY ANYONE CAN GUESS WHERE WE ARE- AND IF BLEEK COULD GUESS, HE'D NEVER BE ABLE TO CRASH IN HERE-
I HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT, ANNIE-
WHADDYUH MEAN YOU'VE "FOUND THEM"? FOUND WHO?
YER MISSUS AND TH' BRAT- THEY'RE IN A PENTHOUSE, GUARDED BY CHINKS-WUN WEY'S MEN- THEY'RE DANGEROUS, BUT THEY'LL NOT BE EXPECTING US- HA! WHAT A BREAK- WITH LIBBY AND THAT BRAT OUT OF THE WAY THERE'LL BE NO WITNESSES AGAINST US---- EXCEPT THE COPS- AND THEIR EVIDENCE WON'T COUNT-

Maw Green

TCH-TCH- AWFUL- AND DID YOU HEAR? THEY SAY SHE S-SP-SP-SP---
THEY SAY SHE OUGHT TO BE RUN OUT OF TOWN-
THEY SAY EVERYBODY KNOWS IT-WHO SAYS?
WHY, ER-ER- EVERYBODY SAYS SO, I GUESS-
YEAH? IF YOU CAN'T TELL WHO SAID IT, AND MAKE 'EM PROVE IT, YOU'RE MALICIOUS OLD GOSSIPS-
YOU RUIN A BODY'S GOOD NAME WITHOUT GIVIN' HER A CHANCE TO DEFEND HERSELF- YOU TAKE WHAT'S EVERYTHING TO HER AND NOTHING TO YOU-
YE DIRTY OLD SCANDAL MONGERS, PEDDLIN' YER FILTHY WARES- A BURGLAR IS A SAINT COMPARED TO YE THIEVES OF CHARACTER-

Correct coloring of animal pictures	25%
Right words in animal stories	25%
Correct spelling	25%
Neatness	25%

TEN GRAND PRIZES! REAL $250 NATIONAL JUNIOR RACERS or $200 in Cash

COME ON, BOYS AND GIRLS! Easy fun for you. And 1,174 wonderful prizes!

HOW TO WIN: Ask mother to buy P AND G Naphtha Soap and ask the grocer for a P AND G Circus Book. Then color the circus animals in the book and fill in the easy words in the animal stories. Ask mother for the P AND G Soap wrappers and cut P AND G from the ends of the wrappers (or make careful copies) and paste P AND G wherever it belongs in each animal picture. That's all! Get busy, boys and girls. This contest closes November 1st.

If your grocer cannot supply you with a P AND G Circus Book, send 3 P AND G Soap wrappers to Procter & Gamble, Dept. NAC, Box 1801, Cincinnati, Ohio, and a book will be mailed to you immediately.

MOTHERS!

Get acquainted now with the new improved P AND G Naphtha Soap. It comes in giant cakes! Sudsier, too! Easy on hands! Made with the same tropical oil used in fine liquid shampoo soaps. That's why P AND G's "whipped cream" suds soak out greasy dirt fast. Use nice white P AND G for dishes, too—save your hands!

Be sure to get P AND G now so that your children can get the P AND G Circus Book and P AND G Soap wrappers! Help them enter the contest!

Mr. COFFEE-NERVES.. mother's too smart for him

AN ADVERTISEMENT of GENERAL FOODS

"Mother, why did coffee make Edith so cross?"

"The caffein in coffee was robbing her of sleep, causing headaches and indigestion."

"Why did switching to POSTUM help her?"

"Postum contains no caffein . . . so it gave her system a chance to throw off the ill effects of the drug. Then her headaches and indigestion went away and she could sleep soundly."

Many people can safely drink coffee. But many others — and all children — should never drink it. The caffein in coffee may be working to undermine your nervous system, interfere with your digestion, or rob you of sleep.

If coffee disagrees—try POSTUM for 30 days. It's delicious, economical, easy to prepare, and may be a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE—To start you off in your fight against coffee-nerves, let us send you a week's supply of POSTUM — FREE! Simply fill in and mail the coupon.

OUTSIDE ONCE MORE, WHITEBOY DETERMINES TO FLEE FROM THE MADNESS WHICH SURROUNDS HIM RUNNING AWAY LIKE A COW-ARD?
YOU, AGAIN?
STARLIGHT!
"DON'T MISS COURT," SAYS THE PARASOL WOMAN. "AN INDIAN GIRL WAS FOUND WEARING THE QUEEN'S OWN COMB— NO SMALL OFFENSE—"

LITTLE JOE
DO YOU KNOW WHY THEY ALLUS BURIED INJUN CHIEFS ON TH' NORTH SIDE OF A HILL?
SURE- CAUSE THEY WERE DEAD-
WH----? WHAT'S TH' MATTER, UTAH?
IT'S NEAR DAYLIGHT- CAN'T SLEEP ALL DAY IF YOU WANT TO MAKE A HAND ON THIS ROUND-UP-
JOE CAN COMB TH' GULLIES OVER TOWARD TH' BAD-LANDS- GUESS HE CAN HANDLE THAT-
WHY NOT? WHAT KIN HAPPEN TO HIM? THERE'S NO DANGERS LIKE IN TH' OLD DAYS-
"THINGS AIN'T WHAT THEY USED TO BE"--- TH' OLD WIND-BAG- I BET THEY NEVER WERE- GUESS I CAN DO ANYTHING HE EVER COULD-- HEY, YOU! BACK IN LINE-
YOU DON'T WANT TO, EH? WELL, YOU WON'T LIKE THIS EITHER, BUT IT'LL S'PRISE YOU PLENTY-
HEY! STOP! LUCKY I MISSED HIM- HE DOESN'T SEEM TO KNOW THAT I SHOULD BE CHASIN' HIM-
I'LL LET THAT ONE GO- TO ME, HE DON'T LOOK FAT ENOUGH TO SHIP, ANYWAY- I'LL ADMIT THAT LONG-HORN WAS DANGEROUS-A RATTLER! WHOA!
Z-Z-Z-Z-Z
BOY! I BET I WAS TO CHINA! BUT IF WE'D LIT ON THOSE ROCKS----
"NO DANGER", EH? WAIT'LL I TELL SAM WHAT I'VE BEEN THROUGH THIS MORNING- LET HIM TRY TO TOP THAT-SAY! WAIT'LL I TELL YUH WH-----
---IT'S NOT LIKE TH' OLD DAYS WHEN WE WAS ROPIN' STEERS WITH ONE HAND AND SHOOTIN' SAVAGE INJUNS AN' BLOOD THIRSTY VARMINTS WITH T'OTHER-

A STRAIN on the FAMILY TIE
BY GAAR WILLIAMS
WHAT'S A ROBOT, OSWALD?
DON'T YOU KNOW WHAT A ROBOT IS? - HE'S A MECHANICAL MAN. HE CAN DO ANYTHING. ALL YOU GOTTA DO IS T' WIND HIM UP AND START HIM OFF. THEY'RE SMART.
GEE, I WISHT I HAD ONE - I'D HAVE HIM GO T' SCHOOL FOR ME WOULDN'T THAT BE KEEN.?
I BETCHA I COULD MAKE YOU ONE IF YOU HAD PLENTY TO TRADE FOR HIM COULD I GET ONE, FOR SAY, MY NEW BICYCLE, MY FOOTBALL AND ONE ROLLER SKATE?
WELL, MAYBE - BUT IT MIGHT TAKE YER SLED AND TWO ICE SKATES T' BOOT, MAYBE.
COULD HE GET MY LESSONS AND RECITE AS GOOD AS I CAN?
EASY, HE'D GETCHA LOTS BETTER GRADES THAN YOU COULD GET, EVER. YOU GET YOUR STUFF T'GETHER AND I'LL SEND HIM AROUND.
I HATE T' PART WITH THIS STUFF, BUT GEE IT WILL BE GREAT T' GIVE HIM MY BOOKS AND START HIM OFF T' SCHOOL - WILL THAT BE GOOD!!
OSWALD SAID T' BRING HIM OVER AND BRING BACK TH' THINGS IN TRADE
NOW LISTEN, ROBOT, YOU BEAT IT FOR SCHOOL AND DON'T STALL AND BE LATE NOR NOTHIN' AND I'LL LET YOU EAT MY SPINACH AND RAW CARROTS AT SUPPER TIME, MAYBE
CLICK CLICK
AH - MY MASTER HAS BUT TO EXPRESS HIS WISH, WIND UP TH' CRANK AND I'M OFF TO DO HIS BIDDING
GEE I 'MOST WISH I'D GONE T' SCHOOL. I BET THERE WAS FUN WHEN THAT ROBOT CAME BUSTIN' INTO TH' ROOM. GEE!
WHY TH' BIG STIFF! - I DIDN'T ORDER HIM T' WALK HOME WITH MY GIRL - I'LL KNOCK TH' WORKS OUTTA HIM - TH' - -

EARN MORE MONEY!
Learn Beauty Culture At DeLEE

Girls who learn beauty culture and hairdressing at DeLEE, under the personal supervision of MADAME LOUISE, assure themselves good paying, pleasant positions. DeLEE trains you the modern, easy way. You are not herded into a room with a hundred other girls. You receive INDIVIDUAL, personal instruction. You really LEARN. The DeLEE "university type" of schooling is available at tuition fees no greater than those ordinarily charged for trade school "mass type" of training. Terms can be arranged to suit YOU.

ENROLL NOW

A new class is now forming and will start to receive instruction immediately. You'll enjoy learning in DeLEE'S light, airy, colorful classrooms, where you associate only with hand-picked, high-type students. Visit DeLEE tomorrow and you'll understand why it is recognized as "America's Foremost Beauty School." DeLEE is a fully accredited institution of higher beauty culture learning—backed by more than $2,000,000 of assets.

Post-Graduate Courses Under Madame Louise

Licensed operators who are ambitious to better themselves can arrange for "brush up" instruction in all lines of beauty culture and hairdressing work under the personal direction of MADAME LOUISE. Inquire for particulars. Arrangements can be made for day or evening instruction.

Come In or Write

A visit to DeLEE will amaze and delight you. Come in tomorow and talk with the DeLEE Dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens. The visit won't obligate you. She'll explain exactly why DeLEE can prepare you for a better position and MORE PAY. If you can't come in, write for your copy of the FREE interesting DeLEE book, "Your Career in Beauty Culture."

WHAT OF THE JOB?
The thing most important about learning
Beauty Culture or Men's Barbering is the job after completing

The MOLER COLLEGE creates positions not only in beauty and barber shops of their thousands of Moler graduates but in such delightfully unusual places as transcontinental R. R. trains, numerous ocean steamships, as well as hospitals, state and fraternal organizations, employers who know and demand superior service.

The MOLER COLLEGE not only creates these superior positions, but creates superior graduates through their superior individual short training course that is perfection in itself, true economy in time, effort, and final cost.

The MOLER COLLEGE does more. A half rate regular course is still maintained for those who must make every dollar count double. Not prohibitive for any man or woman even of limited means and education.

The MOLER COLLEGE enables every student who may desire to earn their board while learning.

The MOLER COLLEGE individualizes your wants and meets them.

The MOLER COLLEGE has brought about all of these privileges as a result of their 41 years of constant vigilance for your welfare.

MOLER COLLEGE can be made your school at your will. See how. Call, mail the coupon, or phone. Day and evening classes.

BURNHAM'S
(for 63 years the world's largest beauty school)
—DOES MORE THAN GIVE YOU THE BEST BEAUTY TRAINING MONEY CAN BUY—IT HELPS YOU GET STARTED

By going to Burnham's—you make more money from the very beginning. Our 63 year record for turning out the best operators enables us to place graduates with the best shops, on ocean liners, etc. If you're considering Beauty Culture, you owe it to yourself to learn the EXTRA ADVANTAGES that only Burnham's can give you. If you will call or write, we will give you

Confidential Information

—as to how these EXTRA ADVANTAGES enabled one graduate to earn $15,000.00 a year; how another became manager over 35 operators; how still another was earning $75.00 a week 30 days after graduation; how another became manager of a large shop in six months; how another girl became owner of 4 shops in 3 years; how still another graduate has gone around the world twice at customers' expense; how trained nurse tripled income first year. These true stories, and many others, will open your eyes to what Burnham's can do for you.

See for yourself why more girls enroll at Burnham's than at any other school.

When you visit Burnham's you'll see why Burnham teaching methods enable you to master beauty culture quicker, easier, and better, why leading shop owners demand Burnham graduates.

Unbelievably Easy Terms

If you act now you can arrange to pay most of your tuition after you graduate. Open every day and on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings until 9 p. m. Call, phone, or write NOW for confidential information book.

WANTED

AN EXPERIENCED PRINTING SALESMAN
One of the larger printing and lithographing firms of the middle west is looking for a man who can sell printing. He is that rather unusual combination of technical knowledge and selling ability. The first qualification is easily defined. He knows the production of printing thoroughly. The second qualification is the ability to sell printing—to determine the various needs for printing and to apply printing to those needs. To the man who can convince us that he has these qualifications, there is offered an opportunity to make money. If you feel that you can fill this job, please write for an appointment. Our representative will be in Chicago Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Address A T 46, Tribune.

IMPORTED BASS'S ALE, GUINNESS' STOUT, WINES AND CHAMPAGNES.

We have a completely new way of marketing our products. None of the old canvassing methods used. We are direct importers of these products, therefore no direct competition. Our prices are right and quality unquestioned. You can actually build yourself a nice repeat business exactly as though you were in business for yourself. Out-of-town men in Illinois also apply. Liberal comm. Salesmanager, 540 Lake Shore-dr., Rm. 606.

TWO EXCEPTIONAL MEN BETWEEN 25 AND 45, HAVING MAGAZINE, HOSIERY OR SPECIALTY EXPERIENCE FOR NEW LOOP OFFICE OF OLD ESTABLISHED MINERALIZED HEALTH WATER; UNUSUALLY HIGH PERCENTAGE AND PROTECTION ON REPEAT BUSINESS. APPLY PROMPTLY AT 10 A. M., MONDAY. 205 W. WACKER-DR., SUITE 914.

DETROIT CONCERN WITH ESTABLISHED ethical and financial record desires high type representation in all industrial centers. Unique, patented mechanical device selling at $75. Exclusive territory. Will save cost in one to three months. Unlimited market, almost no competition. Auto repair and paint shops can use one to five units, industrial plants several to one hundred units. Commission basis with partial payment for consignment sample. Give full details and references first letter. Address A T 33, Tribune.

J. W. Martin.

Above is the name of a man whom we started in business for himself last Monday morning. The first four days in our business he made, on percentage basis, net $96.00 for himself, or $24.00 per day. This man was a carpenter, out of work for some time, with no experience in our line.

This week we will start in Chicago, south side and suburbs, six more men on the road to success with our prosperous company, who, owing to our unusual electrical unit, plus our unique merchandising plan which develops prospects faster than you can handle them, have increased our business every month during the depression with this month of October being the biggest in history.

We have associated with us as associate dealers, which we finance with no investment to them, everything from stock to accounts, ex-plumbers, doctors, farmers, barbers, salesmen, lawyers, clerks, etc., who are earning from $50.00 to $150.00 per week.

The six men I am now ready to place must be honest, reliable, trustworthy, teachable and between the ages of 25 to 50.

Every applicant granted a personal interview and if you qualify you will receive a complete factory branch training at no expense to you, plus assistance in the development of your business by experts.

If you really need a permanent position and have a grammar school education, apply Monday between 1:00 and 3:00, suite 404, 841 E. 63d-st. [one block east of Cottage Grove]. Ask for Personnel Director.

MEN

ARE ALL MEN FAILURES?
NOT ALWAYS—SOMETIMES IT'S THE BOSS WHO FAILS!

You have probably answered "Opportunities for Salesmen" advertisements before. You have investigated the various positions offered and when you applied found yourself up against a proposition which possibly required special training, special qualifications or special knowledge of some kind or other. You were out of a job and the proposition confronting you made you feel all the more hopeless. Before you started out you were discouraged and you began to wonder whether or not you were a failure. Like many other men, it is quite possible that you forgot to analyze the situation and you failed to remember that no matter how willing you were to work hard and how anxious you were to support your family properly you were up against a stone wall as long as you couldn't find a product which you were qualified to sell, or which required too long a period of training. We take men who have tried other things and have fallen down and so built up their "morale" and so instructed them in the superlative selling advantages of our electrical products that they went out with their chins up and made sales the very first day. Our products include air conditioning and have lots of appeal.
For example, yesterday, one of our "raw recruits," BROWN, showed our product five times and earned over $80—another "greenhorn," DURAND, showed our product six times and made over $50—another, LONG, on four showings made over $50—another, GROSSER, on six showings made over $50. One group of eight men made $470 for the day—an average of $59 per man. Many others earned from $20 to $40 for their day's work. These are actual commissions and bonuses earned. You make absolutely no investment. Good men stand a fine chance to work into executive positions quickly. In fact, just as quickly as they can qualify.
The following are just some of our men's earnings for a four weeks' period—some as recent as last month: SLOVIN, for 4 weeks, $1,503; RADDER, 4 weeks, $1,176; BECKER, 4 weeks, $1,260 and $1,014; METCALF, 4 weeks, $1,596 and $1,039; PHILIPS, 3 weeks, $620.75; RODA, 3 weeks, $620.75. You can meet some of these men. They are not super men, just good men. Some of them never sold a thing before they came here.
All we ask of you is that you are honest, of good reputation, active, alert, willing to learn the following selling essentials:
How to make a clear and sincere explanation of the reason you called on your prospect.
How to show the product so it will reveal the immediate need and advantage of buying it.
How to persuade some one to do something that positively should be done.
How to be honest in your own thought so that you can compel confidence.
How to feel like working hard every day in return for a privilege of a genuine opportunity in a permanent position with good people who will deeply interest themselves in helping you get started right and succeed.
This is a straightforward, sincere and honest offer to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. We don't want any others. We're building up a splendid business and the fellow who does not take work seriously has no place in our organization Come in and let's have a heart to heart talk. See our products and if we both feel you can make good, we will get you started. CALL MONDAY, 11 A. M. or 3 P. M. THESE HOURS ONLY.

IMMEDIATE PLACEMENT

for several married men of good appearance, between 30-45 yrs. of age, to meet our customers; outstanding percentage opportunity for men experienced in meeting people; a permanent connection with regular weekly pay. If selected you will be placed with one of our neighborhood furniture establishments. Apply after 10 a. m. empl. mgr., Mr. Backstrom, 3036 Lincoln-av.

The Coronado Is First with the Latest

Out of all the confusion of recent interior decorating trends has finally come an enduring, pleasing treatment that is winning universal acceptance — the MODERN CLASSIC.

See It Here

at its best. A new thrill awaits you. The magic touch of a prominent interior decorator has created a new harmony of line and lighting. Comfort, instead of being subordinated, is dominant. New wall fixtures and mirror-base lamps give subdued lighting effect against the dome ceiling; corded chintz overdrapes lend a new note which is made all the more effective by the ivory-white secretary, table and occasional chair. Compact, efficient kitchenette, large wardrobe and dressing closet in an unusual color combination. Concealed rollaway—and the final touch of plants and prints.

CHOOSE YOUR OWN COVER FABRICS FROM 3 CORRECT COMBINATIONS.

California.

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL HOMES BEAT the depression. Such homes are the solution for many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The Small farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Stars' Houses Rival Stage Sets in Their Charm

Smart Women Look to Hollywood for Interior Decoration as Well as Styles.

By CLAIRE WINSLOW.

JUST as a lot of young girls set their fashion clocks by Jean Harlow's costumes, so many older women scrutinize the good looking settings in some of the movies and gain ideas for their own homes from them. That a great number of the famous cinema stars live in as attractive surroundings off the Kleig stage as on is proved by their taste in interior decoration.

For years people have cited Mary Pickford's mansion as one of the smartest on the west coast. Constance Bennett designed her own rooms in her beach house, as did Norma Shearer in her lovely Swiss châlet near the sea.

Jean Harlow's new home has taken its color scheme keynote from its owner's platinum topknot. Everything is blonde or white, with pastel accents in cool greenish blues or rose. Most of the furnishings are in the French style, a happy choice for any one as feminine as Miss Harlow. The dining

Lingerie Brings Suave Lines to Bulky Figures

Foundation Garments Discipline Waist, Thigh to Streamline Symmetry.

By Rhea Seeger.

WHAT about your waistline? Is it what it should be? Can you wiggle your streamline into the new clothes and proudly snap the beltline where it is supposed to be, or do you struggle and is your face red because no amount of tugging and breath-holding on your part brings it within three inches of proper connection? And what of your thigh lines? Have you a bulge or a series of bulges, or, to be charitable, puffs, where lines should be smooth and tapering? If such is the lamentable state of your silhouette don't give up all hope. At least try some of the new underlayers before you flirt with the undertaker by trying a starvation diet. You'll be more than amazed by the magic of some cleverly contrived new foundations that are specially designed for the fascinating form fitting and form revealing fall and winter clothes.

All the new collections have been designed by experts—experts who seem almost to have a degree in engineering, so adroitly do they cut, mold, and fashion a suave smoothie for any daytime or evening gown. Cut a fine figure in the smoothest of dresses; wear the proper underlayer, the kind that accents and defines the newly emphasized waistline, the models that achieve freedom, suppleness, and youthfulness, without which the gowns and dresses of the moment become as wrinkled atrocities without a single bit of that sleek distinctiveness every one wants.

New Underlayers Control Without Binding or Molding.

The sooner you all find out that the new restraining underlayers merely control and do not pinch, mold not restrict, the sooner every one will wear them. The 1934 models will positively slice away inches from hitherto hopeless convolutions and make any one twenty years younger in freedom, slimness, and young smartness.

Six new numbers have been sketched — three from one famous showing of proper fall foundations and three from another. The young figure wears a model similar to No. 4. It controls, smoothes, and flexes with every movement of the young and active body, yet it controls bulges, be they ever so slight, and keeps an unbroken, beautiful line without using a single bone stay. It launders as easily as a handkerchief. It has attached garters and expertly fashioned brassiere.

In Heavy Figures, Diaphragm Restrained and Waist Accented.

For the heavy figure try the model sketched, No. 5, an all-in-one affair that restrains the diaphragm and accents the waistline. The lines are long, with a fitted lace brasserie top that uplifts, with insets of elastic at the sides. No. 6 illustrates the girdle type with separate brassiere for the average figure.

No. 1, a lace brassiere pull-on, easy to get into because of the trickily cut silk elastic. There are no seams or wrinkles over the hips and the center back panel stretches up and down. No. 2 is a boneless corselette with no seams over the hiplines. A brassiere of shadow lace is cut softly to round and uplift. "Bumpless" garter clasps assure smoothness with the most clinging of evening gowns and a flat, fine talon fastening at the back, short in length, makes this affair easy to put on and snug at the waistline. No. 3, a find for the stout or short armed, heavier figure, an all-in-one with a center talon closing device. One tug up and it's smoothly fastened. All bones are concealed in the lining, with the back skirt of firmly woven, two way stretch material. The brassiere is of carefully fitted lace.

Back Yard Laundry Rack Is Household Convenience

A LAUNDRY rack is a convenience in a back yard. The lumber cost for such a rack is slight, and the expense for making it will be slight. Such a rack should be placed in the sun if possible and painted for protection against the weather.

PREPARATION

By Eleanor Jewett.

The trees are shrugging and shaking themselves,
Heavy with sleep from tip to toe,
And as they shrug the little leaves fall
Fluttering and rustling as they go.

The colors of autumn are fading fast,
Brown are the leaves from the maple's head—
Brown are the leaves that blanket the ground,
The snow will draw sheets over summer's bed.

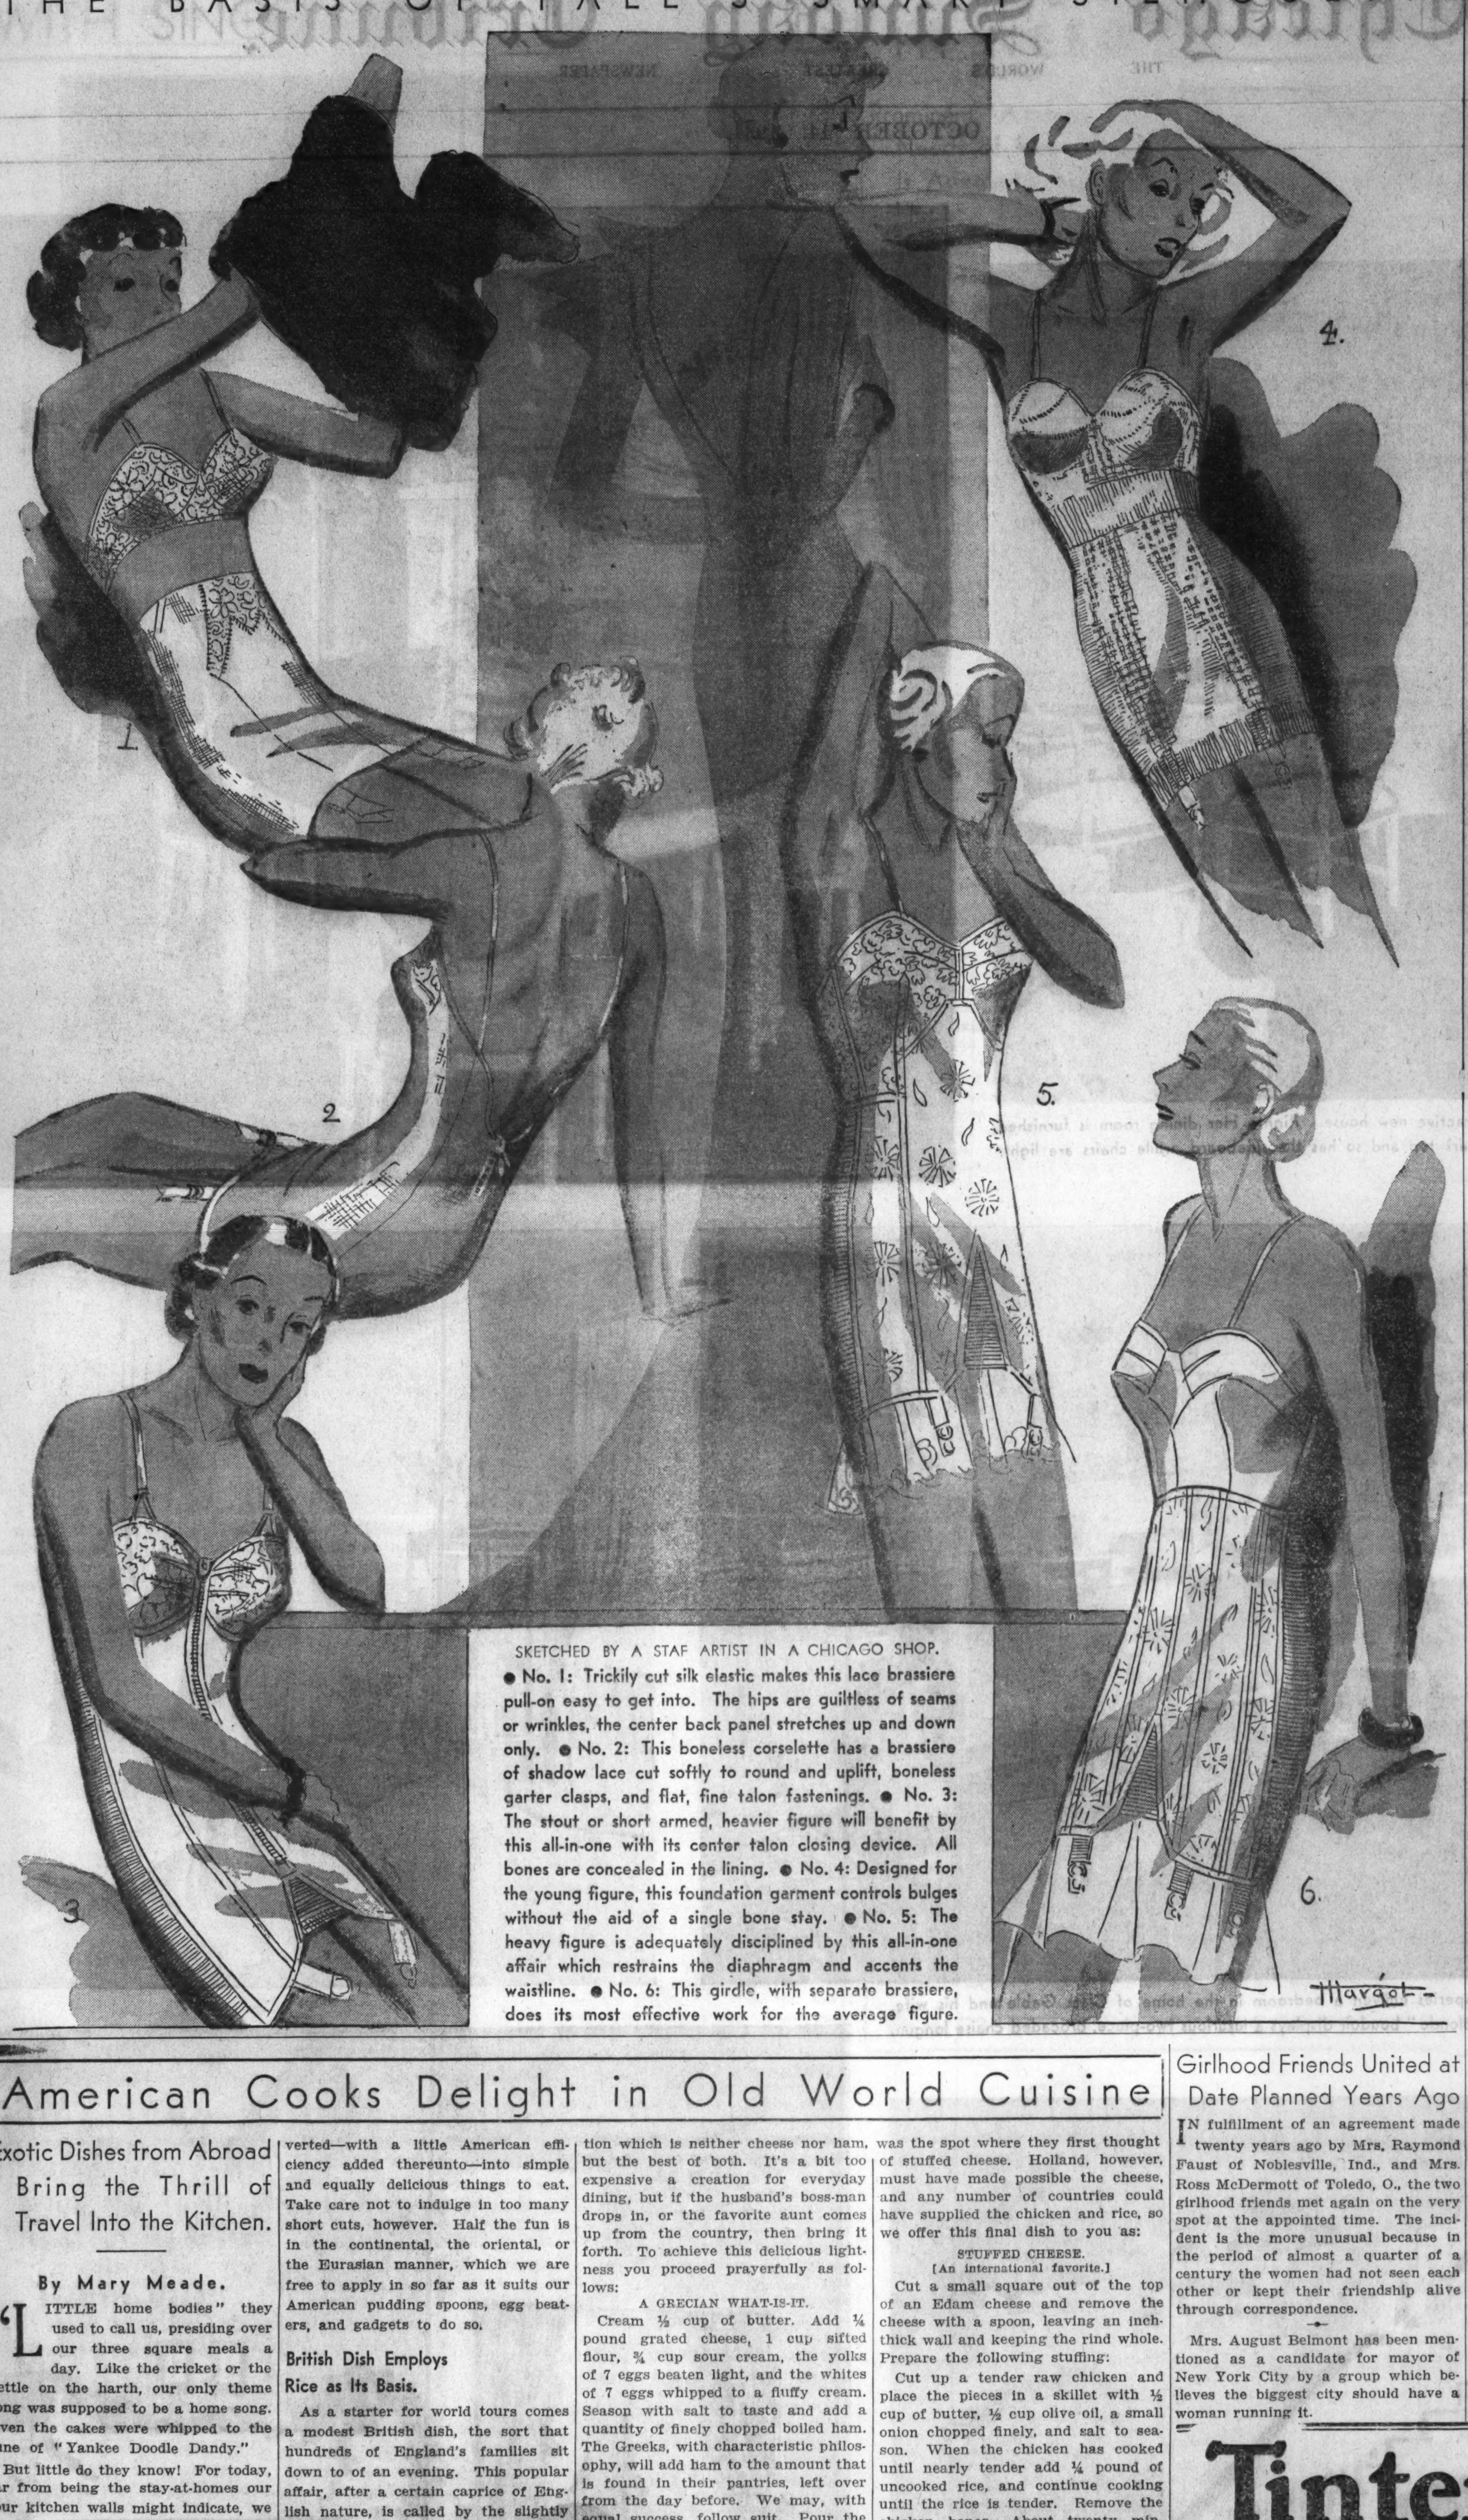
THE BASIS OF FALL'S SMART SILHOUETTE



SKETCHED BY A STAF ARTIST IN A CHICAGO SHOP.

● No. 1: Trickily cut silk elastic makes this lace brassiere pull-on easy to get into. The hips are guiltless of seams or wrinkles, the center back panel stretches up and down only. ● No. 2: This boneless corselette has a brassiere of shadow lace cut softly to round and uplift, boneless garter clasps, and flat, fine talon fastenings. ● No. 3: The stout or short armed, heavier figure will benefit by this all-in-one with its center talon closing device. All bones are concealed in the lining. ● No. 4: Designed for the young figure, this foundation garment controls bulges without the aid of a single bone stay. ● No. 5: The heavy figure is adequately disciplined by this all-in-one affair which restrains the diaphragm and accents the waistline. ● No. 6: This girdle, with separate brassiere, does its most effective work for the average figure.

Outdoor Life Vital Force in Molding Child

Helps Keep Him Balanced and Socially Adjusted in a Mechanistic World.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

"I DON'T know which season I like best," said the child. "I love fall—but then, I love spring and summer, too."

She stopped and looked up. It was one of those ineffable October days. The sky was cloudless and bright blue; the air cool and the sun warm with that beneficent quality that made you realize its life giving power. The tall, rusty grasses waved when the wind stirred and pale golden and deep bronze leaves detached themselves and floated gently to the ground. This was not one of those stirring, stimulating, crisp autumn days, but the kind which brings with it a sense of peace — that different sort of peace that comes in early fall, or later during the real Indian summer.

"I don't talk much about it—but I love this kind of a day," said the child.

Small Children Have Instinctive Love of Nature.

Her mother looked at her, realizing her awareness of this outside world that surrounded them. All that day she sensed the deep pleasure that underlay everything her little daughter did.

"Here," she thought, "is something our advisers in child training don't seem to give much importance to.

"We are constantly told to help our children to 'social adjustment.' They must, of course, learn to live in the world of men — to be at ease with people, to form friendships, to understand human relationships. All that is vital.

"But," she went on, thinking things out, "children should have more than people and the world of civilization that people have made. They should know this other world and be at home in it: This world of sun and wind and sky and growing things and creatures. In the beginning it's part of them; you can see that plainly when they're little. But they often lose the sense of kinship with nature, and some never have enough of sun and earth and sky to claim it as their own. It's their birthright to know this world as well as the world of men."

So went the thoughts of a mother as her child stood at the edge of a sunny field one golden October morning.

Have you thought much about this? Parents are urged to do so many things for their children, but are, I could almost say, never urged to foster the natural love for and kinship with the world of nature that every child feels. They may be told that it's good for their children's health to get them away to the open spaces, but what it means to them in things not physical is practically never stressed. I believe it should be.

Outdoor Life Stimulates Creative Work.

Because the satisfaction of deep needs gives pleasure, being in the country or at the seashore is a delight to a child. And that pleasure, given the chance, will lighten a lifetime—though, of course, in varying degrees. It comes to be one of the wholesome appetites of many men and women. It provides one of the "wise uses of leisure" that we hear so much about.

To love and be at home in the world of outdoors brings deep satisfaction into the life of a child. It is often a rich resource for his maturity which, while it is priceless, is also almost without cost, and health follows in the wake of a love of outdoors—and delight—and, in time of need, healing and refuge.

For the child, as well as for the grownup, a closeness to the natural world and an appreciation of it affords understanding of poetry and prose and pictures and music. It also feeds the creative arts and crafts—for observation of the natural world provides a child with material for his creative acts of drawing, painting, modeling, carving, and writing. Besides giving him a simple, unconscious delight, it enriches his whole nature. It rounds out life for him and serves the salutary purpose of balancing the mechanistic, pressing side of the civilized living of today.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, Oct. 15.

Bring into the house or con[illegible]atory all tender plants, for frost is likely at any moment. Pot plants that have been plunged should be carefully lifted and the surplus soil removed from the top of the pot. Plants lifted from beds out of doors should be potted in good garden loam with sufficient sand to provide porosity. A shady place for the first few days will prevent a too rapid evaporation.

Plant all kinds of bulbs both out of doors and indoors. Bulbs do much better when set out early. Some kinds, such as the madonna lily, must be planted early if they are to give the best flowers. Sow the seed of an alligator pear in a glass of water as a novelty. Simply take three toothpicks and insert them in the bottom of the seed to form a tripod and place the arrangement in an ordinary glass so that, when filled with water, the base will be immersed only half an inch. Place in any warm room and roots and top growth will appear in four or five weeks.

Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Have material at hand for protecting late flowering plants, such as hardy crysanthemums. Ordinary muslin is good. Newspapers will suffice for a light frost. More strenuous methods will be required for a heavy frost. Pot a few of the dwarf sorts for flowering indoors.

Grow a few bulbs in bowls of water. Place a few small pieces of charcoal in the water to keep it sweet. Grow the hyacinth in the special glasses or use the tripod method as given for the alligator pear. The paperwhite and yellow narcissus, the early duc van Tholl tulip, and Chinese sacred lily may be grown in this way as novelties. The autumn crocus will bloom without soil or water. To kill the box elder bug, a small red insect, spray with a contact spray, such as the pyrethrum or fly poisons.

Wednesday, Oct. 17.

Harvest gladiolus bulbs. Dig up the bulbs and allow them to dry off before removal to the house. Cut the tops back to within 4 inches of the bulb. Remove tops later when the bulbs are cleaned. Save the bulbils which cling to the mother bulb. Label each sort carefully.

Tender water lily plantlets that appear on the leaves of some kinds may be taken off and potted in 3 to 4 inch pots, depending on their size, and placed in a tank filled with water to a depth of 3 inches above the plants.

Thursday, Oct. 18.

Order nursery stock that is to be planted this fall. Fruit trees may be set out in protected, well drained soils. All autumn planted stock should be well mulched.

Plant peonies 2½ inches deep, giving them a sunny location. Mulch the plants with strawy material. If these plants are not mulched they are almost certain to be heaved from the ground by spring.

Divide the violas, such as Jersey Gem, and plant the divisions 3 inches apart in a cold frame. They will root and by spring be in prime condition for bedding purposes. Cuttings of Sweet William may be handled in the cold frame for next season's planting. Have a sash ready to cover the cold frames during cold nights.

Friday, Oct. 19.

Collect all leaves and start a compost pile. If dry, wet the leaves down as they are heaped up. Leafmold is one of the finest materials to use to lighten heavy soils. It is also excellent for many pot plants. The leaves from hardwood trees take longer to decay, but they are the best. Grass clippings, old vegetables, leaves, or straw make excellent compost material.

Trees may be pruned at any time because the growth has ceased and the plants are practically dormant. Proper pruning of young trees will eliminate the removal of huge limbs when the trees become veterans.

Study the garden plan and indicate what changes for the better might be made.

Saturday, Oct. 20.

Prepare to install a few feeding stations for the birds, for they will require food when the weather is severe. Pot up a few of the annual flowering plants, such as the aster, calendula, petunia, salvia, and carry them along in the house until they are worthless. They will brighten up the rooms for some time.

Order a packet or more of seeds of the Boston ivy. Sown in fall, the seeds germinate in spring. Cuttings of the new or current growth of many shrubs may be made from dormant wood.

American Cooks Delight in Old World Cuisine

Exotic Dishes from Abroad Bring the Thrill of Travel Into the Kitchen.

By Mary Meade.

"LITTLE home bodies" they used to call us, presiding over our three square meals a day. Like the cricket or the kettle on the harth, our only theme song was supposed to be a home song. Even the cakes were whipped to the tune of "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

But little do they know! For today, far from being the stay-at-homes our four kitchen walls might indicate, we are, in truth, world travelers, every cook's daughter of us. Not that we'll breathe one word against the virtues and solid satisfactions of good plain American cookery. But we do maintain that kitchens are places in which to go adventuring; that there's as much fun in discovering just what were the glories that were Grecian cooking, and the grandeur that was Roman banqueting as there is in cruising around the world with personal conductors.

Imported Recipes Lend Zest to American Cuisine.

Not all foreign foods, we must confess, can be taught to speak English. But countless dishes do, and among these adaptable fellows are to be found many of the finest food delicacies in the world.

Some foreign recipes sound a bit too elaborate for our forthright American spoons and genius. But numbers of the most elaborate appearing of these favorites may be converted—with a little American efficiency added thereunto—into simple and equally delicious things to eat. Take care not to indulge in too many short cuts, however. Half the fun is in the continental, the oriental, or the Eurasian manner, which we are free to apply in so far as it suits our American pudding spoons, egg beaters, and gadgets to do so.

British Dish Employs Rice as Its Basis.

As a starter for world tours comes a modest British dish, the sort that hundreds of England's families sit down to of an evening. This popular affair, after a certain caprice of English nature, is called by the slightly French name of rice à la Piemontese. But it's as British as clotted cream.

RICE A LA PIEMONTESE.

Heat 1 medium sized chopped onion in 1 tablespoon of melted butter in a frying pan. Add 3 cups of cooked rice. Keep the heat low, and stir the onion, butter, and rice until they are well blended. Add, little by little, 3 cups of rich meat bouillon, stirring with a wooden spoon. After 17 minutes take from the burner and add to the mixture generous portions of butter and grated cheese in a quantity suited to the family taste, which gives you a British dish executed in the American manner. It has a lingering goodness that will set you to blessing the duke of Argyle, or whoever it was that invented it.

Cheese and Ham Co-operate in Delectable Dish from Greece.

In Greece they do most interesting things for a main dish with cheese and ham, plus eggs, sour cream, and a soupcon of salt. Result—a concoction which is neither cheese nor ham, but the best of both. It's a bit too expensive a creation for everyday dining, but if the husband's boss-man drops in, or the favorite aunt comes up from the country, then bring it forth. To achieve this delicious lightness you proceed prayerfully as follows:

A GRECIAN WHAT-IS-IT.

Cream ½ cup of butter. Add ¼ pound grated cheese, 1 cup sifted flour, ¾ cup sour cream, the yolks of 7 eggs beaten light, and the whites of 7 eggs whipped to a fluffy cream. Season with salt to taste and add a quantity of finely chopped boiled ham. The Greeks, with characteristic philosophy, will add ham to the amount that is found in their pantries, left over from the day before. We may, with equal success, follow suit. Pour the mixture into a buttered mold and cook in a steamer for one hour. Serve hot with mushroom, oyster, or tomato sauce.

From the Philippine Islands comes a most exciting pork chop creation. The chops are prepared lovingly, one for each person to be served.

FILIPINO PORK CHOPS.

Salt the chops and squeeze lemon juice onto each piece. Allow them to stand one-half an hour, then grate over the top of each a generous covering of grated, sharp, Cheddar type cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until the chops are tender and brown. Any little pig would be glad to go to market to fulfill such a destiny as this.

Even in Salvador, in Mexico, in Nicaragua, and in su[illegible] an unlikely spot as Cuahutemoc you [illegible]'ll find entrées rich and fascinating, of a kind which will suit American palates and stick to American ribs.

But it's to Venezuela we'll jaunt for the last foreign flavor. For that was the spot where they first thought of stuffed cheese. Holland, however, must have made possible the cheese, and any number of countries could have supplied the chicken and rice, so we offer this final dish to you as:

STUFFED CHEESE.

Cut a small square out of the top of an Edam cheese and remove the cheese with a spoon, leaving an inch-thick wall and keeping the rind whole. Prepare the following stuffing:

Cut up a tender raw chicken and place the pieces in a skillet with ½ cup of butter, ½ cup olive oil, a small onion chopped finely, and salt to season. When the chicken has cooked until nearly tender add ¼ pound of uncooked rice, and continue cooking until the rice is tender. Remove the chicken bones. About twenty minutes before serving stuff the cheese rind with the chicken-and-rice mixture. Place it in a hot oven in a baking dish. When the cheese is quite soft serve in the same container.

Girlhood Friends United at Date Planned Years Ago

IN fulfillment of an agreement made twenty years ago by Mrs. Raymond Faust of Noblesville, Ind., and Mrs. Ross McDermott of Toledo, O., the two girlhood friends met again on the very spot at the appointed time. The incident is the more unusual because in the period of almost a quarter of a century the women had not seen each other or kept their friendship alive through correspondence.

Mrs. August Belmont has been mentioned as a candidate for mayor of New York City by a group which believes the biggest city should have a woman running it.

INTERVIEW WITH SINGER YIELDS BEAUTY TIPS

Grace Moore Offers Suggestions that Aid in Keeping Loveliness.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

A wise knowledge of beauty practices is one good reason for Grace Moore's loveliness. Creaming and a special exercise keep the area around her eyes smooth and free from wrinkles. Her eyebrows are natural in contour. Oil treatments maintain silkiness and luster for her hair, even during the rigors of screen work. Exercise keeps pace with systematic dieting in the singer's sane beauty program, for each must accompany the other for balance.

WHENEVER I interview a beautiful woman who greets me in an enchanting hostess gown I say to myself: "Heaven help the poor working girl into a gown like that!" What a transformed outlook she'd have on life! And, as the business girl looks these days, all she needs is a ravishing hostess frock, a drawing room setting, and she's sister under and atop the skin to her favorite cinema beauty. Such is the power of the ultra-feminine in dress, as represented by the diaphanous drapery over a sheathlike slip, or one or another of the designs applied to what is known as the hostess gown.

A girl who has the time, the place, and the money for that type of thing just has all the luck!

Then, when she is a tall, slim, distinguished looking girl with silvery blonde hair, a flair for colors that is peculiarly her own, great chic, a voice of lovely, vibrant timbre, extraordinarily fine white teeth, you begin to wonder if, after all, it isn't just as well you have to keep on wearing your working clothes at five in the afternoon.

Thoughts of mine these were, sitting opposite Grace Moore, the golden voiced young woman of screen, stage, and opera fame. The basis of her gown was a pure, cold water pink satin over which was worn a flowing-sleeved coat of so unusual and so lovely a shade of blue that inquiry was prompted as to the name and origin of the color. With the aid of a Hollywood dress designer the color was achieved with frequent dyeing tests, and immediately christened the Grace Moore blue. There is a cue herein to Miss Moore's recognized distinction of dress: tres chic and always with that individual air that sets her apart.

Success is a vitalizing thing, no question about that, and a dramatically beautifying thing when the conquest is a world event, as is Miss Moore's last picture. Anyway, it is vitalizing and beautifying while the conquest is fresh, no matter how time may dull enthusiasm. I saw Miss Moore a few days after the opening of her picture, over which encomiums were pouring in from every quarter. She was enjoying that success without any hypocritical reserve, a pleasing quality and a youthful one.

Somehow we got on the subject of eyes and eyebrows, the thing Miss Moore notices first in women. While she attributes to Hollywood or, rather, to our cinema stars, a deserved leadership in fashions, both of dress and coiffure, Miss Moore flays those in Hollywood who deserve it for ruining women's looks with their freak eyebrows and other eye terrifying mistakes. "Eyebrows are the most important thing about a woman's face," she argues. "Hollywood has done more to rob faces of character, individuality, and beauty on this feature than on anything I can think of. Why should a woman, any woman, want to make a caricature of what might just as well be an outstanding asset?

"I told them out there that I'd reduce, I'd lighten my hair, if necessary, but my eyebrows were going to stay my eyebrows and none other's!"

They did, too, and fine eyebrows they are. Darkening the lids with blue or brown or black shadow is not Miss Moore's idea of eyelid treatment. A golden skin-glow treatment is better for the greater depth it gives between eye socket and eyebrow, and because it makes the eyes brighter. After all, it is a larger eye and a more brilliant one women are after. The deeper shades, she thinks, shrink the eye size and add years.

Two tricks Miss Moore volunteers for those telltale fine lines one sees so frequently around the eyes. One is that of leaving cream on while one is outdoors indulging in games. In Hollywood, where horseback riding is a commonly practiced sport, the girls all pat on the cream around the eye to offset the squinting effects. Then, for tired eyes and a quick facial pick-up, Miss Moore practices a back-of-the-neck massage, which you can do yourself or have done for you. It's an old Hollywood custom, too, where tired eyes are about as useful to a screen career as a ton of flesh. To get those muscles at the back of the neck untensed is the idea. It is good for the whole body as well.

Miss Moore's hair has that smartly polished look about which we're hearing more all the time. On screen duty her hair has to be washed every night. To offset this she uses an imported Spanish olive oil, which is applied warm to the scalp with cotton wrapped around an orange wood stick. Ordinarily her hair is shampooed weekly, with the oil treatment continued regularly for gloss and life to the hair. A good coat of tan testifies to Miss Moore's taste for sun baths, to which she is a daily devotee.

She has had to diet to meet screen measurements, taking off some twenty pounds for her last picture. I take it she had to live on fruit and vegetables exclusively. When she completes a picture she has to put on weight again for her concert work. A singer has to have some weight for vocal volume. But exercise is her life saver. She wants none of the flabby skin, noted on beaches, that tells of a diet life exclusively. With as vigorous exercise as that in which she indulges—horseback riding, swimming, tennis, golf—the dieting effects are offset.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

FURNITURE is still one of the most needed and most elusive of the numerous commodities which this department pursues so busily. Requests pour in, but we are able to fill only about one of every ten of them. We have calls for all imaginable pieces of household furnishing, from rugs for barren floors to alarm clocks for heavy sleepers.

If you're one of many who greatly prefer not to be in your own home during a housecleaning period, when curtains and pictures are down and a comfortable chair is not to be found, perhaps you can realize just how difficult it is to live in a home which lacks these comforts at all times.

Just to prove to you that there are many such homes in Chicago, I'll let you take a peek at the following letter:

"Dear Miss Brown: As a caseworking agency, we again appeal to you to come to our assistance as you have done so many times in the past. We now ask that your readers search their attics and basements for chairs, a fair sized dining room table, or a few usable dishes or kitchen utensils, all of which we need for a most deserving family.

"It consists of nine persons—mother, father, and seven children, all under 9 years of age. Having the family together for even one meal a day is impossible, as the mother has no equipment with which to work, no place to seat the youngsters, and no table on which to serve the meal. Since they have only a small enameled table which seats four, at most, food must be served at intervals. The child who calls the longest and the loudest gets the first meal, and so on down the line, and you can well imagine the bedlam that exists in the home at all times. The youngsters all get hungry at once, and are too young to understand the difficulty under which their mother feeds them.

"If some reader can provide a dining room table and a few chairs, more order would prevail in this home, the mother would be less irritable, and the entire family would enjoy meals."—Mrs. F. K.

Any member of a large family can well remember the diminishing food platter and the agony of being the last one served, so if you have extra chairs or an old table of which to dispose, won't you let me arrange for delivery to this brood of hungry youngsters?

A similar letter from Mrs. A. R.: "I wonder if some of your readers have some furniture I could have. I am a widow with two little girls, and receiving relief, due to the fact that I am unable to work. We have been living in furnished rooms but they were crowded and uncomfortable and we now have an unfurnished place. Would you help me to secure a few pieces of furniture to help make our small home more comfortable? We need a single or three-quarter bed, spring, and mattress. We have no curtains, rugs, living room furniture, or drawer space of any kind."

A. B. sends the following appeal for a clock: "One of our clients, a man who has been earnestly seeking employment for some time, has been assigned on a work relief project. He is seriously handicapped because he does not possess an alarm clock and often has difficulty in waking at the proper hour. If any of your readers has an alarm clock which he does not need, passing it on to this man would be a real service."

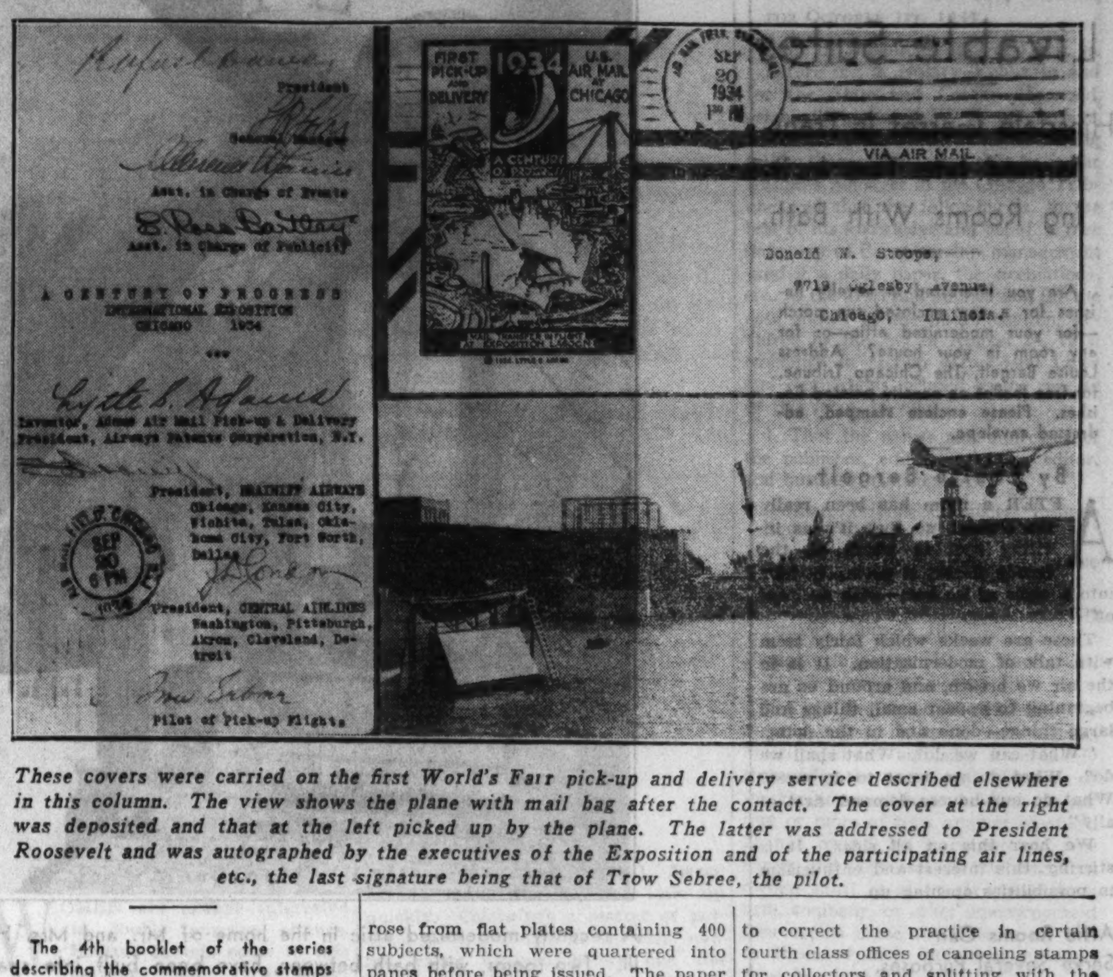
"Mrs. D. is the deserted mother of four children. Her son Charles is an excellent musician for his age and has developed a great talent with little instruction. We would like to see him have a chance at a thorough musical education which might be obtained at a nearby settlement house.

"This family has never been provided with any furniture by their delinquent father, and it has occurred to me that you might know of some reader who is discarding a piano and would be willing to contribute the instrument for the use of these children. I am sure transportation could be arranged."

The family is located on the south side.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen.



These covers were carried on the first World's Fair pick-up and delivery service described elsewhere in this column. The view shows the plane with mail bag after the contact. The cover at the right was deposited and that at the left picked up by the plane. The latter was addressed to President Roosevelt and was autographed by the executives of the Exposition and of the participating air lines, etc., the last signature being that of Trow Sebree, the pilot.

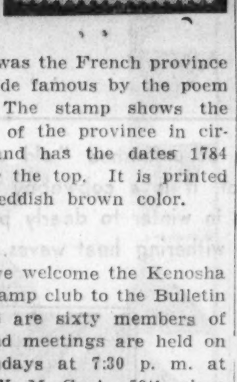
The 4th booklet of the series describing the commemorative stamps of the United States is now ready. It is entitled, "Stamps of Progress and Industry," and describes the various stamps commemorating inventions, athletic contests, etc. Other booklets of the series are: "Exhibition Stamps, 1893-1904"; "Memorial Stamps, 1866-1932," and "Exhibition Stamps, 1907-1934." These are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, at 3 cents each (5 cents by mail). Please give full title when ordering and if you ask questions, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

ALTHOUGH various historical societies had petitioned the postoffice department for a special stamp to call attention to the 150th anniversary of the winter spent by Washington's troops at Valley Forge, no action was taken until a special bill had been presented in congress. The stamp is of the regular size and has a face value of 2 cents. It shows Washington kneeling in prayer, and the subject was taken from an engraving by McRae. At the top of the vignette are the dates "1778" and "1928," and the words "Valley Forge," and at the bottom is the motto "In God We Trust."

The stamps were printed in carmine rose from flat plates containing 400 subjects, which were quartered into panes before being issued. The paper is unwatermarked and the gauge of perforation is 11. They were placed on sale May 26, 1928, at Valley Forge, Philadelphia, Lancaster, Norristown, and West Chester, Pa., and at Washington, D. C., and as a special favor the first day sale was extended to include the special postoffice at the Midwestern Philatelic exhibition at Cleveland, O.

It may be of interest to notice that the various first day cities in Pennsylvania were, aside from Valley Forge, included because they were the home towns of various congressmen and postoffice officials. Eight plates furnished the 101,330,328 stamps issued.

New Brunswick Stamp.



Without advance notice the Canadian government has issued a new 2 cent stamp to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the formation of the province of New Brunswick. Prior to 1784 this region was a part of Nova Scotia, and in still more remote times was the French province of Acadie, made famous by the poem Evangeline. The stamp shows the original arms of the province in circular form, and has the dates 1784 and 1934 near the top. It is printed in a bright reddish brown color.

Club Notes.

This week we welcome the Kenosha Y. M. C. A. Stamp club to the Bulletin Board. There are sixty members of both sexes, and meetings are held on alternate Mondays at 7:30 p. m. at the Kenosha Y. M. C. A., 59th place and 8th avenue, Kenosha, Wis.

The new officers for the Chicago Stamp club were elected on Sept. 21. They include Robert Gooley, president; L. C. Zang, vice president; William Fox, secretary-treasurer; Roy Reed, librarian, and Walter Wagner, exchange manager.

Pick Up Mail Service.

Visitors at A Century of Progress were given a thrill on Sept. 20 when the first mail was flown over A. M. 9 extension route by Brainiff Airways, between the South lagoon and the Municipal airport. This flight was the start of a service utilizing the inventions of Dr. Lytle S. Adams for picking up and delivering air mail without landing and without reducing the speed of the plane much below 100 miles per hour. Trowbridge Seebree, pilot loaned by Central Airways, is intrusted with this route, which is particularly hazardous owing to the nearby Sky Ride and the tall buildings of the city. The regular schedule, now being flown, with pickups at noon and at 2 and 4 p. m., will continue until the closing day of the Exposition.

Farley Cracks Down.

Confronted by the fact that unscrupulous dealers were taking advantage of certain rules of the department whereby great quantities of used stamps were obtained at low cost, the postoffice department has amended its regulations so as to prevent the employment of special messengers to handle extraordinary quantities of special delivery mail, and has reduced the allowance to messengers so that further conspiracies between stamp dealers and postmasters will be unprofitable.

The department is also attempting to correct the practice in certain fourth class offices of canceling stamps for collectors and splitting with the collector the added income accruing to the postmaster through such cancelations.

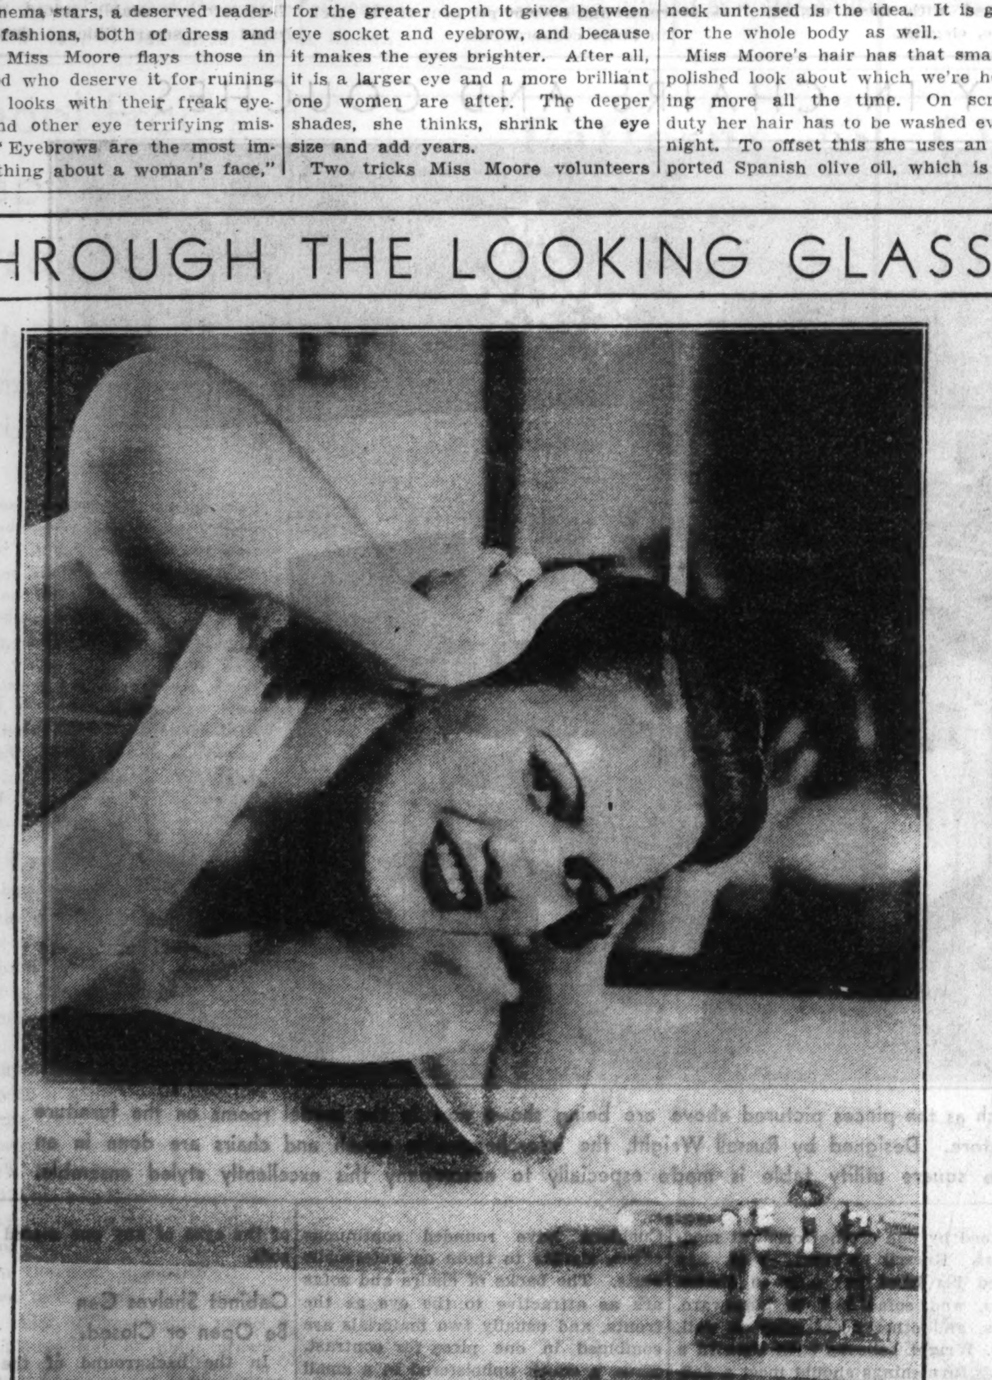
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



The home shampoo is a joy when one uses a new liquid, neither oil nor soap, that produces a magic lather, cleans efficiently, and requires only one rinsing to finish the task.

By Eleanor Nangle.

IF we seem to rave and rant about hair a great deal this fall, we can only say that it's all for your own good. In the feminine scheme of things, hair is as important this year as it was 'way back when the sweet young things used to vie with one another for the strange satisfaction of having it long enough to sit on.

'Tain't length these days. It's luster. Locks that are anything short of exquisitely beautiful might just as well not have been born.

You'd better hop to it if yours are just so-so, or even pretty good. They've got to be gorgeous.

Color doesn't matter. It's an open season. And, when you get right down to it, there are few colors that aren't lovely when luster is there. Sheen comes first, style later.

It's the current demand for glossy perfection that makes a new shampoo the most important beauty news of the day. Don't ask us of what's it made. When some experts tried to tell us we got all bogged down in a flock of chemistry terms and symbols that just gave us a headache. But we do know that it is neither oil nor soap. We know, too, that it takes just a few drops to make a glorious lather, and that a quick shampoo makes scalp and hair immaculately clean. And, best of all, that ONE rinsing does the trick!

Ee-magine, one rinsing! Especially if your shampoos are of the home grown variety, when you hoist pans and pans of water and practically break your back bending over the bowl. And even then you can't be certain.

Your hair is almost radiant afterwards. It gleams like satin and you know it's clean.

The makers of this shampoo experimented first in beauty shops. Now, thank heaven, they've marketed it so that all can have the joy of it. Recently, feeling very smug at being in the know about a good new thing, we brought a bottle with us to one of the best salons in Chicago. The hairdresser was most amused. He'd found it, too, and was using it for a few favored customers.

The hair artists around town endorse it enthusiastically, and we amateurs who like a shampoo that is speedy, that is 100 per cent efficient, and that doesn't take away a bit of gloss, but, rather, adds to it, will all do likewise.

Old Bathroom May Be Modernized with Black and White

AN old, out of date bathroom may be turned into a smart, up and coming room by changing the color scheme to black and white, and by installing some of the new unit panel equipment.

The lower wall sections can be given a dado of black linoleum, easy to keep clean and modern in appearance. The upper walls are then painted white. The floor, too, has a black and white pattern. A unit panel lavatory is installed without tearing down the walls, as the unit is complete in itself, and a dressing table of black glass and chromium further carries out the black and white modern note.

In remodeling a bathroom to conform with the returned vogue of white it is important to plan for a wall finish that will stand hard washing. The new household finishes, which stay white and do not turn yellow or gray with age, are especially well adapted to bathroom use because of their exceptional durability under hard wear and their pure whiteness, which has a distinct advantage.

Scrubwomen Turn Detective in New York Offices

BESIDES their work as cleaners and scrubbers, women serve as detectives in the newer office buildings in New York City. They have become a small but vital cog in the machinery to maintain law and order.

Hand and Foot, the Baby Is Warm in Crochet Accessories

By Ellen Bruce.

GIFTS for babies are innumerable. Especially useful are the tiny mittens and boots illustrated. When they are crocheted in simple patterns it is no trick at all, even for the novice, to make a gift for the newly born infant. Soft Saxonies, zephyrs, and fine baby wools are a joy to work with. And the completed set of boots and mitts costs less than half the price of those ready made.

Crochet work done with fine wools requires greater care and attention than that accomplished with cotton, string, or bouclé. Splitting wool yarns, through carelessness with the crochet hook or through lack of knowledge, shows in the article and spoils the whole effect. The moral of this is to make certain that the crochet hook has a rounded head, without roughness on the point, sides, or edges.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the boots and mittens for a baby illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower lobby, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

Home Treatment For Keeping Skin Young

MERCOLIZED WAX is the one beauty aid you can afford because this single preparation embodies all the essentials of beauty that your skin needs. It cleanses, softens, bleaches, lubricates and protects. It is so simple to use, too. Just pat it on your skin each night as if it were an ordinary cold cream. That's all. Mercolized Wax seeps into your pores and dissolves grime and dust and all impurities. It absorbs the discolored surface skin in tiny, invisible particles, revealing the beautiful, soft, young skin that lies beneath. It clears away freckles, tan, oiliness, sunburn or any other blemishes. You use such a tiny bit of Mercolized Wax for each application that it proves an inexpensive beauty investment. Beauty cannot be taken for granted. It must be cared for regularly if you want to hold it through the years. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

POWDERED SAXOLITE dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. It is a refreshing, stimulating astringent lotion. Use it daily. At all drug and department stores.

Attic May Be Remodeled Into Livable Suites

Hinsdale Garret Is Transformed Into Two Inviting Rooms With Bath.

Are you interested in novelty finishes for a new enclosed sun porch—for your modernized attic—or for any room in your house? Address Louise Bargelt, The Chicago Tribune, for free leaflet on novelty painted finishes. Please enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

By Louise Bergelt.

AFTER a room has been really modernized, so that it's as inviting spot to which all the family flocks, it promptly falls into a class of its own—with no days off!

These are weeks which fairly teem with talk of modernization. It is in the air we breath, and around us are beginning to appear small things and large things—done and in the doing.

"What can we do? What shall we do? What do we want to do most? What do our houses demand, first of all?"

We hear this on all sides. It is stirring, this interest and enthusiasm in possibilities opening up.

Attic Rooms Can Serve Several Purposes.

Whatever the future may hold in home building, the present is of paramount concern. The time may come when many things we now have will have passed. Basements, for example, visible heating, open porches, and spaces under the eaves. We will dine and dance on flat decks where once our roof peaks cast their shadows in the moonlight.

But now, in this fast moving, intriguing present, the vast and overwhelming majority of houses have sloping roofs and cubic contents below them for additional rooms—if we want them.

A quite entrancing little suite of two rooms, with small bath and shower between them, was recently built on the third floor or attic space of the Klock residence in Hinsdale. A vivid demonstration, this can surely be called, of dormant possibilities in these upper house areas.

There are several definite advantages to such a piece of modernization as this. Most of the rooms in a home are not designed to perform several functions. A bedroom or a kitchen, a living room or a dining room must live up to certain standards. It has fixed functions which cannot lightly be trespassed upon.

Knotty Pine Walls Give a Rustic Look.

But an attic is different. It has no superiority complex, having long been under the ban of general family indifference. It graciously defers to a homeowner's new idea, whatever it may be. If a bedroom is needed, such the attic will become; or a den or a playroom, a living room, library or study. Again it can be partitioned off and serve as several rooms.

The attic in the Hinsdale home pictured has been divided into three rooms; two bedrooms, with a small bath and shower between them. A quite entrancing and cozy use of once disused domestic spaces.

Where a drop stairway once provided access to the third floor, now there is a sturdily built, well designed staircase of oak. The floors, too, are of oak, except in the bath. The walls are of knotty pine, v-jointed, and conceal an abundance of deep closets, shelves, and cupboards and a cedar chest.

The attic has been thoroughly insulated with a "wool" type of insulation. The decoration of the newly added rooms is in the early American spirit, even to the lighting fixtures.

The windows are as well built as any of the other windows in the home. They are weather stripped for warmth and for all year round protection, as well as provided with storm sashes for the wintry months. In brief, these are rooms modernized to be lived in—and enjoyed.

It will pay any one who has any attic space at all to finish it into a room or rooms.

Wall boards may be used for lining the walls. For the partitions, a slight, sturdy frame can be built, and this covered with wall board. Many wall boards may be left in their natural state or painted or papered.

House Heating Should Be Extended to Attic.

Such an attic, if it is to be really enjoyed, should be heated. The house heating can be extended up here. Or, if you do not want to do this, insulate the attic and have a place which can be lived in a number of months, at least, during the year.

There probably will be room in the attic for a little bath, or for a lavatory and toilet, or a shower. A skeleton framework can be constructed, as for the partitions, and this lined with one of the many varieties of washable wall coverings available, in tile or plain, as desired. There are materials which come in strong panels which can be applied direct to studs. If the room has been plastered, these panels can be applied direct to the furring, nailed over the old plaster.

There are almost as many treatments for an attic bathroom wall as for the downstairs bath or lavatory. Only it is likely that the treatment given this upper bath will be quite simple and inexpensive.

No Better Place than Garret for Storage Vaults.

There is no better place than an attic in which to build a roomy storage closet of cedar. Such a closet should be lighted on the inside—if possible, with lights which come on when the doors are opened.

A home storage vault in the attic is another practical idea for the home mistress who feels the need of more space for all sorts of odds and end from the downstairs' rooms; pictures and books and sets of dishes and bric brac which she does not want to throw away and yet for which there is no extra inch of space in the bedrooms and closets below.

There is a privacy and seclusion in a room under the eaves which is not found anywhere else in the house. For this reason it is a suitable and happy spot for some family member, perhaps, who is disturbed by the domestic buzz and hum, continued sometimes far into the evening. The air can be as fresh as in any other part of the house if sufficient windows are provided.

Man of Family May Have Privacy in Attic Den.

The attic is also a splendid place for the man of the family who craves to have a room of his own. If this attic is to be arranged for the man of the house it should be finished in a more or less club like manner, with dark painted wood for the floor—soft wood painted floors are attractive, when they are well finished and waxed. If bookcases are built-in they will want to be of the heavy type, but narrow and tall, so that they can fit into small spaces.

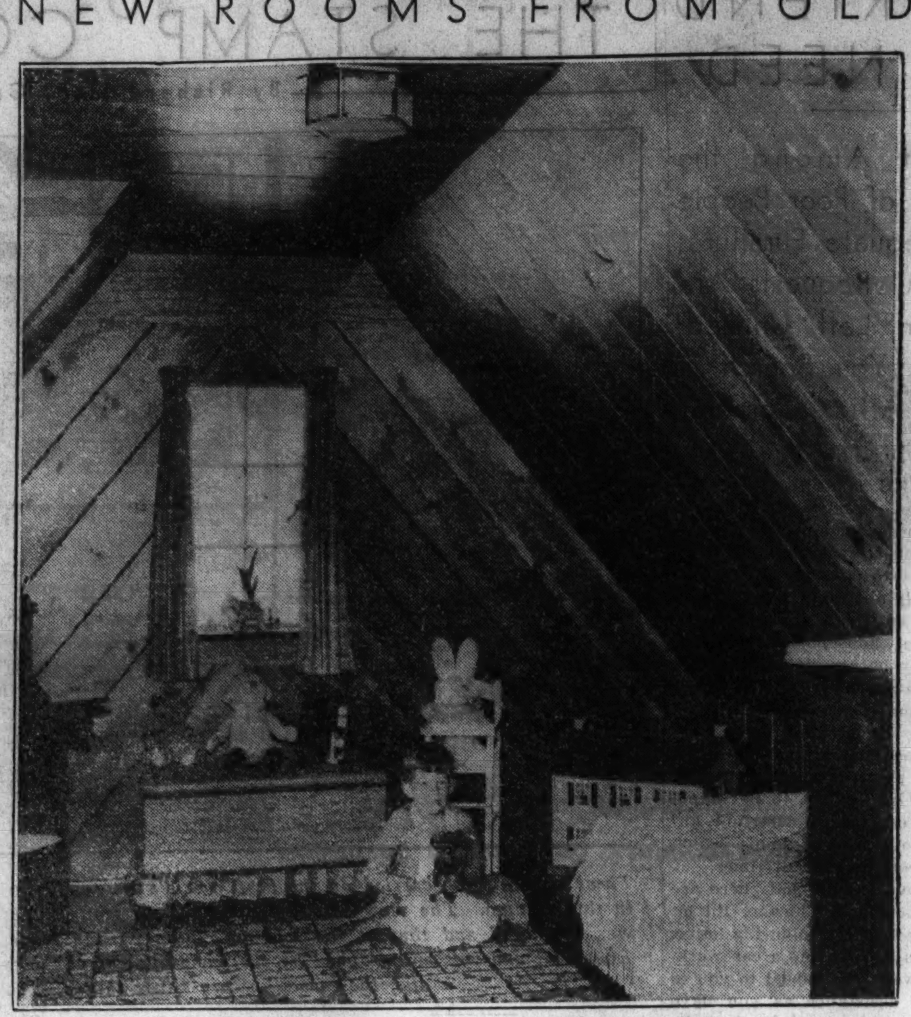
NEW ROOMS FROM OLD



A recently modernized attic in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Klock in Hinsdale, Ill. Two rooms, with bath between, have been built into spaces formerly forlorn and lost. The walls are of knotty pine, the floors and stairway of rich, dark oak. There is lavish provision of deep closets and storage chests, concealed within the walls. Architect for the remodeling, Harold A. Zook, 140 South Dearborn street, Chicago.

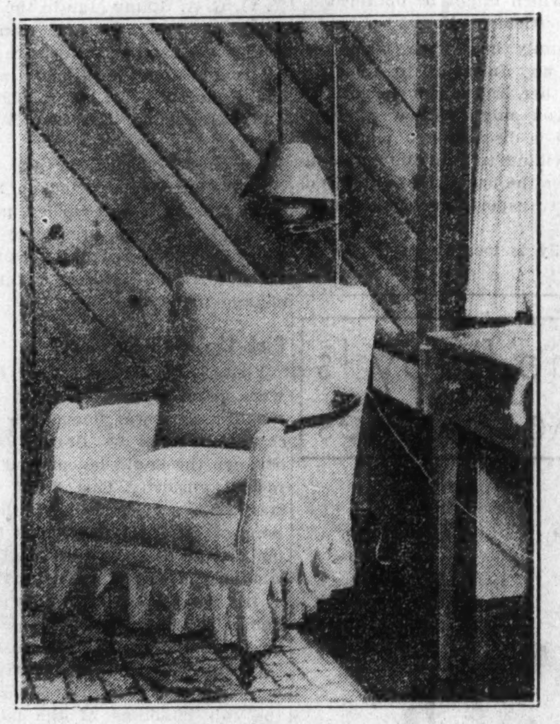
Just one of the thousands of unfinished "old attics" the country over. Rendered useless by years of neglect, it is a cobwebby expanse of bootless space. Uninsulated, it offers easy egress in winter to dearly purchased fuel warmth and in summer affords as easy access to withering heat waves. But it can be nicely modernized!



A corner in one of the modernized attic rooms. There are doors in the knotty pine walls which lead into deep closets along one entire side; lights flash on when the doors are opened. Both rooms are decorated in the early American spirit.

THE HOMEMAKER

● To toughen the strands of a new broom and make it last longer, dip it in a solution of hot water before first using it.

● In painting any window frame before puttying it, allow the paint to dry thoroughly before starting the puttying job.

● Odd pieces of linoleum around the house may be reclaimed and made into attractive little rugs by painting and stippling. Secure a good grade of linoleum paint, or paint which manufacturers will recommend for this work. To use in painting old linoleum, buff or tan, green, gray or brick are good colors. If the pure color as it comes from the can seems too intense, add a little gray to soften and make it more attractive.

● To remove various stains from table tops, use linseed oil and rotten stone. Mix to a creamy consistency. Don't let the dry rotten stone touch the wood. Take a cloth which has been moistened with oil, and rub the table top lightly, with steady, light strokes. After stains have been removed, take a fresh cloth moistened in oil and go over the surface again.

FURNITURE QUERIES

Miss Weigle will be glad to answer questions on furniture. If a personal reply is desired enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Query: "I have some old, rather homely Victorian bedroom furniture and want to paint it. Can you suggest a color? The room is large and h : ivory woodwork and ivory paper with a silver stripe. I use gray and white rugs on the floor—B. M."

Answer: A charming room will result if you will paint the furniture light peach. If you wish a contrasting touch of color, you can have a hairline trim of gray.

Query: "Will you kindly tell me the best way to repaint wicker furniture?—E. K."

Answer: The simplest and most efficient method is to refinish the pieces by applying the paint with a spray. Any suitable paint, however, can be readily put on with a brush in the old way.

Query: "Will you please recommend two books on furniture and decoration for the beginner?—C. C."

Answer: Gladly. A concise, informative little book on period furniture is "A Handbook of Period Furniture," by Mr. and Mrs. G. Glenn Gould [Dodd, Mead] and an excellent and entertaining volume on furnishings and decoration is that of the inimitable Mrs. Post, called "The Personality of a House" [Funk and Wagnalls.]

Answer: I should recover it in one of the new novelty, textured woolens. One having a diagonal stripe of chevron design in self tone would be good looking.

Stars' Houses Rival the Stage in Their Charm

room, pictured on page one, is simple but luxurious. A lovely old French mirror hangs above the sideboard and a decorative French screen is near a door at the rear. The oval backed chairs framed in painted wood contrast with the dark natural table top and the dark wood of the buffet.

A porch made into an attractive living and card room offers practical ideas to many another home owner. In one corner Miss Harlow has placed a permanent card table group consisting of table and four comfortable armchairs. Ivy jars on the white brick wall flank a mirror above the sofa, and a lounge chair, in the foreground, together with a smart little coffee table, completes the ensemble. White Venetian blinds are at the windows; draperies have been dispensed with.

The Clark Gables Have Gay Chintz-Hung Bedroom.

In her boudoir the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star has arranged a gracefully curved two piece chaise longue covered in rich brocaded satin. The long windows are curtained with satin draperies that not only reach the floor but sweep it in heavy folds. A glass cabinet of French design holds objets d'art.

Richard Arlen, Paramount player owns an utterly lovely house at Toluca lake. It is long, low, and rambling, built around an open court in which is a grand swimming pool. A huge old tree casts its shadows over the water, its leaves brushing the tile roof of the house.

Paris Frock Conveys Charm for Matrons

No. 5055—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—This pattern, No. 5055, is inspired by one of the most beautiful Paris dresses in the fall and winter collections. It is especially chic for the matron, but can be worn by women of almost all ages. The dress has a sheer chiffon blouse and heavier skirt, so it is comfortable in a steam-heated atmosphere and, under a winter coat, adequate for outdoors.

The original model was black, with the blouse made of black chiffon, and the foundation slip of flesh colored satin. Two velvet ribbons, one old rose and the other Alice blue, are sewed on to the foundation blouse, under the chiffon, emerging in front and tying in bows.

The skirt may be made of black velvet, as the original Paris model was, or it may be fashioned of black, velvety wool, of satin, or of dull silk crêpe.

You can make this dress entirely of silk crêpe, and the ribbons will show only in front. Made in this way the model is much more practical. Use any two shades for your ribbon trimming, if you don't like the pink and blue.

Animals of Glass Lend Frivolity to Buffet Spreads

"BRING 'em back alive" glass animals are among the smart gadgets which add a frivolous touch to the buffet table for informal dinners or midnight spreads.

Don't blame it on the beverages when you see these queer, humpbacked, blue cats, green elephants, polka dotted gazelles and giraffes, or even a diminutive yellow octupus with fiery red eyes standing on the tips of his eight treacherous legs.

These grotesque looking creatures, blown in glass, are most colorful and amusing when arranged on a mirror plateau, and are partly obscured in a jungle of rich autumn fruit or flowers. They are reasonably priced, and are found at a smart Chicago shop.

DUALITY IN CHAIRS AND COUCHES

Furniture of the Moderns Abolishes Frills

Contemporary to Last Peg, It's Designed to Fulfill Function, Nothing More!

By Edith Weigle.

REMEMBER the good looking modern furniture we told you about that was introduced at the furniture shows here? It's now on the furniture floor of one of the large State street stores and you can view it for yourself in the quality lane model rooms of this establishment. We ran a picture showing the dignified dining room ensemble some time ago. Today we show some of the living room furniture. It is all designed by one of the foremost modernists, Russell Wright, who has turned his hand not only to chairs, tables, and sofas but to glassware, lamps, and other accessories as well.

Mr. Wright believes each item in a room's furnishings should meet a definite need, fill it, and have done with the matter. In other words, no fol-de-rols, no ornate carving or surface ornamentation, no fringed edgings or flounces or box plaiting. A chair is something to sit on; it must be comfortable to a high degree and it must be well proportioned, but beyond that it need not strive to be beautiful. If it answers its purpose well it WILL be good to look at, the modernists believe.

Clothing Textiles Are Used for Upholstering.

We've used velvets, silks, satins, linens, mohairs, and other fabrics for upholstery. Mr. Wright goes a step further and utilizes clothing textiles. Some of his sofas are covered in men's serge suiting. Several interesting chairs are done in that tawny beige coating material that looks so much like fur and feels so delightfully woolly and soft to the touch.

And he dispenses with welted seams. Cushions have rounded continuous edges, similar to those on automobile seats. The backs of chairs and sofas are as attractive to the eye as the fronts, and usually two materials are combined in one piece for contrast. Thus, a couch upholstered in a small blue and green plaid woolen rests on a base of solid color blue upholstery. Beige and copper tones are twins, as are two tones of green.

Chairs May Be Used Separately or Combined as Davenports.

In the photograph is seen a group composed of a two seated couch and two matching chairs that may be used separately or pushed together to form a long davenport. Fitting neatly between one chair and the couch is a stunning square utility table, extremely simple in line, depending for its beauty on the fine grained pattern of the wood itself.

It is equipped with one deep lower drawer, convenient for liquor bottles and glasses, and with a shallower drawer for smoking things and cards. Also there are several open shelves for magazines and books.

On this table is an interesting low modern lamp of cork and metal, designed especially to keep the glare out of the eyes of any one seated on the sofa.

Cabinet Shelves Can Be Open or Closed.

In the background of the photograph notice the hanging and standing cabinets. Each has a sliding door intended to cover half the shelves, the other half, which may be filled with books and objets d'art, being exposed to view. These items are uniform in size and are interchangeable so that you can use as many as you wish and group them as you please.

Other model rooms in this lane of quality show early American maple furniture, classic modern bedroom pieces, a Biedermeier mahogany dining room ensemble, and other interesting styles.

Does your dinette seem crowded? Miss Weigle's booklet, "Making the Most of the Dinette," will tell you how to create a feeling of space in close quarters, how to make this room more attractive. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower lobby, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress. Miss Weigle will talk over W-G-N Tuesday at 11:50 a. m.

LUXURIANT FUR FOR DISTINCTION

Mainbocher has staged a success among smart women with a woolen cocktail coat. It is black, trimmed with white fox fur.

At left, foreground and background: Enormous cartwheels of red fox give originality plus to a dark blue wool coat from Schiaparelli. At right, foreground and background: Chanel puts plaits of fur between the bands of this sable capelet, which comes off to leave the standing sable collar. The smartly fitted coat is of dark red wool.

SKETCHED IN PARIS BY A STAF ARTIST.

Coat of Molded Line Will Rule Winter Scene

Paris Insists on Pinched Waistline, Flared Skirt, Dramatic Use of Fur.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The winter coat, always a star turn in fashions, came out in this season's fashion shows doing a bewildering variety turn. Coats, like all the rest of the Paris fashions, haven't kept to one silhouette, nor to one length, nor to any other single standard. The famous forty and their understudies had a lot to choose from, and they are still doing the work of eliminating and okaying.

However, a sufficient number of women who count in fashion making have selected the molded wrap with a slightly wider skirt and plenty of fur trimming to assure this particular member of the coat world an all-winter success. Quite a conservative choice, this type of coat, but women, even the most opulent and daring, aren't having any eccentricity in their clothes lines this season. When it comes to the way the fur trimming is applied to the coat there is lots of daring, and the fur is applied copiously.

Fur-Lined Coat Leads Fur Coat for Runabout Wear.

Paquin's knee-length cape that is about half-and-half black astrakhan and cloth, Molyneux's half beaver, half cloth coat, and Lelong's Alaskan seal cape are three examples of the "different" winter wrap. Women have okayed them all, and they will be worn in exclusive society this winter in Paris.

For runabout wear and for general utility the fur-lined coat is just a little ahead of the fur coat in chic. Most women here in Paris are picking fur-lined tweed or other rough woolen coats to wear for motoring, shopping, to sporting events, and what not. All the important dressmakers have fur-lined coats on their style menus. About every fur that is suitable to go inside a coat is used by them, from rabbit to real Alaskan seal. When it isn't lined with fur it has revers and collar, or capelet of fur, usually astrakhan. Fur coats, even for dressy wear, are apt not to be full length this winter.

Mainbocher's Wool Wraps Hang to the Instep.

Dressy coats that can be worn for late afternoon and for evening also may be made of wool this season. Numbers of the famous forty have chosen woolen coats from Mainbocher which are instep length, and will wear them to fashionable affairs this winter. The wool that is used for such coats is usually a velvety surfaced wool and it is almost invariably black. The Mainbocher model shown at the right is such a coat. The original model is made of black velvety woolen. It is closely molded to the hipline, and the bottom, though flared, is split to the knees in four places so you see the dress that is worn under it. The sleeves are quite ample and are three-quarters length. The enormous collar of this coat is made of four foxes—white, in the original version—and gathered into the back of the neckline. They end at the waistline, following the side-front seams.

Schiaparelli Puts Fur On in Cartwheels.

Schiaparelli's famous cartwheel coat is shown second from the right. It has the society indorsed molded silhouette with a comfortable skirt portion. The original is made of darkest blue woolen. The sleeves are slightly gathered as they go into the armholes, but this fullness is insignificant because of the enormous wheels of fox that are placed around the armholes and that stand up high above the shoulders on top. The collar is a simple tie-on scarf of the wool. A dinner-pail handbag of box calf goes with this coat.

At the left is a sketch of the fur-lined wrap that is smart among the most particular Parisiennes. This particular coat is from Schiaparelli. Her model is done in brown tweed with flecks of brightest red scattered over it. The cape is lined with brown otter fur, and so is the body of the coat. The collar is made of the same fur.

Well Knit Cardigan Gives Snug Warmth on Informal Occasions

By Jean Macdonald.

WOMEN are always interested in double purpose clothes. Knitted jackets come in this category and the smart sweater in the cardigan manner, illustrated today, is only one of its many versions.

The well-knit cardigan may serve as a house jacket to be worn over a dress when the heat goes down or as a sweater under a coat to give additional warmth without destroying the fit and line of the wrap. It may be made of various yarns—shetland, saxony, fingering, or lightweight angora.

The whole sweater is the acme of simplicity—the line, the style, and last but not least, the pattern. The cuffs and bottom of the sweater are made of ribbing, the body is done in the stockinette stitch [1 row knit and 1 row purl], and each side of the front has a narrow band knitted in the garter stitch [every row knitted]. Large needles make the sweater knit up quickly. Colors are a matter of personal taste, but with all the rich, new fall yarns arrayed before one the choice actually becomes a difficult problem.

HOW TO ORDER.

BLIND MAN'S FANCY.

By Nancy Cabot.

"BLIND MAN'S FANCY" is an adaptation of the good old "Barrister's Block," "Rocky Road to Kansas," or "Rocky Glen" combined with the well known "Variable Star," known also as "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too." The manipulation of these patterns to make "Blind Man's Fancy" occurred in 1900, in the state of New York. A complete coverlet of this pattern requires twenty pieced blocks with a three inch band of insertion between the blocks. A six inch border, of the shade predominating in the pieced blocks, completes the color scheme.

PARIS SNAPSHOTS

The newest thing in sweaters is the knitted blouse that buttons down the back. Equally chic is the velveteen pull-over blouse.

Cravats of fur, which can be worn inside your cloth coat, and on your frock, too, are popular in Paris.

Heim's "postilion" capes of silver fox—"coachman" to you—are popular with the young crowd in Paris that falls for the high crowned "postilion" hat—"Miles Standish" to you.

Capelets on coats, be they cloth or fur, are aggressive this fall. They stand out crisply in several layers and are stiffened to stay that way.

By Clotilde.

YOU will notice that a good many of the new fall dresses are of the two piece type, and they are becoming to many women. The pattern, No. 3382, will fashion a satisfactory dress for school and college wear.

The raglan sleeves, the high neck finished with a little turned over collar, and the front buttoning, all combine to make as smart a waist as one could wish. The skirt is quite plain, except for the center front seam and a kick plait at the bottom. This allows freedom of movement but doesn't detract from the slim silhouette.

A brown and yellow plaid woolen made the skirt of the original model, and the blouse was of plain brown velveteen. Hairy woolens will be smart for this dress.

Simplicity Attracts in Frock for School Girl.

Pattern No. 2787 is for a wonderfully attractive dress for a young school-girl, and making it will be delightfully easy. It is most cleverly cut, with the front and back panels extending into the front and back yokes.

Cut out the entire dress at once and mark seam lines clearly. The seam edges of the panels and the lower edges of the yoke are turned in exactly on the marked seamlines. First make a diagonal clip on all edges at the point where panel and yoke meet. Then baste down over the side section. Two rows of stitching may be put in, the first close to the edge and the second one-quarter of an inch above. Remove the bastings carefully and press flat. Then you are ready to baste the underarm and shoulder seams. Finish these seams and then bind or face the neck and the little slit at the neck in front. The bottom is finished with a hem put in by hand.

White Linen Accents Lend Desired Contrast.

A red Scotch plaided woolen with a navy velveteen collar, cuffs, and tie made the original model. Wool crêpe, wool jersey, velveteen, and wool challis are other suggestions and on some of these materials the white detachable collar and cuffs would be smart.

Patterns by Clotilde

3382—Junior girl's dress. Sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the blouse, with 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt.

2787—Girl's dress. Sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Triangular Clips Are Smart Accent

SLENDER triangular clips, as keen as arrow heads, are dashing and sophisticated accents to the new fall frock. Fashioned of smoothly polished crystal, and set with carved jade of interesting design, they fill the need for a charming and feminine embellishment for the present mode.

Crystal and jade connote an elegance that warms the heart of the most fastidious woman. And these clever bits of ornamentation are slated for the benign smile of fashion's favor. They may be purchased at a Wabash avenue shop at a price that will please even the most thrifty minded.

Weatherstripping Seals House Against Air Leaks

GOOD weatherstripping will go a long way toward sealing the house against air leakage around the window sashes. It is claimed that adequate weatherstripping of substantial quality will save from fifteen to twenty per cent on the winter's fuel bill.

By MAE TINEE.

GOOD morning!

"Among the Missing" uses the theme of "Bureau of Missing Persons"—presented some time ago with Pat O'Brien in the lead.

The action starts in the New York police department's bureau of the missing, where reports of lost folks are turned in and where efforts to find them are set in motion.

There appear Mr. and Mrs. Abbott to report the disappearance of their aunt.

"MR. Abbott's aunt!" remarks Mrs. Abbott acidly.

And what do you suppose has happened to Auntie?

WELL—Auntie has fallen among thieves! To start with—she sees a man about a dog. I. E.: While she is resting on a park bench the vicinity is suddenly flooded with light and overrun by police. AND there plops down beside her a breathless young man who says he's hunting for his pup "Skippy." As he explains, he hurriedly slips something in her pocket without Auntie's knowing a thing about it.

Police Suspect the Dog Story.

The police come bounding up, hear the dog story with suspicion and carefully search the youthful narrator who submits gracefully and with no signs of guilt upon his fair, open countenance. As for Auntie—they only bother to take a glance in her, of course, perfectly innocuous suitcase. . . .

The officers depart. Aunt Martha goes home with the dog boy and a nice acquaintance of the lad who happens by.

"Home" is an antique shop with rooms above, behind, and under. The nice man runs it, together with a queer old goat who keeps out of sight most of the time and spends his days looking at objects through a powerful magnifying glass. The dog boy is their assistant . . . here Auntie is installed as housekeeper. . . .

Entirely unsuspecting she is of funny business until the sweet young thing who lives next door and is engaged to Tommy inadvertently lets out the news that he never had a dog. . . .

Auntie's not so dumb. . . .

Saving Crooks Makes Lots of Trouble.

Unhappily—for she loves the boy, whose guilty conscience causes him to treat her most gruffly—she puts two and two together. . . .

Her determination to save him lands her in pecks of trouble and makes more kinds of hay than you'd have believed was possible. . . .

If you start to pick flaws in this production there won't be much left of it by the time you get through. The crooks are dumb, the cops are dumber, and the scenario creaks under a weight of hokum. BUT—if in complaisant mood—you'll probably enjoy "Among the Missing."

Because it IS well acted, has several appealing human interest angles, and such action as there is moves along at a lively clip.

See you tomorrow.

Below: Miss Nancy Carroll, if you please! The fair one who's been doing a disappearing act lately. Now she's changed tactics and we'll greet her again in "Spring 3100." Miss Carroll's stunning gown is of crystelle cloth in the Directoire manner.

Bing Crosby heard Marian Mansfield sing over the air. He got her a screen test — and now, here she is! All set with a Paramount contract.

Myriads of movie fans count Jeanette MacDonald their favorite screen star. To this smiling lady with the lovely voice has fallen the title role in "The Merry Widow." Maurice Chevalier will play opposite her in the film.

A Svenska flicka, Astrid Allwyn. That is, her folks are Swedish. She was born in Manchester, Conn. Miss Allwyn made her stage debut in "Street Scene," her first featured role in the movies being in "Lady with a Past."

Spring Sets the Tempo of N.Y.'s Latest Dramas

In New England It Begets Cleansing Criticism; on East Side, Romance.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Two of the new plays are concerned with spring as a motive force. One is called "Spring Freshet" and has to do with the upending of a New England home when a spring freshet of criticism cleared the air and started a new domestic deal.

The other is "Spring Song" and is a story of east side New York in which the heroine, feeling a seasonal urge to love her sister's beau, gets herself into considerable third act trouble.

"Spring Freshet" is the best play Owen Davis has recently written, to my notion. It is a good deal like his "Icebound," which won a Pulitzer prize for him the season of 1922-'23, but seems to me a stronger play in being less formally plotted.

"Icebound," you may recall, was the story of a young woman who was brought into the family of distant kin and became the favorite of the matriarchal granddam who was its dictator. She stayed on to inherit the family property and help save the character of a prodigal son.

Grandma Levenseller Thwarts Marriage for Love.

"Spring Freshet" is another story of a similarly dictatorial old lady, Isabella Levenseller, who has ruthlessly directed the destinies of her folk for upwards of two generations.

Now, fearing there will be no more Levensellers if the line should die out with her passing, she determines to marry a grandson, Ned Levenseller, to a girl of her selection and crush his budding love for a distant cousin with whom he has been brought up.

She manages the wedding successfully enough, and she is able to stamp out the rebellion of Ned's wife after she comes into the family circle. But she fails utterly in her objective when the young couple develop a hearty dislike for each other and there is no hope of their coöperation in carrying forward the Levenseller line.

Grandma Levenseller is theoretically triumphant in the end, however, though not without great cost to her pride. A Levenseller is born to one of the town girls who dies in childbirth and leaves her infant to the family. Ned acknowledges his responsibility and grandma decrees that there shall be no further scandal and that the little illegitimate shall be brought into the fold and reared legitimately as a Levenseller heir.

Owen Davis Content to Present Yankees as They Are.

The appeal of "Spring Freshet" is in its characters and its Yankee humor rather than its story. Mr. Davis, who was born in northern Maine and lived all his early life among these founders of our vanishing race, sees them and loves them for what they are without providing them sentimentally with virtues they do not command.

Granite hard, conscience bound, pinch souled puritans, the strong among them feared happiness as a temptation of the devil and fought comfort as a menace likely to soften their moral fiber. But they were a fine people, according to their lights, a race of sentimentalists at heart, and the gentler rebels among them provided an ancestry to which seven generations of Yankees have pointed with satisfaction and a good deal of honest pride.

Elizabeth Patterson is the delight of the cast, playing another of her acidulous flat chests, full of criticism for the world and the Levensellers in particular. Francesca Bruning, Thurston Hall, Owen Davis Jr., Richard Whorf, and Esther Dale are others.

Action in "Spring Song" Doesn't Seem Real.

"Spring Song," written by Bella and Samuel Spewack, is probably as true to east side Jewry as "Spring Freshet" is to the Yankees of upper New England. It seems the more tritely plotted of the two, and much more deeply involved with the conventions of the theater. You, as interested auditor, believe the people are true, but you have the feeling they are being forced into situations of which they naturally would fight shy.

Francine Larrimore is the star, jumping back to her earlier ingénue days as a cerise topped young woman named Florrie Solomon. Florrie's mother runs a newsstand. Florrie's older sister, Tillie, plain as to feature but generous of heart, minds the stand and is the uncomplaining stalwart of the family.

Comes a day in spring when Tillie's fiancé, Sidney Kurtz, wanting ever so much to get married, but having another year or two at law school, meets Florrie, the sister, who is restless and rebellious because her own young man is a traveling salesman and mostly away from home.

Just for the fun of it they go in search of adventure at the beach and find it under the moon. Shortly thereafter Florrie discovers that she is in trouble and that she heartily hates Sidney. Misery settles upon the Solomon household. Mrs. Solomon insists Florrie must marry Sidney to cleanse her soul and provide a name for her expected offspring.

Florrie dies in childbirth and misery has not lifted from the Solomon household at the play's end. Miss Larrimore is spirited and pretty as the unhappy Florrie, and a Russian actress, Helen Zelinskaya, playing her first rôle in English, is sympathetically appealing as the mother.

French Blues Singer Sensation of "Continental Varieties."

A minor sensation of the week was the introduction of a high priced entertainment grouped as "Continental Varieties." The leading attraction here is Lucienne Boyer, a good looking French girl who specializes, even as did the great Yvette Guilbert and the more recent Raquel Meller, in the singing of character songs. It is likely you may have heard some of her records, probably that which reproduces her singing of "Parlez-moi d'Amour." Some 600,000 of her recordings have been sold, if you can believe the advertising.

Lucienne in type is not unlike a fairly sedate Leonore Ulric. She never wears anything but a velvet blue gown on the stage and her only costume additions are a blue chiffon scarf which, when she would suggest one of passion's victims, of either sex, she wraps about her throat. Her hair is nut brown, combed back, parted irregularly on the left side and waved to the throat line at back.

The voice is sort of blue velvet, too, being that of a lady crooner, soft, warming, of restricted range, and dramatic when called upon. She sang ten songs opening night, and her audience was still pressing her to sing more. She had to leave because she was on her way to the new 65 story high Rockefeller center music hall, christened the Stratosphere and then changed to the Rainbow room, where she sang a half dozen additional numbers.

Jessel Confounds De Roze by Asking for Tomato Juice.

In the bill with Mlle. Boyer are several other continental artists—Vicente Escudero, the Spanish gypsy who has become internationally famous as a dancer; M. de Roze, who carries a clear glass pitcher of clear, cool water through the audience and pours any drink you may call for from it, though he was a bit stumped when George Jessel asked for tomato juice, offering a Scotch highball instead.

Raphael, a wizard with the concertina, and Lydia Chaliapin, daughter of the basso, specializing in Russian gypsy songs, are others. The "Continental Varieties" is staged in the redecorated Little theater, which seats only 500. Prices will therefore be high, ranging downward from $5.50, but not downward far enough. I am inclined to doubt that the show will last long.

After more than a year's work of preparation the American Children's theater has begun its first season in the old Cosmopolitan theater in Columbus circle, where "The Wizard of Oz," the greatest of all children's entertainments, had its long run years and years ago. The Cosmopolitan is now known as the Theater of Young America.

"Fatal Wedding" History.

"The Fatal Wedding," now in revival on the showboat Dixiana, was first staged in 1901 by Sam H. Harris, then manager for the prize fighter, Terry McGovern. The leading woman in the first touring company was Mrs. Gladys Smith, whose daughter appeared in the child's rôle, programmed as Little Gladys. She is now Mary Pickford.

YOUTH AND BEAUTY IN THE DANCE

Frank Veloz and his lovely dancing partner, Miss Yolanda, have returned to the Palace theater for a final week of vaudeville before their departure to Hollywood. They are the leading ballroom dancers of the night club and cabaret period in entertainment and have had long runs in Chicago.

Famous Dancers at the Palace; Variety Bills

VELOZ AND YOLANDA, the most popular dance team of the period, have returned to the Palace theater, where they appeared with great success for a week in August. This will be their last engagement in Chicago until next spring, for they will soon begin a sojourn in Hollywood. A new number, called the Veyro, is included in their current program.

Other vaudeville acts at the Palace this week are the Radio Rubes, in hill-billy songs; Eddie White, comedian and singer; Charlotte Arren and Johnny Broderick, comedians; and the Four Ortons, wire walkers.

The stage entertainment at the State-Lake theater this week consists of an elaborate revue called "The Gay Nineties." Fifty players are in the company. Among the performers are the "Beef Trust" chorus; the Wilson brothers, comedians; the Mayfield Trio, Apache dancers; Mickey Carroll, Andy Anderson, the Steve Brodie quartet, and a jazz band. This show runs for an hour. In addition the program contains three vaudeville specialties: Nat Carr in impersonations; the Radio Aces, and Bernice Stone and the Perry Twins.

The principal item on the program of stage entertainment at the Chicago theater this week is Ina Ray Hutton and her orchestra of 17 girls, called the Melodears. This is their first appearance in the middle west. H. Leopold Spitalny is guest conductor of the Chicago theater orchestra.

The Uptown theater's week-end stage show is headed by Earl Burnett and his orchestra. Other entertainers include a group of Evans ballet girls.

Playgoers, Inc., Begins to Save Chicago Stage

By Charles Collins.

SAVIORS of the Chicago stage are almost as abundant this fall as prophets in ancient Palestine, and their voices are equally loud in the land. Thus far they have wrought no miracles, but their zeal is impressive and I am giving an attentive ear to their preachments. The titles under which they hope to revive the unconscious drama are all much alike, and I have difficulty in sorting out the various guilds, leagues, societies, unions, and groups, each with the word "drama" or "theater" attached, whose propaganda has reached my desk.

Clearly exposed for identification, however, is Playgoers, Inc., which qualified as Savior No. 1 by fostering last week's première of "The Pursuit of Happiness" at the Blackstone theater. This organization got the jump on its rivals because the comedy to which it is lending its auspices was coming to Chicago anyway, but had a theater—the Cort—shot under it on the eve of its opening. Playgoers, Inc., got a break and took advantage of it with laudable energy.

Drama Saviors Seek Subscriptions.

This organization is led by Seymour Blair, scion of one of the first families, and Luther Greene, stage director of little theater activities at International house, the Punch and Judy, etc. These purposeful young men intend to organize audiences for a series of plays by the subscription method, and their efforts are supported by a list of patrons and patronesses whose names make society editors dizzy with professional delight. Their manifesto states that, in case of success, "Out of the effort will arise a permanent organization for the professional production of plays, with the avowed purpose of restoring the confidence of the Chicago theater-going public by taking it out of the hands of the second string road companies which have been its fate for the last few years."

More power to Messrs. Blair and Greene! The Chicago stage, suffering from senility of management, yearns for new blood in its executive offices. It has become apparent that the old school system does not intend to operate more than two theaters in Chicago this season, and is obviously unable to keep these two—the Grand Opera house and the Erlanger—steadily active. Therefore, Blair and Greene come like the answer to a prayer.

Schedule of Playgoers, Inc.

"The Pursuit of Happiness" constitutes the October offering of Playgoers, Inc. For November [opening date uncertain] they promise "My Crime," a comedy by MM. Berr and Verneuil, which has been a roaring hit at the Thèâtre des Variètés of Paris. The December item on their subscription program will be a revival of "Enter Madame," the comedy in which Gilda Varesi had a vogue fourteen years ago. I suspect that this revival will have Eugenie Leontovich in Miss Varesi's rôle, because she acted it in a drama "festival" in Milwaukee last spring.

Two Sunday afternoon programs by Angna Enters, the so-called "dance mime" whose character interpretations are exceedingly art-y, are also on the Blair-Greene schedule. They are announced for Oct. 21 and Oct. 28 at the Blackstone. Moreover, in the words of the prospectus, "a fifth production will be announced later."

Bedroom Comedy for Sociologists.

"The Pursuit of Happiness" brings bedroom comedy into the realm of sociology. It is a frank and comprehensive study of a peasant wooing custom brought from Europe into the American colonies, highly suggestive of intent but somehow not embarrassing in spite of the lasciviousness of its spirit. The graceful conduct of its leading players, Tonio Selwart and Joan Wheeler, both new in this town, keeps the piece out of the abyss of bawdy implications over which it hovers. They have fresh, youthful charm, and they handle the carnal business of "bundling" with a light, romantic touch.

In my first night review of this play I referred with admiration to the various "period pieces" in the stage setting—furniture, utensils, etc.—as reproductions. The shop which supplied them rises to correct me, stating that they are all genuine antiques—all, that is, except the bed, the table and the spinet, which are the most important objects in the room. I will take the shop's word for it and withdraw the word "reproductions," except as applied to the spinet, the table, and the indispensable bed with its saw tooth center board for the moral protection of "bundlers."

DRAMA GOES IN FOR "BUNDLING"

"The Pursuit of Happiness," the comedy now at the Blackstone theater, deals with the colonial wooing custom of "bundling," favorite topic of sexy sociologists. This drawing shows why the old custom is arousing modern curiosity. Tonio Selwart and Josephine Wheeler, as the Hessian deserter and the Yankee maiden, are bundled up in bed in the second act, reading the Bible.

Negro Folk Play

TWO characteristics of the Negro—his superstition and his religious fervor—will be portrayed in the folk play, "Run, Little Chillun," which will open at the Harris theater Oct. 29. The play contains a moon worshipers' orgy with frenzied dances and incantations, and a modern religious revival meeting with "spirituals" by Hall Johnson.

In four scenes Hall Johnson portrays the conflict between the moon worshiping sect and a Baptist community.

"Run, Little Chillun," was played for five and a half months in New York during 1933. It will be staged in Chicago by Ben Guy Phillips with a cast of 200 Negroes.

Jetta Goudal, Pola Negri May Return to Films

Memories of Their Vivid Careers Make Hollywood Seem Dull Now.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — [Special.] — —Pola Negri's presence in Hollywood and her recent conferences with Ernst Lubitsch have given rise to expectation that the colorful Pola will again essay films. Jetta Goudal, also star of silent films, has signified her interest in pictures by taking a test for a rôle, her first in a long time.

These two exotic personalities, with the many, many stories that cluster round their names, serve to remind a casual onlooker in Hollywood who has been looking on for ten years that the talking screen has developed few colorful figures to compare in vividness with the personalities of the old silent films.

Negri herself, a tempestuous whirlwind when she first came to Hollywood from enormous successes in "Passion" and other foreign made films, is the center of many colorful incidents. One memory is of Pola, gone grand and queenly in the early days of her successes, giving a swank afternoon party with strawberries soaked in wine as one of the delicacies.

The guests were all gaga over the spectacle of Pola in long white kid gloves daintily dunking the berries in the wine and popping them between her alluring lips! At that time Hollywood folk had never had such an epicurean bit of food and were at a loss as to how to eat it. Few were up to the spectacular technique employed by the hostess.

Pola, too, supplied the first real title to the film colony. She was the Baroness Dombska when she came here. It was that that supplied the biting edge to the rivalry between her and Swanson, the home grown charmer of the Paramount lot. It finally drove Swanson overseas and into the arms of the Marquise de la Falaise et de la Coudraye in her search for the foreign and aristocratic flavor she craved.

No Hollywood feud of the present is anything but a sickly imitation of the old Swanson-Negri feud which covered even such items as the studio cats which Pola hated and Swanson pampered. Nowadays when two screen stars are rivals, like Crawford and Harlow, they fight over leading men and treat each other politely at all times. The terrific situations of the days when Swanson and Negri made every social function a battleground and the guests their audience in a perpetual style show, each trying to top the other, exist no more.

Dietrich and Garbo started out as pretty good rivals, but they won't work at it in a team like good sports. Garbo doesn't go to parties and Dietrich has done her poor best for glamor at wearing the most unromantic garments ever invented by man — trousers! Dr. Mary Walker used that gag decades ago and got her due of publicity on the same basis.

Talking Screen Hasn't Yet Had Its Theda Bara.

No such colorful figure as Theda Bara has crossed the talking screen to leave thrills and mystery in her wake. The stories about the length of red carpet that was rolled down from her limousine to her dressing room door, and from the dressing room to the set, are actually true. When she leaned over the staircase, white rose between her teeth, and hissed, "Kiss muh, fool," in "A Fool There Was," America shuddered to its foundation.

When Rudolph Valentino ended a spectacular career with a sudden and tragic death, women of the world staged such a spectacle at his funeral as has never been duplicated. His slave bracelets, his threat of a duel with the editor who wrote him up as a "powder puff," his romantic elopement with Natacha Rambova, their tragic separation, the weeping Negri in heavy veils at the bier, made him as colorful an American off screen as in the rôles he portrayed in "The Four Horsemen" and "The Sheik." There is no talking screen star of today who has so seized the imaginations of the public as did he.

William S. Hart, greatest of all western stars, became the symbol of American manhood of the sturdy frontier era. So convincing was Hart in his screen presentations of historic American pioneers of the west that he established for all time the western market for films. Any cheap cowboy with high boots and a ten gallon hat on a motheaten mustang still can cash in on the glamor Bill Hart created. His off screen personality made such an impress that he was a national hero at the time of the Liberty loan campaigns.

Tom Mix, another western actor, was the last word in cowboy grandeur with his auto with an expensive saddle on the hood, his white serge tuxedos piped with black satin, his elaborate cowboy finery of a sort that is hardly at home on the range. Such accessories as white kid boots trimmed in exotic cutout work in black patent lether have left a picturesque and sartorial high mark for succeeding western stars to shoot at.

Von Stroheim Insists on "Feeling of Reality."

The doings of Erich von Stroheim, first of all colorful German directors, would fill a volume. His insistence on reality, not makebelieve, in his pictures led to his installing a complete and workable switchboard for a scene in "Foolish Wives" at great expense when it was not even to be used because he had to "feel" that it was real. It also caused him to use pounds and pounds of caviar at heaven knows what cost instead of greased buckshot in scenes and to shoot sixty reels of film when only six could be released. Many other stories pile up about the colorful man with the shaven head, the monocle in his eye, and the heel snapping bows, never since equaled.

Mae Murray is remembered for her fits of temperament. Her habit of flying at Von Stroheim, smacking his face and calling him a "dirty Hun" when he was directing her in "The Merry Widow" is a favorite story. Mae is also credited with a fit of rage in which she demolished a black beaded costume into little rolling bits all over a set. Her never ending round of lawsuits, her marriages and divorces, her tiffs and reconciliations with Prince David Mdvani, her illustrious Bobby, all made her a talked of figure.

Jetta Goudal is second to none in Hollywood to this day. The talented Jetta, referred to by Cecil De Mille as a "cocktail of emotion," proved to be one last drink for De Mille, for they split over some temperamental didos that went on. Miss Goudal's first emotional storm is generally credited with being the time she spent ten minutes pounding a wall of a set and screaming because she didn't want to kiss her leading man, Ricardo Cortez, in her first film for Paramount. Mainly her temperamental outbursts were caused by something she did not consider right in the artistic setup of her work, which she has always taken seriously.

"THE BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"

The sun shines brightly. The scent of wistaria is in the air. And Elizabeth Barrett meets Robert Browning in the park. A charming scene between Norma Shearer and Fredric March in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." At the United Artists.

APPEARING IN "HIDEOUT"

No dastard is going to wrest this woman from Robert Montgomery! No, sirree! Maureen O'Sullivan is the happy woman sheltered by those good, kind arms. "Hideout." Chicago.

California Business Man Invents a "Chime" Piano

WHEN a piano isn't just that, it's a "chime" piano, recent invention of a business man of Sierra Madre, Cal. Tinkering around in his spare time, Mr. Harry Noake created the instrument, which produces mellow sounds by the beating of hammers directly on metal tubing. Musicians believe that the advent of this invention will fill a big gap in the present range of modern music.

Looks to Youth of Land to Solve U. S. Difficulties

President Conant of Harvard Says Students Face Grave Responsibilities.

AS viewed by President James Bryant Conant of Harvard, the students of American institutions of higher learning face grave problems and responsibilities. The ultimate solution of present national conditions will depend, he believes, on the youth of the land. In his recent address to the freshman class at Harvard President Conant said:

"You are coming to college at a time which is most serious in this country, and, indeed, in many other countries. No one can deny that perhaps the only certainty which we can see in the immediate future is uncertainty; however, it may be of some comfort to you to realize that many, many generations of young men have entered other universities in times which were far more serious than this. Even in the relatively short history of this college one can think of periods of war and other calamities from which we have emerged.

"All of us who have faith in the capacities of the human mind believe that this college and all the other colleges and universities have contributed their part to the almost miraculous skill with which the human race in western Europe seems so often to have escaped impending ruin. I am optimistic enough to believe that the situation is no different today from what it has been during the long past which covers the history of our universities.

Present Generation Has Its Advantages.

"Reckoning a generation as between 20 and 25 years, you are just a generation younger than I am. You and your contemporaries will have many serious and terrible problems with which to deal, and you may have to deal with them while you are still very young.

"But you have great advantages. My generation was handicapped by living its youth in an era of security—then came the war, then the 'boom,' and then the depression. As one of my classmates said, 'We never have had a break.'

"In Europe the ranks of my contemporaries were decimated by the war; many who, if they had lived, would have been great leaders of today were shot down in their youth. The generation older than mine lived too long in a period of apparent tranquillity and stability. You, on the other hand, will have known that the world is difficult and uncertain for many years before you enter the struggle.

"I believe that you, together with your immediate predecessors who are now leaving college, can face many of our problems with more courage and more realism than most of the older men of today. At the moment the problem which confronts the country appears to be that of reconciling an awakened social conscience with our older ideal of the liberty of the individual.

Depends on Ideals of Youth.

"I do not imagine that a solution can be arrived at in any short time. I feel sure that the way the problem is solved and the value of the ultimate solution will depend largely on the ideals of you young men and your ability to think clearly and without too much emotion.

"Even in time of war nothing is gained by calling your enemy names, although it may relieve the tension of your nerves. There is a great danger that at times of crisis like the present we shall disappear under a welter of words used in a perfectly meaningless manner: Psychology, integration, relativity, complexes, vitamins, service—you have all heard them. Certainly they appeal to the ignorant, but the really educated should be proof against them."

Twin Daughters of Ira Yale Sage III. Go Into Movies

THE 20 year old twin daughters of Ira Yale Sage III. of Atlanta, Ga., great grandnieces of Eli Yale, founder of Yale university, are in Hollywood and will be in the movies soon. Margot got there first and was given a part in the chorus of a musical production. She wrote home such glamorous details that her twin sister, Mary, left immediately for Hollywood and expects to be working in films in the near future.

CLEVER YOUNG FOLKS IN "FOLLIES"

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

June Knight has helped out as a pinch hit hostess for drop-in guests on Sunday afternoons for Paul Ames at his beachhouse at Santa Monica on several occasions with a sandwich of toasted bread on which is placed a thin slice of broiled ham, a slice of cheese, strips of green pepper and of bacon and a slice of tomato. It is then run under the broiler, and is it elegant!

One of Hollywood's high spots is going over to Gen. Lodijensky's Russian Eagle and having your fortune told by Mme. Gul Bahar, a former member of the sultan's harem. This scheherazade now has graying hair worn smartly bobbed and finger waved and a slender figure—not at all like what one expects of a harem lady—as she is presented by movie comedy directors.

May Robson says that back in the dear, dead days when she was a star under the Frohman banner, she starred in one of the first motion pictures ever made. The pictures are copied for her and made into a little booklet on which you twirled a contrivance with the thumb which showed the "motion picture."

Hollywood

By Sidney Skolsky.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—There are numerous interesting characters among the fleet of extras who earn their $7.50 a day, sometimes $15 a day—when they are called.

To many of these extras the picture business is just a job. There is no glamor in it. They never expect to have stories written about them in the fan magazines; they never expect to be stars. They know that such an ambition is futile. They're content just to keep working.

GRACE MOORE.

And extras resort to many tricks to keep working. Toward the end of a day's work one may forget his line—if he has one to deliver—or he may put on the wrong costume so that the delay will mean postponing the shooting of that sequence until tomorrow. Recently on a set the noise of a cricket was heard. The sound track picked it up every time the scene was played. The cricket was in the pocket of an extra who wanted another day's work out of the job.

Many work on other jobs while doing extra work. They will try to interest the stars, feature players, and directors in a certain clothing store, or in buying a set of books. They are working on commission for these other enterprises. Another favorite job is peddling Christmas cards, this being one of the most profitable. And some extras have been known to deliver subpenas.

"One Night of Love" is the wonder picture of the season and the behind the scenes making of that flicker is almost as wonderful as the picture itself. Harry Cohn, in one of his big moments, had signed Grace Moore to a contract, but months went by and nothing was done with Miss Moore, and it looked as if it were a blunder to have signed Grace Moore, who was acknowledged to be washed up in pictures.

Every picture is assigned to a certain supervisor—and every supervisor at Columbia ducked the proposed Grace Moore flicker. But some one had to do it sooner or later, and Supervisor Everett Riskin, who had no big hits to his credit, read a story which stood a chance—but needed plenty of work. He decided to take a chance. It was not to be an expensive picture, and it was to be shot in a hurry. The picture took less than five weeks of actual shooting time. At another major studio this type of musical picture would have required almost three months. Grace Moore received about $25,000 for her work in "One Night of Love"—which was very inexpensive.

Miss Moore was temperamental at first—for she was actually afraid. She knew what Hollywood thought of her in flickers, and she had had two previous experiences, both failures. Miss Moore objected to her wig maker, she objected to the makeup man, she didn't want the cameraman, Joseph Walker, who had been assigned to the picture. Miss Moore knew she was working at a small studio and didn't believe these people were big enough. She also believed she could make demands. Cameraman Walker happens to be one of the best in the business. He always works with Director Frank Capra. Later Miss Moore realized Walker's ability, for she was never photographed more beautifully.

The picture was filmed practically in continuity. This means that the scenes were filmed almost in the order in which you see them on the screen. This is not generally so. Often the opening scene of a picture will be shot last. The reason why "One Night in Love" was shot in continuity is that the script was being written as the picture was being made, and Director Victor Schertzinger couldn't jump about, but had to shoot a scene as the writers handed it to him.

This is generally bad, yet it was a fortunate thing for "One Night of Love," and was one of the biggest contributing factors toward its success. For during the first week of shooting Grace Moore was nervous, and her acting and especially her singing were not as good as in the latter weeks of shooting, when she gained confidence. Yet during the first week of shooting the story called for Grace Moore to be a pupil—she was not supposed to sing her best then.

Concerning Grace Moore's next picture: They are still undecided whether she should try to repeat by singing arias from operas or if an original score should be written for her.

William Dieterle, the director, can't work when there are visitors on the set. If he sees a person standing about he tells his assistant director to have the person leave. Dieterle had just started work on his new flicker, "Concealment." He noticed a person on the set and he shouted to the assistant director, "Get that man off the set." Director Dieterle was about to start when he noticed another person standing about and he shouted, "Get that man off the set." The assistant director answered, "I will if you want me to, but that's your cameraman."

TRIO OF CABARET TAP DANCERS

GrafAdvocates New Technique in Grand Opera

ULTRA-MODERN opinions on the staging of opera were expressed recently by Dr. Herbert Graf of Vienna, director of stage activities for the Philadelphia Orchestra association's operatic series.

Dr. Graf believes in eliminating the stuffy grandeur which has put the "grand" in opera and limited the mood of presentations of that sort.

"The opera setting must take on new life," said the director. "It must create a background suggestive of the feeling of the music. It must develop, above all things, a stage mood as well as a lyric mood. It can do this by adapting to its own ends the art of motion picture setting."

Dr. Graf recommends that prima donnas employ more action in the rendition of their arias, eradicating the standard "pose" so characteristic of divas. The action must change swiftly, from one part of the stage to another, and be action more commensurate with the normal circumstances of daily life. Dr. Graf would also use lighting effects to assist the progress of the action.

Although brought up in the older traditions of opera, the Viennese director created his own departure in settings. Several years ago, at the Royal Opera of Dresden, Dr. Graf omitted the swan from a production of "Lohengrin" and caused a stir among critics.

West Side Drama

THE Chicago première of "American Dream," by George O'Neil, will be given by the players of the Jewish People's institute on three nights, Oct. 20, 21, and 22, at the playhouse, 3500 Douglas boulevard.

The institute players are under the direction of Lawrence Paquin, who has succeeded Charles K. Freeman. He is well known in little theater and university circles and has taught speech, playwriting, directed plays, and headed departments at Carnegie, Dartmouth, Miami, and Drake universities, and also with the Goodman theater.

Urban Room Has New Band; Cabaret Shows

HENRY KING, an orchestra leader from New York, is making his Chicago debut in the Joseph Urban room at the Congress hotel. He omits the brass instruments from his dance arrangements and secures his effects with the strings, woodwinds, and piano. His band has been popular in high class night life rendezvous in New York and Palm Beach.

● Clyde Lucas and his California Dons orchestra are now installed in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. His fourteen musicians use sixty-five instruments in the course of an evening's program. The Lucas music is heard from 8 p. m. to 2 a. m. James Kosnak conducts a concert orchestra during the dinner period.

● The Empire room of the Palmer house will offer a new program Thursday, Oct. 25, with Ted Weems as the resident band leader. Eight of the original Merriel Abbott dancing girls have returned to the show after eight months in European cafés.

● George Olsen, band leader, and Ethel Shutta, prima donna, stars of the current entertainment in the College inn, have the following auxiliaries on their program: Frieda Sullivan, dancing and singing soubrette; Peppino and Rhoda, ballroom dancers; Bobby Borger, Jack Gifford, Dick Gardner, and Lynn Cole, singers. Miss Shutta's repertory of songs includes a number from the recent New York success, "Life Begins at 8:40," called "You're a Builder Upper."

● Helen Dell, younger sister of the late Dorothy Dell, a motion picture actress recently killed in an automobile accident, is a new member of the ballet at Chez Paree. The Stanley Twins offer an unusual dancing specialty, and the tap dancing trio of Betty Jane Cooper and the Lathrop Brothers is a feature of the show, which has Borrah Minnevitch as its musical star.

● Carlos Molina's band, now in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel, now has Lee Harlan as bass violinist and baritone soloist. Don Harris, singer; Frances Willer, dancer, and Wes Adams and Lisa, ballroom dancers, are also among the entertainers. Nacho Ruffino, formerly of the Mexican Opera company of Los Angeles, sings on the midnight bill and also appears occasionally in the casts of the San Carlo Opera company at the Auditorium theater.

● The Planet Mars, night club in the Wilson avenue district, has Dave Malcolm as master of ceremonies, and Lew Pearl's dance orchestra.

● Colosimo's, night life focus for many years, has a floor show which contains Wally Vernon as master of ceremonies; the California Trio, Peggy Wray and Bobby Jean Garth, Marvin and Evelyn, and Zorine, a health cultist. Bon Tinsley's orchestra plays for the dancing. . . . Another south side café bidding for attention is Harry Feuer's Piccadilly Pub, which features an oyster bar.

● The ballroom of Riverview Park is now being remodeled and redecorated for use as a roller skating rink. Oct. 26 will be the opening date.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, père, thinks he'd like to make a Chinese picture. . . . BEN LYON, who hasn't been working much lately, will play the lead in "His Flag and Ours" for Columbia. . . . FRANK MORGAN'S been given the leading male rôle in "Naughty Marietta," screenized from the Victor Herbert operetta. . . . DIANA WYNYARD is back on the English stage in "Sweet Aloes," a play in three acts. . . . Says a note from Fox: "THE HIGHEST SALARIED STARS in Hollywood are seven new born babes being used in our 'The White Parade.' According to the law the babies are allowed to appear before the cameras only twenty minutes a day. Their salary for the week is $75 per appearance, or $1,800 for an eight hour day, or, according to the NRA, forty hours a week. Pro rata—$9,000." I guess that's something to write down in their baby books!

From the Film Daily: "AMERICAN MOVIES IN CHINA have popularized jazz and dancing, and dancing has done away with foot binding, a custom against which missionaries have preached in vain for more than half a century, according to Julian Arnold, commercial attaché of the commerce department in Shanghai, now here on a visit. About 80 per cent of the films shown in China are American, said Arnold."

You haven't forgotten "BABY PEGGY" Montgomery, have you? Peggy's a big girl now and will be seen again in "The Good Fairy," featuring MARGARET SULLAVAN. . . . Three times in one week KATHARINE HEPBURN has been honored—each time from overseas: Hugh Walpole has selected her as one of the ten most interesting personalities on the globe. Sir James M. Barrie has called her the ideal selection for the starring rôle in his "The Little Minister," now in production at the RKO radio studios. And at the International exposition held in Venice, Italy, she was awarded a gold medal as the actress giving the supreme dramatic performance on the screen. This was for her work in RKO radio's "Little Women."

Symphony to Begin Season Next Thursday

Series of Winter Concerts Will Be 44th for Orchestra, 30th for Stock.

By Edward Moore.

ON NEXT Thursday night promptly at 8:15 o'clock Frederick Stock, wise, resourceful, an incomparably fine musician, will walk out on the stage of Orchestra hall to begin his thirtieth season as conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the forty-fourth since the orchestra was founded by Theodore Thomas.

From then and for the next six months there will be a lot of activity in Orchestra hall. Twenty-eight Thursday night concerts, the same number of Friday afternoon concerts with identical programs, twelve Tuesday afternoon concerts on the second and fourth weeks of each month—except for Christmas week, when the concert will be given on Wednesday—six young people's concerts on the third Wednesdays of the month, and fourteen Saturday night popular programs, the first this week, will make up Orchestra hall's share of the season. In addition there will be the Monday night series in Milwaukee and a few other concerts out of town, so that time may not rest too heavily on the hands of conductors and players.

Apollo Musical Club to Assist in Bach Concerts.

A considerable group of visiting artists will help to diversify the programs this year. Among them will be eight solo pianists, five violinists, two cellists, and two guest conductors. Then, since this year is to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach, there will be special performances of two of his great masterpieces, the Mass in B minor and the St. Matthew Passion. Here there will be assistance by the Apollo Musical club and eight vocal soloists, four for each. The Mass will be presented three times, the Passion twice.

As the years go on the personnel of the orchestra changes, but only slowly and gradually. This year there will be five newcomers in the ranks. Three are graduates from the Civic orchestra, where they have been under the instruction of Eric DeLamarter, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony. They are Harold Kupper and Joseph L. Kovas, violinists, and Harold Brown, bass. A fourth, Milton Treves, viola, is a member of the Mischakoff String quartet, and a fifth, William Williams, cellist, comes from the Evanston Symphony orchestra.

"Perpetuum Mobile" to Be Heard for First Time Here.

It is the custom in these concerts to present no soloist until the season is several weeks old, consequently the first three programs of the season, as arranged by Mr. Stock, contain nothing but orchestral music. The Bach anniversary starts promptly on Thursday night with the composer's Third Suite, that set in the key of D with overture, air, two gavottes, bourrée, and gigue. This will be followed by Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, and the two comprise the first half of the program.

The second part will take up Enesco's First Roumanian Rhapsody and a number that would seem to be new in these surroundings. It is Paganini's "Perpetuum Mobile," orchestrated by Mr. Stock and arranged so that it is played by all the violins of the orchestra. The final number will be the suite from Stravinsky's "The Fire Bird."

In the popular program Saturday night the Paganini number will be repeated, but there will also be Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor" overture, Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, one of the Grieg Lyric Suites, and Johann Strauss' waltz, "The Bat."

Mary Boland of the Films Has Own Beautiful Library

WHEN does a busy Kleig actress find time to read? A new "still" of Mary Boland shows her seated comfortably in her beautifully equipped library, shelves reaching from floor to ceiling, the light pouring in from long, French windows. Yep, Mary has a book, all right. And she's reading it.

San Carlo Adds New Voices and More Operas

GOING into the last week of what has been a highly popular and populous season in the Auditorium, Fortune Gallo sends word that the San Carlo Opera company is including three new operas, a new baritone, a new soprano, and a special staging of a new ballet among its final attractions.

The baritone is Sol Heller, who has been prominent in numerous musical affairs of the city. He is the cantor and principal singer of Sinai temple and Washington boulevard temple, and he will appear as the king in "Aïda" Tuesday night.

The soprano is Norma Richter. She comes from Cincinnati, though her operatic activities of the last four years have taken her from Switzerland to Buenos Aires. She is an old friend of Aroldo Lindi, whom she met in Turin when both were singing leading rôles in "Otello." She has just finished a tour of the south in a Wagnerian festival opera company. Her appearance will take place Thursday night in "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Author of Libretto Will Have Principal Role.

The ballet is Eleanor Everest Freer's "Vasilissa," a dance fantasy telling a story of adventure in the camp of the Don Cossacks during the reign of Ivan the Terrible in the sixteenth century. Olga Valentine, author of the libretto, will appear in the principal rôle. It will be presented Saturday afternoon with "Martha," one of the operatic additions to the répertoire. The other two are "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "Otello."

Incidentally, while considering the appearances of Mr. Gallo's eager band of singers, one might include a thought of Mario Valle, how frequently he sings and how well he does it. Being a baritone, he is only infrequently the hero of the opera, that position being generally reserved for the tenor, but consider his achievements. In the first week he sang the leading baritone rôles of "Faust," "La Boheme," and "Mme. Butterfly," in the second week he made it four with "Samson and Delilah," "Romeo and Juliet," "La Traviata," and "Faust," and on this, the last week, he will do "Rigoletto," "Otello," "Martha," and the final gala bill a week from tonight.

Valle Sang with Caruso and Galli-Curci.

These are ordinary assignments for him, and he keeps them up for from thirty-five to forty-two weeks a year. They say that he was booked to come to Chicago in 1916 to appear in Mascagni's "Isabeau," but before the season he had words with Cleofonte Campanini, then general director of the company. So he went to South America instead and sang with Caruso. He was also with Amelita Galli-Curci in Central America before her American debut, and sang for several seasons at Covent Garden, London.

The week's schedule of the San Carlo company follows:

Tonight—"Lohengrin," with Bianca Saroya, Dreda Aves, Dimitri Onofrei, Chief Caupolican, and Stefan Kozakevich.

Monday—"Rigoletto," with Rosalinda Morini, Edward Molitore, Mario Valle, Leon Rothier.

Saturday afternoon — "Martha," with Morini, Molitore, Valle, and the ballet, "Vasilissa."

Saturday night—"Carmen," with Ina Bourskaya, Simons, Onofrei, Caupolican.

Carlo Peroni will conduct all performances except the ballet, which will be conducted by Karl Schulte.

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

Ruth Page sends word of the Chicago Opera Ballet school, of which she is director, conducted to prepare dancers for the Chicago Grand Opera ballet and for modern dance technique. Among the regular instructors are Bentley Stone, Edward Caton, Mark Turbyfill, and others, and there will be such guest instructors as Harold Kreutzberg and Martha Graham. The school will be held in the rehearsal room at 20 North Wacker drive. Classes will begin Monday afternoon, Oct. 22, at 4:30 o'clock. Miss Ardath Janes, Dearborn Manor, 1447 North Dearborn street, will answer communications regarding the school.

Dr. Clarence Dickinson, formerly of Chicago and now the organist and director of music at Brick Presbyterian church, New York, is to be the guest of Dr. Leo Sowerby at the first of a series of anniversary musical programs in St. James' church this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Dr. Dickinson, who is one of the former organists of the church, will speak at the festival evensong, to be participated in by the choirs of St. Mark's church, Evanston; Church of the Redeemer, Hyde Park; St. Bartholomew's Englewood, and Trinity church.

H. Leopold Spitalny, for many years conductor of the Chicago theater orchestra, is now again at that theater as guest conductor for a period of two weeks. His first overture, called "Spanish Episodes," gives a symphonic tracing of the Spanish flair that has crept into popular music beginning with "Valencia."

SEE ALL THE FAT I'VE LOST IN 2 MONTHS!

You Eat 3 Big Meals a Day Yet Grow Thin Fast—By This Easy Method I Want You to Try

Costs only 2¢ a Day to Lose a Pound a Day

Thanks to new scientific discoveries, a fat person can now lose a pound a day . . . yet eat even more than now.

All you do is take a teaspoonful of the new Condensed JAD Salts in a glass of water before breakfast, and make two small changes in eating, as explained in the Condensed JAD folder you get. The first day you lose 3 to 5 pounds moisture weight alone! The system is cleared of depleting poisons. Fat melts away, your youthful allure returns, yet you need never know a hungry moment.

Ask for the new economical Condensed JAD Salts at any drug store—and begin this quick method of reducing tomorrow. The Condensed JAD Salts, remember, is urged as a poison-banishing agent and to banish unhealthy bloating . . . and not as a reducing one.

Free Leaflets on Six Best Movies

By Mae Tinee.

YOU'VE not forgotten?

That I've got a leaflet for you!

Copies of the review on "September's Six Best Photoplays" with comment on same and list of honorable mention pictures and best performances therein!

The first of each month we'll have these leaflets for you giving résumés of banner films of the month before. So that, if you want to know what's what at your neighborhood theater, you can look at your list and find out.

Like the idea?

These leaflets are free at Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress. Or send a stamped, addressed envelope to Mae Tinée, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The Voice of the Movie Fan

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Some Pros and Cons of Movie Decency Are Aired.

Dear Mae Tinée: I thought I would write you a few lines in regard to the Legion of Decency.

There were 20 pictures that were listed in the bulletin as indecent. Out of that twenty was that picture entitled "Fog Over Frisco." I am telling you, Mae, that there was no part in the entire production that hinted a thought of indecency or anything suggestive at all.

I will say that I saw "Vanities of 1934," featuring Rudy Vallee. Where were the censors when that picture was released?

My sweetheart and I saw that picture and we were disgusted. The dialog in some musical parts was actually vulgar.

Well, Mae, I feel somewhat relieved after getting that off my chest.

Hoping my version will be in print in your column some Sunday.

Sincerely, WALLACE BATCHELOR.

Orchids Are in Order for Mr. Spencer Tracy.

Voice of the Movie Fan: Being an ardent movie fan, there are few pictures that I miss. I enjoy the acting of practically all of the present day stars, as I feel they all give good portrayals in the parts in which they are cast—thus I haven't many "likes" or "dislikes."

But—— There is one male actor who, during the comparatively short time he has been in movies, has impressed me as being a "natural"—good natured, happy-go-lucky Spencer Tracy. He doesn't act his parts; he lives them. He is attractive in purely he-man fashion and, what is more important, has that indescribable something called sex appeal.

If my "voice" can be heard by you, Fair Movie Critic, I hope that the kind readers will join me in sending an orchid to Spencer as a token for his enjoyable pictures.

ETHEL GENSON.

Editor's note: Orchids it is!

Fan Registers Complaint About Some Movie "Shorts."

Dear Miss Tinée: Why, with the picture industry so advanced and the feature films so superbly done, are the "shorts" [id est, the short comedies] so vilely produced and in such execrable taste?

TOMASO ANTONIO SNYDER.

Society Saying Good-by to Fair at Gay Parties

Many Fond Farewells Voiced at Dunne's Formal Dinner in the Hall of States.

By COUSIN EVE.

ONE by one World's Fair farewells are coming along, and the last celebrities are brightening our corner.

Going forever is our gay, amusing playground, its splashing, sparkling fountains, the infinite color and dazzling beauty of its night lights. At Commissioner Dunne's formal dinner in the Hall of States, the speakers all in sorrowful monotone spoke to the text that it was sad indeed utterly to destroy what had been so brilliant, joyous, cheerful, and utterly charming.

The next notable farewell is set for Oct. 27 when Admiral and Mrs. Wat T. Cluverius entertain at luncheon in the Trustees' lounge, with other charming navy people of the Ninth district. A belated visitor of distinction is Mrs. Breckenridge Long, wife of our present ambassador to Italy. Mrs. Long is a southerner. She is for that reason on the board of Strathmore, the old Lee mansion in Virginia. Its governors meet annually and confer for a week, living in the grand venerable mansion and making its halls ring with lively committee meetings and southern dialect. After this ritual Mrs. Long proposes to arrive in Chicago and see what is left of the Fair. She has friends here, and relatives, and there will be several who will rush to entertain for the ambassadress, mistress of celebrated Villa Taverna in Rome, one of the show places of the Italian capital.

The best way really to entertain for Mrs. Long is with a game of contract, at which she is an extra special player and which she would

By JUDITH CASS.

BY this time next week "Little Lady, What Next?" will be a matter of history, for next Saturday night in the great Civic theater the Service club is giving its annual benefit revue. All of society will be there to watch the debutantes dance in the chorus that used to be called "the billion dollar chorus" in those days when millionaires were more numerous than they are today. But the girls weren't any prettier or slimmer then than now, even though their daddies' bank accounts were fatter in those days. Miss Thelma Jensen, one of last season's buds, is to have the leading rôle of Joan, and every one who remembers this tall, dark beauty's lovely singing voice from last year's Service club production is looking forward to her appearance this year. The proceeds of the revue will be used by the club, of which Mrs. John Dern is president, to fill out its charity budget.

Another notable event of the season is taking place this week, too—the opening concert of the season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Thursday night those socialites who regularly listen to the symphony on Thursday nights will go to Orchestra hall for the first concert of the forty-fourth consecutive season of this orchestra which contributes so much to the cultural life of Chicago. The weekly Friday afternoon concerts are among the important social affairs of each week during the twenty-eight weeks of the season and the fortnightly Tuesday afternoon concerts are popular with the younger women who lead such busy lives that twice a month is as often as they can go to the symphony.

Several men and women have boxes for both the Thursday night and Friday afternoon concerts. Among these are Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, Harold McCormick, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. Walter A. Strong, Ivor N. Lawson, Mrs. John A. Spoor, the Ernest R. Grahams, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, the Potter Palmers, and Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin.

rather play than eat. So she says.

Another ambassadress, one in her own right, was Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, American minister to Denmark, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, "the Great Commoner," who lunched at the Fair with Rufus Dawes and a large company. She later dined handsomely at an enormous dinner at the Union League club and returned from a nearby lecture to lunch with Mrs. Reimund Baumann, wife of the Danish consul, on Monday.

I was a little surprised a year ago to hear Miss Frances Perkins, a member of the President's cabinet, a paid lecturer on a public platform, and was equally so to find a United States diplomatic envoy in the same position. However, it goes along with the saying that diplomacy in its old sense will soon be obsolete, and governments will be sending flocks of business men [and women] to out-maneuver their international confrères. George Kegg, agreeable chairman of this banquet, undoubtedly remembered the old advice to toastmasters, "Stand up, speak up, shut up," for after a few spontaneous words of admiration and introduction, he launched an old satirical definition of an ambassador, "A man sent abroad to tell lies for his country," and sat down. Mrs. Owen made a stunning picture. Extremely tall, her plain black crêpe evening dress had a little cape edged with white fox. Her coif of silver hair was beautifully bobbed—her blue eyes, large, luminous.

Mrs. Owen has an engaging way of speaking. She held forth for ninety minutes. Denmark she called "a friendly democracy." Her job, she said, for awhile seemed mostly to answer the hundreds of letters of American school children whose teachers encourage them to write to our embassies to educate them in geography. Then there are stamp collectors who write for stamps.

Hopes to Go to Greenland When She Dies.

I was sorry etiquet kept Mrs. Owen from discussing the social and court side of her life in Copenhagen. But with much spirit she referred to her book on caravaning in Denmark with her children, written years ago, and to the charms of that country's rural life, beautiful farms, snow white pigs, handsome cows. Soon, though, she had her attentive audience transported over to Greenland and we were wabbling up and down in a dark green sea full of huge icebergs, inspecting the waterfront of a land large as the United States from Canada to Mexico. This land is made of ice 1,000 feet deep and faced ruggedly with mountains. The speaker hopes to go there instead of Paris when she dies; called it the home of her soul and spoke a delightful poem of her own making about it.

As for me, Mrs. Owen can have all of my share in Greenland, now or hereafter. Menu of reindeer, seal, and whale blubber does not appeal to me.

In the same handsome room of the Union League club, with a blue painted Florentine ceiling, I had lunched earlier in the week with the Council of Foreign Relations in honor of James Warburg. I inadvertently called this handsome Harvard graduate and famous economist an "international banker." Whereupon a distinguished Britisher nearby warned me that the term was communistic. So! The rush of important people to hear Mr. Warburg was riotous. Walter Lichtenstein beamed as he announced 1,400 members of the council and his modest wish for 400 more to make the club self-supporting. Warburg, like Mrs. Owen, immediately advertised his own books. Why not, it was a good chance? His topic was, "America Has Not Yet Chosen," and he pointed out our lack of a foreign policy. He was of the American delegation to the London economic conference in 1933. On the whole he spoke without conceit and with a manly, young voice. For the economist's standpoint, we must either have foreign trade or national self-sufficiency. This latter phase means regimentation, and sows seeds of revolution.

Starving People Make Nations Start Wars.

Nations start wars to take the minds of their starving peoples off their wrongs and to fix them on the common enemy. Foreign trade revived would lead to a more contented, happy world. Washington, he said, wants to increase exports, but not imports. But this can't be done.

Loans can only be repaid by countries which sell more than they buy. The present government crop control, Mr. Warburg said, was obviously stimulating foreign agriculture and meant a certain permanent loss to us of agricultural markets. Nothing in foreign policy comes from the White House that looks like anything but opportunist policy. This hit or miss procedure leaves industrial interests unable to guess the future.

Roosevelt will have many votes. People are yet unable to see that the hand that lavishly feeds them is emptying the treasury and soon will be the iron hand of despotism. "There is still a choice," said Mr. Warburg solemnly, "between freedom and enslavement." Americans will "fight" for liberty at the drop of the hat. But they have to be driven to "vote" for it. This country will be under dictatorship unless people vote.

Sir Alfred Beit, a blond Britisher in gray tweeds and blue linen, sought to entrap Mr. Warburg with questions, as did Bernadotte Schmidt and several others. But the rapier mind of the economist gave them all the worst of it.

Chicago audiences have taken to rising to greet any and all speakers. They also rise en masse when the speech is over. This used to be done only for Presidents of the United States and world heroes, visiting kings and potentates. But now we all rise like children at school. Collectivist, as it were.

Car and Hat of Robert Hall McCormick Startle.

Saturday and Sunday were charming days. On Sunday there were luncheons widely scattered. Mrs. George McLaughlin had twenty guests at Shore Acres in honor of Mrs. Amory Perkins, who used to live here, in the good old days, and belonged to the hunting set.

The trees were dyed ruddy browns and reds, the lake was hazy, the air had a special tang. Emil Wetten, recovered from a long illness, had a gala thanksgiving luncheon on his farm out Barrington way. Not a thing on the luxurious menu, but food grown on the farm, flowers and fruits from the gardens.

At the Saddle and Cycle, Robert Hall McCormick, recently home from Bar Harbor, lunched a dozen friends. He left during the week for a fortnight in Boston, which may be prolonged into a trip to Venice, where he keeps a boat, the San Marco.

Mr. McCormick has his opera box and theater subscriptions as usual and expects to be here for the season—at the old stand—which is the top floor apartment of one of his downtown properties. After this luncheon I had a first glimpse of Robbie Hall's new open car, which I heard was the smartest looking automobile at Bar Harbor this summer. Of a dark blue gray with lots of nickel and two men in gray liveries, it has a certain something.

Germans Raise "Hochs" for Dr. Simon.

The liveliest of the week's large dinners was given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Hugo Simon, in the ballroom of the Belden-Stratford. The prominent German-Americans of Chicago saw to it that Dr. Simon should be reëngaged at Northwestern university to lecture on political science. There was a large reception committee, Mrs. W. A. Wieboldt, Mrs. Emil Eitel, Mrs. Kreutzen, Mrs. Seipp, and others, and I met also President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Rudolf Reuter, who went to the piano and played gorgeously after dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Redheffer, and fifty more were members of this committee. There were toasts, songs, and "hochs" galore. A dancing interlude by Miss Thielman, one of Mary Wigman's pupils; speeches by the Hon. Theodore Brentano, Dr. Scott, Mrs. Simon in pale blue dinner frock, radiant.

Something new under the sun! St. Chrysostom's church has taken Nov. 22 for a most divine sort of Christmas bazar, where absolutely nothing will be bought or sold. The bazar will be called "Christmas Windows" and forty or more shops will exhibit their holiday wares behind some really charming windows designed by Eleanor Holden. For this select and exclusive space they pay Mrs. Harold Eldridge and her large committee sums sufficient to carry on church charities. Tea will be served and the lovely Doris Winterbotham [Mrs. John R. Jr.] carries on with a smart playlet in the theater under the same roof. That evening a turkey supper will be served, which all the world knows will be as amusing and highly fashionable as always, with waitresses commandeered from our debutante crop, fall of 1934.

The Arts club opened its doors for the winter with a particularly nice tea last week. There were no "celebs," no pictures to see, no reception committee, and but few officers. Among them Mrs. Jacob Baur, Miss Alice Rouillier, and Arthur Heun, just home from Scotland where oatmeal and Scotch highland air had done wonders for him. He had a wonderful line of persiflage. Dr. Jaeger, the new German consul general, a bachelor, was present for the first time. An agreeable, slender man, he speaks excellent English and is fond of society. I imagined he might be misanthropic from never seeing him in public. But a period of mourning kept him zu haus, he said. Nancy Cox McCormack, handsome sculptress, here from New York, was there, also Mrs. Charles Hamill, Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee, Mrs. Paul Petersen, Mrs. George Rasmussen, who spent half the summer in Denmark; Miss Emily Larned, Elle Edson. Mrs. Petersen has an interesting guest at Windy Pines, Glenview. The well known novelist, Elia W. Peattie, is here from North Carolina.

COLLEGE FRESHMAN

Nancy, sub-deb daughter of the Ralph H. Pooles, is at Sarah Lawrence for her first year in college this winter. Next year she will be a Chicago debutante.

N. Y. Deb's Life Now Revolves About Tuxedo

Buds in a Fever of Preparation for Most Exclusive Event of Season.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Just two weeks to Oct. 27 and the autumn ball at Tuxedo!

The debutantes are in a feverish state at present, leaping all over town, being photographed and frocked, hatted and gloved, but one and all have an eye on that Saturday two weeks hence, and the most famous of annual dances.

What makes the autumn ball so important is a combination of things. In itself, it started as a pretty little gesture on the part of the elders toward the young ones of the community. Then, as Tuxedo Park remained frightfully exclusive, while all the other places of social residence began to let down the bars, the ball began to take on a significance to people outside the colony. Today, even including the Bachelor's in Baltimore, I do not believe there is a more important debutante affair in these United States.

Even Newport Plebeian Beside Tuxedo.

Tuxedo Park is the last stronghold of society. Newport is plebeian in comparison. Some half a century ago Pierre Lorillard started Tuxedo as a sort of combination club and game preserve for his friends. From that time to the present, the 5,000 acre tract in the Ramapos has become a self-contained community in which only the full approval of the governors of the park will permit one to hold real estate or even rent a house. Money alone, no matter how much, will not help an iota.

The autumn ball has become a tradition—and one which holds that any debutante from town must be invited in order to be certain of her position among the prominent buds of the winter. It is quite as important for a New York girl to receive a bid to Tuxedo as for her to be accepted as a provisional member of the Junior league. In fact, she might survive not being elected to the J. L., but she couldn't possibly face being ignored by the Tuxedo ball committee.

The elders of Tuxedo, however, are a progressive lot. They keep an eye on the world and an ear to the ground. They believe that since their dance is given for the young people. There should be persons in charge who are in sympathy with them. Thus, this year the chairman of the ball is pretty and youthful Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, and her assistants are Mrs. Russell E. Sard, Mrs. William Stackpole, Mrs. George U. Harris, Mrs. George Henry Warren Jr., and Mrs. Charles Frederick Frothingham.

Only Two Local Debs Will Be Present.

Tuxedo itself will have only two debutantes present, one being Mrs. Sard's daughter, Emily Davie, and the other Mrs. Stackpole's daughter, Susan M. Stackpole. There will be a tea for Emily the afternoon before the ball and a tea and buffet supper for Susan the day after the ball.

Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford will not give her annual dinner for the debs and deb men this year owing to her being in mourning. However, the roster of pre-ball dinners will include those given by Mrs. George B. St. George, Mrs. H. Pendleton Rogers, and Mrs. George H. Amory.

I am much interested in the way Kay Hamilton and her associates are trying to fit in tradition with the customs of the modern young folk. Annual balls dating back have always used dance cards, but the young people since the war have put a veto on card dances and insisted on cutting in. The amiable committee has got out of this by arranging to have card dances for the first part of the evening and regular cut-in dancing during the latter part.

Boys Suggest Brief Dances a la "Taxi" Hall.

Frankly, I think the cut-in dance is going out of fashion. While no stag cares at all to be claimed for a full dance of the old sort, there is a growing tendency toward dignity, which would call for cards, but with a greater number of dances than in the old days and, of course, of much shorter duration. In fact, the lads who, believe it or not, are quite acquainted with the taxi dance hall of Broadway, have been saying that the short dance of two or three minutes' duration would be swell. It would give every girl all the partners she wants and give the "unemployed" stags a chance to gather breath and a new line. It would help the wallflowers as well and cut down the number of bruised spirits raised by every dance, where a few girls are followed by clouds of stags and the rest have to depend on their own two or three cavaliers and feel perfectly foul because of it.

As a matter of fact, since the lads have gone in for full kit and dignity of an evening, they are beginning to take themselves and the traditions of society seriously. I think card dances will be popular again before many a moon has passed.

DEBUTANTE THIS SEASON

Miss Harriett Street is the youngest of Mrs. Harry L. Street's four daughters. She will make her debut this winter at a tea given during the Christmas holidays.

Clubs Planning for Tribune's 2d Conference

1935 Session on Current Problems to Be Held on February 26 and 27.

By Ruth De Young.

OF paramount interest this morning to women's organizations throughout the midwest is the announcement that the second annual Conference on Current Problems, under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 26 and 27, 1935, at the Palmer house. Selection of these dates follows several weeks of communication between club officials in Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa, and Illinois.

Repetition of the event staged last February at the same hotel was certain after the commendation bestowed on the program by executives of clubs throughout the middle west. At the first conference scientific, civic, and social welfare authorities contributed addresses on timely topics which, together, comprised one of the most outstanding series heard by an audience of clubwomen in years.

Presidents of Five State Federations Have Accepted.

Assurance that the 1935 gathering will be greeted with the same, if not increased, enthusiasm is given in the acceptance of invitations to be present by five presidents of state federations of women's clubs, four of whom attended the first conference. They include Mrs. William Franklin Farrell of Illinois, Mrs. Sears R. McLean of Michigan, Mrs. Robert Hicks of Indiana, Mrs. Eugene Henely of Iowa, and Mrs. F. H. Clausen of Wisconsin.

A few changes are to be made this time in the organization of the conference, including the issuing of tickets for each session. A registration booth will be an answer to the requests made by many out of town women last February.

All Clubwomen Are Invited to Attend the Conference.

All clubwomen interested in the progress and development of civilization in general, whether they are executives, department heads, committee chairmen, or merely active members of organizations, are invited by THE TRIBUNE to attend the conferences. There will be no attendance fees.

Details of the program, identities of the speakers, and their subjects will be announced later. These arrangements are in the hands of Kathleen McLaughlin, women's editor of THE TRIBUNE, who so ably handled last year's meetings, and Mrs. Martin Kent Northam, director of women's activities at the Palmer house.

"You and Your Child" Conference Is Success.

By their attendance parents and teachers have shown their appreciation, during the past week, of the conference, "You and Your Child," which the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education is sponsoring in coöperation with Carson, Pirie, Scott and company, in the ninth floor assembly room at the store. Strictly noncommercial and dealing with training for more successful living, the conference has been in session since last Monday and will continue through next Saturday.

The morning sessions, from 11 to 12 o'clock, are particularly filled with human interest, for they are devoted to practical demonstrations and lectures. Mothers bring their own materials and are shown how to cut and sew dresses for their daughters. Experts discuss the clothing of children of every age, and help in planning nutritious diets on low cost food budgets.

At noon the conference offers a luncheon for 65 cents, at which the guests hear practical as well as theoretical talks by eminent educators, psychologists, and authors. Of special interest will be the luncheon on Tuesday, for it will be an open forum conducted by Mrs. Davis G. McCarn, lecturer for the Child Study association. Miss Edna Dean Baker will preside, and Dr. John E. Anderson, child guidance expert of the University of Minnesota, Dr. Julius H. Hess, pediatrician, and Dr. George J. Mohn, psychiatrist of the University of Illinois, will be present to answer all questions that will have been dropped in the question box before the meeting.

Presented at the 2 o'clock lecture hour this week will be Dr. John E. Anderson, Hughes Mearns of New York university, and Katherine Kuh. Following the Friday lecture, to be given by Miss Kuh, there will be a tea for Chicago authors and illustrators of children's books, to which the public is invited.

Group of Mothers Formed Association in 1925.

It was back in 1925 that the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education, which now has Samuel T. Lawton for its chairman, was organized by a group of sincere young mothers seeking to round out their own lives as well as those of their children. The association sends speakers throughout the city to the many study groups it has assembled, maintains a loan library, offers lecture courses at its office in the Terminal building on Dearborn street, publishes educational pamphlets, and holds a yearly conference at which famous educators impart their findings on juvenile development. The government has recognized the worth of this type of education by appointing recently a state chairman of parent education with whom the association is closely coöperating and through whom it has obtained workers to lecture to underprivileged groups.

Mrs. James Thorne's Miniature Rooms Win Tiny Admirer

OVER 70,000 World's Fair visitors have stood fascinated before the marvelous little period rooms in Mrs. James Ward Thorne's Miniatures.

But Mrs. Margarita Weaver, one of the two hostesses, was hardly prepared for the enthusiasm of a tiny live creature, peering with round, bright eyes at everything from the protecting hand of its owner, a north shore suburbanite.

"My marmoset is crazy about tiny things," said the woman. And, sure enough, the little monkeylike animal gave squeal after squeal of delight as he was held up to see the exhibits. This odd pet has been brought not once but several times to the Miniatures, and each time he puts on the same performance. He was bought in South America some years ago.

Urbanity in Caracul
A spectacularly lovely version of Black Russian Caracul has come from the Blum Workroom. It is of fur so fine, so flat, so lissom that you think it must be Broadtail. The marking is like moonlight on a gently rippling stream. Are there seams? They are almost impossible to find. The coat is cut and tailored to fit as sleekly as a dress, and it does wonderful things for your figure. The long liquid lines are sheer swank. This is fur craftsmanship, and it will not go unnoticed. The price is $1150.

SERVICE CLUB TO GIVE ITS ANNUAL REVUE SATURDAY NIGHT

Twenty-five Debutantes in Cast of Fast Moving 'Little Lady, What Next?'

By Eleanor Page.

NEXT Saturday evening about twenty-five debutantes and as many more older members of the Service club will be singing "Got the Jitters" to themselves while they wait for their stage cue at the Civic theater in the Civic Opera building, where the Service club is presenting "Little Lady, What Next?" as its annual revue.

"It is really more of a musical revue with a plot," explained Mrs. John Dern, president of the club, "for the story depicts the troubles a debutante has after she has come out, when she must decide whether to marry a persistent beau or pursue a career." The engaging heroine, Joan, sung by Miss Thelma Jensen, who had a stellar part in last year's show, explains the situation when the curtain rises, and then she falls asleep and dreams the ensuing scenes. These skits and songs describe the careers she might follow: mechanics, business, athletics, music, stage, writing, college and opera. At the end of each scene, however, there is disillusionment and finally—yes! you have guessed it! she chooses the romantic career of marriage.

Miss Jensen is ably supported by a cast that includes several principals already dear to the hearts of Service club audiences, and some of the best choruses the club has had in the last few years. The principals include debutantes who sing together in the writing career scene: Miss Nancy Knode, Miss Muriel Picher, and Miss Marjorie Robinson. This scene is one of the most attractive. The high stepping Tiller chorus, dressed in red and black, steps out from a background of books eight feet high and goes into a tricky routine. At its conclusion Miss Jensen sings "You've Never Known Romance" [so you never can write].

During the music career scene there is first some fast stepping chorus work and then no less than four pianos are wheeled on the stage. Mrs. Theodore B. Bersbach [Elva Eitel], Miss Janet Bard, Miss Jane Redman, and Miss Jean Rollins are the musicians, and it doesn't seem possible that they could do anything to disillusion "Joan" on that career. The sad words, however, which Miss Betty Brawley sings in "Just a Salesgirl" while she packs a dress in a box, are heartrendingly discouraging to our heroine who decides that she would rather be on the buying than the selling end if it came to making a career of dressmaking.

Colorful Ballet Offers Esthetic Dance Numbers.

As a change from these witty skits there is a lovely ballet of the four seasons. Thirty-two girls dance on the stage at once in this number, and they are a riot of color. The autumn nymphs are clothed in orange, yellow, and rust crêpe; the summer girls in blue, green and red plaid; the spring Dianas in pink and green flowing chiffon, and the winter chorus in snowy white, of course.

The choruses are larger and more elaborate this year than last. They are featured in a mechanical man drill; in a business career number in which the stenographers wear stunning dresses of silvery gray slit up the front, with cellophane collars and cuffs; and in a football scene where the "eleven" should afford a good deal of amusement to at least half of the audience.

Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman Jr., who sings and dances; Miss Emily Goehst, comedy relief; Mrs. Richard M. Lamport [Julia Kramer] and Miss Mary ApMadoc, who sing solos, are others featured in the show next Saturday.

Lodge Women of Five States to Meet Here

Conference to Be Feature of Sessions of Order of Moose, Davis Speaking.

WOMEN of the Moose from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa will come to Chicago next week-end for the conference on chapter development which the Greater Chicago chapter, No. 129, Women of the Moose, is sponsoring Saturday and Sunday at the Moose club, 632 North Dearborn street.

The conference is to be one feature of the meeting of the Loyal Order of the Moose at which James J. Davis, United States senator from Pennsylvania, is to be the principal speaker. Senator Davis will also speak to the women's assembly. Another speaker before this group will be Dr. A. J. Carlson of the University of Chicago, a member of the advisory council of the Mooseheart laboratory for child research.

The Mooseheart Alumni association banquet Saturday evening at the Medinah club will be the principal social event of the two day session, according to Mrs. Margaret Johnson, senior regent of the Greater Chicago chapter.

Leagues of Women Voters Arrange Luncheon for Tomorrow.

With Mrs. Beatrice Pitney Lamb (in private life Mrs. Horace T. Lamb), a guest in Chicago, the Illinois and Cook County Leagues of Women Voters have arranged a luncheon for noon tomorrow at the league headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Lamb is chairman of the department of government and economic welfare of the National League of Women Voters.

The daughter of the late Mahlon Pitney, associate justice of the United States Supreme court, Mrs. Lamb has a remarkable grasp of international economic affairs. This is widely reflected in her authorship of eight important publications of the national league—on disarmament, war debts, the league of nations, World court, pan-American questions, and allied international topics.

Musicians' Club of Women Opens Season.

The Musicians' Club of Women is opening its fifty-ninth season tomorrow with a musical at 2:30 in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building. Among the numbers to be played by Eva Gordon Horadesky, with Esther Hirschberg at the piano, is John Alden Carpenter's "Berceuse de Guerre." Other artists will be Stella Roberts, accompanied by Pauline Peebles, and Else Harthan Arendt, accompanied by Stanley Seder. Miss Ebba Sundstrom, who is conductor of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, is president of the club this year, with Louise Hattstaedt Winter and Rosine Morris Bachrach, vice presidents.

The Native Daughters of Illinois will hold their first meeting of the fall at 12:30 on Tuesday at the Auditorium hotel. After luncheon, at which Mrs. Clarence G. Goodwin will be hostess, there will be a program of music and drama, presented by Miss Lucy Atkinson, soprano; Mrs. Loula J. Samson, dramatic reader, and Mrs. Charles Severinghaus, who will sing in costume folk songs of many lands.

Simple Tale Gets Most Acclaim in Fashionable School

BEFORE a group of interested teachers and mothers gathered in the auditorium of a near north side fashionable school for girls several youngsters were taking turns reading little essays on their summer vacations.

One child, born with a platinum spoon in her mouth, told of a jaunt to China and the orient. Another recounted adventures on the Riviera, and a third gave incidents from a yachting cruise. Last came a simple, unpretentious little girl who read a paper about a flock of motherless chicks on an Indiana farm. She told how she tried to coax a foster mother hen to care for them, how it refused, and how, finally, she herself took on the rôle of parent to the orphans.

The chick story was the hit of the morning.

Art Institute's Great Exhibition Draws to Close

Borrowed Canvases Will Be Returned When World's Fair Ends on Oct. 31.

By Eleanor Jewett.

IN a little more than two weeks October will have drawn to a close and with its going will go also the opportunity to see the interesting group of paintings which the Art institute has brought together in its second edition of a Century of Progress fine arts exhibition. The museum has drawn to some extent upon its own resources for much of the beauty and value in the show, but it has also borrowed from outside owners and the exhibit as a whole offers many points of interest. The immediate present is left somewhat at loose ends, but, up to perhaps fifteen years ago, there is an admirable representation of important painters.

Luks, Bellows, Zlackens in one room, and of the three possibly Bellows' adorable "Lady Jean" will be the longest remembered. Keeping her company will be the whimsical little "Bear," by Warneke, a piece of sculpture shown here several years ago and welcomed back with keen appreciation. He is a wag of a bear and could easily double for "Pooh."

Winslow Homer offers a superb painting of fox and birds, "The Fox Hunt," different in subject from his more familiar topic of the sea.

France of the Moderns Lingered Upon.

Then back one may slip into the past of foreign countries and pick up the threads of painting in France, Germany, and England. In Holland, too, and in Belgium, and touching lightly upon Spain, the development of art is searched for, discovered, and is not represented; nor is another giant among portrait painters, Louis Betts. The Chicago contingent is more than three-fourths radical and embraces names that ring unfamiliarly in the ear. Our painters such as Charles P. Killgore, Anna Lee Stacey, John F. Stacey, Frank Peyraud, Karl Plath, Stark Davis, Pauline Palmer, Gerald Frank, Wellington Reynolds, Ralph Clarkson, Oliver Dennett Grover, and others are among the magnificent band of the not present.

American Artists Do Their Country Proud.

Back among the French early paintings, however, one finds with delight brought to the surface with several admirable illustrations. France of the modern painter is deliberately lingered upon. Matisse, Rousseau, Seurat, Van Gogh, this company says its say at some length. The Van Goghs are doubly interesting in the light of the recently published life of the artist by Irving Stone, "Lust For Life," a great biography and one that makes the reader regard the eccentric and violent paintings of Van Gogh with a lenient eye. He tried so passionately and failed so pathetically.

The contemporary American painter is a wary bird, apparently not to be caught by Century of Progress shows. Wayman Adams, possibly the strongest American painter there is today, the "Soap Bubbles," by Chardin, and the "Mezzetin," by Watteau. Degas is a tower of strength to the show. Monet and Manet and Renoir contribute their quota of virility and beauty. Corot has been stressed, and with reason. Among the English painters, Gainsborough and Reynolds, Constable and Turner claim our earnest attention. Then on again to the United States and Homer, Whistler, George Inness, Thomas Eakins, Chase, and Duveneck loom large. There is a great deal at which one may point with pride in any discussion of American art. We have had giants.

A great many inducements are being offered by the Art institute to encourage attendance during these last weeks of A Century of Progress exhibit. Fees have been reduced, national days are being made much of, and a copy of Stuart's Washington will be given free to visitors. The exhibition is in truth strong enough to stand without these props. It is one of the things of the Fair that should not be missed.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

The South Side Art association is sponsoring an exhibit of sculpture by Alice Littig Siems and paintings by Irwin Escher and Theodore Saunders at the Chicago Beach hotel, a worth while show.

The Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts is showing paintings by Samuel Byers to Nov. 1. Mr. Byers is conscientious. His work is heavy-handed and labored. He is best with such familiar subjects as "A Letter to Mother." The "Broom Peddler" and "Junk Peddler" are well done also. His is not the type of picture that stirs one to rhapsody. It has no glamor. It is not a butterfly, but a moth with wet wings obstinately dragging itself to shelter, a little fearful that when it reaches its goal, the goal will not be there.

"Autumn Glory," by Berenice Newman, one of the most striking paintings in the current exhibit of works by women artists of Chicago in the Tudor galleries, Chicago Woman's club.

When Chicago Was Young

Mid-Victorian Days on the Mid-Continent

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, November 19, 1884.

DEAR JULIA: We have been busy here in Chicago the past week, attending theaters and weddings. One of Martha's young and lovely friends, Mary Seaverns, married Mr. Mabbatt of New York, and Martha and Sandy were among the guests at the wedding. Will and I took care of Baby Esmond while they were out, as it happened to be the nurse's night off. Baby is too cunning! He begins to talk a little and is getting exceedingly interesting. But I won't begin on his charms, for I never know when to stop.

Another wedding to which we all went was Nellie Hibbard's at Grace Episcopal church, when she married young Mr. Buckingham. The Hibbards are among our dearest friends, and so we were invited to the reception at the Hibbard home, 1701 Prairie avenue. Dr. Locke officiated, of course, assisted by an out of town clergyman, Mr. Osgood Herrick of Fortress Monroe. The bridesmaids were Florence Henderson, May and Ethel Sturges, Miss Margaret Lay, Miss Vanderpoel of New York (do you know her?) and Lilian Hibbard. The ushers were Clarence Buckingham, Wirt Walker, Roswell Buckingham, H. M. Bacon, and Paul Blatchford, all young men we are proud of.

The maids' gowns were so pretty. Two were pale blue over sateen, two white surah trimmed with lace, two white lace over pink silk.

I saw "Mack," the Hibbard's coachman, wiping away a tear as the newly married couple got into the carriage to drive away after the reception. "Mack" has driven the Hibbards to their christenings, confirmations, and weddings and is such a beloved member of the household that if he couldn't have been on the box tonight I'm sure they would have postponed the wedding. When people talk of how old-fashioned the Esmond horses look, with their long tails, and how backwoodsy a coachman appears with hair on his face, I point to the Hibbard's turnout, for "Mack" has never been compelled to sacrifice his sandy mustache, nor to drive dock tailed horses. If the Hibbards can drive that way, I think I can.

We saw Lawrence Barrett this week in "The Merchant of Venice" and Minnie Maddern in her new play, "Caprice." A young fellow about 15, I believe, is appearing this week in Shakespeare, too . . . a youth by the name of Whiteside, but Will says he has had enough of Shakespeare for a while, so we shan't be going. Are you reading William Dean Howells' story, "The Rise of Silas Lapham," in the Century? It is good, though not exciting. But that seems to be the style in fiction just now. Lovingly your friend.

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

We had thought to close the subject of home decoration of the '80s, but a number of amusing letters have come in, so we are giving space for some of these offerings today.

E. R. writes of the "clove apple" as an ornament for "what-not" or bracket; also of "spatter-work" wreaths, "pen-art" pictures and crocheted lambrequins which hung from clock shelf and every wooden mantel. These were made of "macreme" cord, and had long fringe, with ribbons run through the edging. "What," adds E. R., "has become of the ghastly, life size crayon portraits known in the '80s?"

Mrs. Robert E. Lee of Highland Park writes: "A bride of the '80s tells me the clover leaf table was popular then. The base was made of three old sawed-off broom handles, which supported a wooden top, cut in the shape of a three leaf clover. This was covered with velvet and edged with fringe. A finishing touch was a beautiful bow of ribbon which held the broom handles together, in the middle, where they crossed."

P. V. Mahon of Chicago writes: "The days of hand-painted rolling pins were also days of another language. Father was papa; mother was mamma; living room was sitting room; porch was stoop; the basement was the cellar, the maid and the gardener were respectively the hired girl and hired man."

Mrs. B. G. Greenman, Ottumwa, Ia., tells of a present she received once, a match holder made of an egg beater (spoon shaped) with a small egg cup tied below. But the prize gadget presented to her in Ioway was an ornament made of two dried chicken legs (with the feet on) gilded and tied together by a ribbon.

Many Social Notables Pay a Fall Visit to Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, VA.—[Special.]—Many noted visitors are here for their annual autumn stay. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Schley, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Neilson Jr., Mrs. F. Gray Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. J. Potter Stockton, Marchesa Giovanni Carignani, Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Clothier, Edith Suydam, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Burden.

Christening of Present Day Is Unostentatious

Modern Etiquet Rules for Quiet Ceremony with Informal Announcement

Questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior are invited. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. Address mail to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, Chicago Tribune.

By Helen Bartlett.

THE modern baby in this country is greeted with little fanfare. Although there is no strict etiquet about the christening or the method of notification of the birth, most localities have adopted the most quiet and dignified form of ceremony possible. In large metropolitan centers this is particularly true.

Announcement of the new arrival is made by telephone or telegraph or letter to the relatives and close friends of the parents. The actual christening ceremony is restricted to just the family and a few outsiders and the festivities which follow take the form of a simple afternoon tea.

However, parents do what their own tastes and local custom dictate. In some circles it is the custom to place paid announcements in the local newspaper columns devoted to that type of news. In others, if the prominence of the parents warrants it, the announcement is carried in the community society columns. Other parents send little engraved cards to their entire list of friends on both sides of the family.

In this latter case the type of card in best taste and in popular favor is a tiny white linen one, like a miniature calling card, just about one-third the size of the standard calling card. And on this little card is engraved the youngster's name . . . "George Taylor Jr." In the lower right hand corner the date of George's birth is engraved in type of the same style, but of smaller size. The baby's card is then fastened to the joint calling card of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, or to the personal card of his mother's . . . Mrs. George Taylor . . . with a bit of white satin ribbon. The engraving on both the large and the small card should be of the same style of type. Novelty or unique forms of baby announcements, or those that try to be funny, are not a good choice.

The christening ceremony may be as small and private as the parents care to make it. The godparents are chosen and invited to act even before the date of the ceremony has been decided upon. The invitation to perform such an honor is never a formally written affair. Unless the godparents are from another city it might even be extended by telephone. If it should happen that one of the godparents is unable to attend the ceremony, he or she still accepts the honor but the duty is performed by proxy. Godparents always give the baby a present—a silver dish, or spoon, or piece of jewelry.

Invitations to the other guests at the christening ceremony and to the festivities following are also informal . . . verbal, by telephone, or by personal note.

Ruth Holloway Weds N. Y. Man in Berkshires

Glencoe Girl Is Married to Edward Herndon at Church in Stockbridge.

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—[Special.]—Miss Ruth Whitcomb Holloway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway of 589 Sheridan road, Glencoe, Ill., was married to Edward Tarr Herndon of 205 East 72d street, New York City, at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Stockbridge, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Herndon, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Herndon of Pottsville, Pa., was varsity tennis champion at Princeton, where he was graduated in 1921, and also varsity champion at Harvard, from whose school of business administration he was graduated with the class of 1923.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore an ivory white satin gown cut on empire lines. The yoke and sleeve trimmings and long veil were all of old rose point lace, which belonged to her maternal grandmother. The top of the veil was fitted as a headdress, with orange blossoms on either side. The rose point veil extended as a panel down to and along the floor as a tulle base. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Bridesmaids Dressed in Rose Russet and Brown.

Mrs. Brownell Tompkins Bradstreet of Winnetka, Ill., matron of honor, wore tea rose faille taffeta. The five bridesmaids, Mrs. Frederick Harney Bassett of Chicago, Misses Judith Walsh of Winnetka, Merle Whitcomb of Dedham, Mass., cousin of the bride; Frances Cookman of Englewood, N. J., and Sara Louise Hoeffer of Pottsville, Pa., had rose russet faille taffeta gowns and large brown velvet hats, with brown velvet gloves and brown shoes. They carried bouquets of autumn shaded chrysanthemums and blue larkspur.

Little Barbara Finlay, aged 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jerome Finlay of Geneva, Ill., wore an ecru lace dress with a bonnet and carried an old fashioned bouquet. The gown of Mrs. Holloway, mother of the bride, was of dark brown velvet, trimmed with gold lamé and a sable cape with matching brown velour hat. Mrs. Edward L. Herndon, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gendarme blue velvet ensemble with silver lamé trimmings and a matching blue velvet hat.

The Rev. Douglas Hawley Cornell, minister of the Union church at Glencoe, and the Rev. Edmund Randolph Laine, rector of St. Paul's, performed the ceremony. Hunter Venable Herndon of Philadelphia, Pa., was his brother's best man. The ushers were the bride's three brothers, George Allen Holloway of New York, John W. Holloway, and Larz Arthur Holloway of Chicago, also Henry C. Brunie, Carl Gray, and Cedric Major of New York, and J. Brooks Fenno Jr. of Boston.

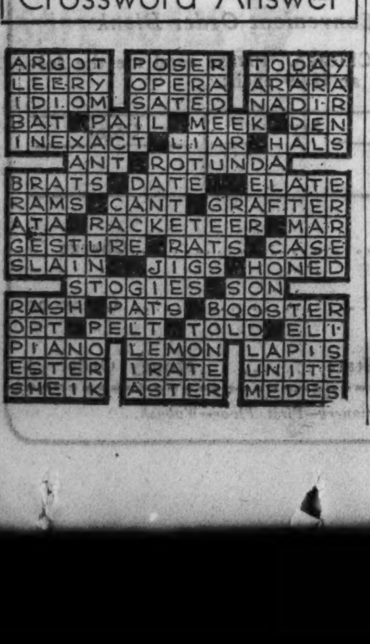
The church decorations were of white lilies, southern smilax, and autumn leaves. Miss Eleanor Dusenbury, St. Paul's organist, played the familiar Lohengrin march for the processional and the Mendelssohn bridal chorus for the recessional.

Reception for 150 Guests Held at Tyringham.

A reception for 150 was held at Tamarack, the Holloway summer home at Tyringham, five miles from the church. The villa is located on a heavily wooded mountainside, with a glorious view for thirty-five miles to the north. The terrain is now tinged with colorful mid-October russet and scarlet hues. The house was built by the late George F. Becker of the United States geological survey from timber cut on the estate. Mr. and Mrs. Holloway have owned the property for nine years.

The guests included Mrs. John Jerome Finlay of Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Arthur Poor of Lake Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Herndon of Pottsville, Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Whitcomb, John and William Arthur Whitcomb Jr. of Dedham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Stewart Kilborne Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. John McCloy of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kimbley, Mrs. John H. Mitchell, and Miss Ann Mitchell of Greenwich, Conn.; Miss Kate S. Buckingham of Chicago, Misses Alice L. and Eleanor K. Coonley of Folly farm, Great Barrington, and Mr. and Mrs. George Champion III. of Darien, Conn., Mrs. Champion being the former Eleanor Stevens of Chicago.

Crossword Answer



Vacationists Still Linger in New England

Autumn Splendor of White Mountains Makes Society Tarry at Resorts.

WHITE MOUNTAINS, N. H.—[Special.]—The White mountains still attract many Chicago folk, for the beauty of the autumn foliage is now at its height. Many are visiting the summit of Mount Washington, where the cog wheel railway trip unfolds rare scenic beauties among the clouds.

Miss Carpenter of Chicago, who spent the summer at Rockland, Me., is spending the autumn at Whitefield. She was among the guests at a tea given there on Saturday by Mrs. Frank Schuyler Dodge.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Cooper of Chicago closed Cooper's Corner, their summer home at Whitefield this week, returning to town for the winter. Mrs. Cooper recently gave a tea at Whitefield for all members of the autumn cottage colony remaining there.

Mrs. W. K. Kenty and Miss E. M. Pardridge of Chicago motored here to spend some time. They were accompanied by Miss Blanche L. Morse of Boston.

Three Runnels Sisters at Mrs. James' Chocorua Home.

Mrs. Robert I. Jenks of New York, Mrs. A. A. Jackson of Philadelphia, and Mrs. William James of Cambridge are together here staying at the Chocorua home of Mrs. James. All three are daughters of the late John Sumner Runnels of Chicago, whose summer home was at Chocorua for years. Mrs. James has returned there from Dublin, N. H., where she spent the summer, leasing her own house. Mrs. Jenks has but lately returned from a visit in Pasadena, Cal., with her brother, Clive Runnels of Chicago, who has spent much time lately with his family on the Pacific coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Knox of Chicago, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bard and Mr. and Mrs. Rawlings Warner of Chicago, and by Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Jewell of Manchester, arrived on Monday at Whitefield to spend several days. The men made a foursome at golf. They also enjoyed some of the beautiful drives through the mountains to see the foliage, which is now at the height of its beauty.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hutchinson of Chicago arrived on Monday at Whitefield, where they will spend several days. They are motoring to some of the other resorts, and taking lunches, in order to see all parts of the White hills. They were at Jackson on Sunday.

Arriving this week on Wednesday to spend the remainder of the season at Whitefield were Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Kuehne of Oak Park, who are old visitors there.

T. Mullen of Chicago is an arrival of this week at North Conway, N. H.

Neffs Remain at Applefield Through Fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Neff of Chicago and Cincinnati are remaining through the autumn at Applefield, their old colonial farmhouse at Franconia. Mrs. Neff gave a picnic this week at Coppermine near Franconia, in honor of her guest, Mrs. E. J. Neville of Houston, Tex., whose birthday was pleasantly observed. Mrs. Neff and her father, William M. Rice of Houston, were guests at a buffet supper given by Mrs. Hill Griffith at Franconia on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Foster of Chicago have been all summer at their beautiful country place at Derby, Vt. Their house is a rambling old farmhouse. The great living room formerly was Mr. Foster's grandfather's coachhouse.

Seventeen Yankee Cruises Scheduled on Mediterranean

CAPITALIZING on this year's cruises, which gave the company an increased business of 124 per cent over its previous best showing, the American Export lines last week announced an enlarged program of seventeen "Yankee" cruises to the Mediterranean for winter, spring and summer of 1935.

"The 'All-American Event' programs will duplicate the principal ports of last year, with many unusual extensions for overland sightseeing," said George C. Gaede, passenger traffic manager.

Among the features will be the exploration tours at ports of call, allowing cruise members a comprehensive survey of the environmental background scenes. From Naples a daylight journey will be taken to Rome, from whence a tour of the Tuscany valley will be made to Genoa, and thence through the Italian Riviera. These planned excursions, with the Amalfi drive and Pompeii, are designed to give a diversified section of Italy in sequence to scenery, art and history.

On the near east sightseeing program is the Biblical introduction to Jerusalem. This has been mapped out to give the full Old Testament scenes of Egypt and the ancient Cannonite cities as a prolog to the Holy City. After Cairo and the pyramid cities, the itinerary includes "the Country of the Philistines" and "the Plains of Sharon."

British Fight Moonshining in North England

LONDON.—[U. P.]—The British customs authorities have begun a strong campaign to combat the increasing activities of illicit spirit distillers.

Their attention is being directed to districts in northern England, where illicit distilling on a large scale is threatening to deprive the inland revenue department of a lucrative source of income.

For two shillings and sixpence a gallon of "wash" can be made and the spirit which is usually 8 per cent over proof, is sold at four shillings a pint, compared with the legal price of twelve shillings and sixpence, of which approximately nine shillings goes to the inland revenue department.

The disastrous effect of this liquor, which has in many cases led to blindness and paralysis, is another factor which is causing the authorities to renew their efforts to stamp out the sale.

Fall Finds Many Americans in French Capital

Social Leaders on Hand for Automobile Salon, Other Autumn Functions

By May Birkhead.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A number of Americans who live more or less in Paris, or visit the capital often, are coming back in these early days of October. Many of them attended the automobile salon in the Grand Palais.

The other day Princess Boncompagni, who resides chiefly in Paris, and who is a close friend of Grand Duchess Helen of Russia [Princess Nicholas of Greece and mother of Princess Marina], was having tea at the Union Interalliée, where many Americans also came in. Princess Boncompagni was recently made president of the Phare de France, for French war blinded, replacing the late Mrs. Cooper Hewitt, and she is in Paris now to help arrange the Wednesday morning musicals which Mrs. Berry Wall organized some years ago. The performances last year were transferred to the Interalliée. Princess Nicholas of Greece makes a point of attending the first of these concerts, being closely identified with this charity. Mr. and Mrs. Berry Wall always give a luncheon after these concerts, and Princess Marina, fiancée of Prince George of England and her family are often among their guests.

Mrs. Thayer Takes Paris Apartment for Two Months.

Mrs. Eugene van Rensselaer Thayer, who crossed recently with her sister, Mrs. Robert T. Pell, wife of the first secretary of the Amercan embassy here, has taken an apartment at the Ritz for a stay of two months. The Pells have a home near Paris, at Ville d'Avray, where they can survey many of the scenes which Corot painted.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Bingham, who had among their house guests for shooting in Hungary Prince and Princess Cito Filomarino di Bitetto and Mrs. Julian B. L. Allen, stopped at Stephanie in Baden-Baden and later spent a week in Paris. Mrs. Bingham usually takes part in the early autumn shooting parties arranged by Robert W. Goelet at his country place, Sandricourt, about forty miles north of Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewees D. Dilworth, who have also been shooting in Hungary, where they had the Count Czircky box, returned to Paris en route to New York and visited with Mrs. Dilworth's mother, Mrs. John A. Logan.

Wolcott Blairs Sail for Home After Family Reunion.

Other Americans who have recently sailed for home are the Wolcott Blairs, who have just had a family reunion at the Ritz, after a stay in Biarritz. Mr. Blair and his wife took in the Scottish shooting and hospitality at Drumour castle, in Perthshire. With them were Mr. and Mrs. David K. M. Bruce, who are taking the same boat at Plymouth for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine of Chicago, who have been abroad since April, recently arrived in Paris. They plan to go to London and will then return to Switzerland to spend the winter with their children in a chalet which they have taken at Gstaad.

VAGABOND'S DIARY

MONTENEGRO, once the mountainous kingdom of Prince Nicholas; today part of Jugo-Slavia. . . . Three thousand five hundred square miles by the Sea of Hadrian. . . . A darkly romantic, historic background shadowed by Serbs, Turks, Russians, and Austrians. . . . Its early history part of the story of Illyricum. . . . Lofty mountains covered with timber. . . . Tourists delighting in the wildness of the places off the beaten track. . . . A close approach to a Homeric state of society, abounding in feuds and poetry. . . . Heroes and heroines of vendettas of long ago. . . . Colorful life among the inhabitants of the larger towns.

● The Dolomites, chain of mountains of the eastern Alps of Italy. . . . Bordered by the valleys of the Piave, Drave, and Adige. . . . Limestone formations rising to magnificent heights. . . . Two National Parks Smash Travel Record

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Oct. 13.—A new annual travel record, surpassing the pre-depression year of 1929, has been set up in Yellowstone park. Supt. Roger W. Toll announced today that this year's figures show an increase of 78 visitors over the 260,697 persons who entered the park in 1929, which was the previous peak year.

This year shows an increase of 98,837 visitors, or 61 per cent, over last year, when the travel reached 161,938. For eleven years previous to 1930 there was an increase for each consecutive year. Beginning with that year the travel dropped off, showing consecutive decreases through 1930-'31-'32. In 1933 there was an increase of 2.7 per cent over 1932 and this year shows the greatest annual increase in number of visitors in the history of the park. A severe equinoctial storm in the last week of the travel year had a noticeable influence in holding down the final figures.

Illinois Moves Up to Second Place.

New York state again leads in the greatest number of rail visitors, with Illinois second and Pennsylvania third. Last year Pennsylvania was second and Illinois third. Railroad travelers from every state in the Union and twenty-eight foreign countries were registered this year. The four leading states were classified as follows:

New York	2,104 visitors
Illinois	1,569 "
Pennsylvania	1,042 "
Ohio	973 "

Rail visitors from the four leading places outside the states were classified as follows:

Canada	64 visitors
England	25 "
Hawaiian Islands	15 "
Germany	11 "

Automobile travel showed California leading with 20,621 visitors, Montana second with 19,518, Utah third with 13,599, and Idaho fourth with 12,598. This is the second consecutive year that the four ranking states have been the same, and in the same order.

More Than 100,000 in Glacier Park.

Glacier Park, Mont., Oct. 13. — All registration records for Glacier National park have been shattered this season, and for the first time in the history of the park more than 100,000 persons have visited this playground in a single season. This was made known at the office of Supt. E. T. Scoyen.

Up to September 104,971 persons had entered the park. This constituted a new all-time record, as the previous high total was 76,615, set in 1933.

This year's travel represents an increase of 58 per cent over the number of persons entering last year and the 29,075 automobiles represents a 62 per cent increase in automobiles. Railroad travel this year also is 128 per cent better than 1933.

Montana leads in the number of persons visiting the park, California, Washington, and Canada follow in order. Automobiles from every state in the Union and several foreign countries have registered.

Bicycle Police Patrol London's Business District

LONDON.—(AP)—The "city," London's famed financial and business center, now has its own police flying squads.

But bicycles, not automobiles, are used.

Twelve expensive bicycles have been purchased for special patrol and emergency use in this one mile square of territory. Four "wheels" have been assigned to each of the three divisions.

Two in each division are used by plain clothes men who pedal madly to the scene of a crime.

Another machine is ridden by the patrol sergeant, a fact which has thrown a scare into the men on the beats because the patrolmen now can't tell when there will be a checkup on their activities.

The fourth bicycle in each division is used by a constable who has orders to show his uniform in places where his presence acts as a deterrent to disorder.

MIAMI EXPECTS HALF A MILLION WINTER VISITORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—With a heavy topcoat on his arm and an eye open for the first blasts of winter, a tall man came into town the other day to put the finishing touches on an entertainment program which he hopes will lure some half million visitors to his city this winter. He is Mayor E. G. Sewell of Miami, municipal showman extraordinary, leading exponent of the tourist business, and one of the few men to build up a community from a population of less than one thousand to more than one hundred thousand and live to tell the tale.

"We are putting on one of the greatest programs of sports and entertainment this winter any resort city in America ever enjoyed," said Mayor Sewell. "We are running the gamut from English style cinder track night motorcycle racing, a new sport, to dog racing, jai-alai, horse racing, golf, polo, tennis, big game fishing, bowling, motor boat racing, and yachting. The New York Giants will open their training season in March at Miami Beach and the Washington Senators will train in Miami if present negotiations are successful. We'll have ninety days of horse racing at our two tracks, Tropical Park and Hialeah. We'll have three golf tournaments of national importance. I do not believe we have overlooked anything in the entertainment field.

"Last winter we had close to half a million visitors, who spent $38,000,000 in the greater Miami area. This year we anticipate an even greater crowd, due to our extensive advertising program, which starts next month. We are staging a six months' campaign instead of the usual five months, and starting the season off with the national convention of the American Legion, which will attract close to 70,000 visitors, Oct. 22 to 25. We are opening up jai-alai, dog racing, and other events to entertain Legionnaires. Our 200 hotels, 1,500 apartment buildings, and 5,000 furnished cottages have been gone over with tooth and comb in preparation for the season. We are taking drastic steps to keep prices at a minimum."

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A group of us are planning a hunting expedition this fall to some place not too far from Chicago. Any suggestions? E. T.

The north woods region, in Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan, boasts of some of the finest hunting grounds to be found anywhere in America. In addition to bear, deer, wolf, fox, and coyote there is a great variety of small game, as well as an abundance of water fowl.

How far will our American money go in Hawaii this winter, and what are the rules regarding passports and customs duties? C. G.

Since Hawaii is an integral part of the United States American money is the currency there, with the result that the dollar is worth just as much on the islands as it is on the mainland. For the same reason no passports are required and the customs problem is eliminated.

Just what constitute the British possessions in the West Indies? H. R. W.

The Bermudas, the Bahamas, Jamaica with the Turks and Caicos and Cayman islands, Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados; the Leeward islands of Antigua, St. Kitts-Nevis, Dominica, Montserrat and British Guiana; the Windward islands with Granada and the Granadines, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and British Honduras. The total area of the lands in this archipelago, situated between North and South America, with Central America and the Yucatan province of Mexico, is about 12,227 square miles.

Melbourne Is to Celebrate Its Centennial

Australian City to Be Scene of Festivity Beginning October 18.

MELBOURNE.—(AP)—Not quite a century ago John Batman rowed across the great bay of Port Philip on the southeastern coast of Australia, debarked at the Yarra river mouth and said, "This will be the place for a village."

That village, Melbourne, home today of a million people, begins on Oct. 18 a celebration of its centennial, bidding the world remark the achievements and progress of a city which now ranks second in Australia, fourth below the equator, and fifth in the British empire.

Predict Three Million People Will Participate.

Spring and the outdoor season are beginning here and in the eight months which follow, it is estimated, 3,000,000 people will participate in ceremonies, in the village described to the king of England in 1836 as containing five houses, eight turf huts, 142 men, thirty-five women, fifty-seven horses, 101 cattle, and 26,500 sheep.

Capstone of the illumination projects in which the city, state, and private enterprises are vieing will be Prince's bridge, across the Yarra in the downtown district, where thirty-five tall pylons, alight and beflagged with the emblems of every nation, will be reflected in the placid waters.

Other lights will be hidden among the flowers of the Melbourne botanical gardens which stretch away from the center of the city. Forty bands will play, headed by the famous Grenadier Guards which the British army is sending from London.

Duke of Gloucester Heads Distinguished Guests.

Heading a host of distinguished guests from all the dominions and beyond will be Prince Henry, duke of Gloucester and third son of King George, who will arrive aboard the warship Sussex on Oct. 18, opening the celebration that evening. He will remain until Nov. 19, the day upon which the state of Victoria will celebrate at Portland the founding of the first white settlement.

Many Famous Persons Will Attend Ceremonies.

Other guests include Marconi, the wireless inventor; John Masefield, British poet laureate; Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, and Malcolm and Sheila MacDonald, children of the English premier.

Between the arrival of Prince Henry and the celebration of Melbourne's own hundredth birthday in May, 1935, the city will be the scene of more than 250 events of Australian, empire, or world-wide movement.

Two Other Events Are Expected to Draw Crowds.

The London-Melbourne air race Oct. 20-23, the Melbourne cup race Nov. 6 which ranks with the English and Kentucky derbies among world turf events, and the dedication by Prince Henry on Armistice day of Victoria's "Shrine of Remembrance" to her world war dead, are expected to draw 500,000 spectators apiece.

Sports competitions for more than $500,000 in trophies, notably in tennis, golf, billiards, cycling, rowing, and horse racing, have attracted entries from England, the United States, France, Italy, and Japan.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

CENTRAL Europe was in an uproar again last week—what with the shooting of the dictator of the land where things began popping twenty years ago—and observers were saying that the Balkans were still the world's greatest powder magazine.

In the middle of all the confusion, it was pleasant to think of conditions over there as they might be if somebody weren't always bumping off somebody else—and as they may still be if everybody keeps cool in the latest crisis. Take Austria, for instance.

● Autumn is perhaps Austria's finest season. The country is deserted by most of the tourists, and so rates are down. The ancient shade trees in the parks are as riotous in their colors as the people occasionally are in their conduct.

In the mountain districts the huntsmen are already stalking the chamois. Fallow deer are visible everywhere in the fenced preserves, and the hazel grouse, hare, and pheasant are plentiful.

From Kufstein tomorrow the notes of the great organ will echo through the Tyrol. On Nov. 15 in Klosterneuberg, near Vienna, the quaint Austrian custom of "Fasselrutschen" will be carried out, with the people sliding through a giant wine cask. The Salzburg festivals have closed for the season, but the town still has its picturesque casino and its Peterkellar.

● The first of next month the higher Alpine resorts will be opening up for their winter sports. Semmering, St. Anton, Kitzbuhel, Obergurl and the others are getting set for the high jinks of skiing, tobogganing, and skating.

Many regard the season there as the most fun to be had in Europe in the winter time. Nature has provided Austria with hundreds of mountain lakes, and with steep mountain sides for the daring skiiers and gentle ones for the inexpert. The atmosphere is charged with the hospitality of the inn keepers and the spirit of "Gemuetlichkeit." Hundreds of huts make possible long excursions on skiis and otherwise.

Some of the settings are more typical of the movies than of real life. Kitzbuehel, a midget town among magnificent mountains, has a cable railway to the nearby Hahnenkamm. Innsbruck has two cable roads slung up to the highest peaks in its neighborhood. And then there's Vienna.

● Vienna boasts that its winter sports facilities are either within the city itself or in easy reach. It has two of the best skating rinks to be found anywhere, and the nearby Vienna woods offer further opportunities.

Thus in the capital city it is easy to combine outdoor with cultural pursuits, country life and urban entertainment. Concerts and operatic performances, art galleries, universities, riding schools, and the intimate coffee houses are all there for the asking.

● The central Europeans do things other than killing off kings and archdukes and dictators, and do them much better.

It would be a shame to have them leave off their skiing and return to their slaughtering.

Sinclair Lewis Leads U. S. Authors Abroad

PARIS.—[U. P.]—Sinclair Lewis is the most popular American author in France, according to a study made by the American library here of the book preferences of its readers.

Next in popularity among French readers is Theodore Dreiser; Willa Cather is third, and John Dos Passas is fourth.

The standing of nonliving American authors is as follows: Nathaniel Hawthorne, William Dean Howells, Henry James, and Edgar Allen Poe.

AUTUMN IN PARIS: NEW FASHIONS FOR AFTERNOON AND EVENING

ONE OF THE MOST STRIKING NEW EVENING SILHOUETTES of Paris fashions. Schiaparelli achieves it with rose and gold moire lame. She gives this frock a sweater neckline and creates an evening bag to match the costume.

MAINBOCHER created this gorgeous East Indian red evening frock in Directoire lines, with the waistline 'way up high—a silhouette that is important in the new styles. He veils the upper half with a "butcher boy" jacket of tulle encrusted with gold flowers and leaves.

LATE IN THE AFTERNOON, at playtime, this is the way the gay young Parisienne looks this fall. Patou puts a red and gold tunic blouse, translated very freely from the Russian, over a skirt of brown velvet, belts the tunic with brown changeable lether, and tops it all with a velvet tricorne veiled with lace.

SHE FLIES IN ANY WEATHER . . .

BUT she knows the risks she runs. It's the unknown risks—the forgotten risks—that spell trouble. Today, begin protecting

★ "The Forgotten 60"

LURKING on the hidden surfaces between the teeth—"The Forgotten 60"—is a danger that threatens millions of people every day of their lives.

Decay, the dreaded enemy of the teeth, finds a natural hiding-place in those forgotten areas where ordinary brushing cannot reach. Food particles collect there and ferment. Germs multiply, creating destructive acids.

To protect "The Forgotten 60" you need a dentifrice scientifically prepared to reach and cleanse them. You need Calox—the Penetrating Tooth Powder.

Frees Penetrating Oxygen

Calox releases tiny bubbles of oxygen in the mouth. They foam into every crevice, hunting out germs, deodorizing food debris. A mild antacid, milk of lime, combats mouth acids. The teeth are whitened and polished to gleaming beauty. The breath is sweetened. The gums are cleansed and toned by a special ingredient, frequently prescribed for gum infections. And all these benefits are achieved with absolute safety.

When your dentist advises you to clean your teeth with powder, be sure you get Calox—the foaming, penetrating powder. Refreshing taste. Swift, satisfying results. And a real aid in preventing tooth decay.

A Big Saving

You'll be surprised at the economy of using Calox. The family-size package holds enough powder for 304 brushings, and goes more than four times as far as an ordinary tube of tooth-paste!

What are "THE FORGOTTEN 60"?

The normal adult has 32 teeth, each with 5 exposed surfaces. 160 surfaces in all. Of these, the occlusal, or chewing surfaces, the lingual, or inner surfaces, and the labial and buccal, or outer surfaces, are all accessible to the action of the tooth-brush. Only the proximal surfaces — the sides of the teeth which adjoin each other — are too close together to be cleaned by ordinary brushing.

ANY GOOD SKIN SPECIALIST WILL TELL YOU...

"IF YOU WANT lovely, soft hands give NATURE a chance to help you"

NATURE has her own method for keeping hands beautifully smooth. She feeds your outer skin with softening oils. Only when the flow of these natural oils is insufficient do hands become rough and chapped.

You can't keep your hands naturally smooth and soft by trying to "feed your skin" from the outside. But you can do it by helping Nature do her own softening work—by using the sensational new hand lotion called Velure.

Velure leaves no artificial veneer, no thick, sticky coating that may clog the pores. It works with Nature, not against her. When work or exposure to weather make it impossible for Nature to keep your hands soft, Velure comes to the rescue.

Velure immediately softens the outer skin. But its second action is more important. It is quickly absorbed to the under skin where it protects and aids the tiny oil cells, enables them to function normally. Their flow of natural oils is restored and Nature's own softening work resumed.

Use Velure several times a day—especially after washing dishes, washing hands and exposure to cold. Velure, following Nature's own method, keeps hands naturally soft, exquisitely smooth.

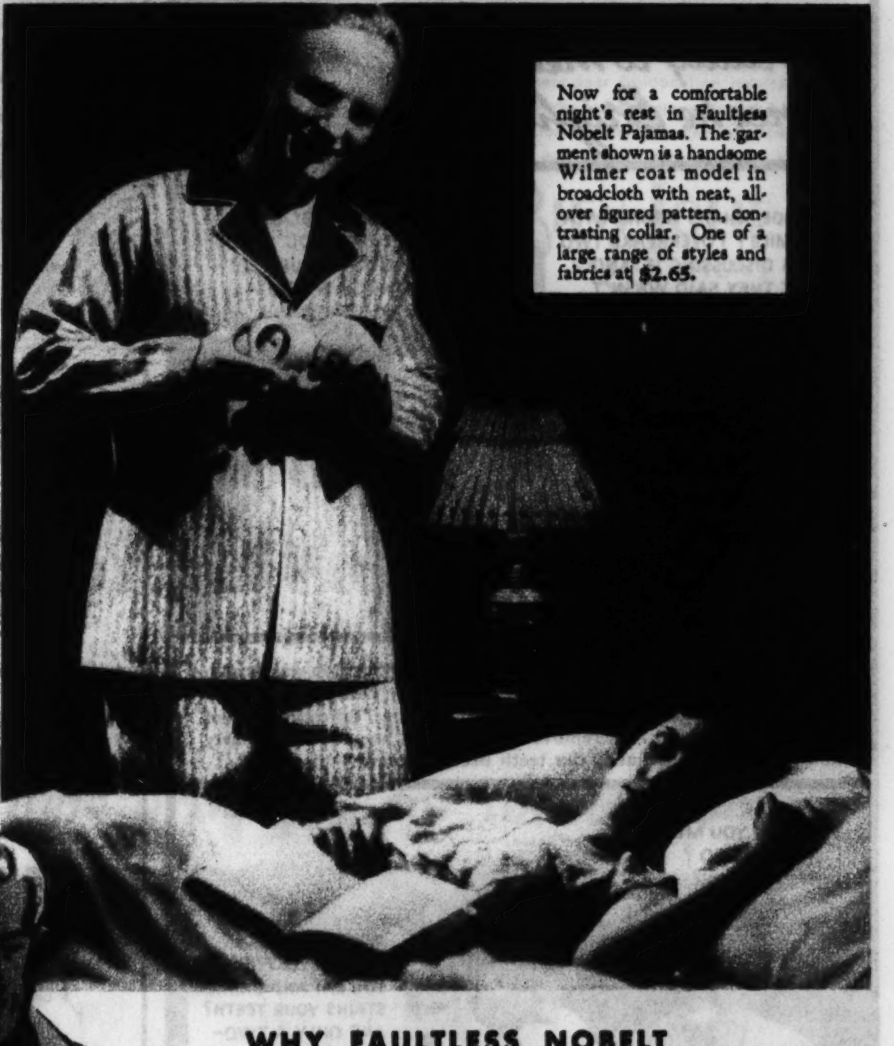
The one real improvement in pajamas

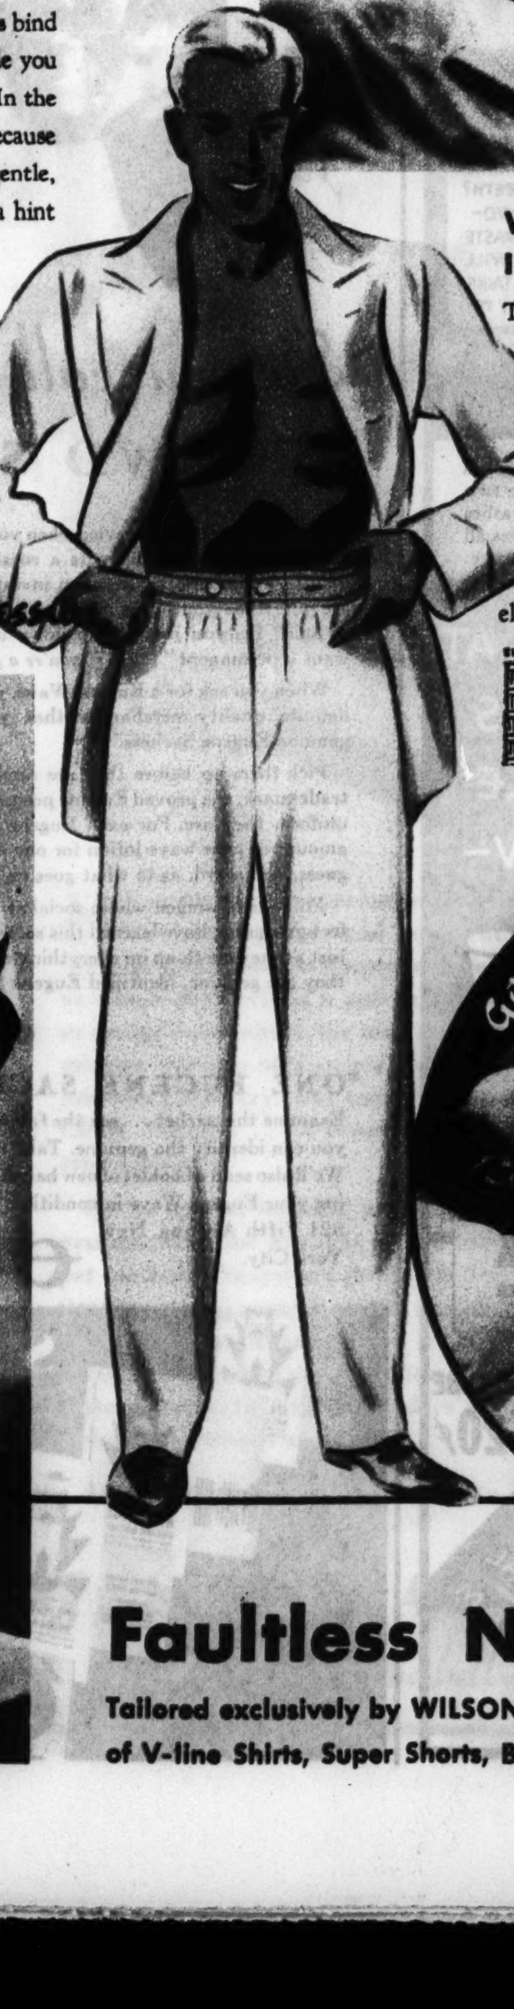
Let the other fellow toss and turn as the drawstrings on his pajamas bind and threaten to saw him in half. Let the other fellow suffer, while you put on a pair of Faultless Nobelt Pajamas and sleep like a baby. In the morning you wake up rested and refreshed, ready for the day—because your Nobelt Pajamas need no "rope" to hold them in place. The gentle, resilient Nobelt waistband never binds or cuts, never gives you a hint that it is there. And because Nobelt is so well made that laundering cannot hurt it, you enjoy comfortable sleep every night for a long, long time. They're cut full size and finely tailored to the Wilson Brothers standard of excellence. Try Faultless Nobelt Pajamas just one night and you will know why millions of men refuse to sleep in any other kind of pajamas. In all fashionable styles, fabrics and colors, from $2.00 to $15.00.

They stay up without noticeable pressure

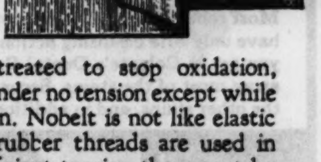


Now for a comfortable night's rest in Faultless Nobelt Pajamas. The garment shown is a handsome Wilmer coat model in broadcloth with neat, all-over figured pattern, contrasting collar. One of a large range of styles and fabrics at $2.65.

The shaver wears a soft, rich sateen, one of the Wilmer models in a neat figured pattern. A full range of colors, $3.00 to $5.00. The gentleman in the chair wears Faultless Nobelt, one of the solid-color broadcloths with contrasting trim, $2.65.



WHY FAULTLESS NOBELT IS UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED



The Nobelt waistband is unconditionally guaranteed for the life of the garment. It is a broad, flat band of live sheet rubber which withstands severe mistreatment because: (1) the rubber is chemically treated to stop oxidation, (2) it is rubber at rest, under no tension except while the garment is being worn. Nobelt is not like elastic webbing. Just a few tiny rubber threads are used in elastic webbing. To supply sufficient tension they must be stretched about 100% before being woven into the waistband. Each rubber thread is always under tension. It "gets tired" soon, loses its resilience, and the pajama is ruined. Remember, Faultless Nobelt is unconditionally guaranteed.

Ready to meet all Comers—since he Brightened his Smile

Bob had the idea his teeth were "naturally dull." But Bob was wrong. Because dull teeth are only stained teeth. They become stained by everything we eat and drink and smoke. There are 7 different kinds of stains, and unless all 7 are removed completely, they build up slowly and gradually, until finally our teeth become stained—discolored.

Most toothpastes fail to remove all 7 stains. Because most toothpastes have only one cleansing action. And two actions are needed—the two you get in Colgate's Dental Cream. First, a penetrating foam washes away most of the stains. Second, a gentle polishing action removes all the other stains, and in addition, polishes the teeth to a brilliant lustre.

Colgate's can give you a brighter smile, too. At 20c for the large-size tube, it's the most economical of all good toothpastes. It also leaves your mouth refreshed, your breath sweet. Start using Colgate's today, and have whiter teeth . . . a brighter smile.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK
IF ONE TUBE OF COLGATE'S DOESN'T MAKE YOUR TEETH WHITER

If, after using one tube, you're not satisfied that Colgate's has made your teeth whiter, your smile brighter than any other toothpaste you've ever used . . . just send the empty tube to Colgate's, Jersey City, N. J., . . . and twice what you paid for the toothpaste, plus postage, will be returned to you.

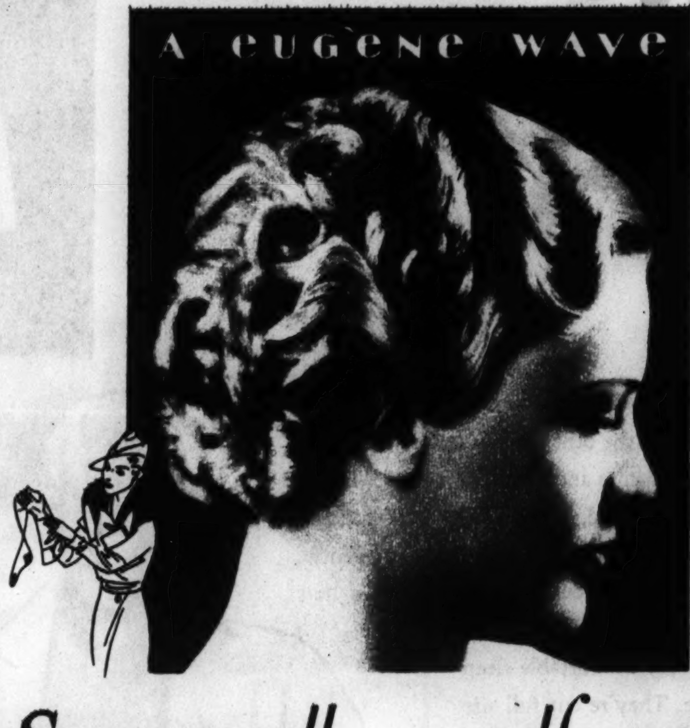
If you prefer powder, Colgate's Dental Powder gives the same amazing results . . . sells at the same low prices.



So you call yourself a SHREWD SHOPPER!

You know sheer from service when you buy hose. You know rib from round when the butcher cuts a roast. You're pretty careful about quality and comfort when you invest in furniture. But how shrewd are you when you buy a wave for your precious, one-and-only head of hair? Do you just plump down under any machine and say, "I want a permanent"? Not if you're a good shopper!

When you ask for a Eugene Wave, you can see, feel and recognize* definite, quality merchandise that is responsible for your wave . . . genuine Eugene Sachets.

Pick them up before they are applied to your hair. Look at the trade-mark, the proved Eugene promise of safety. Note how perfectly uniform they are. For each Eugene Sachet is filled with the exact amount of pure wave lotion for one perfect wave or curl. There's no guess, no hazard, as to what goes on your hair.

Millions of women whose social or business position demands perfect grooming, have learned this secret:—They examine the Sachets, just as they check up on everything else they buy . . . they make sure they are genuine, identified Eugene Sachets!

This Revolutionary Pen ... Filled Only Once

WROTE THIS 12,000-WORD BOOK

...wrote 17 letters besides!

Due to such amazing performances as this, people all over the world are now casting aside their previous pens and carrying this marvelous new writing invention!

ROLAND MARTINI, the author, filled his Parker Vacumatic, and with it wrote "The Marble Staircase," a 12,000-word story soon to appear. In addition, he wrote 17 letters before the pen became empty. Don't think that Mr. Martini's pen is any different than the Parker Vacumatic that you can obtain from any good department store, druggist, jeweler, or stationer. It is not. He received his pen last Christmas from some thoughtful person who went out and got this new creation, just as you can do today.

But be careful not to confuse this sacless marvel with ordinary pens containing rubber ink sacs, or with so-called vacuum filler pens having squirt-gun piston pumps and valves. The Parker Vacumatic eliminates 14 such old-time parts—hence is guaranteed mechanically perfect! It's like a pen from another world—does what no previous pen can do.

It holds 102% more ink than a rubber sac pen without increase in size. It's the only transparent pen that doesn't LOOK transparent—has all the ultra-smart style and luminous beauty of laminated Pearl and Jet, yet when held to the light the column of ink inside becomes VISIBLE—shows when to refill—ends running dry!

Stop at the nearest pen counter—try writing two ways with this one Point—a custom-made point of Platinum, Gold and Iridium—perfectly formed on both sides, and slightly turned up so it cannot scratch or drag, even under big-fisted pressure.

See what it means to have a pen that gives your earning and learning an utterly new "pick-up." The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin.

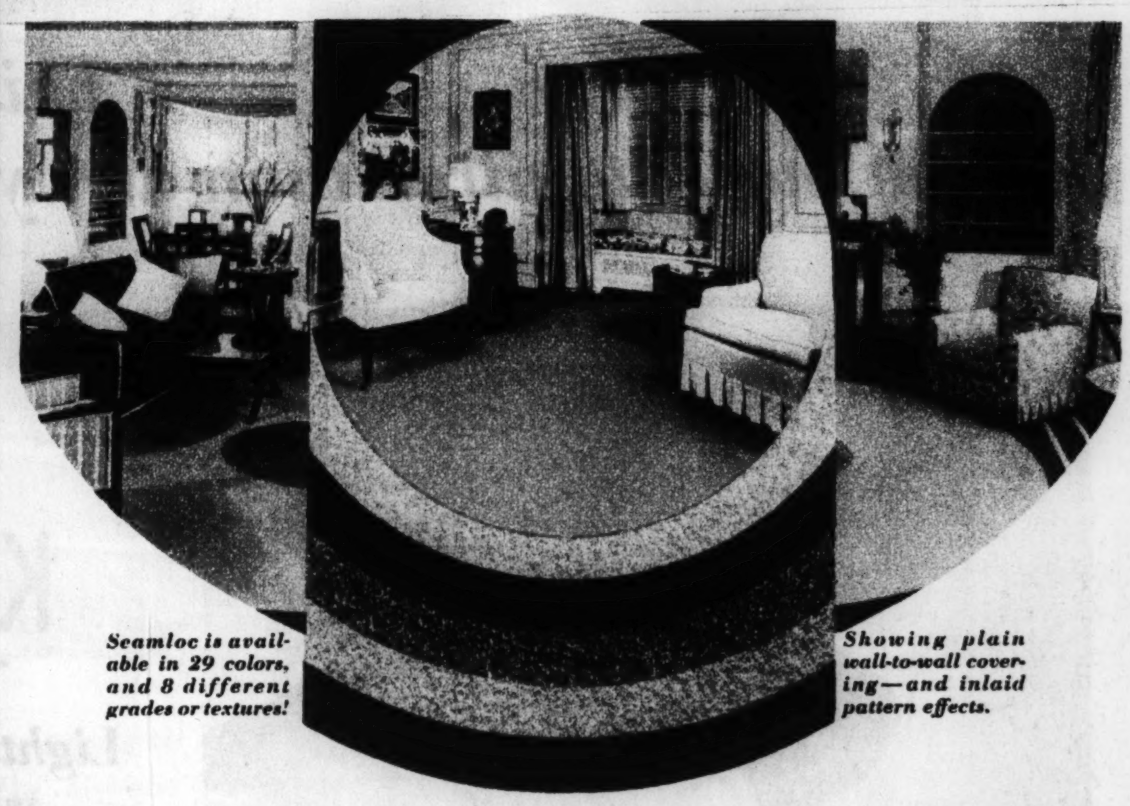
Four thousand years of old-fashioned Carpets ... now

CHASE SEAMLOC

perfects a new principle for lovely floors!



Seamloc is available in 29 colors, and 8 different grades or textures!

Showing plain wall-to-wall covering—and inlaid pattern effects.

FOR so many centuries carpets have been sewn together and bound at the edges, that this was simply accepted as a necessary evil. If a special shape or design was wanted, the long and expensive process of a special weaving job was necessary. But today there's Chase Seamloc ... a beautiful new-type carpet.

By its special backing and joining process, Seamloc discards all old carpet methods. Seamloc's joining is 2½ times as strong as sewn seams, and absolutely flat, so wear is even. It can't ravel, can be cut in any direction, and patterns may be inlaid, borders attached, all without a stitch!

And ... wonder of wonders ... the backing is water-tight, so you can wash Seamloc on the floor with no damage to warp or woodwork! With all its advantages, Seamloc's cost is par, grade for grade, with ordinary sewn broadlooms.

You can see beautiful Seamloc installations on the floors of Marshall Field's, Mandel's, The Fair and John M. Smyth. These and other leading department and furniture stores sell Seamloc, or your decorator will secure it for you.

Man Accepts Challenge of Heights and Depths of Earth, Sky, and Sea

By John A. Menaugh

THE earth is an immense ball spinning in space. It is roughly 25,000 miles in circumference and 8,000 miles in diameter, and, as our geography teachers were wont to emphasize, "flattened slightly at the poles."

That is a beginning sufficiently accurate and sound for this article that seeks to point out the relatively narrow bounds of man and other living things that inhabit the crust of this sphere that spins in space. If it were possible to reduce for clearer understanding the size of the earth to that of a basketball and to cover the same with the thinnest imaginable coating of cellophane, that coating would represent the habitable region of man and beast as compared with the vastness of the earth's interior and the far greater vastness of space. In other words, though he is an adventurous fellow, ready to take grave chances, and ever inventing new mechanisms for conquering depths and heights, man to date has risen from the earth's crust, as represented in the minutely scaled reduction by the thin coating of cellophane, relatively only a hair's breadth, has dug into the solid world an even shorter distance, and has descended into the mysterious and lightless depths of the sea a shorter distance still.

Though man is more poorly equipped by nature for digging than many of the lower forms of life, including the humble earthworm, and is more poorly equipped for flying than the bird and the winged

Drummer Boys of Naziland

REGIMENTATION begins early in Germany, as this photograph of young Nazi drummer boys attests. They were among 60,000 children gathered recently at Nuremberg to hear political speeches and to take part in drills and games. The massed drills and physical culture exercises performed by these boys made a stirring spectacle, which was reviewed by Hitler and his official staf. All of the children were in the uniform prescribed by the political party of the dictator. In addition to hundreds of drummer boys, marching and playing in unison, there were groups of buglers, lending another touch of the martial atmosphere which today characterizes most of the big mass meetings in Germany.

English 'Adopt' U. S. Ambassador

ROBERT WORTH BINGHAM, United States ambassador to England, recently was honored by the Borough of Barnstaple, one of the most ancient of English royal boroughs. The scroll attests that the borough has conferred on the ambassador the title of "Honorary Freeman of the Borough of Barnstaple." The casket at the right is the container for the scroll. Barnstaple is located near the north coast of Devonshire. It formerly was important as the center of the woolen trade, but its industrial activity has declined. There is a small harbor for coasting vessels, and a lace and a glove factory.

Science Finds New Water Purifier in Silver

By Thomas M. Beck

A STRANGE custom persists in India. It is the ambition of every devout Hindu to make at least one pilgrimage to the holy but exceedingly unsanitary River Ganges. There he bathes his worn and ailing body, and then proceeds to drink deeply of the foul and turbid river water. He does this because he believes it will make him a better man, a belief that is not shared by the public health authorities of India.

If he should happen to be an especially thoughtful Hindu, he fills a copper jug with Ganges water and packs it along home with him, where he doles it out to his friends and relatives as a special treat, after the manner of a hospitable Kansan returning from Missouri with a quart of bourbon. The unusual fact is that this water has been found to be quite sterile and harmless after having been carried around in the copper jug for a few days, because of the reason that a small trace of copper has dissolved, sufficient to destroy most harmful bacteria, but not enough to poison human beings.

Chlorinater of a Chicago water department pumping station. In the foreground is the station supervisor, Timothy Faherty, who is checking to find out how much chlorine is being added to the water.

It has long been known that certain metals, notably copper and silver, possess this property of dissolving in water in almost immeasurably small amounts, and that the resulting solution is both nontoxic and also mildly antiseptic. And of these two metals silver is the more effective. The small amount of silver that will actually sterilize water is rather startling. For example, if the amount of the metal in a dime were to be spread throughout ten thousand gallons of water, the water usually would be sufficiently pure for drinking purposes.

Recently attempts have been made, chiefly in Great Britain and Germany, to apply this principle to the commercial purification of water, both for drinking purposes and for swimming pools. A similar sterilization plant has been set up at the Congressional Country club at Washington to purify the water for the club's swimming pool, perhaps on the theory that it would be safer to try out such new methods on congressmen before inflicting them on the general public.

The simplest arrangement for sterilizing water by means of silver consists of placing a well polished silver spoon in a glass of water and letting it stand for a day or so. But since the prospective drinker would become quite thirsty while waiting this time, the method is of little practical value.

A silver spoon will purify a glass of water.

Diagram showing the probable change occurring when silver passes into solution, thus purifying the water.

However, this time element has been done away with by taking advantage of the fact that when the silver dissolves it does so in the form of silver ions, or atoms carrying a charge of positive electricity. Presumably a silver atom in dissolving gets this positive charge by dropping off a negatively charged electron. Now, by the simple process of removing these surplus electrons from the field of action, or, in other words, of supplying positive electricity to the silver, the rate of solution can be speeded up enormously. The equipment necessary for this consists chiefly of two separate silver plates held a short distance apart, between which the water is allowed to flow. A small direct current voltage is set up between the plates, and the set-up then works more or less automatically.

Of course, this method will not result in the immediate abandonment of existing water purification systems. It is still in the status of a noble experiment. Its enthusiastic backers claim that it is just as effective as any method, and, because of the very small amount of silver and electric power required, just as cheap. Its principal advantage is that it does not give the treated water an unpleasant taste, as does chlorine. Its opponents claim that there are a number of complications involved which make its operation rather troublesome, and some of them have expressed doubts as to the hygienic wisdom of giving the citizens a daily internal dose of silver, even in such minute quantities. So it would appear that, for the present at least, most of us will continue to enjoy the delicate bouquet of chlorine in our drinking water.

Other uses have been suggested for this property of silver. These are chiefly in the treatment of fermentation products, such as wine or vinegar. Perhaps the most fascinating of these suggested applications is one that has been tried out in the whisky industry. It has been claimed by certain investigators that raw whisky, when shaken up with a little silver, will age much more quickly than similar untreated whisky. Whether or not this is true in all cases is a question that will require further investigation. But perhaps it should be pointed out to the layman that a special form of spongy silver is required to do this trick. Mere contact for a few seconds with the inside of a silver cocktail shaker is certainly not sufficient to make new whisky old.

Science Queries Answered

Mr. Beck will be glad to answer questions of scientific nature. Address Thomas M. Beck, Graphic Section, Chicago Tribune. For personal reply, inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Is there any difference between cane and beet sugar? If so, which is the better food?—M. C. M., Chicago.

Both sugars are the same chemical compound, and therefore are equal in food value. Any slight difference in appearance is due to somewhat different means of preparation.

What is the source of the mustard gas used in the war?—O. R., Chicago.

Mustard gas is rather badly named. It is not made from mustard, and it is not a gas. It is an oil, and is made by combining a gas, ethylene, with sulphur chloride. It probably gets its name from some fancied similarity between its smell and that of mustard.

What is fusel oil?—R. R. S., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fusel oil is a mixture of certain compounds that are formed, to a small extent, during alcoholic fermentation. From a chemical standpoint, it resembles alcohol, except that it boils somewhat higher. Distilled liquors owe their characteristic bouquets, to some extent, to small amounts of fusel oil present. It is rather poisonous when imbibed straight; but, for that matter, so is alcohol.

Il Duce—A Study in Dramatic Expression

(Courtesy Paramount News.)

By Joseph U. Dugan

ITALY'S greatest actor takes the center of the stage to play his favorite role. He is addressing thousands of small boys, assembled in military formation, and their relatives, before the Palazzo Venezia in Rome. At the precise dramatic moment Il Duce appears upon the balcony. Deafening is the high-pitched cheer which greets him. Then, suddenly, dead silence. The chief prolongs this dramatic effect for several moments. Slowly he raises his right hand, index finger pointed skyward. His voice rings out, magnified many times by loud speakers, and the show is on.

For each movement of his right arm and pointed finger there is a corresponding facial expression. At each outburst of applause his countenance is benign. He plainly revels in the acclamation of the throng. Benito Mussolini, original pattern for post-war dictators, presents perhaps the most successful example of self-aggrandizement in the world today. He has made it axiomatic that dictators must be good actors. Also he has proved that to inspire that mixture of devotion and fear which gives him supreme power over his people he must hold their imaginations.

When Il Duce appears on a balcony to address his "subjects" he is playing the role of a whole people, concentrated in the person of one man. His eminent ability to do so reveals a sublime conceit which is reflected in these candid camera studies of the man in action.

Mussolini's world is Italy, and for him "all the world's a stage." All who have had the experience of an audience with him in the huge room of the Palazzo Venezia which is his private office have witnessed and have been affected by a masterful dramatic performance.

In a far corner of this room, Sala del Mappamondo (Room of the World Map), the dictator sits behind a magnificent antique table. A caller must walk a distance of 75 feet diagonally across the room to reach the table. The vastness of the chamber is accentuated by a ceiling as high as the room is long. As the visitor walks toward Il Duce the dictator assumes one of two poses. Either he stares grimly at the caller or he smiles cordially. If the former is the pose, the caller stands for several moments before the table, while Il Duce glances at papers on his desk, apparently unaware that he is not alone. Finally he looks up with an expression of annoyance, and the interview is begun.

If he is in a cordial mood, however, Il Duce rises when his visitor has reached the table, comes around, and shakes hands. Few callers, however, are completely at ease, no matter how cordial the host may be.

At the same time, according to many who have had the experience, a formal call upon Il Duce creates the distinct impression of attendance upon a theatrical performance. Mussolini is frankly theatrical. His facial expressions are studied and his repertoire in this respect seems limitless.

At 51 Mussolini is as much the human dynamo as he was in 1922 when he led his black-shirted Fascists on Rome. His large head today is almost completely bald. He has a large mouth and uses it effectively as an aid to his many expressions of emotion. When speaking he protrudes his lips to resemble a megaphone. He has broad shoulders and a solid body, but there is no suggestion of fat about him.

His early career, perhaps, was a perfect mold for his later political triumphs. From his father, a poor blacksmith, he received his first ideals of socialism. A born leader, he soon found himself a target for the conservatives, but jail sentences and persecution served merely to strengthen his determination. His pose in those days was one of martyrdom. It brought him more followers than any early success could have done.

No dictator of history served as model for Il Duce. Had he emulated Oliver Cromwell, for example, he would have needed a quality of religious asceticism which he does not and never will possess. Mussolini designed his own pattern, and he emerged the world's most theatrical figure.

Man Flies, Digs, and Dives in Conquest of Earth

insect, he has gone deeper into the earth and higher into the sky than any other living thing. Truly, man is a wonderful fellow. As yet he has not penetrated the ocean depths to a distance as great as have some forms of marine life. But—give him time.

Without flying and without digging, man could, were he physically capable, travel an up-and-down distance of more than 11½ miles, from the bottom of the deepest ocean to the summit of the tallest mountain.

Everest, loftiest peak of the Himalayas, is the tallest mountain in the world, its highest tip 29,141 feet, or nearly six miles, above sea level. As this is written Everest remains a fatal jinx to mountain climbers. Fourteen are known to have perished on its frigid, wind-swept slopes, sacrifices of science to the heathen gods that, according to native legends, guard the cloud-shrouded peak. Ten years ago George Leigh Mallory and A. C. Irvine, two daring Britishers, were sighted just 400 feet below the summit of Everest. They never returned to tell their story. It is not believed that they actually reached the peak of the mountain, and they have not been credited with that triumph. The only men who have looked down upon the peak are aviators who have viewed it from the comparative safety of the cockpits of their planes. In April, 1933, four flyers in two planes, led by the marquess of Clydesdale, flew over the summit of this loftiest mountain, after first climbing into the air to an altitude of more than 35,000 feet.

" In contrast to all records made in descending into the sea are the amazing records for altitude made by stratosphere balloonists and airplane pilots."

Higher above its surrounding country than Everest is above its adjacent territory, though only 20,300 feet above sea level, is Mount McKinley in Alaska, the highest mountain in North America. Its summit first was reached on June 7, 1913, heroes of that bold exploit being Hudson Stuck, H. P. Karstens, Robert Tatum, and Walter Harper.

As to descending into the sea, the greatest known depth of which is that mysterious hole off Mindanao, of the Philippine group, with its bottom lying 35,400 feet, or nearly seven miles, below the surface, there still are records to be broken. No one has gone to anywhere near the deepest bottoms of the deepest oceans, though Dr. William Beebe and Otis Barton on Aug. 15 of this year went down a distance of 3,028 feet, well over a half mile, in Beebe's strange submarine globe, the Bathysphere. The descent, for the purpose of observing marine life, was made in waters off Bermuda. A pressure was encountered of half a ton to each square inch of the Bathysphere's surface.

Deep Into the Sea

Submarines, since that queer hand-rowed craft of the Dutchman Cornelius Van Drebel submerged in the Thames in 1620 to a depth of twelve feet, have been diving deeper and deeper with each succeeding decade. First down fifty feet, then a hundred, then 200, and finally 300, modern submarines now are capable of submerging to that last-named depth with comparative safety. A notable dive was that of the United States submarine V-5, which descended off the Atlantic coast to a depth of 332 feet on Oct. 21, 1930. Then along came a sister ship, the V-6, which submerged to a depth of 336 feet off the Isle of Shoals on April 8, 1931.

Deep-sea divers in standard rubber suits have descended into the sea on numerous instances to well over 200 feet. A record in that line is said to have been established by a diver working on the wreck of the submarine F-4 off Honolulu in 1915 when he was lowered to a depth of 288 feet. Modern divers in articulated metal suits are reported to have gone approximately 500 feet deep.

In contrast to all records made in descending into the sea are the amazing records for altitude made by stratosphere balloonists and airplane pilots. Whereas the diver or scientist exploring submarine regions encounters tremendous pressures, the intrepid fellow who ventures into the purple regions of the stratosphere, where stars twinkle by day as well as by night, or even into the upper reaches of the troposphere, that layer of space that reaches from sea level to the bottom of the stratosphere, roughly about eight or nine miles above the earth, encounters directly the opposite of pressure, an increasing rarity of the atmosphere, as he ascends. At a certain point above the earth—a point that varies with conditions and locations—life is impossible without artificial means, such as tanks of oxygen that can be liberated within the confines of sealed globes containing balloonists or fed to adventurous aviators through breathing tubes.

". . . goes under a mountain to a depth of about a mile and a quarter . . ." (Brigue, Switzerland, entrance to Simplon tunnel.)

Fourteen Miles Above Earth

In January of this year three Russian aeronauts perished after ascending to a height of 72,176 feet, almost 14 miles, in the balloon Osoaviakhim, that took off from the civil airport near Moscow. The men who were killed were Pavil Fedoseinko, Andrey Vasenko, and Ilya Usyskin. Records in their shattered gondola were mute evidence of their great exploit. Almost as remarkable was the feat of Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle of the American navy and Maj. Chester L. Fordney of the marines, who on Nov. 20, 1933, set sail from Dayton, O., in their stratosphere balloon A Century of Progress. They reached an altitude of 61,237 feet, nearly 12 miles, and lived to tell about it. Prof. Auguste Piccard, the Belgian scientist, previously had made two notable ascents into the stratosphere, the first to a height of 51,458 feet and the second to a height of 53,153 feet, or more than ten miles.

Crowding the balloonists for honors are the airplane pilots who have negotiated thin air eight and nine miles above the earth. Gustave Lemoine, a Frenchman, on Sept. 28, 1933, drove his plane to an altitude of 44,933 feet above the flying field at Villacoublay, France. Renato Donati, an Italian, on April 11 of this year forced his plane to an altitude of 47,560 feet in a flight above the Montecelio airdrome in Italy.

How man has eclipsed the birds in the business of flying can be realized plainly if one considers for a moment that the great condor of the Andes, the bird which is said to fly higher than any other bird, never has been observed at an altitude of much more than 23,000 feet.

Shells Hurled Far in Sky

For the present, apparently, man's ceiling in the stratosphere is about 14 miles above sea level, the altitude attained by the Russian aeronauts, though frequently free balloons have been sent to heights of more than twenty miles. In projecting his creations into space, however, man never has devised any other objects to travel so far from earth as the shells of the German long-range guns that bombarded Paris during the World war. In the beginning the ordnance experts who designed the "Big Berthas" were counting on shelling Paris from a distance of between fifty and sixty miles. Before the guns were ready Hindenburg retreated to a new line. The guns had to be altered by adding muzzle tubes to lengthen their bores. As finally placed in operation some of these great weapons, reconstructed from naval rifles, the calibers of which had been reduced considerably, had a maximum range of 79.5 miles, approximately the same distance as the air-line distance between Chicago and Milwaukee.

The "Big Berthas" were fired at an elevation of 50 degrees. As their shells reached the stratosphere they were traveling at approximately 45 degrees. The gunners had to consider atmospheric pressure, wind speeds in the lower atmosphere, the movement of the earth in rotating, rapid wear on the rifling of the guns, propelling power of the explosives used, which varied with almost every shot, and a number of other factors, in hurling their murderous missils into the densely populated areas of the French capital.

Various figures have been mentioned from time to time as the maximum altitude of the shell of the long-range gun at the height of its arc. H. W. Miller, who wrote a book on the subject, has been quoted as saying that the shell from the superweapon of the World war reached an extreme altitude in its flight of 48 miles.

If the whole state of Rhode Island could be set upright upon its southern edge, its northern boundary would reach into the sky approximately as high as the shells of the "Big Berthas" traveled.

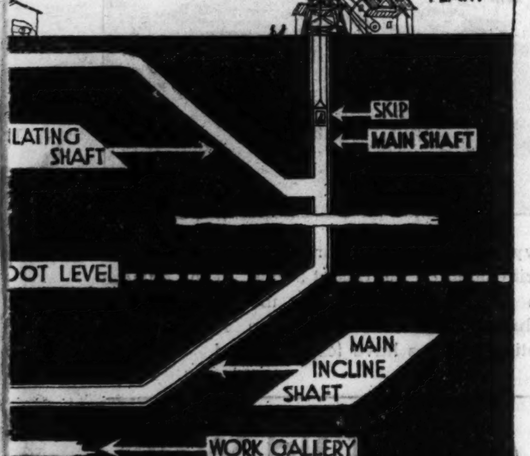
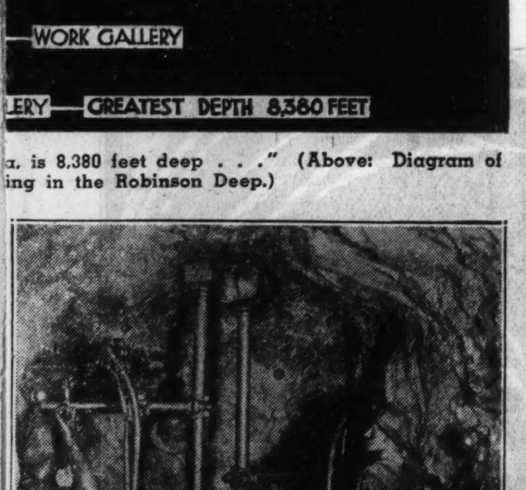
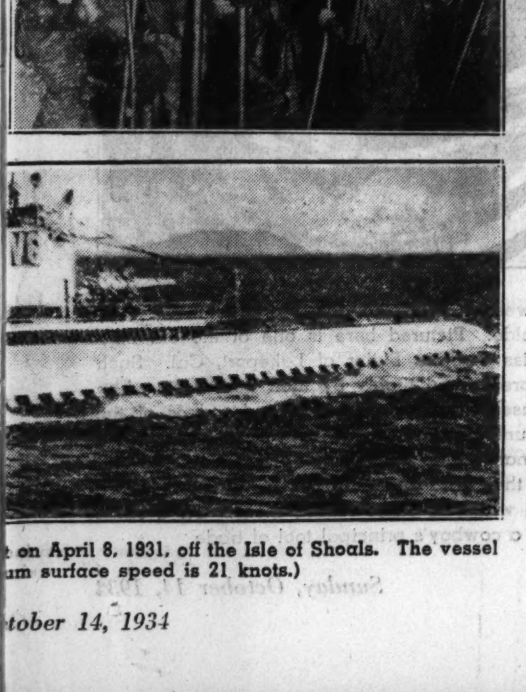
Exploits in the mysterious stratosphere and the equally mysterious depths of the sea seem more thrilling to the layman than the prosaic occupation of digging, yet marvels have been performed in this last-named line. Man without machinery, of course, is a poor digger. Given a shovel and a pick, most primitive of implements, and assigned to dig a well ten feet in diameter, he can go down into ordinary earth at the rate of about six feet a day. If he could have the earth he loosened removed as he dug deeper, and if he could continue to dig in ordinary earth at the rate of six feet a day, he could reach a depth of 2,190 feet in a year of 365 working days. In fifty years of effort—and that would be too much for almost any man—he could dig to a depth of slightly more than twenty miles, provided he could do his six feet a day.



a, is 8,380 feet deep ..." (Above: Diagram of ing in the Robinson Deep.)

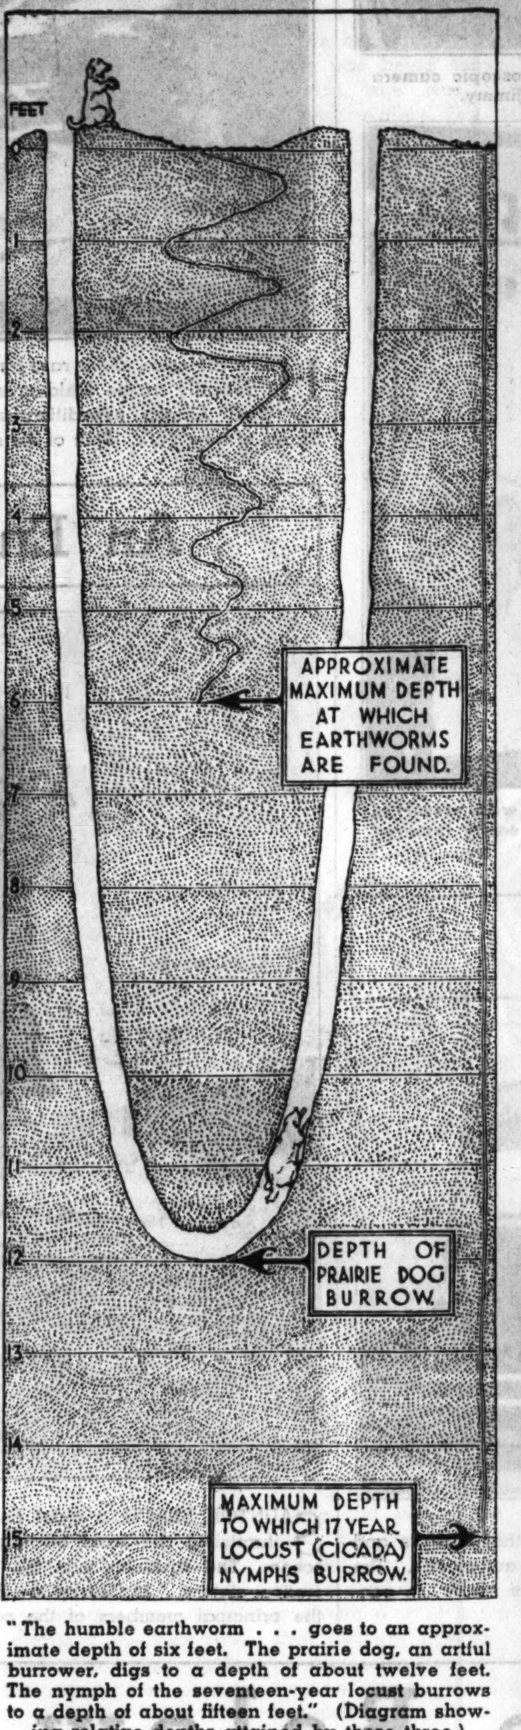




on April 8, 1931, off the Isle of Shoals. The vessel um surface speed is 21 knots.)

Layers of Rock

But it would not be long after he began his job before he would encounter substances much harder than ordinary earth. The diagram at the right side of this page shows just what he would find were he digging his well in Chicago. The drawing shows the geological section of Chicago as adapted from a sketch prepared by Henry W. Nichols, acting curator of geology of the Field Museum of Natural History, with a picture of Tribune Tower, drawn to scale, superimposed to give a clear idea of the depths of the various earth strata. As can be seen, Chicago rests upon a layer of clay, sand, and gravel, which in turn rests upon rock. Below the upper rock stratum are layer after layer of other types of rock. The well digger, could he penetrate these layers of rock and continue on indefinitly into the earth, at some time in the far future certainly would encounter unbearable temperatures, for it is the accepted theory that the farther one penetrates into the earth the higher is the temperature he encounters—a theory based upon the belief that the center of the earth is a molten mass.



"The humble earthworm ... goes to an approximate depth of six feet. The prairie dog, an artful burrower, digs to a depth of about twelve feet. The nymph of the seventeen-year locust burrows to a depth of about fifteen feet." (Diagram showing relative depths attained by these three.)

Merely Scratches the Earth

With the plow, an implement almost as common as the shovel and the pick, man barely scratches the earth to a depth of from four to five inches in so-called normal plowing and to a depth of six to eight inches in so-called deep plowing. He regulates the depth of his plowing by changing the point of coupling between plow beam and power, making the plowshare dig shallow or deep as he prefers.

When modern machinery is employed in penetrating the earth, as in mining, building tunnels, drilling oil or gas wells, or sinking caissons for the foundations of great buildings, much greater depths can be attained. The Robinson Deep, a gold mine in South Africa, is 8,380 feet deep, nearly one and a half miles. The Quincy mine, a copper working at Hancock, Mich., is 6,254 feet deep, though its longest shaft penetrates the earth to a distance of 9,009 feet. An oil well near Bakersfield, Cal., recently was drilled to a depth of 11,377 feet, more than two miles. The caissons in the foundation of Tribune Tower rest upon bedrock at a depth below the Michigan avenue street level of 144.5 feet. The great Simplon tunnel cuts through the Alps a distance of approximately 12 4/13 miles, about equal to the distance from the city hall in Chicago to the Northwestern university campus in Evanston, and goes under a mountain to a depth of about a mile and a quarter. The Cascade tunnel in the state of Washington, the longest railway bore in the western hemisphere, penetrates the Cascade mountains a distance of 7.79 miles. The new subterranean waterway of the Hetch Hetchy project in California is 25 miles long.

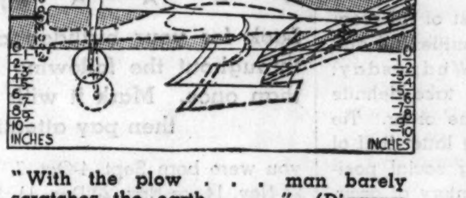
"An oil well near Bakersfield, Cal., recently was drilled to a depth of 11,377 feet, more than two miles." (Derrick of the celebrated Berry well of the General Petroleum corporation.)

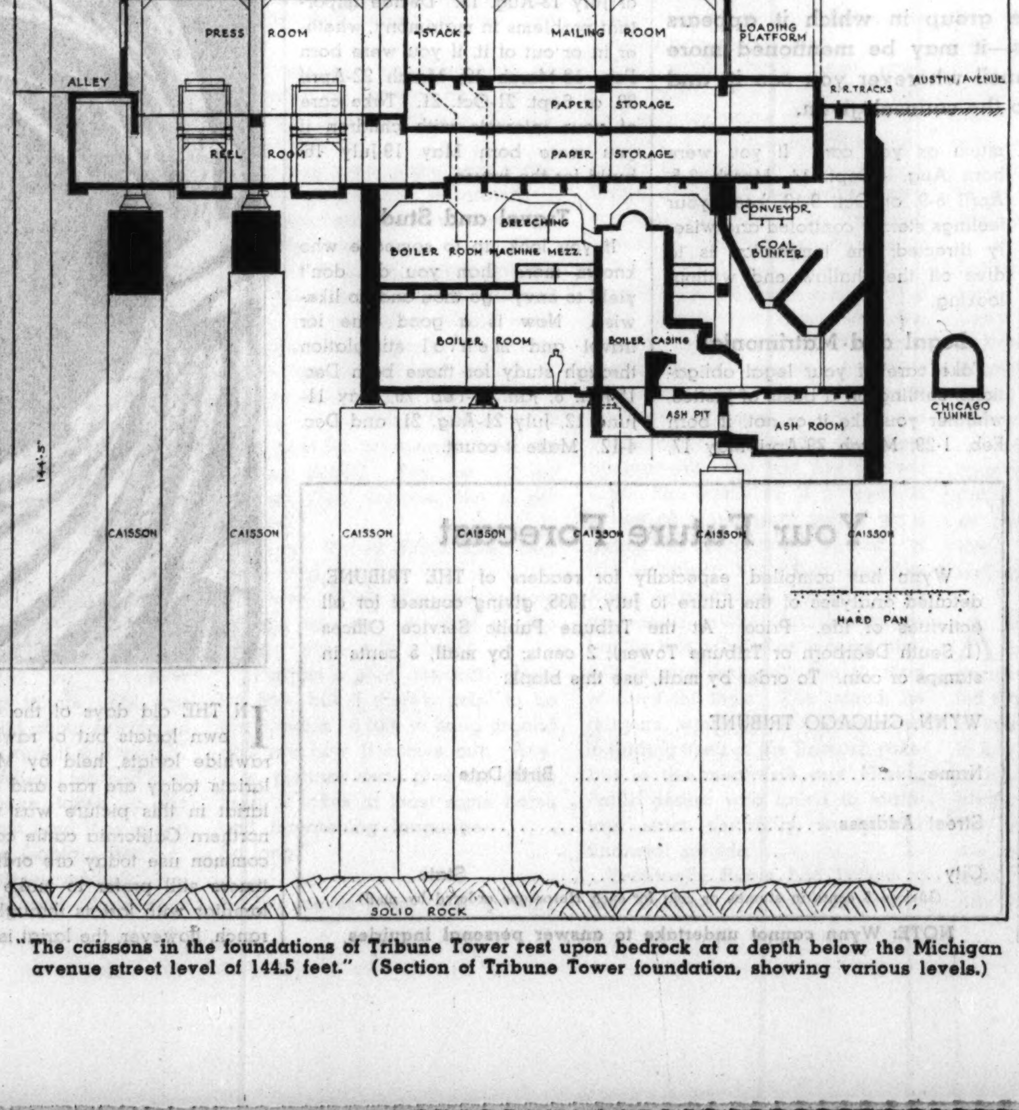


"With the plow ... man barely scratches the earth ..." (Diagram shows how implement can be adjusted for normal or deep plowing.)

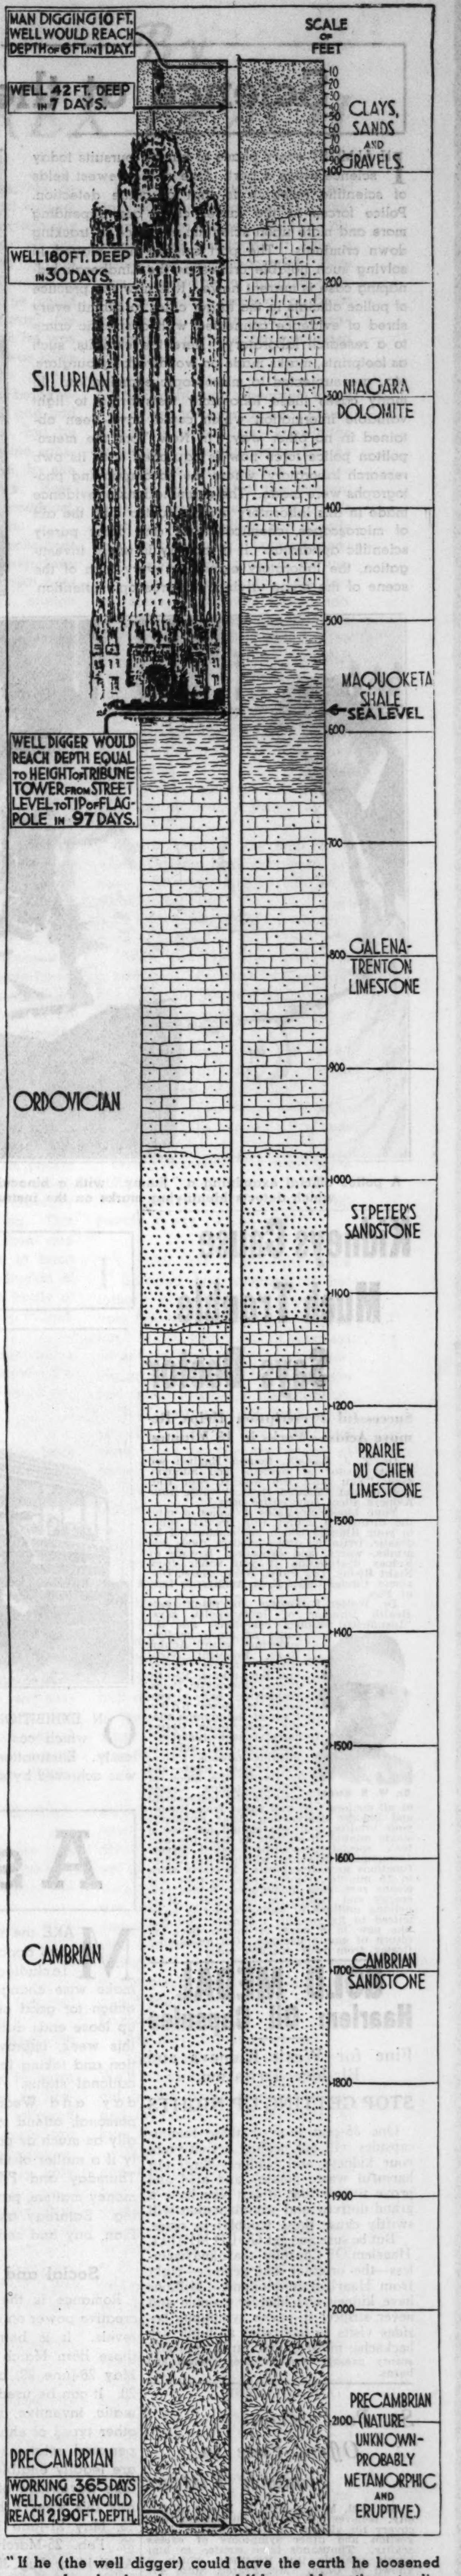
The Cascade tunnel, which is owned and operated by the Great Northern railway and which eliminates 16 miles of winding track, was drilled through solid granite and is as straight as the bore of a rifle for its entire distance. The Hetch Hetchy water tunnel, now being completed after 22 years of effort, will deliver clear, cold water to San Francisco from the Tuolumne river, high in the Sierras 167 miles away.

Man Outdigs Natural Diggers

With these digging feats in mind, it is quite apparent that man, despite his handicaps, is a better digger than creatures more ably equipped by nature for the purpose of penetrating the earth. The humble earthworm previously mentioned, most highly prized in halieutics, though properly of greater value for the business of aerating the soil, goes to an approximate maximum depth of six feet. The prairie dog, an artful burrower, digs to a depth of about twelve feet. The nymph of the seventeen-year locust (cicada) burrows to a depth of about fifteen feet. Many plants, particularly large and sturdy trees, send their roots to a comparatively great depth, fifteen to twenty feet sometimes, and the roots of the alfalfa plant, a kind of hay that grows to a height of between one and two feet above the ground, frequently are found to have penetrated the soil fifteen feet or more.



"The caissons in the foundations of Tribune Tower rest upon bedrock at a depth below the Michigan avenue street level of 144.5 feet." (Section of Tribune Tower foundation, showing various levels.)



"If he (the well digger) could have the earth he loosened removed as he dug deeper, and if he could continue to dig in ordinary earth at the rate of six feet a day, he could reach a depth of 2,190 feet in a year of 365 days." (The diagram of the geological section of Chicago, however, shows what a well digger would encounter digging under Chicago.)

Science at the Front in War on Crime

IN ALMOST every phase of human pursuits today science plays a part. One of the newest fields of scientific research is that of crime detection. Police forces in the larger cities are depending more and more upon scientific evidence in tracking down criminals. The part science has played in solving such notable crimes as the Lindbergh kidnaping case is current news. It is now the practice of police officials in the larger cities to submit every shred of evidence connected with a specific crime to a research laboratory. Here the exhibits, such as footprints, marks made on woodwork by burglars, etc., are subjected to microscopic examination. In many cases these laboratory tests bring to light valuable information which could have been obtained in no other way. In New York the metropolitan police force now is equipped with its own research laboratory, where the accompanying photographs were made. The examinations of evidence made in this laboratory are conducted with the aid of microscopes, chemical tests, and other purely scientific apparatus. If a robbery is under investigation, the laboratory examines every inch of the scene of the crime, giving it microscopic attention.

Rare Birds from Africa

HERE are some of 721 rare bird specimens brought recently to the Field museum in Chicago by the West African expedition sponsored by Oscar Straus of New York. Four of the specimens are Mount Cameroon francolins, considered to be the rarest birds in the world. So valuable are they that the museum will not exhibit them to the public. The expedition leader, Rudyard Boulton, is pictured with the trophies.

An English Seaside 'Desert'

Kidneys Cause Much Trouble Says Doctor

Successful Prescription Helps Remove Acids—Works in 15 Minutes.

Dr. T. J. Rastelli, famous English scientist, Doctor of Medicine and Surgeon, says: "You can't feel well if your Kidneys do not function right, because your Kidneys affect your entire body."

Your blood circulates 4 times a minute through 9 million tiny, delicate tubes in your Kidneys which are endangered by drastic, irritating drugs, modern foods and drinks, worry, and exposure. Beware of Kidney dysfunction if you suffer from Night Rising, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes, Acidity, or Loss of Pep.

Dr. Walter R. George, for many years Health Director of Indianapolis, says: "Insufficient Kidney excretions are the cause of much needless suffering with Aching Back, Frequent Night Rising, Itching, Smarting, Burning, Painful Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Headaches, and a generally run-down body. I am of the opinion that the prescription Cystex corrects such functional conditions. It aids in flushing poisons from the urinary tract, and in freeing the blood of retained toxins. Cystex deserves the indorsement of all doctors." If you suffer from Kidney and Bladder dysfunction, delay endangers your vitality, and you should not lose a single minute in starting to take the doctor's special prescription called Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) which helps Kidney functions in a few hours. It starts work in 15 minutes. Gently tones, soothes, and cleans raw, sore membranes. Brings new energy and vitality in 48 hours. It is helping millions of sufferers and is guaranteed to fix you up and make you feel like new in 8 days, or money back on return of empty package. Get guaranteed Cystex from your druggist today.

Million Dollar Street Car

ON EXHIBITION in Cleveland is this street car which cost $1,000,000 and is operated noiselessly. Elimination of the ordinary operating noises was achieved by substituting rubber pads for springs. Another feature of the new car is that it starts and stops much faster than the average automobile. The car is painted blue and is entirely of metal. In general the style is streamlined.

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then pay attention to the counsel given.

MAKE the most of all creative opportunities till and including Wednesday; make wise changes, take definite action for good of the order. Tie up loose ends during latter half of this week, improving social position and taking inventory of occupational status. Tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday: Highly personal; attend to affairs personally as much as possible, especially if a matter of skill or education. Thursday and Friday: Complete money matters, paying and collecting. Saturday and next Sunday: Plan, buy and sell.

Social and Romantic

Romance is the inner sense of creative power on all psychological levels. It is being felt now by those born March 30-April-May 9, May 26-June 29, and Nov. 20-Dec. 20. It can be used in literary, dramatic, inventive, musical, and all other types of effort, as well as in personal relations if all involved are legally eligible. See that you take advantage of social opportunity this week if born Dec. 20-Jan. 15, May 21-June 18, Sept. 24-Oct. 22, Feb. 25-March 12, March 30-April 14, or Aug. 30-Sept. 14. Make new friends and be an old one, especially if you were born May 19-June 20 or Nov. 17-Dec. 26. Keep clear of the causes of scandal if you were born Sept. 4-Oct. 7, Oct. 24-Nov. 14, or Nov. 20-Dec. 11; look far ahead.

Personal

Social advancement, financial expansion, improvement with superiors, and added power of judgment all possible this week for those born Sept. 24-October-Nov. 18. This includes Francis Lederer, Katharine Hepburn, Jack Oakie, Dick Powell, Lewis Stone, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Phil Cook, Max Schmeling, and Ted Healy. Natives of Jan. 10-Feb. 9 still have heavy responsibilities; look them square in the eye—don't run away. Those born March 19-April 18, Feb. 20-24, Aug. 25-29, and Oct. 18-22 are now in the most changeable period of many years; go with the current as much as you can. If you were born Aug. 4-Sept. 14, March 2-5, April 5-9, or Oct. 9-13, keep your feelings sternly controled and wisely directed; the temptation is to dive off the shallow end without looking.

Legal and Matrimonial

Take care of your legal obligations, settling on a basis of justice, whether you like it or not, if born Feb. 1-29, March 29-April-May 17, or July 13-Aug. 13. Decide important problems in matrimony, whether in or out of it, if you were born Feb. 12-March 12, March 22-April 30, or Sept. 21-Oct. 21. Take care of your interests with children if you were born May 19-July 16; build for the future.

Travel and Study

If you look up to someone who knows more than you do, don't yield to envy—go thou and do likewise. Now is a good time for travel and mental stimulation through study for those born Dec. 15-Jan. 8, Jan. 21-Feb. 26, May 11-June 12, July 21-Aug. 21, and Dec. 4-12. Make it count.

Reminder of the Old West

WILD PASTURES

By REX BEACH

THE STORY TO DATE

Tom Kennedy, young Texas rancher, has come to the cattle country of Florida in the wild '90's to work for his uncle, Capt. Ben Noble, wealthy and respected cattleman. He falls in love with Rita Mendez, beautiful Cuban girl, who is visiting her relatives, the Rubio family, at Fort Myers. Tom incurs the enmity of Tad and Sonny Dolman, powerful but disliked sons of Asa Dolman, a rancher suspected of questionable dealings. While Tom is fencing in his uncle's privately owned pasture land his friend, Bide Willing, tells him that other cattlemen have threatened to cut the wire. Tom wins the admiration of Belle Sprague, unconventional woman ranch owner.

INSTALMENT IV.

THE sun was low; the members of the fence gang were resting. Nickerson, Kennedy, and Willing were talking. Bide had been promised a job; the other two were waiting for him to refer again to the subject of fence cutting, for they were sure that he knew more than he had told them. Inasmuch as he was a good hand and could join any outfit, Tom suspected that the fellow had ridden out not so much to find employment as to put him on his guard.

The nearest Bide came to a definite warning was when, apropos of nothing, he began to talk about the Dolmans. Asa was a violent-tempered, hard-headed old man, he said. Tad was smart and ruthless. Sonny was a vengeful boaster. Both boys were furious at the manner in which Tom had humiliated them at Punta Rassa. Bide, it seemed, had encountered Sonny in Fort Meade; Sonny had been drinking and talking loud.

It was unnecessary for Willing further to point his remarks, and, having volunteered this much, he changed the subject pointedly and called Nickerson's attention to some distant animals which with the coming of evening had emerged from a bay head to graze. "Funny how them mossy-horn cattle manage to stay fat when the range stuff gets pore," said he. "Tom allows he can rope an' brand 'em. What do you think, Nick?"

"If I had a pony that knew his business——" Tom began.

"I'm tellin' you these cracker cow brutes will bite you an' chew the pieces."

Nickerson agreed. "They're bad, all right. Them Cuban bullfighters say our stuff is the worst they get."

"If I can rope 'em I can gentle 'em," Kennedy declared. For a moment he studied the little band, which was steadily grazing farther over from cover. The bay head from which they had issued was bordered by a strip of prairie which at this season was firm and dry. He knew his horse was fresh; he rose and walked toward it.

"If I was you, Tom——" Nick began.

"My pony will have to learn some time; why not now? Mose! Heat a kettle of water and get out the liniment. Maybe some of you better come along to gather me up."

Several of the cowboys scrambled to their feet and saddled their horses, but Owlfoot climbed upon the wagon. "I'll stay here an' cover up my eyes," he said. "I seen a bullfight in Cuby, an' the cruelty of it sickened me. That critter hooked so many men they finally had to shoot him."

FOLLOWED by his mounted campmates, Kennedy rode toward the distant cattle and finally cut between them and the swamp. He had made the end of his rope fast to his saddle horn; next he shook out and held its ample coils ready for action. The cattle were wary; they trotted off. When he pressed them closer they broke into a gallop, holding their heads and their tails high. Tom rose in his stirrups and his horse flattened itself; he uttered a yell which was echoed by the onlookers. The bunch split up; some of its members stampeded through the pine woods, others doubled back for the hammoc; horse and rider pursued the patriarch of the herd, a rangy, long-horned bull. They turned him away from the palmettos and drove him headlong down the prairie.

It was a race. When the distance between Tom and his quarry had lessened to a few yards he swung his rope lazily; smoothly he cast it, and the loop settled over its head.

Nickerson and the others expected then to see him set his horse down and snub the animal, but he did nothing of the sort. When the noose had closed he snapped his rope expertly, casting it over the creature's back so that it fell loosely on the farther side; then he turned his horse sharply to the left and spurred it forward.

There came a surge against the lariat which all but ripped the saddle out from under him; the rope suddenly tautened, swept the bull's legs cleanly out from under it, and brought it down upon its side with a breath-taking crash. Simultaneously Kennedy flung himself to the ground and ran back, snatching a short tie rope from his belt as he did so; deftly he looped it over one foreleg of his kicking captive, then around both hind legs, and trussed them together. Meanwhile he shouted to his horse. Its eyes were white, its nostrils were distended, but obediently it dug its hoofs into the soil and leaned its full weight against the lasso. It seemed strange that an animal so strong, so active as that bull did not instantly lunge to its feet, but in order to do so it had first to lift its head. This it was powerless to do by reason of that steady pull on the rope. Once an animal is thrown, it requires but little weight on its horns to prevent it from rising.

NICKERSON and his companions were unfamiliar with the mechanics of the lightning-swift tie which Kennedy had used; when they galloped up the bull was helpless, Tom was lighting a cigaret.

"Dogged if that ain't pretty!" Bide Willing exclaimed. "Now all you need to tame that brute is a rifle!"

But the Texan was not satisfied with the show he had given. He seized the creature's tail, divided the tuft of hair on the end of it, and knotted the two strands together. Somehow he bent one of the animal's hind legs, wrapped the tail around it, and secured the loop in the split hoof. Then he flipped his lariat from its horns, loosed his tie rope and jerked it away, and the maddened animal lunged to its forefeet.

Promptly the onlookers wheeled their horses and gave it room. It managed to stand, propped on three legs, but it could move only with difficulty. Its sides heaved, its muscles strained, saliva streamed from its muzzle.

"Rough deal on you, ain't it?" Kennedy said soothingly. His horse was wet and it was quivering nervously. He stroked it, he put his arms around its neck and buried his face in its mane. In a gentle voice he murmured: "Boy! You're a roping fool!"

The bull rocked, it uttered a hoarse and agonized complaint; it tried to charge, only to crash down once more.

"Pull out, fellows," Tom directed. "I'm going to turn him loose before he lames himself." With his knife he cut the knot of hairs, then swung into his saddle.

Bide spurred up to his side a moment later and confessed in a subdued voice: "I thought I knew something about cow business, but I never seen that kind o' ropin' or that kind of a hobble. What did you mean when you said if you could rope 'em you could gentle 'em?"

"All it takes is a surgeon's needle and some thread."

"I—I never was very bright. That's on account I was undernourished——"

"Sew up their eyelids. In two weeks the thread will rot out, and by that time they'll be tame enough to drive."

"Say! That gives me an idea! Yes, sir! And when I get an idea I go to bed with it. If you hear things creak tonight and skull bones rubbing together, or if I groan in my sleep, don't you mind. It's only me having a thought."

Bide returned home the next morning to get his things, and at his request Tom "rode a piece" with him along the line of the new fence. On their way Willing said:

"Well, sir, I labored hard during the night, and I finally had that idea. Boy, it's a dandy! It weighs all of ten pounds."

"Let's hear it."

"The way you busted that beef was educational, but it never meant anything to me until you said what you did about sewing up his eyelids. You sure it will work?"

"Positively. When I learned how many cattle have taken to the swamps and how hard it is to dig 'em out, I wrote Captain Ben."

"You mean about reclaimin' 'em for him? . . . Pshaw! There goes my bran' new brain child. I got to figurin' how many head of outlaw stock there must be in this country, especially below here, an' I thought how smart it would be for us to go pardners. You throw 'em an' I brand 'em and do the hemstitching. I couldn't rope a stack of deer horns myself, but I could pen an' gentle the stuff. You see, we could register the brand as our own and in no time we'd have a herd. That's what I was thinkin' out. Why, Tom, down around Miss Belle's Lower place an' the Big Cypress——"

"No use, Bide. Uncle Ben and I are as good as partners right now. He paid my schooling, he sent to Texas for me; I'm to have an interest in his business as soon as I show I'm worth it."

"No!"

"He offered it himself."

Willing's face fell; he heaved a sigh of disappointment. Dejectedly he said: "That's different, of course. I might have knowed the idea was too easy born to be any good . . . Pardners with Cap'n Ben!" He whistled softly. "Why, you're rich already. Boy, you certainly fell on a feather bed, an' I hope your luck holds out. By the way, Sonny Dolman has been practicin' that pistol trick of yours, an' he's got it down fine. Tad, too, I reckon; so don't ever——"

"So! You're a ladies' man."

Bide saw that his companion had reined in, and he did likewise; he followed the direction of Tom's gaze until his eyes came to rest upon a freshly blazed pine tree. They had ridden perhaps a mile past the end of the new fence. Along the proposed line they now beheld several other blazes equally recent and evidently so placed as to attract attention.

"THOSE weren't here a few days ago," said Tom. He rode closer, and Willing followed; silently they stared at the tree trunk.

It had been smoothed with an ax; traced on the scar by a heavy indelible blue pencil was the outline of a coffin.

The men rode to the next blaze, and it was similarly decorated.

"I presume that's a warning," Kennedy said.

Upon Willing's good-natured face there had come a troubled frown; he uttered a feeble oath. "I hope to tell you! Everybody thinks this fence is your doin'."

"You know something, Bide? If I were to meet the Dolman boys right now I'd go through them for a blue pencil. Yes, sir, I'd go through their pockets like a pet squirrel."

"Sure! If they didn't do it, they know who did."

"Listen, Bide! You don't have to take this job. No use of you getting married to a row."

"I'm just a pore, cowardly country boy, but if there's goin' to be any trouble I'd like to hang around and see how it comes out. Anyhow, pictures don't give me goose flesh; it takes at least some harsh and threatening language. . . . So long."

. . . . . .

"I've never been able to work those swamp cattle at a profit," Capt. Ben Noble wrote to his nephew, "but perhaps you can succeed where I failed. It won't hurt to try.

"If you're in Fort Meade any time soon, drop by Gordon Hobby's place and see how he's getting along. Tell him I'll be up soon.

"I'm sending some newspapers which will post you on politics and the progress of world affairs."

GOOD old Captain Ben! The Fort Myers Citizens he had sent were folded so as to display the usual weekly column headed "Local Doings in Society," and in several places Tom saw the name of Rita Mendez.

His heart leaped; then it sank. She was being shown much attention, she was being entertained; plainly Fort Myers was making a real fuss over her.

Tom had seen her the night before he left for the ranch. He had called; he had spent the evening in the living room in company with her and the entire Rubio family.

She had played the piano for him. He had gabbled foolishly. But not even when it came time to say good-by had he been able to obtain a word alone with her. Ever since he had been out here on the ranch his mind had been ceaselessly preoccupied with thoughts of her.

One day he was in despair; the next he was blithe, optimistic; he suffered all the intolerable doubts, the maddening pains, the intoxicating dreams, and the agreeable speculations of first love.

Tom would have been even more sorely troubled had he realized why the name of Tad Dolman occurred so frequently in the accounts of "social doings" at Fort Myers, or had he overheard a conversation that occurred between Vicente Rubio and Asa Dolman.

MR. RUBIO'S cattle boats during the last few years had often carried certain freight to Cuba which was not entered upon their manifests—heavy freight, in small packages; freight which crossed the Punta Rassa dock under the cover of darkness. He had first felt out Capt. Ben Noble on a proposition to act as purchasing agent for a group of prominent friends of Cuban liberty, but without success. Noble sympathized sincerely with the ideals of the Cuban patriots, but he had refused to involve himself in any way with the running of arms for them. The island, he felt sure, would eventually succeed in ridding itself of the Spanish yoke, but in the meantime any Florida cattle dealer who failed to maintain strict neutrality would risk financial suicide.

Eventually Rubio had turned to Asa Dolman; they had effected a deal. It was on a matter connected therewith that they had met on this occasion.

As Asa was about to leave he said: "O, there's another thing, Vicente! My boy, Tad, is right peeved at you and your wife."

Mr. Rubio raised his black brows in astonishment.

"He says you-all treat him like a robber."

"Impossible!"

"It's about that girl you got visiting you. Tad's thinking about marrying her." This casual statement quite naturally rendered Mr. Rubio speechless. "I don't blame him for feeling like he does, for every time he goes to make love there's somebody in the way; you won't let her go walking or riding with him; much as ever he can do to say 'howdy' to her at a dance or a fish fry. Give her a chance, Vicente. Tad ain't up to anything."

"My good friend, you don't understand Spanish customs."

"Sure I do. But this ain't Cuba. We're free and easy here."

"Rita has been carefully raised. Her father is a prominent man; his views are fixed. Already we have permitted her to enjoy more freedom than he would approve of."

"Tad's better fixed than any young feller in south Florida," Dolman continued. "He's been to school; he's the head of our bank. Why, all the girls from here to Tampa are foolish about him, but he's too smart for 'em. He just takes his fun and——"

"My cousin Umberto has made plans for his daughter. I cannot interfere with them." Mr. Rubio spoke with finality. "Perhaps I should send Rita home."

"You can't do that when her old man sent her over here on purpose to keep her clear if anything happens. You told me that's how come she's here. Say! If she went back to Havana Tad would cut up. I don't know what he might do, he's that hot-headed. Looks to me like you'd be sending her slap into jail. Tad'll do right by her. All he wants is a chance to love her up like a white man and see if she's—well, what he thinks she is."

Rubio paled. It was with difficulty that he managed to hold his voice even while he said:

"In business I am an American, but in my family life I am a Spaniard. If your son comes to my home he must observe the niceties of behavior to which my wife, my daughter, and my niece are accustomed; otherwise he will not be welcome."

"All right! I'll tell him. But chances is the girl don't want you riding herd on her any more than he does, and one of these days she'll up and run off with him, wedding or no wedding."

A GOOD many of Gordon Hobby's neighbors considered him a wicked, worldly man. They admitted that he was honest, kindly, public-spirited; most of them had reason to know that his word was as good as his bond; nevertheless they emphatically disapproved of him. For one thing, he was an inveterate gambler; and for another, he was "immoral." In his private life, that is to say, in his dealings with members of the fairer sex, as he gallantly referred to all women, he was blithely and notoriously unscrupulous. He enjoyed an evil reputation. He enjoyed it immensely, be it said. Secretly he sometimes wished that he could have done more to warant the general discredit in which he was held, but while his wife was alive that privilege had been denied him. Prior to his great bereavement he had felt his oats and had tentatively sowed a few, but he had never been allowed the satisfaction of harvesting them, for she had pulled up the sprouts. Now, however, he flung them broadcast, and the crop delighted him.

He was a man of reasonless likes and dislikes—his prejudices were fixed. He was a great beef eater, for instance, but mutton gagged him. He liked ministers, but he hated doctors and lawyers.

His distrust of the medical profession was grounded upon his contempt for the few doctors he knew, a pretty sorry lot, if the truth must be told, and this it was which accounted for his present condition.

Gordon was sick. Infirmity crowded him; he was in need of an operation. Having repeatedly asserted that any man who lives as naturally as a beef creature will be as strong as a bull, it sorely provoked him to find a painful and persistent lump growing in his groin. In every other part of him he was healthy, hence there was no reason or excuse for this thing. He had ignored it for a long while, but plainly something had to be done now. The more he thought about it the madder he got, and rather than trust to one of the hated sawbones he decided to operate on himself.

To that end he spat upon his finest-grained whetstone and sharpened the blade of his pocket knife to a razor edge, then sterilized the instrument by carefully wiping it on his pants leg. This done, he tore up a bed sheet and directed his Negro cook to fetch him some basins and a bucket of hot water. He opened a bottle of whisky, propped himself up in bed, and went to work.

At sound of the blasphemies which issued from his bedroom the help fled and he had the house entirely to himself.

TOM KENNEDY, on his way back from Fort Meade to the ranch, rode past the Hobby place to deliver his uncle's message. The place appeared to be deserted, so he went around to the rear.

Not a soul was in sight even here—a peculiar hush hung over the premises. From the quarters came a sound which grew to a monotonous murmur as he approached. Somebody was praying. In one of the cabins he discovered a man, a woman, and several children on their knees, and when he spoke he realized that all were nearly out of their senses with fright. It was strange. Sharply he inquired:

"What's the matter? Is somebody dead?"

The man scrambled to his feet; the wife rocked herself more violently, she wrung her hands, she sobbed, and she wailed.

"Yassir! He done daid," quavered the husband.

"Who?"

"Mistuh Go'don."

"God have mercy on that po' sinner!" shouted the wife.

"Amen! Hallelujah!" piped the children.

It took Tom a moment to learn what had happened, then he hastened toward the house, followed by a wailing black comet's tail which terminated in a frightened, squalling pickaninny barely able to trudge.

Gordon Hobby, it seemed, had deliberately committed suicide! He had disemboweled himself, and, moreover, he had died unrepentant. He had perished in sin. According to the Negro man, his last words had been:

"Get away from that goddam window!"

Tom left the terrified family at the back steps and entered the house alone; he paused on the threshold of Gordon Hobby's bedroom and felt himself grow sick.

The bed was crimson. Propped against its headboard lay the body of a grizzled, bull-necked, square-jawed man. His chin sagged, his head lolled, his eyes were closed, his limp hands were bloody to the wrists. But he was still alive, for his hairy chest feebly rose and fell.

Incredible to relate, Hobby had finished the grewsome task; he had even packed the wound in his abdomen and bandaged it after a fashion, as Tom discovered. Here was an example of mingled courage and folly, proof of a robust indifference to pain and a savage intensity of purpose that astounded the visitor.

THE cattleman appeared to be dying, however, and something had to be done. Tom's knowledge of surgery was elemental, but he had sewed up wounds in live stock; in his pocket at this moment were several curved surgeon's needles, purchased in Fort Meade that very morning. Lucky indeed that he had laid them in for use on those swamp cattle. He had got some stout cotton thread, too. Gut, of course, was the thing to use in a case of this sort, and he presumed it should be handled with extreme care to prevent infection. Infection! Rubber gloves! Iodine! Gauze! That was funny under the circumstances. The most he had time to do now was wash his hands.

He strode out into the kitchen and issued sharp orders to the Negro couple.

It was perhaps an hour later when Gordon Hobby opened his eyes. After a while he said in a weak voice:

"I told those niggers I wouldn't have a doctor."

"Well, you got your wish. I'm a cowboy. My name is Kennedy. I'm Capt. Ben Noble's nephew."

"O! How is the old son of a gun?"

"Fine, I guess. How are you?"

"Hell! I'm all right. . . . I must have dropped off to sleep."

"Humph! You damn near whittled yourself to a point. I've sent for a doctor."

Hobby scowled. "I won't have him, I tell you."

"O, yes, you will. Think I want people to say I killed you?"

IT WAS late that night; Belle Sprague had stopped at her father's house on her way home from the annual "protracted meeting," which had been in progress for several days at the camp meeting grounds some miles away; she had taken charge of the situation.

"It's good you got here when you did," she told Tom, "and you were lucky to find the doctor at home."

"He told me I did a pretty fair job, and I'm kind of proud of myself. I went at it like your father was a steer."

"Well, he is. A bull, anyhow. He's been threatening to do this very thing for months. Idiot! Say, how did you happen to have a surgeon's outfit with you?"

"That's something of a story." Tom told about roping the outlaw bull and his plan to reclaim some of the swamp cattle on his uncle's ranch. When he had finished, the woman smiled approvingly.

"I told Cap'n Ben you were a cow hand. I dare say there's money in it for a man who knows how; we never bothered much about roping. Every cow country has its own customs." Belle led the way out to the front gallery, where she and Tom could talk without disturbing her father, and when she had seated herself she resumed: "I heard things about you at the camp meeting. What's this about you starting a feud with the Dolman boys?"

"Are they friends of yours?"

"They're not friends of anybody. We'll all be better off when they're out of the cattle business. Yes, and they'll be out of it sooner or later if they don't quit smuggling."

"Sure! They're helping run arms and ammunition to Cuba. They buy the stuff and Vicente Rubio sends it through on his boats. If the government learns what Asa Dolman is doing it will be the end of him—and Vicente, too. They'll probably feed Umberto Mendez to the sharks. He's the leader. He's Vicente's cousin."

"I—met his daughter—I mean Miss Mendez—at Fort Myers," Tom said. "She's a right pretty young lady."

"So! You're a ladies' man."

"No, ma'am! . . . Yes'm! I reckon I would be if I knew how."

"All cowboys are alike."

It was dark out here, but Tom felt Mrs. Sprague's eyes fixed upon him with an intensity that seemed to render them luminous. "Who are you? Tell me about yourself."

11,323-Mile Air Race, London to Melbourne

By Wayne Thomis

HEAVY motors will drone over London next Saturday when two-score or more of the world's finest commercial airplanes, flown by the best pilots and navigators in both Europe and the United States, climb off English soil and head out over the channel for the south of France at the start of the first international and intercontinental air races ever held.

The goal of the racers will be Melbourne, Australia, 11,323 miles away, over 17 different countries and three continents. The course, constituting probably the most difficult test of material and pilots ever devised for aircraft or airmen, undoubtedly will be covered within 60 hours—two and a half days—by the winner.

Fifteen thousand pounds, Australian currency (about $75,000), and a gold cup, "to be worth not less than 500 pounds," will be the immediate tangible prizes. More valuable considerations, however, will be world fame and possibly fortune for the winning pilots and valuable contracts for the manufacturers of the first airplane home and the motor or motors within it.

Donor of the prizes is Sir MacPherson Robertson, 71-year-old chocolate manufacturer of Melbourne. The race was his idea of a splendid method of focusing the eyes of the world upon the centenary celebrations of the state of Victoria and its capital, in which he has been a resident for more than half a century.

Since the race was announced last December it has developed into a definite competition between those nations which are the chief manufacturers of airplanes. In all 71 planes were entered before the lists were closed last June 1, by competitors from 14 nations. Most of the airplanes, however, were constructed in either England, France, Germany, Italy, or the United States, and although word at present indicates that only half those entered will reach the starting line, it is certain that pilots from those countries named above will be among those who take off.

Actually there are to be two races run concurrently. One is designated the speed race and the other the handicap race. The rules as worked out by the Royal Aero club and representatives of the Australian commonwealth provide that the first ship across the finish line in Melbourne airdrome will win the speed race. In other words, this race will be on a basis of elapsed time. The handicap race will be run over the same course, but entrants will be sent away at time intervals, calculated by experts with the slide rule, on a system which will compare top and cruising speed, horsepower, and load-carrying capacity of the planes. It is hoped that, luck of all entrants being equal, the handicap planes will provide a neck-and-neck finish for Melbourne.

First prize for the speed race is 10,000 pounds (about $50,000) and the gold cup. Second and third prizes respectively are 1,500 and 500 pounds. There are only two prizes offered for the handicap race, first being 2,000 pounds and second 1,000 pounds.

The race committees worked out the general plans so that the course is flyable by both small machines capable of cruising from 250 to 300 miles an hour, but with a range limited to three or four hours, and by larger machines which will cruise from 175 to 225 miles an hour and carry gasoline tanks which give them a fifteen-hour range.

On this general premise the committee chose seven control points at which all competitors either in the speed or handicap races must land. These control points are London, Baghdad, Allahabad, Singapore, Darwin, Charleville, and Melbourne. Along the logical course between these points the committee picked out 17 other places roughly 500 miles apart and designated them as checking points. The checking points and control points in order are London, Marseille, Rome, Athens, Aleppo, Baghdad, Bushire, Karachi, Jodhpur, Allahabad, Calcutta, Rangoon, Bangkok, Alor Star, Singapore, Batavia, Surabaya, Koepang, Darwin, Newcastle Waters, Cloncurry, Charleville, Narromine, Melbourne.
